NEWS AND COMMENT

By Clair Johnson, Editor

Serving Humanity for Fifty Years

THE University of Oregon Medical School this year celebrates its fiftieth year since establishment as a center for doctors and nurses.

Fifty years have the administrators of the medical school been serving humanity. Not only have they trained men and women to be servants of the public in the maintenance of health, but they have carried on a constant, never-ending battle to aid humanity in their laboratory research work and in the service rendered through direct treatment of individual ills and public sickness.

To the school, its faculty, its graduates, and its students we dedicate this issue of Old Oregon. We feel that we represent the sentiment of the state when saying, "Congratulations on a job that is being, has been, well-done."

To Excite Enthusiasm—Two Contests

A PRIZE of $1 monthly for the best letter to "Quacks" and a $5 membership award for the best alumni slogan. These two contests are announced in this issue. Letters to "Quacks" thus far have been interesting, but not outstanding. A prize, we anticipate, will spur writers to greater effort, improve column. May the cleverest quacker win.

Slogan contest is started in an endeavor to put into eight words or less how we feel about the revived, freshly inspired, greater University alumni association. It is our belief that we are starting to do things now, aspire to still higher aims, and lack words to express it. A slogan will do the trick. Read the rules, enter the contest. As rules mention, competitors are required to send neither a copy of Old Oregon nor a reasonable facsimile. May the best sloganier win.

Commendation Due Two Worthy Projects

Two undertakings of the last month merit much commendation. One was the valuable nationwide broadcast from the music school prepared and arranged for by Hal Young. The other is the "putting Christianity into practice" movement of several students in collecting food from living organizations and re-preparing it for residents of Eugene's "Jungle-town."

Other faculty, alumni, and students might well learn a lesson of good spirit and self-sacrifice by observing these two projects. Not only do they serve their purpose in being of direct value to those intimately concerned, but they are of infinite value to the University as a whole.

Old Oregon Catches Up, Marches On

THIS month's Old Oregon, although smaller in size, makes another forward step as it eliminates precedent established policy of late issue, comes out earlier in the month. Next month's magazine, again larger, will be out first week in the month. Special feature will be article explaining placement service by Dean Onthank and Janet Smith. With continued support from cooperative alums, friendly friends, Old Oregon marches on.

1030

● In the issues from September 15 to January 15 Old Oregon magazine carried 1030 items about University alumni in the News of the Classes Section alone.

● It is easy to keep check on your friends of school days if you follow this special section. Each magazine carries at least 200 items.

● Read Old Oregon. Support the Alumni Association. Subscription and membership are only $2 per year or $5 for three years.

● Send in items about yourself and your friends. Help us get more complete coverage.

FIFTY YEARS OF SERVICE TO HUMANITY

Medical School Praised

The University of Oregon Medical school, for years a constant servant to humanity, will observe its fiftieth anniversary during 1937. Praise from every cross-section of the state has been and will be extended the leaders and workers in this great school, which ranks so high throughout the nation.

Founded in 1887, the school has weathered numerous severe storms, but now finds itself, through maintenance of high standards, ranked exceedingly high in both its function of teaching and in serving the public.

Annual Meeting Planned

The alumni association of the medical school will hold its annual meeting in three-day sessions March 8, 9, and 10. A big banquet planned for the last day of the session at 7:00 p. m. in the Portland hotel will culminate the program.

Class reunion dinners for the classes of '97, '07, '17, and '27 will be held in the Old Heathman hotel Monday, March 8, at 6:30 p. m.

Still another special meeting will be one of wives of the members, who are urged to attend a luncheon Tuesday, March 9. Mrs. Van Loan is in charge and information as to place will be given later.

Noted Speaker Coming

Dr. Karl Menninger of Topeka, Kansas will act as guest speaker for several of the meetings. He was chosen for leading speaker because of his high reputation and accomplishments as a psychiatrist who has "his feet on the ground," according to Dr. Thomas D. Robertson, secretary of the medical school alumni.

As a whole, the annual meeting is to be conducted in three-day concentrated post graduate sessions, with morning clinics at the Multnomah county hospital conducted by teaching members of the clinical faculty; noon round-table luncheons conducted by Drs. Dillehunt, F. R. Menne, and Menninger; afternoon papers of a high quality, conveying information of value to general practitioners; and evening papers March 8 and 9 by Dr. Menninger.

Officers of the medical school alumni for 1937 include: B. A. Van Loan, president; Arthur C. Jones, Roswell S. Waltz, Frederick C. Adams, and Martin Norgore, vice-presidents; Harry Irvine, treasurer; and Thomas D. Robertson, secretary.

An excellent aerial view of the University Medical School is shown above. The buildings are on Marquam Hill overlooking Portland.

MEDICAL SCHOOL NOTES

1898

Dr. James E. Webb has been appointed health officer at Mount Angel.

1909

Walter C. Smith, M.D. '09 (Willamette University) died suddenly of heart failure at his home at Halsey, on January 6. Dr. Smith practiced medicine for a time, following his graduation from Medical School but had not practiced for some time prior to his death. Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Nellie Cummings Smith, three children, Annie Laurie Seefeld, Halsey, Edith Gibbs, Albany, Derry Smith, Walliowa, and three grandchildren.

1910

Dr. Earl V. Morrow, of Portland, died in Seattle, on January 28. Dr. Morrow was the first Oregonian to receive the decoration of the Order of Leopold from the late King Albert of Belgium during the world war. Before the United States entered the war, Dr. Morrow served with the American Red Cross along the Flanders front. He was awarded the high honor for his services to wounded allied soldiers at the front. Later Dr. Morrow had charge of the Red Cross work in Belgium. When the United States entered the war, he served with the Yankee troops at the front and in Germany during the army of occupation. He was awarded decorations by both the French and American governments for war services. Dr. Morrow received his M.D. degree from the University Medical School in 1910 and first practiced his profession in Marshfield. Later he was associated with his father, Dr. J. W. Morrow, in Portland. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Frances Morrow, and his father, Dr. J. W. Morrow.

Dr. L. D. Inskeep, city health officer at Medford for the past eight years, has been reappointed to a two-year term by the city council.

Lillian Downing gives her address as 540 West 123rd street, New York City, and her occupation as bacteriologist, Allergy clinic, Roosevelt Hospital, in New York. Miss Downing majored in pre-medicine and received her degree from the University in 1926.

1927

A son, Milton L., was born on January 18 to Dr. and Mrs. Milton B. Steiner (Vera M. Prudhomme, '26) of 1331 Northwest Twenty-fifth avenue, Portland. Dr. Steiner is a member of the faculty of the University of Oregon Medical School.

1928

C. E. Marston, M.D. '28, has moved his offices to 715 Selling building, Portland.

1930

Dr. Herman Semenov, M.D. '30, was married to Miss Lillian Murtzel on January 16 at Bel-Air, California.

1931

Dr. and Mrs. John F. Renshaw (Dot Elizabeth Ward, '27) and two sons are making their home at 6627 Drexel avenue, in Los Angeles. Dr. Renshaw was a member of the staff of the University of Chicago last year.

A daughter, Sally Jo, was born on November 20, 1936 to Dr. and Mrs. Paul E. Shiningier of 3124 Northeast Fifty-first avenue, Portland.

1932

A daughter, Elizabeth Mary, was born on January 14 to Dr. and Mrs. F. W. Carter of 1735 North Wheeler, Portland.

1933

Dr. Ernest G. Reuter, formerly of Portland, has been appointed to an assistantship in roentgenology at Duke University in Durham, North Carolina. Dr. Reuter received his A. B. degree from Reed College, Portland, and his M. D. from the University in 1933 and was later awarded a fellowship at the University of Illinois. He interned at Columbus hospital in Seattle, spent three years in Alaska as doctor for the P. H. Harris cannery and later traveled as surgeon for the States Steamship lines and for the Delta line.

Dr. James P. Thompson is serving as resident physician at the Alameda County hospital, in Oakland, California, where he interned last year.

Dr. Ernest G. Reuter, M.D. '33, is a resident in radiology at Duke University, Durham, North Carolina.

1934

Dr. Dan N. Steffanoff recently opened offices for the practice of medicine and surgery at 740 Medical Arts building, in Portland. Dr. Steffanoff received his bachelor's degree in 1931 from the University and his M.D. in 1934.

1935

Dr. Harold M. U'Ren has offices at 707 Stevens building, in Portland. His home address is 1881 Southwest Eleventh street.

Dr. Randall W. Henry is associated with his father, Dr. D. W. Henry, and brother, Dr. Robert T. Henry, '34, in the practice of medicine at Endicott, Washington.

Dr. Frank B. Packard is resident in surgery of Oregon Medical school. He received his B.A. degree from the University of Washington.

Dr. Harry C. Browne, Jr. whose home is in Portland, has been awarded a medical fellowship at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minnesota. Dr. Browne served for one year as an interne in the Firmin Deloge group of hospitals in St. Louis, Missouri. At present he is on the house staff of St. Joseph's hospital at Parkersburg, West Virginia.

The new course in home hygiene and care of the sick, sponsored by the Multnomah county chapter of the American Red Cross, which opened in Portland early in February, was headed by Mae Dwyer, R.N. In order to devote her entire time to the course, Miss Dwyer was forced to give up her position as assistant supervisor of school nursing in Portland under Dr. Helen Cary, '21. Miss Dwyer received her degree in nursing education from the University last June and only recently completed a special training Red Cross course in teaching home hygiene at the University of California.

Dr. Cedric Northrop, M.D. '36, has announced a change of address to Sunmount Sanatorium in Santa Fe, New Mexico.

A BRIEF HISTORY OF THE U. OF O. MEDICAL SCHOOL

On June 16, 1887, there was presented to the Board of Regents of the Oregon State University a petition for the establishment of a Medical Department of the State University in the city of Portland, signed by sixteen well known medical practitioners of Oregon. This list included such names as Dr. S. E. Josephi, first dean of the Medical School, Dr. Kenneth A. J. Mackenzie, the second dean, and Dr. Otto S. Binswanger, first professor of Biochemistry—then known as Medical Chemistry and Toxicology.

Upon motion, resolutions were passed establishing the School of Medicine in Portland, with eight chairs and professors. On June 15, 1899, the Board of Regents increased the faculty by four chairs. This request for additional faculty members was submitted to the Board two years after the establishment of the Medical School, "by reason of the growth of the School and the enlargement of its sphere of usefulness."

Personnel Increased

The increase in the teaching personnel of the school has continued steadily until the present time, when there are fifteen full time and twenty-five part time instructors employed and ninety-five physicians who render voluntary service.

The Medical School was housed in a small frame building situated at what is now the intersection of 22nd and Marshall Streets, on the grounds of the Good Samaritan Hospital. The building consisted of a single lecture room on the first floor and an anatomical laboratory on the second floor. In 1890 a lot at the corner of 23rd and Lovejoy Streets was purchased and the old building was moved there and remodeled.

In 1892 a new building was erected. The structure consisted of three stories, including two large lecture rooms, well equipped laboratories and dissecting room and a roomy amphitheatre. It housed also the R. B. Wilson library, the nucleus around which has been built the present

Medical School library of some twenty-two thousand volumes. The school remained in this building until June, 1918. It was then transferred to the location it now occupies on Marquam Hill, at which time the first wing of the present building was completed. In 1922 the second wing of the Medical School building was constructed.

Dr. Josephi First Dean

Dr. S. E. Josephi was dean of the Medical School from 1887 to 1912, at which time he retired. He was the founder, guiding the youthful medical school through its early years of struggle. From the beginning Dr. Josephi had the vision of a great medical center in the Pacific Northwest located in Portland. During the twenty-five years of his unselfish service to the Medical School he never deviated from this objective. When the school was small and struggling he would say, "we must creep before we can walk" but one was aware that he was looking into the future and was seeing the fulfillment of his dream.

From 1912 until his death in 1920 the deanship of the Medical School was occupied by Dr. Kenneth A. J. Mackenzie. Dr. Mackenzie was the dynamic and energetic builder making possible the next step in the development of the school. Through his connection with the Union Pacific System as chief surgeon he was able to obtain as a gift from the company the first twenty acres of the present medical school site. He visioned upon Marquam Hill the Medical Center which Dr. Josephi had labored to found. Before his death he saw completed the nucleus of such a medical center—the first wing of the Medical School building and the Multnomah County Hospital, both constructed on land donated by the Union Pacific System.

School Grows in Importance

Since 1920 Dr. Richard B. Dillehunt, who for a number of years had been assistant dean under Dr. Mackenzie, has been dean of the Medical School. Under his able leadership the Center has grown to its present size. In 1922 the second wing of the Medical School building was erected; in 1926 the Doernbecher Memorial Hospital for Children, made possible by a gift from Mrs. E. W. Morse and Mr. Edward Doernbecher in memory of their father, the late F. S. Doernbecher, was dedicated; in 1931 the Outpatient Clinic building, adjacent to the Multnomah County Hospital, was completed. To make possible this period of expansion the school is indebted to the Rockefeller Foundation for financial aid and to Mrs. C. S. Jackson and Mr. Philip Jackson, in memory of the late C. S. Jackson, for a gift of eighty-eight acres adjoining the original Medical School campus. The U. S. Veterans' Hospital plant of some eleven buildings was erected on a portion of this land.

The University of Oregon Medical School has achieved an enviable position among other medical schools of the country and occupies an important place in the life of the state. In reviewing the growth of the Medical School during its fifty years one realizes that the school has traveled far toward the realization of the vision of its founders.

Dean of the medical school is Dr. Richard Dillehunt, who is shown above. To him is due much of the credit for maintaining the high standards of the school in recent years.

CAMPUS AND FACULTY

Nation Wide Broadcast Held

"Ladies and gentlemen, we are broadcasting from the stage of the University of Oregon school of music auditorium . . ." NBC nationwide hookups carried these words and a concert by the University Symphony orchestra to the nation as Oregon went on the air January 27.

The University orchestra, under the direction of Rex Underwood, played three numbers; Hal Young, tenor, sang two operatic selections; and Dorothy Louise Johnson, student violinist, played a solo. Dean John J. Landsbury gave a brief talk.

A capacity crowd of 600 students, faculty, and townspeople sat silent throughout the performance, then broke into a veritable storm of applause at its finish. The University school of music will participate in a second broadcast to be given on February 27, definite arrangements for which are still tentative.

Students Help Unemployed

Ingenuity and humaneness of Oregon students is being evidenced in a student project undertaken by two undergraduates, Gordon Connelly and Irving Elle. The project consists in furnishing meals for some 56 unemployed men living on the banks of the Willamette river at the outskirts of Eugene.

The two youths, with volunteers numbering some twenty-five students, are collecting leftovers from sorority and fraternity houses, the food is re-prepared, and then each man in "jungle-town" does a bit of work for his share of the provender.

In a single week the boys accounted for 229 meals at a total cost of $1.90 which was spent for gasoline used in collecting the food.

A weekly mimeographed paper, the "Project," has also been launched by the two students with Connelly in the editor's chair.

Col. Leader on Campus

Many alums will recall Colonel John Leader, who was sent from England during the World War to lead in directing military preparations in this area. The Colonel has always loved Oregon and often returns for a visit.

At present he is prolonging a stay on the campus because of unusual interest in the new Physical Education plant. In addition to numerous talks before campus and civic organizations, the Colonel has joined the PE staff for lectures and teaching of squash and badminton.

He occasioned quite a stir recently by statements made in an Emerald interview in which he advocated more sports and less Latin and Greek for college students. Training how to learn, and not learning was his idea of a good college education.

ALUMS ATTEND PRESS MEET

Editors from all over Oregon flocked to the University January 21, 22, and 23 for the annual press conference. Very noticeable was the high number of Oregon alumni among the leading editors and publishers of the state.

The group elected A. E. Voorhies, publisher of the Grants Pass Courier, as president, and re-elected Professor George Turnbull secretary.

Along with Paul Smith, executive editor of the San Francisco Chronicle, Jay C. Allen, ex-'23, Spanish war correspondent, was one of the leading speakers.

Harris Ellsworth, '22, manager of the Emerald in 1920, and former field manager of the OEA was present. He is now editor of the Roseburg News-Review.

Howard M. Young, '24, advertising manager of the La Grande Observer, formerly with the Bend Bulletin, arrived the first day, stayed until the finish.

Henry N. Fowler, '14, attended the conference as representative of the Bend Bulletin, of which he is associate editor.

A. E. Voorhies told attendants that his son Earle Voorhies, '22, who is managing editor and in charge of the famous pioneer engraving plant of the Courier, was unable to be present.

Leith Abbott, editor of the Emerald in 1920, arrived late but brought his usual collection of stories. He is now advertising manager for the Southern Pacific railroad in Portland.

For the first time in many years, Merle Chessman, '09 editor of the Astorian-Budget, was missing. He was in Washington attending to legislation for Tongue Point.

Another speaker on the program was John W. Anderson, '24, who is managing editor of the Eugene News, now published by Sheldon Sackett, who did graduate work at the University in 1923.

Gilbert Wellington, '35, attended the conference as representative of the Fenger-Hall advertising agency in Portland.

Funds Inadequate

The University was allotted $6,803.76 by the Oregon state board of education at its regular January meeting. OSC, due to increased enrollment, received $13,316.23. The sum allotted to the University was obtained from the meager emergency balance maintained by the board in the absence of available funds from the PWA building program.

Chancellor Hunter reported "serious injury to our instructional program" may result from such a drastic cut in resources. The chancellor stated that unless present funds are immediately supplemented the University balance would remain below the safety point.

Ballet Russe Success

The long awaited performance of the famous Ballet Russe on the campus was received with great enthusiasm by an audience which nearly filled a completely made over McArthur court.

Although the performance had to be given Saturday afternoon instead of Thursday night because the troupe became snowbound in northern California, the artists performed in a style which drew waves of applause from the huge crowd.

Educational Activities Manager Ralph Schomp was flooded with compliments from people all over the state for bringing such an outstanding attraction to the campus.

Better Inter-School Feeling

Better feeling between OSC and the University received another boost recently with announcement of OSC students that they would cooperate in a big inter-school dance at Eugene February 26. Campus leaders are planning the dance as an aid in the drive to get funds for turfing Hayward field. It follows the annual Oregon-Oregon State basketball game the same night.

¶ Dr. Arthur J. Marder, winter term addition to the faculty as assistant professor in history, has made campus headlines ever since his appearance with a campaign to make himself "the most hated professor of the campus." Hard tests and heavy assignments do the job, students say.

ALUMNI BANQUET IN PORTLAND ON MARCH 5

Big Meeting Planned

Taking the lead in the statewide revival of interest in the alumni association, the Portland alumni group, headed by President Paul D. Hunt is making plans for a huge banquet in Portland on the evening of March 5. It will be held at the Congress Hotel.

Working in conjunction with the central office, Mr. Hunt has arranged for a program which will in its quality keep pace with the new enthusiasm shown by various alumni members.

Mr. Fansett and Mr. Hunt conferred several times earlier in February and said, "We plan to have this banquet an initial meeting hailing the revival of a greater University of Oregon alumni association and a greater University."

Entertainment Scheduled

The meeting, Mr. Fansett said, will be typical of gatherings which the alumni association hopes to have arranged soon in all centers throughout the state where there are University graduates.

On the program will be the more serious business of electing officers and formulation of alumni plans, along with exceedingly entertaining features such as a play from the University drama department, a magician's act, singing by Hal Young, and sports motion pictures shown from a recently purchased projector by Bill Hayward and Anse Cornell.

Miss Janet Smith is expected to be present to explain the placement service set-up to the alums. Also present will be Deans James Gilbert and H. C. Howe, and Coaches John Warren, Prink Callison, Gene Shields, and Mike Mikulak. Coach Hobson will be in Seattle for the Washington game and unable to be there.

Award to Be Made

Another big feature will be the presentation of the annual award made by the Portland Alumni association to the most outstanding alum of the state during the past year. Senator Steiwer was the last winner.

Committees appointed by President Hunt are now at work selecting the winner and also in handling the various details of the banquet.

Each alumnus in the Portland area will be sent a complete copy of the program before the end of this month, according to Mr. Hunt and Mr. Fansett.

Paul D. Hunt, above, is president of the Portland Alumni association, and is acting as general chairman in charge of arrangements for the big alumni banquet March 5.

New Yorkers to Meet

February 25 has been set as the date for a meeting of all University alumni in the New York area. An informal dinner will be held at the Town Hall Club, 123 West 43rd Street, starting at 7:00 p. m.

John MacGregor and other leaders particularly welcome all recent comers to New York as well as the former residents.

California Alumnae Meet

A letter from Gertrude Stephenson Stutsman, assistant registrar from 1921-31, tells of the meeting of former women students of the University at the Mona Lisa Tea Room in Los Angeles on Friday, January 15. This meeting was at the instigation of Emma Jane Barbade Gehr, '22, and Ila Nichols Dabney, '22.

The group decided not to elect regular officers, but to have different people in charge of each meeting, to be held the third Friday of every alternate month. Thus, the next meeting is at 1:00, Friday, March 19. It will be held with Reba Macklin Jamieson, '20, in charge, and is scheduled for the Tick Tock Tea Room in Hollywood. All who plan to attend should notify Mrs. Jamieson (phone, Olympia 9250).

Those present at the first meeting in addition to the names mentioned above, were: Lois Hall Bond, '22; Irene Compton Carncross, '23; Dorothy Wilkinson Faubion, ex-'18; Helen Mae Enoch Gleiforst, ex-'24; Mabel Cochran Heitschmidt, ex-'19; Flora Campbell Houck, '23; Ramah Iler Kelley, '23; Elizabeth Beam Little, '30; Kathryn Short Schanck, '27; Florence Allen Tapfer, ex-'27; Clementina Cameron Taylor, '20; Louise Vonder Ahe Timmerman, ex-'25; Betty Robinson Vonder Ahe, ex-'26; and Marian Taylor Witter, '22.

Dick Wins Honor

Paul S. Dick, LL.B. '02, president of the United States National bank in Portland was recently named one of twelve men in the nation to serve on the Federal Advisory council. He will represent the twelfth district, embracing seven states.

He is only the second Oregonian to be named to this highly respected position since establishment of the federal reserve system in 1914. The appointment will take him to Washington, D. C. four times yearly.

Alum Takes Big Job

Reuel S. Moore, '21, United Press bureau chief in Manila for the past five years, recently visited the campus while on his way to England. In London he will take over the important position of director of wire traffic for the United Press.

While on the campus, Mr. Moore was one of the founders of the local fraternity which became Theta Chi. He wrote the Theta Chi national song.

¶ Clifford W. Lord, ex-'34, is now sales manager for the Stanford Alumni association in Palo Alto, with offices in the Palace hotel in San Francisco. He formerly served with the University of California alumni.

PORTLAND ALUMS

- Attend the banquet of the Portland alumni association and meet new, old friends.
- An entertaining program of motion pictures, singing, magic, drama, and talks will be presented.
- Learn of and join in with the revival of enthusiastic University alumni. A new spirit is establishing a group you will want to be part of.

DUCKS NEAR TOP IN CONFERENCE HOOP RACE

Team Second at Half-way Mark

Oregon's fighting sophomore basketball team had a fair chance of copping the championship of the Pacific coast conference's northern division as it passed the half-way mark in its 16-game league schedule.

The Webfoots finish their season with a two-game series with Idaho at Eugene February 12 and 13; two games with Oregon State, February 20 at Corvallis and February 26 at Eugene, and a two-game series with Washington at Seattle March 5 and 6.

Oregon 44, Oregon State 31

A fighting Webfoot quintet, minus one of its leading cogs, stayed in the northern division race with a second consecutive triumph over Oregon State, 44 to 31, before 6500 screaming spectators at McArthur court, on February 6.

Wally Johansen, sophomore guard regular, heard the game from the campus infirmary, where he was confined with flu. Taking Johansen's place was Ken Purdy, whose sensational last-second howitzer defeated Oregon State in an early-season donnybrook. Purdy turned in an aggressive performance, hoisted home two howitzers and a short field goal.

Johnny Lewis, senior and acting captain, shoved in five first half field baskets as Hobby Hobson's men raced into an early 10-point lead. It was 24 to 18 for Oregon at the intermission, and in the closing period the Beavers never came nearer than five points.

Lewis paced Oregon scoring with 15 points. Driving Bobby Anet holed four field goals for eight and Purdy was third with seven. Hub Tuttle, only Beaver who could maneuver into shooting position against a tight Duck zone defense, led all point collecting with 17.

Even Up With Washington

The Webfoot sophomores went wild against Washington's champion Huskies in the first half of a series at McArthur court February 1, winning 48 to 37. The following night the Huskies turned the tables in decisive fashion, 39 to 30.

Oregon's victory was the first scored by a Duck team over Washington in McArthur court history. Not since 1926, in Coach Hobson's playing day, had the Webfoots won in Eugene, and at that time the teams played in the armory.

Johnny Lewis was Oregon's scoring ace in both games. He piled up 18 points the first night and 13 the second. Anet and Johansen, the driving Astoria pair, led Oregon's floor play each night and were instrumental in winning the first game. Slim Wintermute and Dave Silver aided tremendously on the tip-offs, at the backboards, and in scoring.

The first fracas was a thriller for home fans. Oregon held an edge most of the way and with the win climbed into first place in the division race. The Ducks stayed with the Huskies in the first half of the second encounter but slipped far behind in the second.

NORTHERN DIVISION STANDINGS

On February 10

	W.	L.	Pct.	For	Ag't
Washington State	7	2	.777	347	274
OREGON	7	3	.700	363	340
Washington	5	3	.625	322	298
Oregon State	2	6	.250	244	263
Idaho	0	7	.000	176	238

Four Starts, Three Wins

The Webfoots made their Inland Empire trip in January and were successful enough to pile up three wins in four starts. The first night, at Pullman, they ran up a huge lead, then barely held it to beat out Washington State, 40 to 36. The following day the Cougars came back with a 42-to-28 triumph.

Johansen and Wintermute tallied in an overtime period to enable Oregon to edge out Idaho, 32 to 29, in the first of two tight frays at Moscow. The next evening it was another close squeak, but the Ducks gained the nod, 31 to 29.

Lewis, Purdy, and Wintermute were scoring leaders on the strenuous trip. Johansen and Anet sparked Oregon's driving offense.

Frosh Trim Rooks Twice

John Warren's freshmen galloped to victory in both ends of their opening series with the all-star Oregon State rooks.

The vaunted rook team, made up almost entirely of all-state players, was driven to defeat each night by superior last-half Duckling power.

It was 40 to 32 for the frosh in the first game, at Corvallis, and in the second at McArthur court Warren's men, led by the big three—Ted Sarpola, John Dick, and Matt Pavalunas—poured in a dozen points in the last few minutes to win, 51 to 41.

¶ Oregon's football team will play Fordham in New York City on October 22, 1938, it was announced early this month. Coach Prink Callison has set February 15 as opening date for spring practice for the 1937 season.

¶ Slim Wintermute led the scoring of the northern division on February 10 with a total of 84 points in 10 games. Included in the five leading men were Dave Silver with 76, Johnny Lewis with 71. Nelson of WSC, however, with only nine games had a better average per contest.

¶ Basketball is the first intramural sport of the winter term and the most popular. Alpha Tau Omega's team won the B league championship by trouncing Sigma Phi Epsilon in the final playoff game, 30 to 19. Alpha Tau Omega's A team and the Abba Dabbas met later for the major league championship, with the ATOs winning 17 to 16.

QUACKS

INAUGURATED in December, "Quacks" is here to stay. Its quality we hope to improve as reader response intensifies. The office ducks, (Iguesso, on the left, and Iguesso II, on the right) indicate what we want. Shouting or weeping, chuckles or "gleeping," will fill the bill. Fire away!

THREE months old, "Quacks" still lacks sufficient maturity to really sparkle with extraordinary letters. To hasten this attainment of excellence the alumni office has decided for each month following to offer $1 for the best letter to the editor. Make them critical, commendatory, or what you will, but make them terse, interesting, and to the point.

FIRST Quack this month is quite definite, quite adverse:

To the Alumni Secretary:

Old Oregon is one of the poorest alumni magazines I have yet seen. Until definite improvement is shown, I do not intend to renew my subscription.

H. J. Hoflich, Univ. of Hawaii,
Honolulu, Hawaii.

NOW on the other side of the fence comes comment and check from a Chicagoite:

Dear Mr. Fansett:

Your moratorium idea on the statement sent me had the desired effect of making me grab a pen and write you out a check for $5.00 for a three-year renewal so you won't have to dun me for a while.

I have read Old Oregon for January, 1937 including your personal message and I must say that I admire both the magazine and the new lease on life that our alumni association seems to have taken. Congratulations!

Am glad to see that Prink Callison is to be assisted by Mike Mikulak and I hope that the Oregon football team can again win laurels as one of the country's leading teams during the next few years, as in 1920 when Oregon played Harvard at the Tournament of Roses with the score ending 7 to 6; Harvard winning by one point.

Sincerely,

Joseph C. Landrud,
6423 N. Fairfield Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.

AFTER hearing both sides of the story, it might be well to print a short quip which hands out a little bit of both at the same time:

Clair Johnson, Editor,
Dear Sir:

Received and admired your January issue of Old Oregon. You will find alumni members glad to see that the alumni association is picking up and reviving. However, don't you think you are letting your youth and collegiate spirit run away with you. Pictures in that green-colored insert were very nice, but the coloring seemed pretty flashy for a magazine. Best wishes.

Sincerely,
A Reader.

For Anonymous Reader's benefit we bring technical details to our aid. Less expensive engravings used in green section were of screening not good enough for ordinary slick, white paper. The green, although admittedly gaudy, served the purpose much better. The gala coloring, although cause of considerable criticism, did please many, however.

NEXT comes an interesting note about an alum from an alum.

Editor, Old Oregon,
Dear Sir:

Enclosed please find my check for alumni dues for one year.

I have no real news for you as Mr. Allen used to define it to us would-be journalists, but I have a tip for you that seems important to me.

As far as I can remember Old Oregon has not noted the fact that the co-editor of the "Reader's Digest" is Mrs. DeWitt Wallace (Lila Bell Acheson, '17). She was a member of Delta Delta Delta while on the campus. There has been much written about their (Editor and Mrs. Wallace's) enterprise and success in "Time" and other magazines, but with no mention of Oregon so that you would know that she was one of us.

With best wishes to your staff,

Mrs. Margaret S. Higinbotham, '17,
Victor, New York.

Thanks very much, Mrs. Higinbotham. Information like yours is greatly appreciated.

BEST picture of the month award goes to Rupert E. "Boots" Martin, ex-'17, who sends in a fine-looking shot of fine-looking son, William Ryall (Boots Jr.) Martin. Boots Jr. is mounted on pony, is dressed in cowboy rigging.

Boots Sr., who will be remembered as a member of the University wrestling team in 1913-14, is now engaged in oil production, leases, and royalty in Ardmore, Oklahoma.

Sorry that inadequate finances prohibit making up excellent picture.

AND now to a close with a sharp comment, name withheld by request:

Dear Mr. Johnson:

Congratulations for your attempt to pep up Old Oregon. As the name implies it was old, and unfortunately still is. Why not get it out on the first of the month like other magazines.

Also we are tired of seeing pictures of buildings on the cover, pretty as they may. Third gripe is your continued repetition of the sorry plight of higher education.

Sincerely,

A Subscriber.

Last two kicks we shall partially remedy in future, and as readers will note we are in the process of remedying late publication now. January issue came out third week of month, February second week, and the March issue shall be out the first week of the month.

Remember the $1 prize for best "Quacks" letter each month.

OLD OREGON READERS

● Write in and let us know what you think of the revised Old Oregon Magazine. Suggest changes. Tell us what you like, and what you dislike.

● Contributions of all kinds are always welcome to "Quacks." Names will be held upon request, but please sign your letters. Make them short, interesting, and sparkling.

● Write and let us know what the alumni organization can do to help you. This is YOUR office and YOUR magazine. We will endeavor to serve you to the best of our ability.

Sincerely,

Clair Johnson, Editor,
Old Oregon Magazine.

SLOGAN CONTEST

Because the alumni association feels that it has a new spirit and a revival of interest but lacks words to express it, a slogan contest is being started. A $5 membership in the alumni group, which includes all alumni privileges and a subscription to Old Oregon for three years, will be awarded the winner.

Write in and help in trying to express this new enthusiasm, this feeling that we are driving toward a greater University and a greater alumni group. Eight words or less is the length requirement.

James H. Gilbert, Lynn McCready, and Marion F. McClain will act as judges. Get your entries on the way. Rules are as follows:

1. Contest closes April 1. However, since this is all-fools day this rule won't be observed and entries will be accepted until April 15.

2. Customary rule of having your entry written on the back cover of the last issue of Old Oregon or a reasonable facsimile will not be observed. Pencil, paper, an idea, and some way to get it to us is all that is required.

3. Duplicate awards will be made in case of a tie unless we decide to flip a coin.

4. No reflection on the judges, but their decisions will not be final. If you want to argue come into the office, and we'll attempt to convince you of the necessity of your giving us $5 instead.

CAMPUS NOTES

Assemblies on Upgrade

Student President "Gib" Schultz is consistently improving the character of Oregon assemblies this term. Most important feature of gatherings thus far has been the spirited attitude with which stunts, skits, songs, yells, and even announcements and short talks have been given.

Hal Young of the University music department, announces that he is heading a small group working on a new Alma Mater song to replace or supplement "Mighty Oregon."

Snow, Slush Hit Campus

Students and faculty at the University suffered with the rest of the state during the terrible storm which hit Oregon at the turn of the month. Almost six inches of snow covered the campus Sunday, but it soon turned into a mass of slush and water.

Greatest threat to campus comfort came later in the week, when it was necessary to close down several buildings because of lack of fuel. Deliveries to the heating plant had been delayed by storms.

General College Discussed

Oregon students were offered opportunity to briefly investigate methods and ideals of the "general college" when Dr. Malcolm MacLean, director of the general college of the University of Minnesota, spoke to an assembly in Gerlinger hall.

The experiment purports to teach students how to solve problems of life rather than give them specialized technical education. Dr. MacLean maintains that this type of education is not one which assures financial independence but will be invaluable to the student in later years when he faces problems of home and marriage life and social relations.

Admiral Byrd on Campus

Admiral Richard E. Byrd appeared at McArthur court January 27 under the sponsorship of the ASUO. He presented motion pictures and a lecture on his second trip to icy Little America and the South Pole.

While on the campus Admiral Byrd revealed his plan for a six months' moratorium on war which he intends to present to President Roosevelt for approval.

Cameron Beck Speaks

"Leadership for Tomorrow" and the "do more than you're told to do" idea formed the basis of a talk given a student assembly recently by Cameron Beck, personnel director of the New York stock exchange.

Mr. Beck counselled students to join the small group of young people who do not stop at doing only as they are ordered. The financial official is a close friend of Chancellor Frederick M. Hunter.

Social Conference Held

Dean James H. Gilbert of the college of social science appeared as presiding officer in the meeting of the Western Oregon conference of Social Workers in Eugene February 12 and 13.

Also representing the University during the conference were Ralph Couch and Miss Grace Phelps of the medical school, Professor E. H. Moore of the sociology department, and Herman Kehrl, director of the bureau of municipal research.

Harrison Brown to Speak

Harrison Brown, British journalist, economist, lecturer, globe-trotter will speak to a student assembly February 25 on the subject of his recent extended trip through the Far East, China, Manchoukuo, Japan, and Russia. Mr. Brown plans to be on the campus for three days and speak to several student groups during his stay here.
