COMMENCEMENT
JUNE 10, 2000

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON

The University Seal, shown on the title page, was created by Judge Matthew P. Deady, first president of the Board of Regents, and was approved by that body in 1878. In its center is a representation of Mt. Hood as a symbol of the state. Around its edge is the university's motto, mens agitat molem—mind moves the mass.

A Sense of Tradition

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON
COMMENCEMENT
JUNE 10, 2000

WELCOME—STUDENTS, PARENTS, AND FRIENDS—to the University of Oregon. With each year's commencement comes a great sense of accomplishment as well as an awareness of the future. This year is no exception, holding as it does the joy and satisfaction of achievement and the promise of challenges and opportunities that will stretch courage and creativity in new and exciting directions.

The University of Oregon began with a promise from one generation of Oregonians to future generations. It was based on the belief that education could make a difference in the lives of men and women, and it was this difference that would, in turn, improve the quality of the state, the nation, and the world.

That pledge—made nearly 125 years ago—is kept in part by the traditional commencement ceremony we attend today, and it will be kept in full by the accomplishments that you as graduates build and celebrate in the future.

On behalf of the university community, I offer our best wishes as you continue to fulfill that original promise in the years to come.

The President's Centennial Medallion, shown above, was commissioned in 1975 and is worn by the president as a badge of office during formal university ceremonies.

Professor Emeritus Paul Buckner of the Department of Fine and Applied Arts created and executed the design.

The University of Oregon opened its doors in 1876. Deady Hall housed the entire university in those days. Built of bricks made from clay dug out of the local hills, the building was guaranteed by its architect to last 1,000 years. The first commencement in 1878 graduated five students. Today the university serves 17,200 students on its 380-acre campus. More than 1,200 faculty members teach in its arts and sciences departments and in its professional schools and colleges.

Commencement Speaker

MARIAN WRIGHT EDELMAN

Marian Wright Edelman is founder and president of the Children's Defense Fund
(CDF) and a tireless advocate for the rights of children.

A 1960 graduate of Spelman College and a 1963 graduate of Yale Law School, she was the first black woman admitted to the Mississippi Bar. As director of the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund Office, she represented volunteers of the civil rights movement who were arrested and incarcerated for their activism.

Moving to Washington, D.C., in 1968, Edelman
founded the Washington Research Project, which investigated how existing and proposed laws affected the poor; it was this project that evolved into the Children's Defense Fund.

Edelman went on to direct Harvard's Center for Law and Education and was the first black woman to serve on the board of directors of Yale University.

As president of the Children's Defense Fund
since 1979, she has built it into a strong national voice for children and families.
CDF's mission is to "educate the nation about the needs of children before they get sick, drop out of school, suffer too-early pregnancy or family break down, or get into trouble. CDF seeks to ensure that no child is left behind and that every child has a healthy start, a head start, a fair start, a safe start, and a moral start in life with the support of caring parents and communities."

Edelman has gained a national reputation as "the children's crusader" in appearances before the U.S.
Congress. With the mantra
"One dollar up front saves many dollars down the road," CDF is credited with securing an increase in Medicaid coverage for poor children, financial help for child care, and an increase in funding for the Head Start prekindergarten education program.

She is the author of five books, including Guide My Feet: Meditations and Prayers on Loving and Working for Children and her autobiographical Lanterns: A Memoir for Mentors. In addition, she writes a monthly column, "A Voice for Children," as well as a weekly
"Child Watch" column.

Past awards include the Albert Schweitzer Humanitarian Prize, the Heinz Award in the Human Condition, and a MacArthur Foundation Prize.
Today she receives an honorary doctor of philosophy degree from the University of Oregon.

The academic procession is led by the university marshal, who carries the University Mace. The position is one of honor and is traditionally held by a previous recipient of the Thomas F. Herman Faculty Achievement Award for Distinguished Teaching.

Students carrying the academic standards were selected by their academic departments or programs for outstanding scholarship, leadership, or contribution to the university. The green-and-yellow standards display the emblems of each school or college.

Honorary Doctorate

The University of Oregon presents an honorary doctorate to individuals who have accomplished outstanding scholarship or artistic achievement as well as performed extraordinary public service or distinguished service during their lifetime. The awarding of an honorary doctorate takes place only after the nomination has been approved by the University Senate and the State Board of Higher Education.

MARIAN WRIGHT EDELMAN

With vision, courage, purpose, and love, Marian Wright Edelman has stepped into each day of her life to bring healing to the long-suffering wounded, change where the status quo has stifled, hope where despair has loomed, and the fulfillment of dreams to those too long empty. Understanding that the treatment of the poor, the homeless, the racially despised, and the neglected children of our society is the measure of our true values, she continues to proclaim this message of hope through change in ways that will transform lives, families, and communities for years to come.

HILL WALKER

Education is more than the mere accumulation of knowledge or the creation of data; we look also for ways in which it can improve the quality of our lives. Education is more than an ancient means of perpetuating an institution; we search for ways that it can build on the past and offer promise and hope for the future in addressing society's problems. Education is more than a process of gaining success for the sake of success; we seek ways in which it can improve our quality of life through its potential for the creative use of knowledge and the humane application of learning.

Few areas of society's needs are so apparent, so worthy, and of such critical import today as meeting our obligations to one of our most vulnerable populations—our children. In his lifetime of work in this area, Hill Walker M.A. '64, Ph.D. '67 has met the lofty expectations set by society for the benefits of education—taking them down the long, hard road from the research process into the classrooms, homes, and lives of America's children. Since joining the UO faculty in 1966, Walker's vision and leadership have brought national recognition to both the University of Oregon and to the College of Education.

Walker's dedication to improving the lives of children through educational research led to the development of both the UO Center on Human Development and the Institute on Violence and Destructive Behavior. Both centers reflect not only the values and priorities of the University of Oregon but also those of the man, his colleagues, and his remarkable career of service.

The impact of Walker's work at the University of Oregon, his high level of leadership nationally and internationally, and his consistent focus on youth violence prevention through early childhood intervention will be felt long into the future. Hill Walker has improved the quality of our lives, created hope for the future, and found creative and humane ways to enable education to better serve our human needs.

The Presidential Medal was established in 1991 to honor individuals who have demonstrated extraordinary service to the university and whose professional and personal leadership in the world community places them among the nation's foremost citizens.

The medal is a hand-forged, solid-silver replica of the myrtlewood President's Centennial Medallion worn by the university president for ceremonial occasions.

Distinguished Service Awards

The Distinguished Service Award is presented to individuals who by their knowledge and skills have made a significant contribution to the cultural development of Oregon or society as a whole. The awards are presented by the University Senate on behalf of the faculty.

DOROTHY ANDERSON

Protecting what you treasure takes more than wishes and good intentions. It takes intelligence, imagination, and the willingness to find the common ground for cooperation. One of those treasures held in high regard by Dorothy Anderson is the overall well being of the state of Oregon. From its energy needs to its land use planning and overall environmental health, she has consistently used her intelligence, imagination, and search for common ground to see that treasure protected and improved.

At a time when the future of Oregon's farmlands and open spaces, rivers and beaches was at a critical juncture, she volunteered to serve with citizens who insisted that Oregon must plan for its future. From her service on the Land Conservation and Development Commission to local planning efforts, as well as her leadership in the League of Women Voters and current membership on the Eugene Water and Electric Board, she continues to exemplify the best tradition of nonpartisan citizen service to the state of Oregon.

She is, to borrow the words of former Oregon Governor Tom McCall, one who has said, "This is my community, and it's my responsibility to make it better." For all that she has done to make it better, to enable us to protect and improve our treasure, it is our honor to present to Dorothy Anderson the University of Oregon Distinguished Service Award for the year 2000.

ANNABEL KITZHABER

Wisdom, when offered in the public arena, driven by energy and knowledge—and sprinkled with the seasoning of wit—can profoundly better the lives of those it touches.

For much of her adult life Annabel Kitzhaber has offered this wisdom, and its accompanying wit, as a gift of service to Oregonians. From her professional service as an educator and writer to her civic leadership with the League of Women Voters and school finance reform, from her commitment to the improvement of adult mental health to her involvement in the work for improved international cooperation, her steady devotion to areas of vital public concern continues to make a difference.

Leadership must run both deep and wide for a democracy to flourish, for a community to remain vital. Deep and wide, with that invaluable wisdom and wit, Annabel Kitzhaber gives the nature of the leadership—the gift—to us. It is in partial return for that gift that we are proud to present to Annabel Kitzhaber the University of Oregon Distinguished Service Award for the year 2000.

ROBERT STEADWARD

The all-important strength to compete—in athletics and in life—often comes from the discovery that the strength has been there all the time, simply awaiting a means to show itself. For his entire professional life, Robert Steadward has worked to enable people with disabilities to discover that inner strength and to find challenging and exciting venues to exercise it.

From his early work as a coach and teacher through increasingly responsible positions in research and sports leadership, Steadward has brought his own strengths to bear on these challenges. Currently president of the International Paralympic Committee—the second largest sports organization in the world with a membership of 160 nations—his contributions to the development of the Olympic movement for athletes with disabilities include coaching, fundraising, research, teaching, management, and administration. From a solid base of learning to the exciting arena of competition, his service has enhanced the lives of many immeasurably.

It has been said that athletics create an opportunity to respond to life with action and clarity. It is for this action and for its long-serving clarity that we are proud to award to Robert Steadward the University of Oregon Distinguished Service Award for the year 2000.

UO Alumni Association Awards

The University of Oregon Alumni Association traditionally recognizes two individuals who have attained extraordinary distinction in their chosen professional field or through personal endeavor. Nominations are reviewed and award recipients are selected by the association's board of directors.

Outstanding Young Alumnus

ALEX TIZON

Alex Tizon '84 was born in Manila and immigrated with his family to the United States when he was four. He graduated from the University of Oregon after having been elected to the Phi Beta Kappa honorary society. Tizon now writes about American subcultures for The Seattle Times, where he has been a staff reporter for nearly fourteen years. He has been nominated five times by the newspaper for a Pulitzer Prize, and in 1997 he and two colleagues received the award for investigative journalism for a series of stories exposing widespread fraud in the federal government's American Indian housing program. Tizon has written extensively about race and ethnicity, crime and youth violence, and he has done freelance work for CBS News and for Newsweek magazine. He is the first Philippine-born journalist to win a Pulitzer Prize.

Thomas F. Herman Faculty Achievement Awards for Distinguished Teaching

JON ERLANDSON

"You've really helped me to understand." "I learned a lot." "I loved this course." Associate Professor Jon Erlandson receives such enthusiastic responses time after time from his students. Teaching evaluations for Erlandson gush with superlatives: "brilliant," "exciting," "caring," "inspiring," "passionate." He teaches with passion about his passions of physical anthropology and archaeology.

On the anthropology faculty since 1990, Erlandson successfully combines the demands of being a teacher and an internationally renowned scholar. He provides students with unforgettable learning experiences in preserving and curating cultural resources; he inspires them to achieve a clearer understanding of how studying the past can provide keys to the present and the future.

Erlandson creates opportunities for students to participate in his research and rewards them with coauthorship of publications. Graduate students have given him their Mileage Plus Award for "going the extra mile" as their teacher, mentor, and friend. Approachable, knowledgeable, and sincerely invested in his students' educational well being, Jon Erlandson is a worthy recipient of the 2000 Thomas F. Herman Faculty Achievement Award for Distinguished Teaching.

MADONNA MOSS

"I am an archaeologist," confesses Associate Professor Madonna Moss. Both undergraduate and graduate students in one of her classes proclaim she is far more: she is a consummate teacher of archaeology. Joining the Department of Anthropology in 1990, Moss has distinguished herself as an innovator, a teacher who does not settle for mediocrity in herself or in her students, and a compassionate mentor.

Since her arrival, enrollments in archaeology courses have tripled—an increase attributed, in part, to Moss's considerable investment in recruiting and mentoring students. She is codeveloper of the highly successful Participant Learning Experiences in Archaeology, a student practicum that expands the parameters of learning from the classroom into the field.

The quality of Moss's teaching and the magnitude of her influence were formally acknowledged by the Association of Anthropology Graduate Students Mileage Plus Award, an honor bestowed for effort above and beyond the call of duty. Her sustained and significant accomplishments in teaching are reconfirmed as Madonna Moss receives the 2000 Thomas F. Herman Faculty Achievement Award for Distinguished Teaching.

ROBERT PROUDFOOT

Since 1985 Associate Professor Robert Proudfoot M.A. '83 has been teaching courses on cross-cultural communication and value systems, postwar U.S.-Vietnam relations, and indigenous cultural survival. Many students say that what they learned in his classes will remain with them their entire lives; others urge that his courses be required of all students at the University of Oregon.

The depth of learning that occurs in Proudfoot's classrooms is attributable to high personal and professional values. Among these are his integration of graduate student teaching support teams into the fabric of his undergraduate courses and his use of a relational model of communication. He recognizes that learning is multifaceted, including not only individual, cognitive, rational, and written dimensions but also collective, emotional, spiritual, and verbal ones.

Together with his previous teaching awards, including the UO Ersted Award (1989), the Outstanding Multicultural Educator Award (1989, 1992, 1996), and the Indian Education Association's Outstanding Indian Educator Award (1991, 1996), Proudfoot's receipt of the 2000 Thomas F. Herman Award for Distinguished Teaching attests to a long-standing pattern of teaching excellence rarely surpassed at any university. It is also a tribute to the broad pedagogical value of the Native American wisdom and traditions from and about which he teaches.

The Herman Award recognizes senior faculty members whose careers have been characterized by years of sterling teaching. Originally created in 1984 with a grant from the Burlington Northern Foundation, the award continues today with funding provided by an endowment established by UO Foundation trustee Thomas F. Herman.

Charles E. Johnson Memorial Award

The Johnson Award was created by the UO faculty to honor the memory of Charles E. Johnson—professor of accounting, dean of liberal arts, and acting president—whose UO career spanned the years 1952 to 1969. The award recognizes the unique qualities that served Johnson well during his acting presidency in the often-turbulent 1960s. Johnson's legacy to the university is one marked by outstanding contributions as a scholar and teacher as well as an outspoken academic leader.

The university established the Graduate Teaching Fellow Awards in cooperation with the UO chapter of Mortar Board, a national academic and service honorary society. First presented in 1979, the awards recognize excellence in teaching and academic guidance.

ROBERT PROUDFOOT

Beyond power lies moral strength; beyond fearlessness lies courage; beyond authority lies ethical leadership. Each of these qualities is recognized by the Charles E. Johnson Memorial Award, and each of them fills the life and career of Robert Proudfoot.

Through his wise counsel to university presidents and students, faculty and community members, he has exercised the moral strength that rises above mere power in ways that have immeasurably benefited the university community. In his efforts to follow truth as he sees it through the pathways of popular or unpopular ideas, and to teach those values in challenging and often difficult situations, Proudfoot has moved beyond fearlessness to courage. And in his consistent community-building efforts, whether in his tireless efforts to improve Native American and other multicultural initiatives on campus or in his diplomatic and groundbreaking work with the peoples of Southeast Asia, he has elevated his authority to a position of ethical leadership.

As a teacher, colleague, and friend, he has enabled each of us in turn to rise above our expectations, to move beyond our comfortable boundaries, and to dare to elevate our lives with the same moral strength, courage, and ethical leadership that Robert Proudfoot displays so exceptionally.

Graduate Teaching Fellow Awards

BAYTA MARING

A doctoral student in psychology, Maring has taught large lecture courses as well as small discussion groups. She is recognized by her fellow graduate teaching fellows and by faculty members for her enthusiastic, high-quality teaching. Her students comment on her energy and enthusiasm for psychology and her ability to clearly explain complex material. Maring feels that teaching can only be successful when the teacher learns as much from the students as the students learn from the teacher. According to her teaching philosophy, a good teacher cannot just have passion for the subject matter; she must also appreciate the unique and valuable perspective that students have on the material.

MARK MERITT

Meritt is a doctoral student in English who spent two years as a teaching assistant at UC Santa Barbara before transferring to the UO three years ago. Praised by his students as an outstanding teacher who presents the technical aspects and strategies of writing, Meritt is also credited with encouraging critical reading and thinking. Of his own teaching, Meritt says that just as careful scrutiny of the world allows students to construct more authoritative responses to complex societal questions in composition courses, so does close analysis of literary language allow them to explain more confidently the meaning of difficult texts. In both cases, active engagement with their objects of analysis makes students better writers and clearer thinkers.

Phi Beta Kappa Society

Alpha of Oregon Chapter

Founded December 5, 1776, the Phi Beta Kappa Society is the nation's oldest, most prestigious honorary society. It honors students whose academic records reveal high quality and breadth in liberal-arts course work. Phi Beta Kappa members on the University of Oregon faculty elected the following students to Phi Beta Kappa on May 19, 2000. Members-elect who accepted their invitations were initiated at a ceremony held this morning.

Each year six outstanding members-elect are designated the Phi Beta Kappa Oregon Six. Their academic records are exceptional because they combine extraordinary breadth and excellence in upper-division liberal-arts courses with very high grade point averages.

Senior Recognition Awards

AAUW Senior Recognition Award

NORINE MADDEN

Presented by the Oregon division of the American Association of University Women, this award is presented to an outstanding senior woman. Award criteria are scholarship, character, personality, contributions to campus and community life, and the potential for future growth.

N. Ray Hawk Award

BRIAN JENNARO

Established in 1982 to honor N. Ray Hawk, a former UO vice president for administration and finance, the Hawk Award is presented to the outstanding member of the senior class. Recipients are selected for their leadership, scholastic achievement, service to students and the university, involvement in student activities, and contribution to the quality of undergraduate life.

Wilson Cup

ELLIOTT DALE

The Wilson Cup was established in 1991 to honor Shirley Wilson, former dean of students. It recognizes seniors whose outstanding leadership and willingness to challenge conventional thought have stimulated awareness of and fostered education in the areas of social and cultural issues.

Paul Olum Award

HEIDI SMITH

Created in 1995 and sponsored by the UO Alumni Association, the Paul Olum Award recognizes the graduating senior who best exemplifies the qualities of the UO's thirteenth president. Olum, president emeritus and professor emeritus since 1989, is widely recognized for his academic excellence, integrity, concern for people, and dedication to the university's welfare.

Jackson Award

ANIKA HEUSER

The Jackson Award was created to recognize senior women for their athletic ability, inspiration to other athletes, scholarship, and leadership ability. It was created in 1981 and is named in recognition of Muriel Jackson, a retired assistant vice president for administration, and her husband Ross.

Military Science Commissioned Officers

University students who take military science courses may also participate in the process that leads to a commission as a second lieutenant in the U.S. Army. Students listed here were commissioned at a ceremony held June 9, 2000.

Academic Costume

The history of academic dress goes back several centuries to the chilly universities where cap, gown, and hood were needed for covering and warmth. Subsequently this has become a ceremonial costume with certain standardized features. The hood is lined with the official colors of the degree-conferring institution; for the University of Oregon these are yellow and green. The outside trimming of the hood and the color of the tassel signify the subject in which the degree is conferred:

maize/agriculture
white/arts, letters, humanities drab/commerce, accounting, business blue-violet/architecture lilac/dentistry copper/economics light blue/education orange/engineering
brown/fine arts russet/forestry crimson/journalism purple/law
lemon/library science green/medicine pink/music apricot/nursing silver gray/oratory, speech olive green/pharmacy dark blue/philosophy sage green/physical education peacock blue/public administration salmon pink/public health golden yellow/science citron/social work scarlet/theology
gray/veterinary science

At the University of Oregon it is customary for master's degree candidates to wear their hoods in the procession. Doctoral candidates carry their hoods and are hooded during the ceremony. Each bachelor's degree candidate changes the cap tassel from front right to front left as the degree is conferred. Caps are removed during the pledge song and during the commencement address.

University Mace

In medieval times the mace was usually carried into battle by kings, bishops, and other leaders for use as a weapon. Later on it came to be used more for ceremonial occasions. Today it is a symbol of authority.

The mace leading the University of Oregon's academic procession was designed and made by C. Max Nixon, professor emeritus of fine and applied arts, as a gift to the university he had served since 1958. The creative use of copper, bronze, silver, and walnut typify the spirit of the university over the past 124 years.

The head of the mace is a sphere made up of four university seals joined at a common axis. The outer rims of the seals are copper. The university's name and motto, in Latin, are in bronze. The mountain at the center of the sphere is in silver, while the forests and hills are in bronze. Surmounting the linked seals is a replica of Deady Hall, the university's first building, cast in bronze.

At the top of the oiled walnut shaft and within the sphere created by the seals is the university's founding date. At the base of the shaft is a finial ornament in bronze, finished with a stylized pine-cone pattern. Embedded in its tip is the seal of the State of Oregon, also in bronze.

Graduation with Latin Honors

Graduating seniors who have earned at least 90 credits in residence at the University of Oregon and have completed all other university degree requirements shall be awarded graduation with honors: upper 2 percent, summa cum laude; upper 5 percent, magna cum laude; upper 10 percent, cum laude. These distinctions are based on students' percentile rankings for their graduation term. The honors determination for spring 2000 degree candidates is provisional. It is based on academic work completed prior to the graduation term and is not official until final grades have been recorded.

Names of degree recipients and candidates are listed alphabetically by college or school, degree, and term—fall 1999, winter 2000, spring 2000.

For fall 1999 and winter 2000, the degree lists are official. Fall 1999 degrees were conferred December 11, 1999, and winter 2000 degrees were conferred March 18, 2000.

For spring 2000, the students whose names are listed herein were considered to be candidates for the degrees indicated when this program was printed. This is not an official degree list. The appropriate degrees and diplomas will be awarded to those candidates who have successfully completed all requirements by the end of spring term 2000.

Robert Donald Clark Honors College

The garland, the Greco-Roman symbol of victory and honor, has been selected to represent the Clark Honors College, which offers students with exceptional abilities the opportunity to achieve their highest potential. Established in 1960, the college was named in honor of University of Oregon President Emeritus Robert D. Clark, whose vision and drive were instrumental in its creation.

School of Architecture and Allied Arts

A stylized letterform, integrating the three basic design shapes, symbolizes the creativity and utility in the School of Architecture and Allied Arts. Established in 1914, the school provides training in the philosophy and expertise necessary for responding to human needs for shelter and a harmonious relationship with the environment.

College of Education

The lamp of knowledge is an established symbol for the role of teaching and learning in society. It is a fitting insignia for the College of Education, which provides students, professionals, and the public with a wide range of services and training programs in the teaching-learning process. The college was established in 1910.

School of Journalism and Communication

The flash or starburst, with its many rays reaching to infinity, suggests the importance of communication to society. The School of Journalism and Communication fosters this relationship in its professional programs in the areas of advertising, communication studies, electronic media, print media, and public relations. The school was established in 1916.

School of Music

The familiar treble clef and the "dancing" eighth rests represent both the School of Music and the Department of Dance. Established in 1900, the School of Music fosters the development of teaching and performance skills, creativity, scholarship, and the creation of new works and ideas in the fields of music and dance.

Oregon Pledge Song

Fair Oregon, we pledge to thee
Our honor and fidelity,
Both now and in the years to be,
A never failing loyalty.
Fair Oregon, thy name shall be Written high in liberty.
Now, uncovered, swear we every one
Our pledge to Oregon.

John Stark Evans, a music major at the University of Oregon, wrote the Oregon Pledge Song while waiting to be shipped out during World War I. When he returned in 1922, he gave the rights to the pledge song to the university.
