DELINGPOLE: POLAR VORTEX THE NEXT BIG THING IN CLIMATE SCAREMONGERING

Global temperatures are plummeting at a record rate – but if there's one thing even more likely than a white Christmas, it's that the greenies will try to blame it on man-made climate change.

Look at this scary chart. Winter is coming.

To you or me, this might be an indication that climate is going through a perfectly natural cooling phase. But you can bet your bottom dollar that the alarmists will use the latest polar vortex activity to try to prop up their narrative that it is dangerous, unprecedented, and man-made.

We know because here is how the Guardian reported on the polar vortex responsible for a big freeze in the U.S. in 2014:

Such weather patterns, which can feature relatively mild conditions in the Arctic at the same time dangerously cold conditions exist in vast parts of the lower 48, may be tied to the rapid warming and loss of sea ice in the Arctic due, in part, to manmade climate change.

Arctic warming is altering the heat balance between the North Pole and the equator, which is what drives the strong current of upper level winds in the northern hemisphere commonly known as the jet stream. Some studies show that if that balance is altered then some types of extreme weather events become more likely to occur.

This might seem plausible until you realize that back in the 1970s, when the enviro loons were predicting an imminent ice age, they were making similarly doom-laden claims about the significance of the polar vortex. As Steven Goddard has noticed:

10—The Sedalia Democrat, Monday, March 3, 1975

Climate change puzzles scientists

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the last decade, the Arctic ice and snow cap has expanded 12 per cent, and for the first time in this century, ships making for Iceland ports have been impeded by drifting ice.

In England, the average growing season is a week shorter than in 1950, and in the United States, the warm-blooded armadillo is retreating from the Midwest to the South.

In Africa, the Sahara desert is creeping southward and six years of drought in the Sahel region have only recently been interrupted by rain.

In the United States, corn crops fell off last year because of a freakish combination of excess spring rains and summer drought; great floods ruined the Bangladesh harvest; drought ravaged large parts of India.

Many climatologists see these signs as evidence that a significant shift in climate is taking place — a shift that could be the forerunner of an Ice Age polar vortex — the great icy winds that sweep from west to east around the top and bottom of the planet.

Widening of this vortex has been the prime cause of Africa's drought, blocking moisture-bearing equatorial winds from dumping rainfall on the parched soil. The drought which hit the Corn Belt last summer resulted when moist westerly winds from the Pacific were deflected north over Canada and moist winds from the Gulf of Mexico failed to reach the Midwest.

A group of prominent scientists last month finished a two-year study which concludes that changes in the earth's climate are inevitable and that mankind must learn to predict these variations.

"Change of climate, even if sustained for only a few years' time, could seriously disrupt" the way we use our resources, the scientists said in the report, released by the National Academy of Sciences. "We simply

Could it possibly be that our climate moves in cycles — sometimes going through warming phases, sometimes going through cooling phases — and that there's damn all we can do to stop it?

In the 70's they had us scared witless over the coming Ice Age. That didn't pan out so they went with Global Warming. (They even had me convinced as a child, Killer Bees would be swarming every North American city by 1985.) When Global Warming lost its steam, they went with Climate Change so whatever happened, they were covered.

And YET, they wonder why some people are skeptics.

Environmentalism is a religion. Heretics are not welcome.

"Environmentalism is a religion".. Exactly!. Climate change is a core tenet of the faith of Liberalism.. One thing that's absolutely mandatory to be a true believer and practitioner of Liberalism, is that you must blindly accept whatever the narrative of the day is.. And one thing that's for certain, is that that narrative's successful outcome will require the control of human beings.. Most religions have a Heaven.. Liberalism has a Utopia that requires tyranny..

Q.. Want to save the planet?.. A.. Of course, Who doesn't?.

Well then, firstly you have to have faith in our computer models.. You also need to believe in the word of Al Gore, and especially the high school dropout Leo DiCaprio's words.. Leo's pretty special, because he once actually witnessed some snow melt in the Winter while he was pretending in a movie!.. Also, you have to do what we tell you to do when we tell you to do it, or else your kids will die.. And furthermore, if you don't accept verbatim what we tell you, then we'll label you a "denier", a not so thinly veiled reference to Holocoast deniers, because that's how evil we think you are..

Yep. It has all the hallmarks of a religion. An apocalyptic End Time scenario, persecution of blasphemers and the selling of indulgences (carbon credits) among other things.

PS. How was the veal?

As if you have any other choice in Canada to heat your homes, other than gas, oil, etc. As if it's some sort of luxury to heat your house when it's below freezing for months at a time. What, do they expect you to go chop all the trees around you and burn wood to heat and cook?

And how is charging you more for the basics of life going to change the climate? And when is it supposed to cause the climate the change? Any details, or just some vague, hand-waving? How anyone can not see this is all a money-grubbing scam is beyond me.

Canada is a big supporter of Agenda 21. What they are doing up there is the stack em and pack em model of Agenda 21. I hope enough people here in the USA are paying attention to what's going on up there. They have run the price of energy and single family homes so high that only the wealthy few can afford them. They will not allow non citizens to own property up there. We do need to curtail foreign land ownership here. Almost every country in the world does, but we allow it here.

Grumpy Cat-- some would argue that just as many on the right fall for easy lies. At least the lies that leftists believe in are more noble than the right.

What the F are you smoking??? Leftist causes are only "noble" to brainless, easily manipulated no-nothings who do not think for themselves. Anyone who stops to think about history and the consequences of progressive activism can see the folly. But to a progressive, all that is required is good intentions and that you "believe".

That's an interesting, and I would say brave article. It says nothing about normalizing sex with children. If pedophilia is a mental disorder, then it has to be treated as such. You can't punish people for being sick. It appears to me that right now pedophiles fill society's need for an absolute evil with which to compare itself. I'm not a doctor, so I can't say whether it's an illness or not.

^ | v • Share ›

Mr.P → momzna • 4 years ago

Whether it's a sickness or disorder matters not regarding pedophilia. If you hurt innocent children, you need to pay serious consequences.

I totally agree with you that acts of child sex and child marriage must be out of bounds, no matter what anybody believes. However, I'm against punishing people for illnesses or peculiarities of their genetic makeup, which are not their fault, and which medical science recognizes as medical conditions. A person with an active form of TB or Ebola can be forcefully isolated, - that's right, and there are laws about such eventualities. I remember a story about 10 years ago when a guy with an exceptionally nasty case of drug-resistant TB went from the overseas flight practically to jail (surgeons had to cut off his lung to save his life). However, nobody calls such people evil or punishes them.

Technically, homosexuality is a disorder too. Nobody knows how to treat or cure it, it doesn't impede other functions, and homosexuals are quite happy being homosexual. So, why bother? It will be funny if eventually somebody finds a cure. Congenitally deaf people often grow so much used to the sign language that they refuse any offers and even condemn attempts to give them any form of artificial hearing.

Pat Ryan → momzna • 4 years ago

The quite enormous hole in your logic is that if we consider pedophilia to be a crime--which I'd like to go on record as stating that it MUST be--then we need a perpetrator as well as a victim. One can plead temporary insanity for a crime of passion, or a lawyer can plead non compus mentus if the defendant can be shown to be unaware of the wrongness of their actions, but these defenses are useless in this case. Being sexually attracted to children is a disorder, acting on that attraction is a crime.

omg why the greatest amount of stupidity must be always found here??....it says that pedophilia is sickness and not a crime like rape.....DOES NOT SAY IT SHOULDN'T BE SANCTIONED IN HARSHEST WAY POSSIBLE....how dumb you must be.

Religion is toxic to rational thinking. Accepting statements without evidence. No wonder most people in the US believe it is only 6000 years old. Other countries have passed out the US. Even Taiwan has a higher ppp GDP per capita than the US. It was a poor third world country just 2 decades ago.

It takes a liberal to claim that lies can be noble. That's what you get when libs worship at the metaphorical feet of Machiavellian-ism or "the ends justify the means". Sometimes you libs actually get caught admitting to that. Like when a rape hoax is exposed and you libs say "well that's ok because it advances the conversation". Or when you fake up temp data (IPCC) and say the lies are ok because they advance your agenda. Or when you attack and try to destroy the rep of anyone that doesn't sign on to your talking points 100%.

The Noble Lie is a concept originated by Plato as described in the Republic. In religion, a pious fiction is a narrative that is presented as true by the author, but is considered by others to be fictional albeit produced with an altruistic motivation.
