THE 1925 OREGANA

IS DEDICATED BY ITS ADMIRING STAFF
TO

KARL WILLIAM ONTHANK

EXECUTIVE SECRETARY
OF THE UNIVERSITY

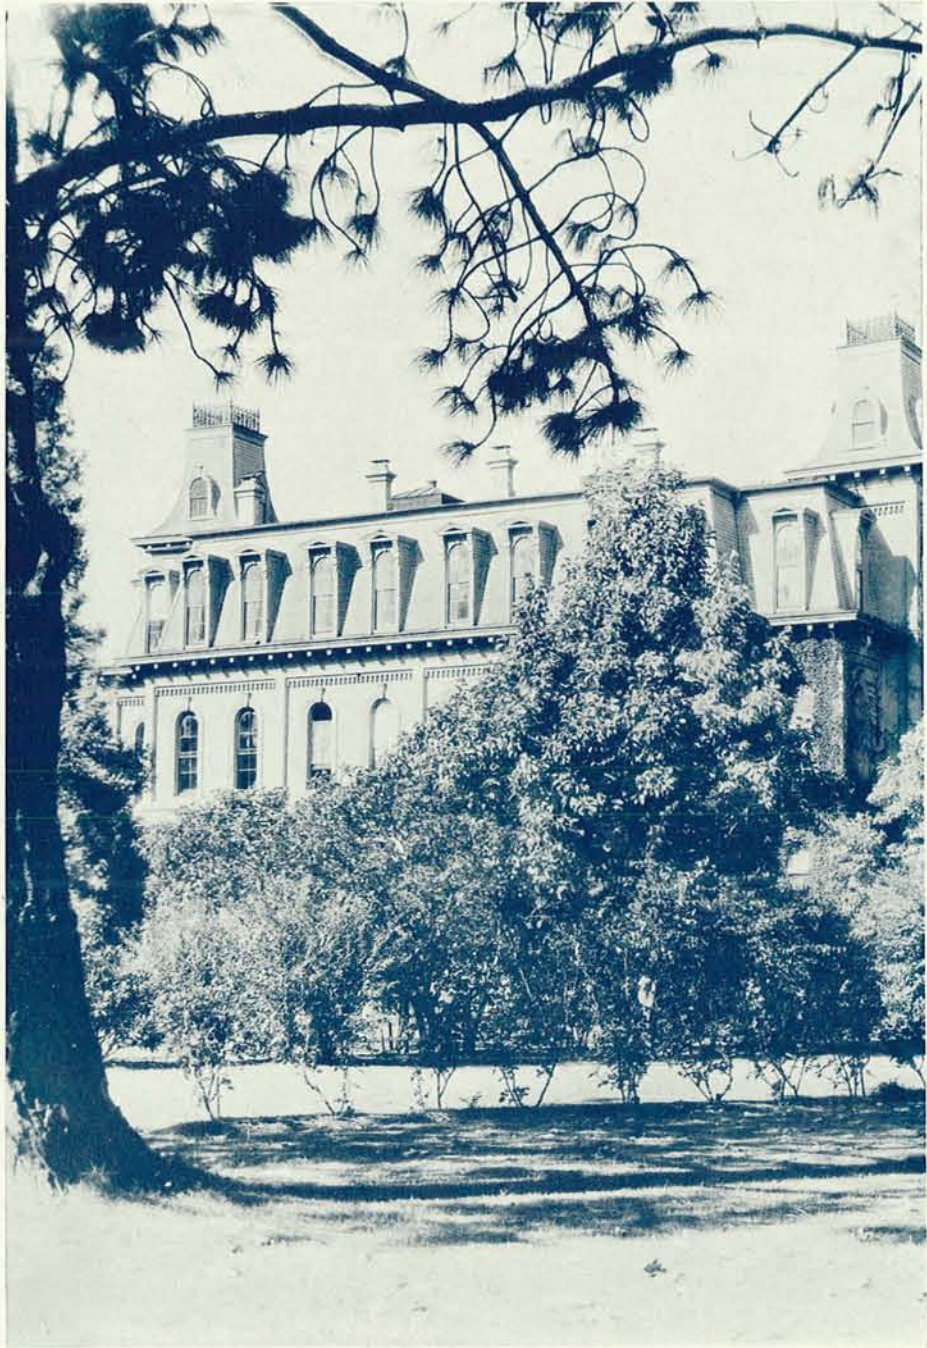

A most competent man, so unselfish and tactful and discreet that none owes grudge to him. So watchful of the University's machinery that in whatever part a creak begins, he is often the first to discern it. A tireless worker knowing not the clock. A friend of students not less than of the faculty, and a patient listener to, and physician of, their troubles. In short, one of those rare executives and personalities whom the University did well to discover some ten years ago.

PRINCE L. CAMPBELL
President of The University

To P. L. C.

*HIS cheery voice and smile, his ready jest
That heartened all so brief a time ago,
Withdrawing, leave our lives but half the zest
They had 'er fortune laid our chieftain low.
What fools were we that scarcely ever guessed
How brave and stern a fight he fought below
The mien so gay and wise and undistressed
That to the world was all he chose to show!*

*Oh, chief, return and you shall find a host
Where but a few once fought at your right hand
And none will lag and none be too engrossed
In petty doubts to spring each to his post
On hearing once again the loved command
Whose months of waiting silence grieve us most.*

College of Literature, Science, and the Arts

This is 1935.

Ten years have passed since you of '25 were seniors, and you of '26 were juniors. You have surely grown more mature in thinking, no matter how much you may have esteemed yourselves in the fargone days of the 1925 Oregana; the eye that looks back to the undergraduate life is still affectionate, but, behold! it is now critical also, peering into the vista of a decade ago.

So, now in 1935, one whom you may recollect as an animadverter upon the kind of lives you lived, desires to address to you these few questions:

Did you learn in high school the fine art of study? When you came to the University did you begin building at once upon the four years just past? Or was it like going through the gateway of a new world, and beginning all over?

In the University did you have time for reflection; for scaling the difficult height that men call General Culture; for leisurely doing? Or did you tumble into the eddy called University Life, to be whirled around endlessly, until Time struck the gong for Commencement?

Did the "system" get the better of you, or you of the "system"?

I ask these questions of you to the end that when you go to high schools, or come to the campus in this year of grace 1935, and hereafter, you may speak warningly to the students of today. For the "system" which holds in bondage the high school and University undergraduate bodies cannot be killed in a day.

The Graduate School

The aims of the Graduate School may be approximately described under four heads.

First, there is the endeavor to have the student both deepen and widen his scholarship. By having him put his energies into a major and a minor field of study, he is diverted from a loose scattering of his interests over things more or less in general, at the same time that the "taking of courses" is transformed into an approach on the whole body of those subjects, and the attempt is made to achieve the beginnings of a real mastership in them.

Second, in place of the habit of obediently "taking" the contents of lectures and text books and more or less faithfully giving them back in quizzes and examinations, the student is challenged and expected to take a critically active and investigative attitude towards knowledge and ideas.

Third, and above all else, the Graduate School wishes to be animated by the idea of research, in the very broadest meaning of that term. It is a place steadily and eagerly devoted to the pushing forward of the boundaries of knowledge, and the training and inspiring of the young men and women who are to continue this culminating portion of a university's service.

Finally, the Graduate School of the University of Oregon endeavors not only to build this active and creative habit of mind above, and as a supplement to, the ordinary college course, but strives, by its presence on the campus and by its example to stimulate it within the undergraduate years themselves.

Romance Languages

Ten full-time teachers are employed in the department of Romance Languages and there is a ten per cent increase in the enrollment of students every year. The demand for well-prepared teachers of French and Spanish exceeds the supply. The educational and practical value of the Romance Languages is very great. French books are read by large numbers in all the cultural centers of the world.

The rapid and amazing development of Latin America offers splendid opportunities for technically trained men, who have a respectable knowledge of the Spanish language, which is acquiring extraordinary importance in all the schools of the United States. Practical courses in conversation, composition and pronunciation may be taken in the upper division. Advanced and Graduate work in the languages and literatures is open to qualified students. There are two classes in commercial Spanish and one course is devoted to Latin America.

Portuguese, spoken in the vast territory of the Republic of Brazil, is becoming more and more indispensable. Students who have had three years of Spanish are given some work in this language. Italian is studied for its literature as well as for the beautiful language.

El Circulo Castellano and Le Foyer Francais are clubs for practical training in Spanish and French.

Department of English

The English department is the largest in the University, having this year a faculty of twenty-two members, and a student roll of two hundred and fifty majors.

It comprises four main divisions of the work: English literature, world literature, written English, and public speaking. These main divisions of the English department have varied fields and duties, the chief of which are:

1. Service courses in the writing of English, in which students are trained in a particular line of writing, legal, business, scientific, historical, or whatnot which is demanded by their choice of a major department.

2. Fine Arts courses, or courses in creative writing, including courses in magazine writing, verse writing, short story writing, and playwriting. These courses are meeting the test of acceptance for publication, or in the case of plays, of acceptance for production on the stage.

3. Courses in extempore speaking, oratory, and debate.

4. Reading courses which aim to make our students men and women of the world of human thought, act, and emotion, by bringing them into contact, through literature, with the most profound and powerful minds of the race, and their reactions to human life and its problems.

School of Architecture and Allied Arts

Development of creative faculties is the aim of the School of Architecture and Allied Arts. Around its cloistered court in the far corner of the campus, across University Street from the new heating plant, is grouped its Departments of Architecture, Fine Arts, and Normal Arts.

The Department of Architecture conducts courses in principles of construction and design, in the technique of pencil, pen and brush essential to accurate and effective presentation, with such courses in history and practice as may supply acquaintance with the best examples of historic architecture, and a proper sense of the applicability of the precedents set therein to the design and purposes of modern buildings.

The Department of Fine Arts has classes in all forms of delineation, including oil and water color painting, pastel, crayon and charcoal drawing, as well as modeling in clay or plastolene, from life, cast, or nature; also, classes in decorative design, with advanced work in mural painting and stained glass.

The Department of Normal Arts furnishes experience in designing and in processes of production of objects of the industrial arts, such as dress design, textile patterns and weaving, tile making and basketry, and the training of teachers for public school instruction in art.

School of Education

The general purpose of the school of education is to organize and correlate all the forces of the University which have for their ultimate aim the growth of the educational efficiency of the state of Oregon.

Many opportunities for specialization are given the progressive teacher by means of the professional training offered in the various departments of education and the academic instruction given in the respective University departments.

The School of Education occupies new and well-equipped quarters on the southwest portion of the campus. A model high school is conducted in a building adjoining, thus furnishing an excellent laboratory for the training of teachers and the working out of new methods in educational practice. The students not only do actual teaching under supervision here, but also have the opportunity of observing some of the best specimens of educational work done in the state.

School of Business Administration

The policies of the School of Business Administration are based on two fundamental ideas: First, that the future business man needs and must have a broad knowledge of general social and business conditions in order properly to meet the responsibilities which he will have to face; second, that he needs to have a certain amount of technical knowledge concerning problems of business management and executive control.

The curriculum of the school is so arranged that the student, during his first two years, carries a minimum of technical work, putting most of his time taking courses in the School of Liberal Arts and elsewhere to build up the proper social and cultural background. The junior and senior years are used for securing needed technical information which, of course, is obtained in the school of Business Administration.

The technical training follows one of two lines. Those students who seem to have qualities which will tend to make them successful as business managers are encouraged to take the professional management group—courses planned to train students to become business executives. Other students whose plans are such that they do not care to take up the purely managerial training may continue their work in the field of general business, selecting those courses which fit their needs, or suit their interests.

Thus there is open to the student two avenues of approach to business life. Either of these must be founded on a broad appreciation of social values, and either must involve a definite amount of specialized, technical business education.

School of Journalism

Publishers and editors look to the leading schools of journalism to train young men and women who are desirous of coming to their chosen profession fully equipped. Oregon publishers and editors have confidence in the University of Oregon School of Journalism, because the school offers one of the most complete courses of journalistic training in the country. Graduates and former students are engaged in newspaper work in the metropolitan and weekly fields, a number of them as publishers, while others are magazine contributors and editors, fiction writers, advertising experts, and publicity men. They have made good not only in this state but in fields of journalistic activity in other parts of the country.

The curriculum of the Oregon school was prepared on the theory that a student must obtain a fundamental understanding of journalistic principles combined with a broad and liberal culture if he is to win the highest success in the practice of his profession.

There has been widespread recognition of the work of the school, which is one of the nine leading institutions of its kind having membership in the American Association of Schools and Departments of Journalism.

The school has a strong faculty personnel, each man a specialist in his line. Every member of the faculty has had experience in his own field, bringing to the work of instruction a knowledge of the practices and the needs of the newspapers and magazines. The school is housed in a three story building, and its equipment is unequalled west of the Great Plains.

The Law School

The Law School is rendering a fourfold service to the state. First, it is seeking to educate men and women for the legal profession in such a manner that they will not only be skilled attorneys, but also constructively-minded citizens. To these ends it stresses the importance of a broad collegiate education as a basis for the study of law, and in the law curriculum includes not only the broader courses in substantive law but also practical course in procedure, the drafting of legal instruments and trial practice. Second, the Law School fosters research in problems of Oregon law with a view to placing the results at the disposal of Oregon lawyers as a basis of law reform. Third, it has established and publishes the Oregon Law Review, a quarterly publication devoted to a discussion of difficult questions in Oregon law and comment on recent decisions of the Oregon Supreme Court. One issue each year is given over to the publication of the proceedings of the Oregon State Bar Association, of which the Review is the official organ. During the past year it has extended its editorial board to include representatives from the student body of the Law School and from the bar. Fourth, the members of the faculty work actively in the Oregon State Bar Association so that they may be cognizant of the problems faced by those in active practice and aid in their solution.

The Law School is a member of the Association of American Law Schools, and is ranked as a class "A" institution by the American Bar Association.

School of Music

To make a really successful school of music three things are necessary.

First, and foremost, I would place the faculty. The finest workshop and the best of material count for little unless there is the master workman. Then there is the element of equipment. Few schools of music in the entire country are so well provided with the various instrumentalities for student development. A beautiful auditorium with a magnificent organ, studios with grand pianos, private practice rooms, a lecture room with radio, a talking machine with a large library of records, appliances for making records of student performances,—what more could be desired?

Lastly there is the element of atmosphere. The music building occupies the most commanding location on the campus. It is free from distracting noises and overlooks the valley and the beautiful Coast Range. In the building there is the most delightful spirit of informality and comradeship. A beautifully appointed lounge and palm room invites study, companionship, and recreation.

While adequate provision is made for the intending professional, it is characteristic of the school that most of its students regard music study as a broadening factor in education. If we had a motto it would be this: "Education through music"—and a pleasant journey.

The School of Physical Education

The School of Physical Education is concerned with all of those activities that are calculated to build up the physical well being of the student. It is our plan not only to present every possible opportunity to develop a balanced recreational program, but it is also a definite policy to make this program such that it will carry over into the post college days.

We believe that education in physical affairs is an important and integral part of the culture to be obtained from any university course, and ranks along with the mental and moral values to be received. The school supplies service courses for all freshmen and sophomores based on a grade system with examinations at the end of each quarter. Recreational expedients have supplanted the older programs of calisthenics. Ample opportunities are provided to engage in athletics, and all are urged to take part in some form if possible.

A proficient health service gives physical examinations to all students, and is ready at all times to help and advise them concerning matters of health.

A teacher's training course of four years leads to an A. B. or B. S. degree. The technical courses are arranged along several lines; for those who plan to teach physical activities along with other subjects; for those who elect to coach major sports in high schools and colleges; and for those who want to qualify as directors of playgrounds, recreational centers, or departments of physical education in universities.

School of Sociology

The purpose of the School of Sociology can best be indicated by identifying the most profound human interest—as sociology is the general social science. Human life with nature is ever more abundant. But it is just this situation of massed population that makes the conditions of getting along with his fellow man even more difficult, and he is not through commensurate progress in his social relations successfully solving these problems.

The relations between industrial classes and among national groups of fellow humans too generally exhibit enmity and strife that every now and then flame up in dreadful mutual slaughter. Almost universally there is hampering friction and destructive competition where loyal cooperation would yield most for all. Here then is the limiting factor of civilization, progress, and human happiness. Here the school of sociology has its job.

The course of the School of Sociology in social origins, the social process and the problem and method of progress comprehend systematic attempts to put over the social heritage of ideas, habits and institutions that make for good-will and the best life. Professional training in constructive leadership is thus secured beside the social insight needed by the social worker.

Extension Division

The Portland Center, established by the regents in 1917, is charged with responsibility for extension service in the city of Portland. An interesting feature in the work of this center is the offering of college classes on week-day evenings. These classes are for persons who cannot regularly attend college. The enrollment in the Portland center has steadily increased since its establishment.

The usual number of hours taken by the Portland students is two, although many carry four. Six is the maximum permitted.

Among the interesting student groups in the Portland Center are those in foreign trade, foreign languages, banking, education, fiction writing, sculpture and life, advertising, accounting, and public speaking. The classes are taught by regular faculty members and by specially prepared lecturers.

The students vary in age from 21 to 70, and some of them hold advanced degrees from other universities. The Portland class work earns regular credit.

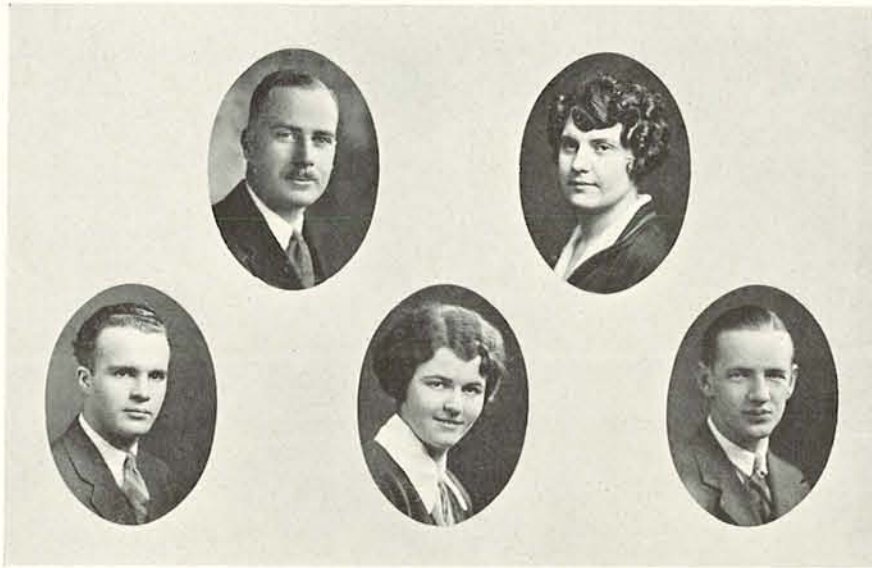

Among the clubs in the Portland Center are the graduate club, the expression club, and the short story club.

Star Gardener

If I could find a growing-charm
To sprinkle on our jasmine vine,
I'd make its star-flowers reach the sky,
Where they could blossom there and shine.

If I could grow so tall that I
Could pluck the stars in bushels bright,
I'd plant them in our pool, for there
They try to blossom every night.

—Philipa Sherman, '26

To Elaine

OW we shall live! We'll drink these April days
Like nectar, with all sorrow hid behind

Your beauty: in your lyric eyes I find
The uplands of our love that dewly blaze
With buttercups in prints where danced the feet

Of Pan. Let's stretch upon the grass, and twine

Faith with our folly, hear a lark repeat
The aching bliss your lips have taught to mine.

Ah, let the sage (with whiskers down to here)

Frown at the airy blossoms of our mirth
And chide the dream of Pan, and stoop to peer

Into the cynic darkness of the earth!
Our souls, beyond his gaze, rise to a star—

Oh, Love, we'll live our lives for what they are!

—Walter Evans Kidd, '26

Summer Mood

WILLOW trees cast a splintered pattern,
Windows on the bank play hide-and-go-seek—

'Neath the sun in warm abandon
Black little cares curl up and sleep.

Yellow birds flit in dusty circles—
Grey shadows waver, dry branches
creak—

Ripples slide past the rocks in silence—
Black little cares curl up and sleep.

Warmth of air and a warmth of water—
A bumblebee's song is quiet and deep—
Summer day and a summer languor—
Black little cares curl up and sleep.

—Merle Oliver, '25

Drift

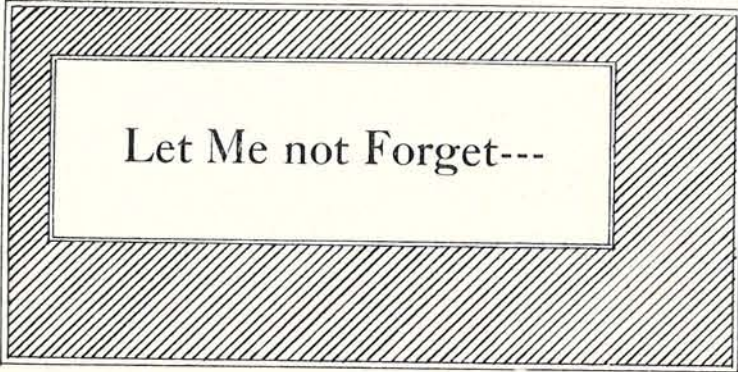

HE clouds lie low
And out of nowhere
Come

The silver raindrops that tap . . .
And slant
Upon
My window.

While I sit here
Thoughts come
Out of nowhere . . . . .
. . . . . Tap . . . and Slant
Across
My mind.
. . . I think of you. . . .

—Eleanor Burtchaell, '27

Let Me not Forget---

THOUGH I may go down
far ways,
Let me not forget
the wind
And the dark kind mountains—
The weary friendliness
Of the scarred earth at rest.

—Eunice Jonsrud, '25

Pagan Prayer

WHEN golden birds of golden beauty soar
To far moon-nests in flight from these grey lands—

I ask the stranger-god for nothing more Than swiftness to catch wing-dust in my hands.

—Margaret Skavlan, '25

SENIORS

Rhodes Scholarship

Clinton N. Howard of Berkeley, senior in the School of Journalism, was selected as the Rhodes scholar from the State of Oregon for the years 1925-1928. He intends to leave the United States the latter part of the summer and spend some time in England in preparation for his stay at Oxford. Howard was formerly from Portland and received early school training in the Portland schools. At Oregon his main interests were in journalism, English, Latin, French and literature. He is also interested in English politics and constitutional history.

For some time Howard was editor of the Sunday Emerald and a feature writer for Lemon Punch. At Oxford he intends to study in the Honour School of Modern History. He will make writing or the teaching of history his life work.

Class of 1925

FROM matriculation to graduation, the policy of the class of 1925 has been constructive and progressive. Loyalty to the interests of the University fostered by a unified class spirit has prevailed, and modification of many campus traditions in order to meet the changing conditions of the University has received our heartiest support.

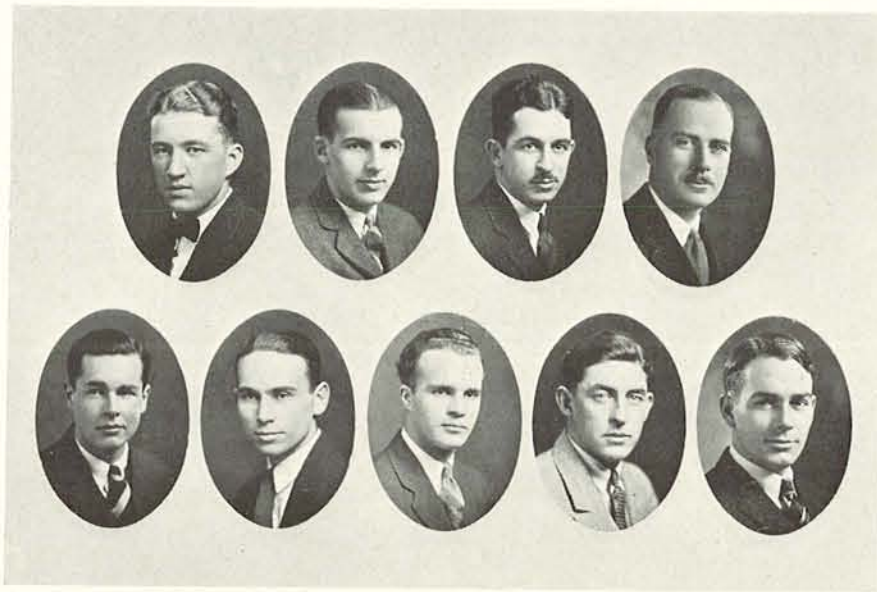

We were the first class to take an active stand against freshman hazing, endeavoring to instill fear of the paddle into the souls of those who wore the green cap by more effective means. It was during our regime as Juniors that the first all-University Junior Week-end was adopted and found successful. We were also Juniors at the time that the Gift Campaign received its initial send-off, and raised more than the quota set aside for us, the largest of any class in the University.

Socially we have not been found lacking. Our Sophomore Informal, flavoring of the Follies Bergere, and our Junior Prom, designed after the manner of a Babylonian temple, were pronounced the best in years. But what outshone them all was our Senior Ball, Le Bal Russe, whereby we established a precedent that we hope will become traditional with other Senior classes.

Our Senior year has not been all seminars and theses, for we have not forgotten how to frolic. In order that you might not always think of us as careworn students let us remind you of our skating party and Senior bust, a bright and happy ending to a successful four years.

The Gerlinger Cup

At the Junior Prom, May 10, 1924, Mary Skinner of Portland, was awarded the Gerlinger Cup, offered by Mrs. George T. Gerlinger, member of the Board of Regents, to the best all-around woman in the Junior Class. Miss Skinner, who is the seventh winner of the cup, was judged on "soundness in body and mind, modesty, dignity, personal integrity, high character and scholarship". Her activities have had a wide scope. Miss Skinner is Senior Woman on the Executive Council, was secretary of the 1923 Homecoming, headed the Women's Flying Squadron in the Student Union Drive last Spring, was a member of the Y. W. C. A. cabinet in 1923 and served two years in the Pan-Hellenic Association as Secretary and Treasurer. She was chairman of Mother's Day in 1924 and has worked on many other class and campus committees. Miss Skinner is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma, Kwama and Thespians.

The Koyl Cup

Donald L. Woodward was awarded the Koyl cup last Spring as the most representative man in the Junior Class. Woodward is the eleventh man to receive the cup, presented by Charles W. Koyl, of the class of 1911. The winner was unanimously elected Editor of the Oregon Daily Emerald for the year 1924-25 and was president of the class in his Junior year. He was a member of the Student Council in his Sophomore year and of the Executive Council during this past year. Woodward was associate editor of the Oregana in his Sophomore year and managing editor of the Emerald before his editorship. He is a member of Theta Chi, Sigma Delta Chi and Friars.

Class of 1926

A SPIRIT of enthusiastic cooperation, of energetic leadership in college activities, and of deep-rooted loyalty to the University has marked the Class of '26.

Our presence on the campus was first noticed back in the Fall of 1922, when we amused everyone with political fireworks until Eugene Richmond rescued that ignominious post and "carried on" in a very efficient manner. The first Homecoming bonfire to be built under restrictions helped to celebrate a victorious game. The first sweaters to be awarded to the freshman football men bore the proud letters of 1926. A glorious Frosh Glee was enjoyed by an approving campus. The Sophomore Informal and a Masquerade dance were gay affairs of our second year. In the spring, while other classes were walking or riding to their respective parties, a train filled with "spring delirious" sophomores puffed to Coburg bridge, the scene of a gay picnic.

As a surprise to the Juniors came the announcement that the highest average grades for the Fall term were made by Junior men and women. That all was not study is proved by a glance at the events of the class calendar: A cord dance, an old-fashioned Grange Hall party (including the traditional basket lunch) and Junior Shine Day, a colorful as well as profitable proceeding. Extensive and elaborate plans for Junior Week-end give promise of an event that the campus will be glad to look back upon.

It will not be long before the pleasure of becoming Seniors will be marred by regret that our four years of pleasant university life are over.

DeLORIS PEARSON, Sec'y.

THE class of 1927 has striven in the past two years to become a bigger, better, and more progressive class. It has attempted to show loyalty to the University through unified effort and organization.

During the years 1923-24 the Frosh Parade and the Underclass Mix of which our classmen were participants although not promoters showed good sportsmanship and willingness. The bonfire constructed by our class was the first evidence to the University of our possibilities. The Frosh Glee was successful from the standpoint of decorations, enjoyment and features.

In our sophomore year, the class has attempted and succeeded in becoming more of a unit of the University. We have held that it is necessary to build up by three years of effort in order to become the best senior class in history.

The activities in our Sophomore year have surpassed our frosh activities. The Frosh parade demonstrated our ability to hand down campus traditions. The hard times class party accomplished its purpose of getting us acquainted. Our sophomore Informal although seriously handicapped was an exhibition of our co-operation, talent and ability and was one of the most pleasant of the year's social events.

EXECUTIVE COUNCIL

Vice-President .....	MAXINE EDMUNDS
Secretary .....	DONNA FLEMING
Treasurer .....	BURNS MCGOWAN
Other Members .....	ROBERT BENJAMIN, RAPLES EPPING

ON October 2, 1924, the class of '24 launched and set sail. Although we were forced to organize without a President the Executive Committee, composed of the Vice President, Secretary and Treasurer, and two additional members elected by the class, with the aid of Dean Straub, has handled things quite efficiently and we can say that we are the largest freshman class that ever entered the University.

Although we lost the Underclass Mix the class showed its usual amount of pep and fight. The dances have kept stride with those of the past and the Frosh Glee with its celestial atmosphere was given winter term.

Homecoming was—well, who will ever forget that Homecoming? The success was due in some degree to the boys who built the Frosh bonfire. The weather conditions were decidedly unfavorable, but what was mud and rain to us when we had a bonfire to build?

Here's to three more years as happy as this one.

SPORTS

Virgil D. Earl

Athletics at Oregon are governed by just one thing—Oregon Spirit. It is only by a superior brand of “fight” that Oregon is able to hold her own with other coast institutions. With a small student body, situated in a small city; with a new gymnasium and more equipment real needs, the Oregon teams have been more than equal to the competition they have met.

Oregon athletics are on a high plane, with every student in school vitally interested. This is what makes the spirit that wins, the famous Oregon Spirit. The student body is a unit in its support, fighting every game just as hard as do the members of the teams. The aim of the members of the athletic department is that of the students—to fight hard for a Greater Oregon.

VIRGIL D. EARL,
Director of Athletics.

Athletics at Oregon

DURING the past year or so athletics have had a rather hectic time at Oregon. Coaches have been hired and others resigned. Funds have not been too plentiful. A new gym and a new basketball pavilion are crying needs.

Yet in spite of all this everything has gone along smoothly. The sports business has been conducted in such a way as to bring no criticism from the students and Oregon supporters. Under the direction of Virgil Earl, director of athletics, every man in the department has labored long and hard to keep things running smoothly and efficiently.

The outlook has not always been as bright as it is now. It has taken hard work to bring the prevailing feeling of satisfaction about. Oregon looks forward next year to a new basketball pavilion, an improved football field, with perhaps additional equipment.

The outlook for winning teams is the brightest in years. The new football coach will have a team composed almost entirely of veterans to put on the field; Billy Reinhart, with the exception of one man, will have the same team that came within one point of winning the Northern Division honors; track is getting better every year under the coaching of Bill Hayward; and baseball and several minor sports are coming more and more to the fore.

Oregon is not a rich school, but it turns out teams that know, first of all, how to fight and fight hard. That is the reason for its successes, past, present and future.

JOE MADDOCK,
Head Football Coach

COACH JOE MADDOCK came to Oregon last spring, put his men through a vigorous period of training, instilled into them the fundamentals of the game, and then last fall he surprised the conference by the remarkable showing his team made. He showed himself to be an outstanding coach, a man who knows football and knows how to coach it.

BART SPELLMAN,
Line Coach

FOR five years Bart Spellman coached the Oregon line—coached it efficiently and well. Bart is an Oregon man, full of Oregon fight. He is responsible for Oregon's great defensive line.

RICHARD SHORE SMITH, Varsity Coach 1925

The new Oregon football coach is a real Oregon man. He played on the varsity in 1898, '99, 1900 and 1901. From here he went to Columbia, was elected captain of one of the greatest teams ever seen in the United States, and won a place on Walter Camp's all-American eleven. Smith has the support and confidence of every student and alumnus of the University of Oregon.

The double-shirted man is Baz Williams, line coach of the varsity. He will be Coach Smith's right hand man this coming season. Billy Reinhart, who in addition to coaching basketball and baseball, helps with the varsity line.

W. L. HAYWARD, Track Coach and Trainer

Bill Hayward is without a peer in Pacific Coast athletic circles. Every year he puts from 100 to 150 athletes through all the events on a track and field schedule, coaching and training them single-handed. He turns out a cross country team in the fall and then on top of all that he is the capable trainer of the football squad. Last fall the Oregon gridsters fought three games without a single substitute and in other big contests replacements were rare.

Bill Hayward has seen Oregon grow from a struggling school of 150 to a substantial institution of 3000 students and he has grown with it. Although he handles ten times the men he used to, every athlete gets the same individual attention, for Bill is on the job every day.

W. J. REINHART, Varsity Basketball and Baseball Coach

Billy Reinhart really isn't much older than his basketball and baseball players, but already he is one of the most capable coaches in these sports on the Pacific Coast. He is an Oregon man. He learned to play here, and he has learned to coach here. His teams have been among the outstanding ones of the Pacific Coast and Northwest conferences.

RUDOLPH FAHL,
*Tennis and Swimming
Coach*

Rudolph Fahl coaches both swimming and tennis, two leading minor sports. Under his direction both have thrived and interest has grown until now there is a call to make them both, especially tennis, major sports.

EARL WIDMER
Wrestling Coach

Earl Widmer, wrestling coach, has turned out a team of real varsity ability this year. He knows a multitude of holds, breaks and tricks of the mat game, and he has been successful in passing his knowledge on to his men.

FOOTBALL

Varsity Football

A new coach and a new football system greeted the returning Oregon Gridsters last fall. The prospects were not overbright at the first of the season, but Oregon rode through to a whirlwind finish, losing but two games, one to Stanford and the other to Idaho. In the Pacific Coast conference the varsity exactly broke even, defeating Washington and O. A. C., losing to Stanford and Idaho, and tying W. S. C. Oregon placed sixth, rating higher than O. A. C., W. S. C. and Montana.

With four games won, two lost and one tied, the Lemon Yellow placed fourth in the Northwest conference. Idaho and Gonzaga, with no defeats, tied for first, while Washington rated second.

OREGON'S first big game fought at Stanford brought the varsity into the Coast Conference limelight with a bang. Doped to go down to defeat by a 40-point margin the Webfoot eleven fought so bitterly that not only did they hold the Cardinals to 28 points, but scored 13 as well. Louie Anderson's brilliant 85 yard run was the outstanding play of the game. The varsity's other touchdown came as the result of a pass, Anderson to Mautz, Mimnaugh taking the ball over soon after.

OREGON 7, WASHINGTON 3

Huskies Working Desperately for Score

IN one of the classics of the grid season Oregon defeated the University of Washington eleven seven to three. The victory was earned in every way, for the varsity hurried the Huskies until a blocked kick from behind the invader's goal was grabbed by Vitus for the winning score. The Oregon line thereafter held every time Washington threatened. The playing of Jones, fullback, was one of the outstanding features of the game. The entire Oregon team fought hard, and played like a single unit. The victory definitely placed the varsity on a par with other Coast teams.

THE Oregon stonewall defense drove the Idaho eleven to forward passes in the Oregon-Idaho fracas at Moscow. Enough of Stivers' hurls through the air were pulled down to make a 13 to 0 score. At that the varsity missed winning the game by just a yard. Had the Oregon eleven succeeded in pushing the ball over then reverted to straight defensive football, it is probable that the game would have ended with the touchdown the only score.

THE Oregon-W. S. C. game in Portland was one of the hardest fought contests ever staged on Multnomah field. Each team succeeded in pushing the ball across just once, and then the game settled down to an even bitter fight. The Oregon offense was more in evidence in this game than ever before, while the defense was as stiff as ever. Terjesen was an outstanding player and the entire team fought hard for the whole game.

THE victory over the Oregon Agricultural College brought the conference season to a glorious close. The varsity played football every minute and when the chance to score came every man was ready.

The touchdown was the most spectacular play of the year. Mautz tall end, suddenly rose up away over at one side of the field, caught Anderson's far hurled pass and dashed across the goal line before the dazed Aggies could realize what was happening. There the game held until the final gun. It was a fitting close to a highly successful grid season.

OREGON 40, WHITMAN 6

Varsity Tears Through Whitman

THE varsity began to show real football form in the game with Whitman early in the season. This ended in a 40 to 6 score. The Lemon Yellow scored easily in every quarter.

Oregon played Willamette a nothing to nothing tie before school and football had really started. The game served as a reminder that the varsity had plenty of work to do before it would round into season form. It was played on a slow field and was not spectacular.

The scrappy little Pacific team came to Eugene determined to beat Oregon, but by this time the varsity had hit its stride and the plucky Badgers went down to a 20 to 0 defeat.

Oregon ended the season with a game with Multnomah club in Portland. The final score was six to nothing with the varsity the loser.

Next Year's Prospects

SPRING practice called in February by Coach Smith, shows that Oregon will have one of the most formidable teams in its history next fall. All of this year's lettermen, except Captain Reed, will return, and several good men are to be found in the last year utility string, and in the freshmen squad.

Oregon has a hard schedule, but a good one. It will take a lot of men, for games are close together, trips are long, and the competition will be keen. The squad will be in top form by the start of school, however, and should go through the season in fine shape.

The lettermen who will report are Captain-elect Robert Mautz, end; Wilson, Johnson and Sinclair, centers; Shields and Bailey, guards; Bliss and Smith, ends; Kerns and Gooding, tackles; Louie Anderson, quarter; Terjesen, Vitus, Mimnaugh, halfbacks; and Jones, fullback.

Freshman Football

TWO victories and the same number of defeats is the record of the 1924 freshman football team. Several promising varsity candidates were much in evidence in the freshman games. These men should greatly strengthen the chances of the Oregon eleven this year.

In the opening game of the season, the first year men defeated the Columbia eleven by a 7-6 score. Although the contest was run off in a loose fashion, the frosh plainly showed their superiority over the Portland team.

Mt. Angel was the next team to fall before the attack of the Oregon aggregation. The frosh were easily victorious by a 19 to 7 score.

The Rooks barely nosed the frosh out of a victory by the narrow margin of one goal-point kick. The score ended favoring the Rooks, 13 to 12.

After a train trip to Seattle, the freshman eleven failed to hold the Washington freshmen, losing by a score of 7 to 0.

The Frosh Put One Over

The freshmen players were: Backfield—Wetzel, captain; Hodgen, Mokolofsky, Turner, Clark, Benke, Motschenbacher, Langworthy. Line-men—Kreiss, Hedges, Harden, Sautter, Riggs, Keeney, Anderson, Dixon, Mangun, Woodcock, Hughes and Call.

Oregon Yell Staff

THE noble old Oregon tradition—that each year must see a greater display of Oregon spirit than the last—was gloriously upheld this year. Under the direction of Fred Martin, Yell King, and his assistants, George Schaeffers and Jack Seabrook, rallies were staged which out-noised and out-shone anything ever before attempted.

The spirit-fest reached a grand climax homecoming, the night before the Oregon-Washington game. A monstrous noise parade, replete with everything from fireworks to steam calliopes, started things, and the exhibition kept up until well into the next night, in celebration of Oregon's victory.

Freddy and his crew were in evidence for every game, and their well-timed motions were a vital factor in Oregon's successful athletic seasons.

BASKETBALL

Varsity Basketball

"IF the boys win half their games, and trim O. A. C. once, I'll be satisfied," said Billy Reinhart, basketball coach, at the beginning of the season. "Most of them will be back next year, and the year after, and by that time they ought to trim anything in the conference."

But even Billy did not expect that the Oregon varsity, with but a sprinkling of experienced men, would come out at the end of the season tied for first honors in the Northwest with O. A. C. But that's what happened, and it wasn't "luck" by any means. Every game was earned, and earned by good basketball playing.

For the remarkable showing that the varsity made full credit must be given to the coach. Billy has several good basketball players, many of them new to the conference. But he had every man playing like a veteran before the season was half over. His team worked together and with concentrated fight that left many opponents gasping. The men did this because they were in accord with their coach and his ideas, because they were fired with the coach's spirit of fight and win.

The Oregon trip north, which netted the varsity victories over W. S. C., Idaho, and Washington, made new history in conference basketball circles. In the play-off games with O. A. C. Oregon lost the last by just one point, 26 to 27, and at no time was the Aggie playing superior.

Next Season's Outlook

THE basketball outlook for next year is bright. The team that tied for Northern division honors will come back almost intact, the only man lost being Russel Gowans, forward. Hobson will return for his third year, as will Gillenwaters. Jost has another year to play, while Westergren and Okerberg, both all-star players this season, have two more years to play. Gunther has played his first year, while the rest of the squad is composed of sophomores.

Gowans has for three years played a brilliant game at forward, and he will be missed next year. Several likely candidates are ready to try out for his place, however. Hobson, although handicapped by a bad vaccination this season, was an outstanding forward, and next year should see him at his best. Jost, the biggest man on the squad, has been getting faster and faster, and now is a valuable guard. Gillenwaters, one of the hardest scrappers in the conference, is expected to be in good playing form for his last season.

Westergren, guard, and Okerberg, center, were playing their first conference seasons, yet both rated high enough to place on all coast fives. Okerberg was high point man of the conference, while Westergren rated among the upper half dozen. Both will be better than ever next year. Gunther, the other letterman this year, is just coming into his basketball power.

Chiles, Reinhart, Stoddard, Llewellyn, Hughes, and Jordan are other men on the varsity squad who will be ready if needed, while the freshmen will contribute their quota.

Freshmen Basketball

THE Freshman basketeers went through a glorious season, which ended with six victories and but two defeats. The two-game series with the Rooks was divided, the Aggies taking the first contest over here by a 53 to 35 score, and the Frosh taking revenge at Corvallis with a 34 to 28 victory.

The season opened with a win over Gresham, 26 to 11. The next game was dropped to Lincoln High School, 28 to 26. On their southern trip the Freshmen trimmed Medford twice, 36 to 20 and 21 to 19. They then beat Medford here 20 to 14, and by the time they played Washington High School of Portland they were in fine working shape, winning this tilt 34 to 17.

The first year men, under the coaching of Dave Evans, developed rapidly as the hoop season went on, and reached a high degree of efficiency. They had the same luck as the varsity with the Aggies, for they dropped the game here, and won nicely at Corvallis. The contest here was a hectic one, with neither side exhibiting good ball. while the game at O. A. C. was fast and well played, with the Frosh holding the advantage at all times.

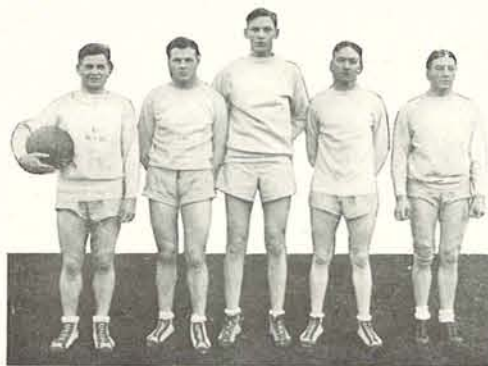

Freshmen Basketball Squad

A large number of recruits turned out at Coach Evans' call, and from them he selected a good sized squad for the seasons' work. The men were put through stiff practices, and given experience whenever possible.

Although only one place on the varsity will be open next year, all of this year's Frosh will be there fighting to displace the regulars. Many of the Yearlings will make the squad, and several of them are due to earn letters before their hoop careers are ended.

The Frosh have used the varsity styles of play at all times, and so they will graduate to the Reinhart division with the rudiments learned. Evans has proven capable as a first year coach, and has given several men good starts in basketball.

Doughnut basketball was revived this year, with marked success. A dozen teams were entered in the competition and every game was interesting and well played. The Kappa Sigma team emerged victor at the end of the season.

TRACK

Varsity Track

THE Oregon track team climaxed its 1924 season with an unheralded victory in the Coast Conference meet held here on May 30 and 31. Oregon, with 37 points, barely nosed out Washington with 36. Stanford, O. A. C., Idaho, Washington State, and Montana followed in the order named. This was the peak of the season for Oregon, as the webfooters failed to win any of the prior meets although all of them were closely contested.

The Oregon tracksters opened the season by taking a second place in the mile, and a third in the two-mile relay races held at Seattle on May 3. In a dual meet held with Washington here May 10, Oregon lost 57 1-3 to 73 1-3, although the Webfooters, mainly through the efforts of Captain Spearow, Lucus and Cleaver, took seven out of the fifteen first places. O. A. C. won the dual meet at Corvallis on May 17 by a score of 83 to 48. A weakness in the distances and weight events told in the Oregon score. The closest dual meet of the season was lost to Washington State here May 27, by only one point, 65 to 66. All of this was lost sight of when the Oregon colors were carried to victory in the big meet of the year—the coast conference meet.

Bill Hayward, Coach

The men winning letters during the season were Captain Spearow, in the polevault and jumps; Captain-elect Rosenberg, in the javelin and field events; Kelsey in the hurdles and jumps; Lucus in the sprints; Risley in the 440; Kinney in the 440; Cleaver in the hurdles; Eby in the high jump; Carruthers and Ager in the mile relay. Other men who represented Oregon on the cinders were McCune a letterman in the 880, Tetz in the mile, Keating in the two-mile, Rosebraugh a letterman in the 440, Hermance in the 440, Mauney and Gehrke in the half-mile, and McAulliffe in the weights.

Freshmen Track

Freshmen Track Squad

The Freshman track squad showed considerable strength last Spring especially in the sprints, short distances and jumps. The frosh opened the season against the O. A. C. Rooks at Corvallis on May 3 in a relay carnival. The frosh won the quarter and half-mile relay races while the Rooks took the mile, two mile and three mile relays. Next the freshmen met the Portland high schools in Portland in two meets on May 9 and 10. The Oregon team won both meets by small margin. The big meet of the year was against the Rooks here on May 23, and the frosh bested their rivals in a very closely contested afternoon 67 to 55.

Season Summary

DESPITE the fact that the Oregon baseball team was in the hands of a new coach and the home games had to be played on the rough Kincaid field—the Lemon Yellow diamond artists went through a successful season.

Billy Reinhart who has made an impressive record as a hoop coach, and assistant grid mentor, proved further his coaching versatility by turning out a team that made a very creditable showing.

The coaching staff was handicapped to some extent by the lack of consistent twirlers. But as the season progressed, Reinhart developed a pitching staff that proved to be the nemesis of several baseball teams contending for the championship.

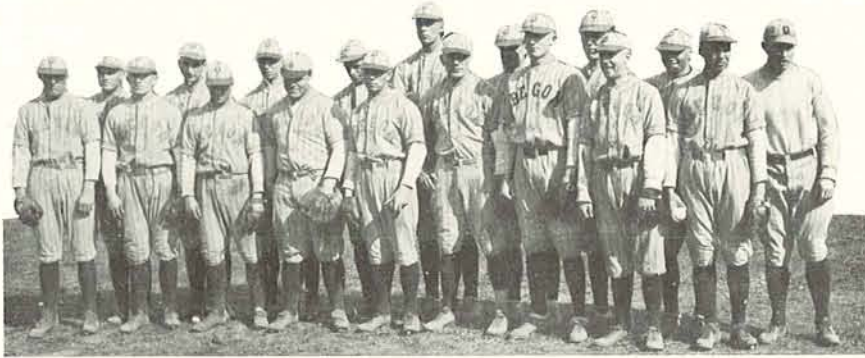

The season consisted of four games with each school in the northwest conference. This included contests with Whitman, Washington, O. A. C., Idaho, W. S. C. and a separate tilt with the champion team from Japan, the Meiji University nine.

The varsity participated in 18 conference games. Oregon won six, lost eleven and tied one contest. One of the outstanding feats of the Lemon Yellow nine, was the winning of three out of four contests from the Washington State team, who won the northwest championship.

The summary following includes the scores of all contests and also the summary of the first game played by Oregon between each northwest conference nine.

Freshmen Baseball Team

Freshman Baseball

Coach Foster

A ROUGH field erected on the military drill field and lack of an effective pitching staff somewhat slowed the progress of the freshman baseball team last spring. Two victories and four defeats is the record made by the Yearlings.

The season opened with a contest staged between the first year men and Washington High School of Portland. The freshmen had little difficulty in holding the invaders, winning by a 15 to 10 score.

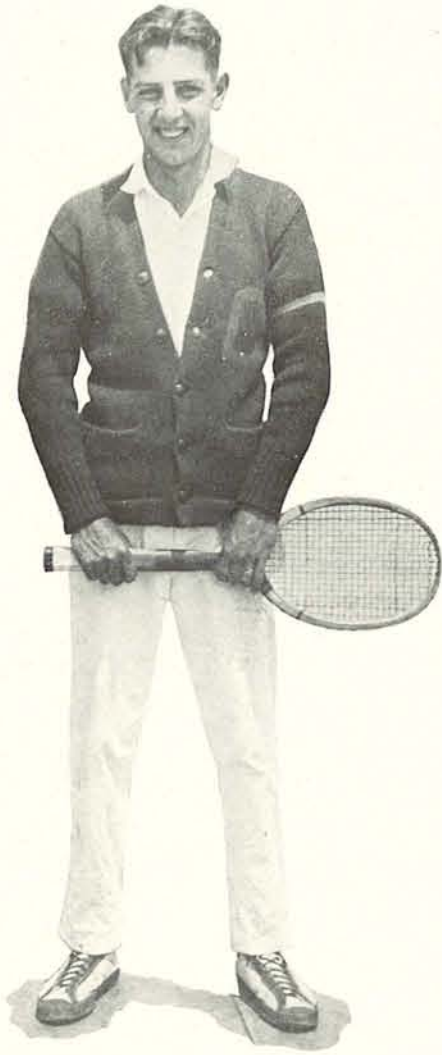

Loose playing caused the downfall of the green-cappers in their second game, played with Salem High School. The Salem nine won, 12 to 10.

In the big series of the year for the freshmen, with the Rooks, the first-year men lost three and won one contest. Five home-runs featured the first game between these two nines. The rooks, however, out-slugged the frosh and won 12 to 10.

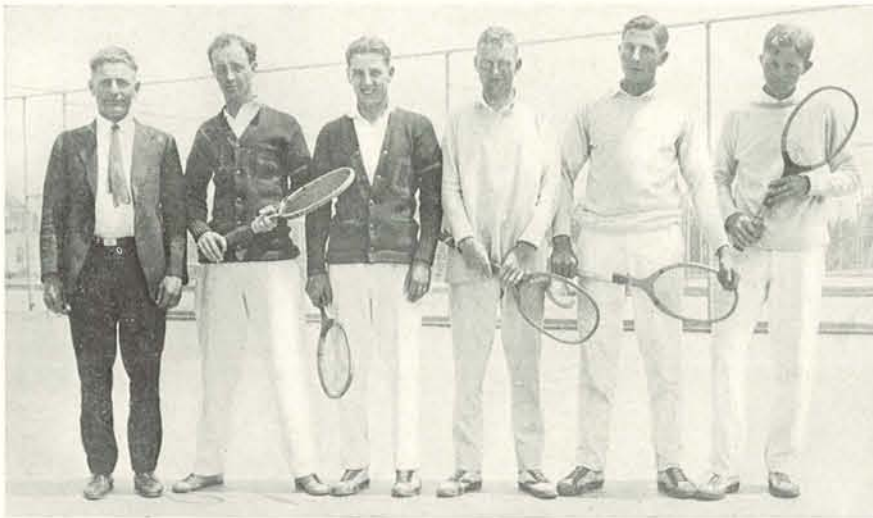

The freshmen continued their losing streak by dropping the second and third games with the rooks. However, in the final tilt of the year with the Corvallis nine, the freshmen struck their stride and pounded out a 20 to 9 victory.

The freshmen team was under the mentorship of Hank Foster, who succeeded in grooming several very promising candidates for this year's varsity.

The freshmen players are as follows: Adolph, first; Dallas and Wrightman, second; West, short; Jones, third; D. Adolph, Lee, Dutton, Schmeer, Vitus and West, pitchers; Mimnaugh and Royal, catchers; Brooks, Johnson and Reinhart, fielders.

MINOR SPORTS

Varsity Tennis Team
Rudolph Fahl, Coach, Ted Rice, Harry Meyers, Bill McBride, Gerald Crary, Eugene Slattery

Varsity Tennis

THE varsity tennis squad started the season with a meet with Willamette, which due to lack of practice, they lost. The first real test of the season came when the net men journeyed to Corvallis. Here they won a majority of the singles matches, but failed to count in the doubles. The Aggies won 4 to 3.

Rudolph Fahl,
Coach

In this meet Myers, Rice and McBride all won their matches which gave them letters. Crary and Slattery lost by slight margins, and both double teams bowed to the O. A. C. raquet pairs.

In the second meet with the Aggies, the Oregon men likewise went down to defeat. Eckern, Johnson, Simington, and Jones defeated Rice, Meyer, Crary and Slattery, while Bill McBride won his match for Oregon. Meyer and Crary won their doubles match, also. The meet ended five to two for the Aggies.

The summary follows:

McBride (O) beat Taylor, 6-2, 6-2. Eckern (O. A. C.) beat Rice, 6-1, 6-4. Johnson (O. A. C.) beat Meyer, 7-5, 6-3. Simington (O. A. C.) beat Crary, 6-2, 7-5. Jones (O. A. C.) beat Slattery, 3-6, 6-3, 6-3. The doubles matches were as follows: Meyer and Crary (O) beat Eckern and Taylor, 6-3, 12-10. Johnson and Simington (O. A. C.) beat McBride and Rice, 6-2, 0-6.

In the Pacific Coast tournament the varsity came off third, being bested by the University of Washington and O. A. C. Scott and Hesketh were two clever men for Washington, who accounted for most of the victories.

Tennis at Oregon is fast gaining in popularity, and a demand is being made that it be rated as a major sport. It was ably coached by Rudolph Fahl.

Freshman Tennis

IN the first Frosh meet with the Rooks they came off victorious, taking the day with a score of 4 to 1. In the second meet Westergren of basketball fame won his match, as did McIntosh, while the Rooks won the other singles match and the doubles. The result was a two-all tie.

The first year men showed promise of valuable material for this year's varsity. Several members of the squad are expected to enter the conference matches this spring. They were coached by Rudolph Fahl also.

The results of the frosh-rook tourney are as follows:

Westergren (O) beat Blain, 6-3, 6-2. McIntosh (O) beat Johnson, 6-2, 6-1. Atkinson (O. A. C.) beat Adams, 8-6, 3-6, 9-7. Atkinson and Blain (O. A. C.) beat Adams and Westergren, 6-2, 6-4.

Varsity Wrestling

ALTHOUGH the wrestling squad did not win the conference title this year, the outcome was successful in every way, and it definitely established wrestling as one of the leading Oregon sports. The varsity won one match, against Idaho, and lost two, O. A. C. and W. S. C. gaining victories.

Oregon tied for third place in the conference, with O. A. C. leading, and W. S. C. second. Ford, 125-pounder; Wingard, 135 pounds; Davis, 135 pounds; Leavitt, 158 pounds; and Cartwright, 175 pounds, won their letters by scoring a victory in a conference meet. This is Ford's second letter in this sport.

Wingard, who participated in all three meets of the season, was high point man with a total of 40. He lost but one fall and a decision during the entire season. Ford, although he wrestled in but two meets, scored a total of 23 points. Nixon, O. A. C., made the only score against him.

The prospects for next year are good. Only one letterman, Cartwright, will be lost through graduation, and Schull, 175-pounder from the Frosh team, will ably fill his place. Other freshmen coming up include Jarrett, 125 pounds; Betzer, 135; Oxford, 145; Ankeny, 158. Pete Laurs, a varsity candidate this year who was forced to stay out on account of a sprained shoulder, may be back next season.

The wrestling meets held here netted the following results:

OREGON 26, IDAHO 6

128-pound class—Ford, Oregon, defeated Bitner, Idaho, decision.

138-pound class—Wingard, Oregon, defeated Powers, Idaho, by a decision and a fall.

148-pound class—Davis, Oregon, won from Ross, Idaho, on forfeiture.

151-pound class—Edelblute, Idaho, won from Leavitt, Oregon, two decisions.

178-pound class—Cartwright, Oregon, won from Bliss, Idaho, two decisions.

OREGON 35, W. S. C. 45

125-pound class—Donald Hendrie, W. S. C., defeated C. A. Sumption, Oregon, one decision and a fall.

158-pound class—F. H. Bryson, O. A. C., defeated H. L. Leavitt, two falls out of three.

Freshmen Wrestling

THE frosh grapplers opened the season against the Corvallis High School squad at this city in February. The High School boys proved too slippery for them, however, and the Oregon first year men lost the meet, 40 to 22. Kirkham, in the 121 class, Jarrett, in the 125 class, Betzer in the 135; Oxford in the 145; and Potter in the 145, represented the Frosh in the Corvallis tussle.

The second meet was with the O. A. C. Rooks, and although the freshmen lost 68 to 14, they staged several good bouts, and Ellis Schull, 175-pound class, succeeded in winning his match. Jarrett, Betzer, Oxford, Potter and Schull worked for the Frosh in this meet.

The first year string, coached by Earl Widmer, varsity coach, is expected to contribute some valuable material to the varsity squad next season.

Varsity Swimming

SWIMMING at Oregon took a big jump this year, and a large number of men turned out. The varsity tied the Multnomah club of Portland, 34 to 34 the first meet, and lost the second to the clubmen, 42 to 25. In the meet with O. A. C. held February 28, the Aggies barely nosed out the Web-feet by a 34 to 32 score.

In the state meet held at Corvallis March 7, the Oregon watermen finished third with 17 points. O. A. C. took the meet with 36, and Multnomah came second with 28.

Swimming is coming more and more to the front, and next year Coach Fahl expects to have a team that will hold its own against any bunch of swimmers in the Northwest.

The summaries of the O. A. C. meet:

40-Yard Dash—Boyle, Aggies, first; Shelton, Aggies, second; Stone, Oregon, third. Time 21 1-5 seconds.

100-Yard Back Stroke—Erickson, Oregon, first; Gardner, Oregon, second; Newerf, Aggies, third. Time, 1 minute, 16 3-5 seconds.

Diving — Burroughs, Aggies, first; McCabe, Oregon, second; Leblanc, Aggies, third.

100-Yard Dash—Lombard, Oregon, first; Foyle, Aggies, second; Courcier, Aggies, third. Time, 1 minute, 21-5 seconds.

100-Yard Back Stroke—Savory, Aggies, first; Sinclair, Oregon, second; Flood, Aggies, third. Time, 1 minute 24 seconds.

Plunge for Distance—Mason, Oregon, Smith, Aggies, tied for first; Samuels, Oregon, third. Distance, 60 feet.

220-Yard Dash — Lombard, Oregon, first; Leblanc, Aggies, second; Boyden, Oregon, third. Time, 2 minutes, 54 seconds.

160-Yard Relay — Oregon (Stone, Erickson, McCabe and Lombard), first. Time, 1 minute, 28 3-5 seconds.

Freshmen Swimming

THE Aggie Rooks defeated the Freshmen in their only swimming meet of the year, 40 to 18, but some good material for the varsity next year was uncovered in the fracas. Disqualifications for various reasons considerably weakened the Frosh water squad, but the men kept out will be eligible for the varsity next year.

The summary of the Frosh-Rook meet follows:

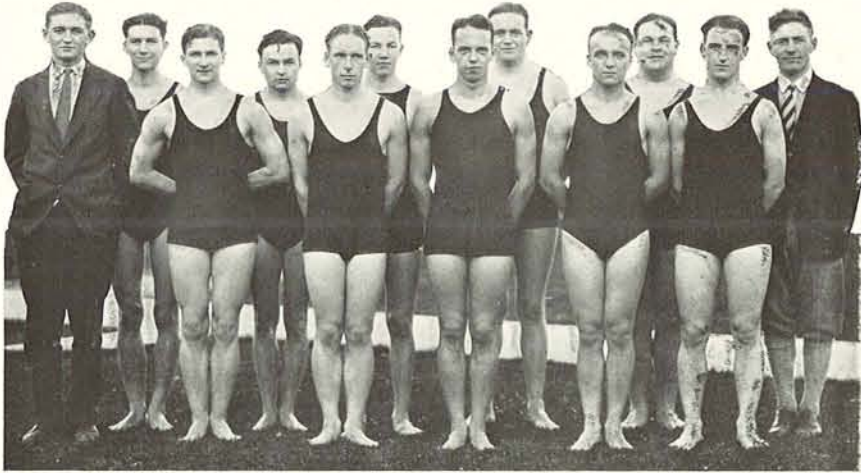

40-Yard Dash—Peterson, Aggies, first; Smith, Aggies, second; McCook, Oregon, third. Time, 19 4-5 seconds.

100-Yard Back Stroke—Erickson, Oregon, first; Kelly, Aggies, second; Kharosen, Aggies, third. Time, 1 minute, 27 seconds.

100-Yard Dash — Peterson, Aggies, first; Markeson, Aggies, second; Reid, Oregon, third. Time, 58 3-5 seconds.

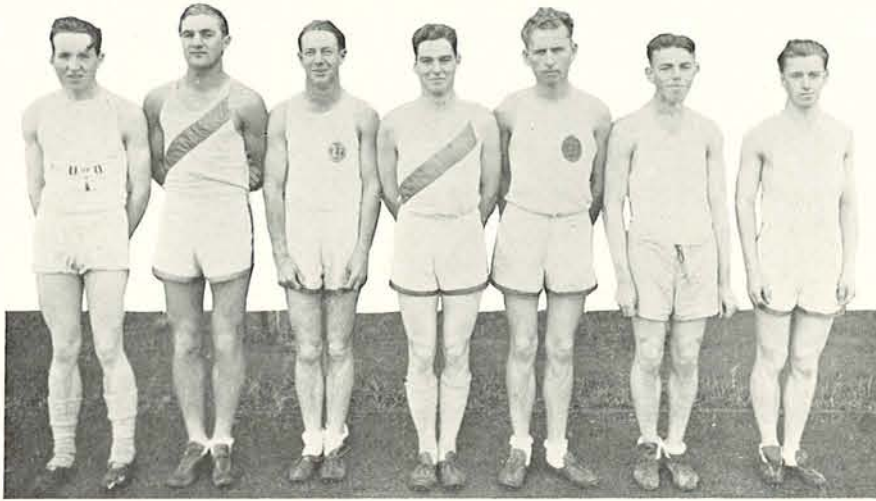

100-Yard Breast Stroke — Kharosen, Aggies, first; Grossmeyer, Aggies, second. Time, 1 minute, 29 3-5 seconds.

Plunge for Distance—Mason, Oregon, first.

Golf now has a good start at Oregon, and next season should see Oregon entered in several competitive meets. The University golf course is available to all aspiring golfers, and two other Eugene courses make special dispensations to students.

Behold The Varsity Philippinensis! This association has been purposely formed to foster friendship and fellowship among its members, to create better understanding between the Filipino and the other students of America, to educate the American public on Philippine questions, and to loyally serve our alma mater, the University of Oregon. Its members are eternally indebted for the fruitful opportunity which the university is giving them and to the kind hospitality of the people of Eugene. Some day, when the Filipino students in Eugene will be going back to the land of their birth, they will carry along constant memories and sweet songs of Oregon. Oregon will be heralded in the Philippines. This page of the Oregana is sincerely dedicated to our American friends and benefactors.

ROMULO C. AVILA.

Drama

Fergus Reddie

THE UNIVERSITY COMPANY has just completed one of its most successful years since Fergus Reddie became head of the department of drama, 13 years ago. It was an unusually ambitious year in regard to the number of plays produced and their difficulty. Although handicapped by the smallness of the stage, the Guild theatre workshop staged productions of such size that it was a real achievement to group the large casts on the stage without sacrificing the beauty of the pictures or the interest in the action. How- of the Cruel Caliph Haroun Al Raschid. Considered the best ever, notwithstanding the size of the theatre, the drama department is one of the most complete acting schools in the west and has earned for itself a reputation which extends even to the east.

Mr. Reddie not infrequently takes part in the plays which he directs, but during the past year he not only wrote, but directed and played a part in the musical fantasy "Yellow Candle Light," produced in January. Mr. Perry Arant was the composer of the music for the fantasy and personally directed the orchestra and the chorus. "Yellow Candle Light" was given one of the longest runs of the year and was undoubtedly one of the best liked.

Charlotte Banfield

CHARLOTTE BANFIELD finished her last year as an instructor in the department of drama with a program which furnished ample proof of her ability as a teacher and her talent of portraying splendid character roles. Since this was her last year before entering private life, she was given leading parts in several of the more difficult plays of the season, and it was in her honor, as a farewell performance, that “The Raggedy Man” was given.

Miss Banfield was the director of the third year company which produced a modern three-act comedy at two invitational performances during the winter term. Several students shown as splendid material for future Guild theatre stars.

The first and second year companies were under the instruction of Darrell Larsen. These two companies contented themselves with writing and acting pantomimes during the greater part of the year, although one-act plays were produced during the spring term.

CAST OF CHARACTERS

Mary, a maid .....	Margaret Booth
Mr. Pim .....	Henry Sheldon
Dinah, George Marden's niece .....	Elizabeth Kerr
Brian Strange, an artist .....	Bernard McPhillips
Olivia Marden .....	Gerda Brown
George Marden .....	Darrell Larsen
Lady Marden, George's aunt .....	Beth Fariss

The first play of the season was a revival of the summer session production with practically the same cast. "The falseness of a code of morals instigated by process of law—the ridiculing of the untruth that morality is acting according to the laws of the land and the church, is the theme which A. A. Milne works into his two hours of enjoyable satire on "cast iron morality." L. K. B. (Emerald Critic.)

Scene from "Mr. Pim Passes By"

Darrell Larsen dominated the stage with Gerda Brown playing a convincing part opposite him. Beth Fariss was the chief laugh producer and Betty Kerr was the typical American ingenue flapper. Bernard McPhillips was adolescently easy-going, as the part demanded, and Henry Sheldon, as Mr. Pim, was Henry Sheldon.

One August Night

CAST OF CHARACTERS

Mario .....	Joe Frazer
Dona Barbarita .....	Beth Fariss
Maria Pepa, a family servant .....	Helen Park

Don Juan Medina, critic .....	Terva Hubbard
Guillermo, servant .....	Harold Hoflick
Amalia Torralba, danseuse .....	Claire Gibson

A modern comedy abounding in the delicate satire and penetrating character delination which has won for the author, Martinez Sierra, a prominent place in contemporary Spanish literature. The action takes place in Madrid and the department made special effort to have the settings and costumes truly Spanish and of a twentieth century nature.

Helga McGrew took the part of the heroine, a very romantic, naive young lady who advises the hero, a successful novelist, played by Paul Krausse, as to the proper termination for his novels. It is probable that this was the first production of "One August Night" on the American stage, so with no precedent established it showed what the University company could do with an original interpretation of the spirit of the play.

Princess Bebe

By Jacinto Benavente

"Princess Bebe" is a tale of the successive steps of descent of a royal pair, nephew and niece of the Emperor, who have been banished from the Kingdom of Suavia after incurring his displeasure because they would not submit to his will. From the Imperial palace, the scene changes rapidly to a casino of a winter resort on the Riviera, thence to the foyer of a French villa, and finally ending in a cheap open air restaurant in Paris. It is a costume play which afforded the members of the company an opportunity to give some very interesting characterizations.

Charlotte Banfield as Princess Helena of Suavia and Fergus Reddie, as Prince Stephan of Suavia, had the finish and technique of professionals. Darrell Larsen, as Comte de Tournerelles, at rare intervals suggested the polished sauvity of a Barrymore. Clifford Zehrung as the Emperor of Suavia was impressing, while Gerda Brown as the archaic Baroness Von Rosenkrantz, was amusing as well as interesting.

Scene from "Princes Bebe"

Beth Fariss, as Frau Wilf, widow of the famous composer, was excellent. Mrs. Evelyn Leader, who has appeared in Guild theatre plays at least once a year for several seasons past, took the inimitable character part, "The-woman-with-a-scar." She is another whose work has all the excellence of a professional actress.

Outstanding among the remainder of the very large cast were Virgil Mulkey, who played the part of the tutor to the royal children, Tom Crosthwaite as the son of Frau Wilf, and Joe Frazer as the drunken ex-jockey.

Yellow Candle Light

By Fergus Reddie

Written by Mr. Reddie from an idea suggested to him by a young friend, "Yellow Candle Light" was the first of the two plays given during the season which were written by him. Including in the cast every member of the fourth year company and several members of the third and second year companies together with a chorus of singers and dancers numbering nearly twenty and recruited from the best talent obtainable on the campus, this original musical fantasy was easily the most pretentious production of the year. Perry Burton Arant was the composer of the score, spending the entire winter term on training of the chorus and the orchestra.

"Yellow Candle Light" is an entertainment for children, young or old. Distinctly of the "Peter Pan" type, it appealed to those people who now and then enjoy a trip to the realm of pure fantasy where the fairies dwell under the rule of a beautiful princess and the magic power of a court wizard.

Mr. Reddie took the part of the Court Wizard who in real life was the country school master and Charlotte Banfield took the part of the Mistress of the Robes who was the school marm in real life. The student leads were taken by Florence Couch and Betty Kerr with great success. Paul Krausse and Lexro Prillaman, as the villains, were the chief comedians although the "livestock" played some part in the effectiveness of their scene.

The fairyland scene in the first and third acts attracted much attention for its beauty and originality. Colorful shades of cloth were used as a background.

Makeup

Classes in makeup, both character and straight, were held daily throughout the year for members of the first, second, and third year companies with Virgil Mulkey and Boyd Homewood as instructors. Each dramatic student is required to know how to make himself up in a quick and efficient manner before he enters the senior company for his "baptism of fire." Each member of the company is required to have his own makeup kit. The dressing rooms under the stage are the same as those found in professional theatres.

CAST OF CHARACTERS

Lord Goring .....	Darrell Larsen
Mr. Montford .....	Boyd Homewood

One of Wilde's cleverest comedies was selected as a contrast to "Yellow Candle Light." The scene between Mabel Chiltern and Lord Goring was especially well liked. The set used in Robert Chiltern's home was beautifully different, being overlaid with a purple, flower-stamped cloth.

Scene from "Kempy"

CAST OF CHARACTERS

Ruth Bence .....	Elizabeth Kerr
"Pa" Bence .....	Gordon Wilson
"Ma" Bence .....	Helen Park

Jane Wade .....	Helga McGrew

Kemp James .....	Walter Malcolm

The New York comedy success of two years ago was selected by Mask and Buskin, national honorary dramatic fraternity, for its annual one-night performance at the Heilig theatre. "Kempy" was voted by many as probably the funniest comedy presented by campus talent for several years past. Gordon Wilson, as the penny-pinching father of three marriageable daughters, was the chief laugh evoker of the evening, with Walter Malcolm and Betty Kerr in their "puppy love" scene, running him a close second.

Jane BoDine and Clifford Zehrung who had the final "clinch" before the last curtain, played their parts consistently and carefully. Bernard McPhillips, Helen Park, and Helga McGrew each gave their parts study and consideration which was evident in their work.

Scene from "The Raggedy Man"

The Raggedy Man

Arranged by Fergus Reddie

James Whitcomb Riley's famous old Hoosier poems woven into a delightful drama and a hearty comedy at the same time. This was a revival, honoring Miss Charlotte Banfield, of the most successful play of two years ago, with Miss Banfield playing her old part of Grandmother Squeers. Katherine Pinneo had the part which she played in the former production, that of the chief comedienne, Miss Adeliney Bowersox, the gossipy village postmistress. Two others, Darrell Larsen and Gordon Wilson, had the same parts as they formerly played.

One of the most difficult of plays to stage because of the country store scene with its multiplicity of "props" in the first act, "The Raggedy Man," again proved its popularity and human appeal by its five performances. Lovers of Riley's poems recognized nearly every character in the play as this roaring comedy of Indiana life in 1897 unspun until the very end, finishing in the whirl of an old-fashioned country square dance.

Junior Company

The Junior company gave two performances of a modern three-act play during the winter term to which were invited members of the department and their friends. Several of the members of the cast showed up particularly well as future stars for Guild theatre productions. The play was under the direction of Miss Banfield, who has charge of the third year company.

The male lead was taken by Terva Hubbard of the Senior company and the female lead by Joyce Andrews. Lionel Clark, Jane BoDine, Harold Hoflick, Margaret Booth, Kate Buchanan, and Eugene Leidigh each did work which promises much in future years. Each of these performers should make very capable material to fill the ranks made vacant by the rather large number of seniors who are graduating this year.

Maker of Dreams

This fascinating little one-act drama of Pierrot and Pierrette was first presented during the fall term at a University company "at home" for members of the department of Drama. Fergus Reddie played the delightful old part of the Maker, who steps into the life of Pierrot and makes him see that the happiness which he is seeking is right at home. Norvell Thompson made a handsome Pierrot and Betty Kerr a very charming Pierrette. "The Maker of Dreams" was originally produced as the University of Oregon's number on the All-Northwest Universities Association program in Portland.

Scene from "Maker of Dreams"

Scene from "Hassan"

Hassan

By James Elroy Flecker

All the beauty and magic of an Arabian Night's tale is woven into this tragedy of life in old Bagdad during the reign of the cruel Caliph Haroun Al Raschid. Considered the best work of the English poet, James Elroy Flecker, "Hassan" was not produced even in London until 1922, although it had been written at the beginning of the war. A daring play surely—yet one which leaves the audience with the profound realization that they have seen life—cold, cruel life—in the days when a man or a woman's life was worth no more than the shake of the Caliph's thumb and the accuracy of the keen blade of the negro executioner.

Although very difficult to stage, "Hassan" created such a sensation when it was at last produced in London, that the department decided to attempt its production as the first play for the spring term. The beauty of the settings, gorgeous costumes, and Oriental dances added much to the general splendor and atmosphere. Delbert Faust as the premier danseur, directed the ballets. The entire company was again cast, with Fergus Reddie, Darrel Larsen, Gerda Bown, Paul Krausse, Bess Andrews, Terva Hubbard, Boyd Homewood, and Joe Frazer in the principal roles.

Scene from "Beau Brummel"

Beau Brummel

By Clyde Fitch

The cycle of four years rarely goes by without a revival of Clyde Fitch's famous English classic, "Beau Brummel." Still playing on the legitimate stage to delighted audiences, the regular Guild hall patrons proved to be little different. The fads and fopperies of the age, the powdered wigs, knee breeches, and the silk coats, all have their appeal—in fact, costume plays are on the whole better appreciated by college audiences than are the modern, jazzy, farces of married life.

Produced by the University company as the second play of the spring term, with leading parts taken by Mr. Reddie, Elizabeth Kerr, and Florence Couch, "Beau Brummel" gave many of the students their last chance to act before the year was over. The parts in this play are always so interesting and delightful that every member of the cast finds himself working with increased vigor to grasp the fine shades of character analysis and place before the audience a living replica of the original. The settings and stage properties were in their usual state of excellence and authenticity.

Reading Their Parts

Dramatics

During the school year 1924-25, a number of improvements have taken place in the department, notably in the beauty and character of the stage settings, the tendency toward producing only the very best of plays, and the increased number of instructors and assistants who are specialists in their lines. A new movable and adjustable ceiling which may be covered with any sort of paint or cloth to fit the picture, the complete remodeling of all the old sets during the Christmas holidays, and the addition of new properties and costumes in the wardrobe, each have contributed to the betterment. During the entire season just passed, not one play which was not of the very highest type, was produced by the company.

There are now seven assistants to Mr. Reddie taking care of the increased number of students who are either majoring in the department or taking voice and expression. Besides Mr. Reddie, Miss Banfield, and Mr. Larsen, who instruct the classes, there is a makeup man, a property man (who is also stage manager), a wardrobe mistress, and an electrician.

Oxford-Oregon Debate

For the first time in the history of the University an international debate with representatives from Oxford University took place on the campus. An audience of 2500 witnessed the contest. The Americans carried out the formal plan of debating; the Englishmen followed the informal and witty style.

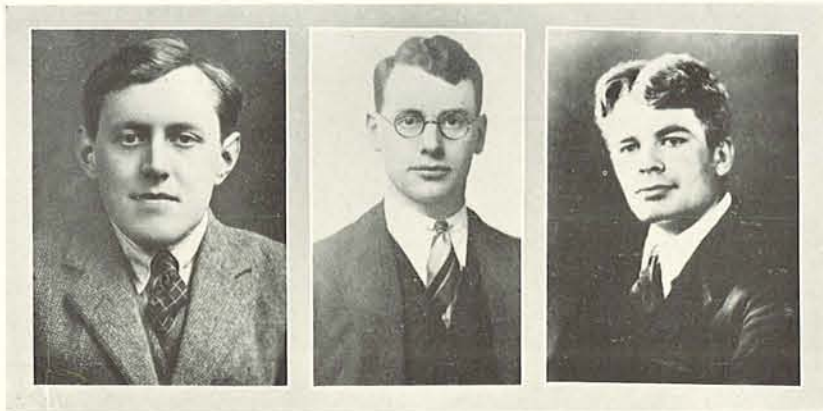

The question discussed was the desirability of referendum as a part of representative government. The affirmative was defended by the Oregon team, composed of Joe Frazer, Walter Malcolm and Paul Patterson. The Oxford team of Malcolm MacDonald, J. D. Woodruff and H. C. Hollis supported the negative side of the question.

OREGON WOMEN

Oregon Women

THE length and breadth of the world which we inhabit is of just the length and breadth of the spirit and personality which we develop.

The University is a laboratory for the spirit, and four years is a good testing period — at least enough of a period to give direction to living afterward.

I could wish that no one of you would miss any part of the laboratory. Books first, because they translate all ages and peoples—men and women of the faculty devoted to the interpretation of the truth and beauty which they know—the dignity and vitality of friendships—the power and freedom of the body gained through athletics—the achievement of taste in one's pleasures—and service through one's activities.

But for a true balance there is one essential which the modern university life has a tendency to destroy, and which can be gained and held only by conscious effort and intelligent control of the demands on one's time—I mean the independent quiet time for thought which is the fortification of the spirit against external destinies.

Virginia Judy Eslerly

*T*O the Oregon Women, whose leadership, democracy and unselfish service have won them the highest honors in the field of university activities, this section of the nineteen hundred and twenty-five Oregonian is dedicated.

Ruth Akers, Secretary of the Associated Students, has been very prominent in the musical world. For three years she has been president of the Women's Glee Club, and is now Assistant Director of that group, and a member of Mu Phi Epsilon.

Winifred Graham has been a leader in campus activities, and as President of Women's League has been chosen National President of the Women's Self Governing Association, which was entertained at the University of Oregon in April.

Maude Schroeder is President of the Women's Athletic Association, and in that office has done much toward making the life of the college woman well balanced between physical and mental activity. She has received distinction in the athletic field for her ability and enthusiasm.

Florence Buck has been engaged in Y. W. C. A. work for three years, and is now President of the Campus Association. She is also a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

Frances Simpson, as President of Mortar Board, is representative of that group whose members are chosen for their outstanding scholarship and activities. As delegate of the local chapter she attended the National Mortar Board Convention which was held in Lexington, Kentucky, November, 1924.

LT. COL. W. S. SINCLAIR

Lt. Col. W. S. Sinclair came to Oregon from Ft. Leavenworth, Kansas, in the summer of 1922 to assume command of the Oregon R. O. T. C. unit. He was a law student at the University of Michigan, at the outbreak of the Spanish-American War, at which time he enlisted as a private in the Michigan Infantry. Serving throughout the Spanish-American War, he gained promotion to the rank of Second Lieutenant, in which grade he served during the Boxer Rebellion in China. During the World War he saw service in France as Lieutenant Colonel and Colonel of the 304th Infantry and Colonel of the 319th and 320th.

Due in large part to his equitable administration of R. O. T. C. affairs, the unit at Oregon has gained consistently in popularity and efficiency. The enrollment in Oregon's R. O. T. C. this year was 569 men, 62 of whom were taking the advanced course offered to upper-classmen.

Staff of Instructors

In addition to Lt. Col. W. S. Sinclair, commanding officer of the local R. O. T. C. battalion, the following officers and non-commissioned officers are members of the instructing staff:

Capt. Frank L. Culin, Jr., University of Arizona, who arrived here December 2, 1923, from Manilla, P. I., instructor of Juniors in the advanced course in military law, machine guns and tactics.

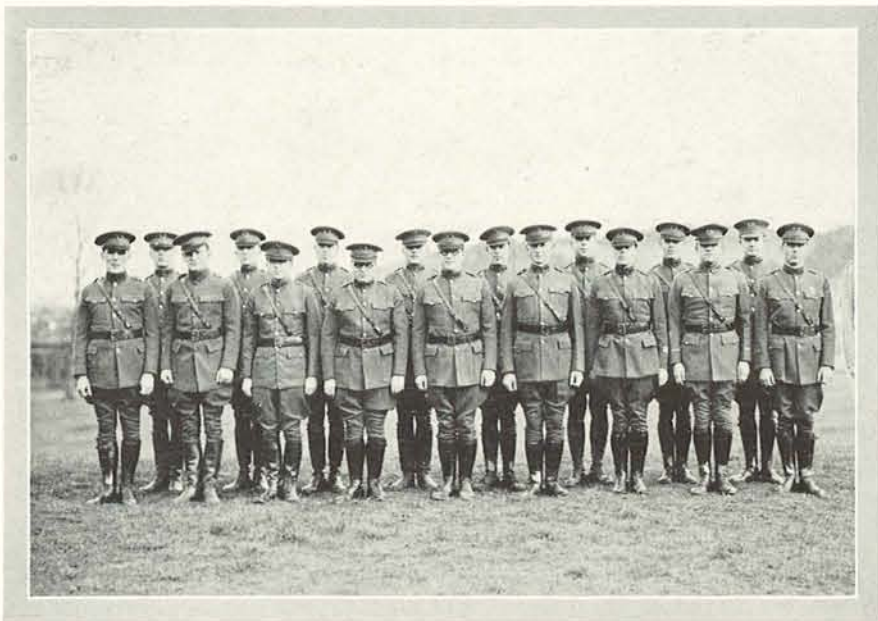

Capt. J. T. Murray, United States Military Academy, who has been stationed here since September 27, 1923, and who was formerly stationed at Honolulu, T. H.; instructor in upper-class drill, class work for advanced course Seniors.

Lt. E. G. Arnold, who came here from Camp Lewis, Wash., in August, 1922. He is in charge of Sophomore class work, assisted by Sgt. Conyers.

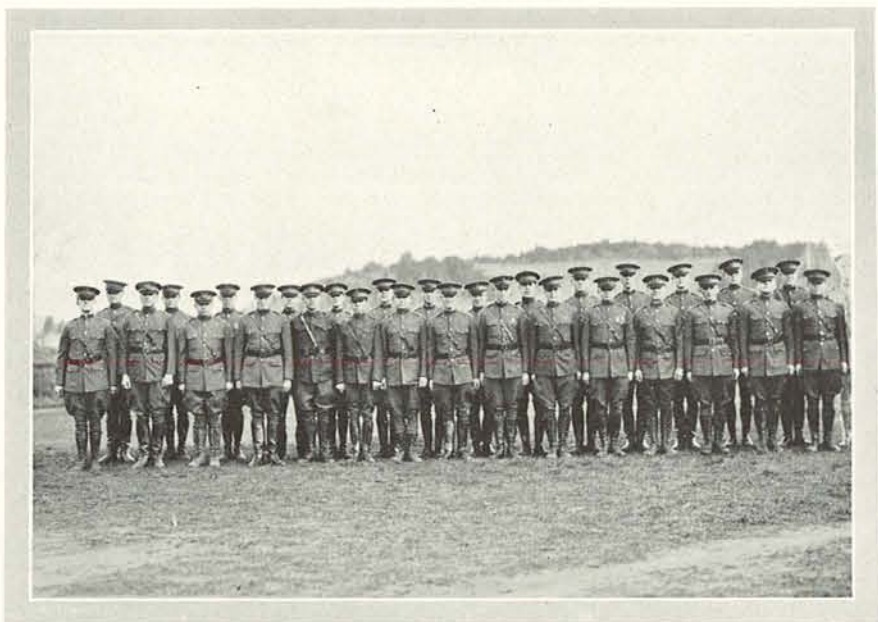

Sgt. F. I. Agule, who has been here since August, 1919, and was transferred here from Ft. Russell, Wyo., is in charge of the clerical work of the department.

Sgt. E. Conyers, transferred here from Vancouver Barracks, Wash., in October, 1920, assists Lt. Arnold in the instruction of the underclassmen and gives courses in sketching, topography, grenades and the automatic rifle.

The commanding cadet officer this year was Lt. Col. Don R. Cook. Other cadet officers were Major Earl C. Hughes and cadet Capts. Walter M. Backstrom, Charles E. Jost, William R. Poulson, Carl H. Skoog, Waldemar Seton Jr., Levi Ankeny, Louis H. Carlson and Ted Gillenwaters.

Men's Rifle Team

The men's rifle team, under the coaching of Captain J. T. Murray, met with more success this year than last. With the added incentive of sweaters to be given by the military department, the men put in a greater amount of consistent practice and with a large number of the men on the team returning next year, an organization of championship calibre is anticipated.

Members of the varsity team were as follows: Eric Peterson, Will Kidwell, Stanley Copland, Wilmot Getty, Frank Walker, Don Watrous, Mark M. Taylor, Harold Haddan, Robert Harrison, C. G. Burlingham, E. N. Brown, Carroll Williams, F. A. Van Atta, Campbell Church, Jr., and John Neidermeyer.

Among the schools fired against were: University of Michigan, University of Nebraska, Oklahoma A. & M., University of Minnesota, University of Iowa, University of California Southern Branch, Penn. Military College, Mississippi A. & M., Syracuse University, O. A. C., Western Maryland College, Rhode Island State College, University of Cincinnati, Pomona, Washington State College, West Virginia University, and Northwestern.

Women's Rifle Team

For the first time, on the Oregon campus, women's rifle shooting was placed in the hands of the Women's Athletic Association, this year. If this manner of sponsoring proves successful, co-ed rifle shooting will be placed on the same basis as any other sport and points will be awarded accordingly. Instruction was given by Captain F. L. Culin, Jr., and Captain J. T. Murray, officers of the regular army detailed to R. O. T. C. duty here. Miss Edna Spenker was the W. A. A. representative in charge of rifle shooting.

The season began with Doughnut meets, Kappa Kappa Gamma winning the cup, Alpha Xi Delta placing second and Alpha Delta Pi, third.

The matches for the varsity team began the week of February 9th with Junior College of Riverside, California, followed by fourteen meets within the next month. Interest has far exceeded that of the past and records promise much for the future of Oregon co-ed marksmanship.

The Band

THE R. O. T. C. band, composed of 40 members, was a creditable organization this year, and although strictly a part of the military organization, never failed to respond to requests from Yell-King Freddie Martin to turn out for football and basketball games with rival institutions.

Men in the band were required to practice with the organization twice a week this year at which times they were given instruction and led by Andrew Landles, instructor of music in the Eugene public schools and to whom much of the credit of the improved organization is due. Alfred P. Goss held the position of student-leader.

The members also deserve much credit for their help in livening up the Student Union Campaign carried on last Spring.

The band has risen from a minor class activity to one of much prominence and interest.

Summer Camp

Summer camp for men in the Ninth Corps Area opened on June 16th, 1924, at Camp Lewis, Washington. After the last physical exam had been given and the last "shot in the arm" had been administered, the final count was a total of 875 cadets from western universities.

The first two weeks of camp were devoted to close order drill. The second two weeks were given over to the firing of the service rifle on the range and to target practice with the automatic pistol. The last two weeks were spent in extended order work.

Men who attended did not find the camp life monotonous as social events included a dance every Wednesday evening at the Hostess House at Camp Lewis. Every Monday night there was a program of vaudeville presented at the Y. M. C. A. and some really good numbers were given.

Various forms of athletics were indulged in, according to the tastes of the men. Baseball, tennis, track, golf, boxing and wrestling were among the sports included, while a large number of the men enjoyed swimming in American Lake, which is about three miles from the camp.

During the six weeks at camp the cadets were taken on two trips of rare scenic beauty. The first of these was to Green River Gorge and was made in one day by motor truck. The second trip was to Rainier National Park, and was a two-day trip, also made by truck convoy. The men slept out of doors, under pup tents and between blankets which they brought with them from camp.

Summer camp for the R. O. T. C. units of western colleges terminated on the 28th of July.

The Medical School

THE University of Oregon Medical School is located in Portland on a beautiful campus of 108 acres spread over the crest of Marquam Hill, overlooking the snow peaks of the Cascade Mountains, the Willamette River, and the city business district which is but one and one-half miles distant. The School of Medicine was founded in 1887 by a charter from the Board of Regents of the University, and has operated continuously as a class "A" institution since the time that the rating of medical schools was undertaken by the American Medical Association.

In 1919 the old home of the Medical School on 23rd and Lovejoy Streets was destroyed by fire and the school was moved to its new home on Marquam Hill. Since that date the development of the institution has been rapid, in conformation with plans which extend into the future. The first unit of the building was supplemented in 1921 by a new structure which constitutes the main body of the completed plant as designed by the architects. This building came as the result of a gift from the General Education Board, which was matched by the State Legislature.

In 1923 the heirs of Mr. Frank S. Doernbecher made a gift of $200,000 to the Medical School for the purpose of erecting a children's hospital on the campus. During the present year, a gift of 88 acres of land on Marquam Hill adjoining the original campus, was made by Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Jackson and Philip L. Jackson. This tract of land makes possible the continuation of the plans of hospitalization and growth which will one day place Marquam Hill on a parity with any medical center in the United States.

The plans of development have also embraced the entire course of instruction. A course in medicine has been established which covers seven years of work on the part of students after completing the high school course. It is therefore possible now for a boy or girl who plans a life of medical practice, research, or teaching to enter the University of Oregon at Eugene as a freshman and continue a coherent program until the degree of Doctor of Medicine is conferred.

In the immediate future, it is expected that gifts from Northwest citizens will enable further centralization and enrichment of the facilities for clinical teaching and medical research and there is every reason to believe that the Medical Center of the Northwest will develop with its territory.

In Explanation to the Public

IN reading the annals—historic and current—of this beloved campus herein written, it is perhaps well to mention a certain matter of which everyone has, no doubt, been heretofore ignorant.

Therefore, be it known that to undertake so personal and intricate a work as this must necessarily be, it is practically taken for granted that the editors must flee to safety for a period of not less than 30 days after publication or stand bravely out in the open and unflinchingly face the angry revengeful mob.

We wish to make it publicly known that though being both real heroes, we have decided to adopt the former course. Not only do we wish to make it known that we are hitting for the great open spaces but we also wish to advise our creditors to hold all bills and accusations against us until our reappearance at the end of said 30 days.

—THE EDITORS.

We wish to here express our gratification for the helpful services of Virgil Wylie, Emil Berg, Bob Keeney and several others who so willingly aided us on this suicidal venture.

Bob Keeney.

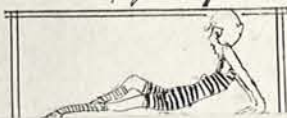

Babette was not impressed with the Pi Phis until they showed her those athletic Phi Dells and the cozy nooks of University High. She thought it a combination with possibilities! The Chi Omegas, however, will surely have to get on the Palatial yacht if they want to rate with our Babette. She never was much on these long cross-country walks. The Pi Phis also showed her, "Fannie" the Pi Phi mermaid. This seemed to help a great deal!

It made Babette seasick to look at so much water so she turned the Alpha Phis down cold. Besides, she's subject to attacks of water on the knee. There were 57 girls at the ΔZ. house and each insisted on kissing her. The variety reminded her too much of Heinz, and she never did care for the whole 57 anyway -

Babette is without doubt the choice of the populace in her old home town, Junction City, and is sure of her place on the campus. She had dinner over at the D.G. house. The other night, and two or three of the good looking members of the class at "28 DANG," "Hana, My Delta Gamma" for her. They are sure proud of that song! She is well qualified for D.G. as she was a little formerette during the big war and raised some choice artichokes. Her galling ability and her imported cigarette holder, to say nothing of her fur coat, should win her side many a Gamma Phi vote -

2. Breakfast Sept. 22 at Delta Gamma. Reduced rates for guests. Told me some awful things about the Gamma Phis.
3. Sept. 23. Dinner at Gamma Phi. Advised me to buy a fur coat. Gave me a lot of scandal about Delta Gamma.
4. Sept. 25. Lay at Kappa House. Got me a date with Bobbie M<sup>c</sup>Cabe. He told me that Alpha Phi was best sorority.
5. Spent Sept. 26 with Hetas. Told me sororities were the bunk. Advised me to live out!

MISS FRENCH RECEIVES BRUISE ON EASTER EGG HUNT

Junction City, Ore.—Just as she was about to pick up a darling blue Easter egg which had been previously hid there to be found, Miss Babette French slipped and bruised the back of her neck. According to a very personal statement issued tonight by Dr. Wilber Wester, who took upon himself the case to the News reporter, the bruised spot could have been avoided if the young girl had not had her hair so bobbed. As it was, the mark is now on her neck where her hair should properly cover it.

Miss French found 108 hard boiled eggs which is three more than that found by the nearest one to her in the party. There were three in the party and after eating the eggs the dinner planned for the evening was called off on account of Miss French's bruise.

Miss French tells of how her father and two brothers used to be easily addicted to bruises at the slightest provocation. She, it was found, has also had bruises before. The last one which she could recall was gotten at a meeting of the Mill society in the Spring. "She will be able to enter school again in the fall," cried Dr. Wester who uses the Pinkham system. Her mother has quit work to watch over her during the pending of the illness.

Junction City, Ore.—Miss Babette French, who has just recently made a comeback from college at the Oregon State University, was unusually entertained at a feed given by Mrs. Claude Goffan in her dining room there sometime yesterday. Among those present were several of her friends and

Mrs. King's little niece who waited on the guests. This was the same afternoon on which Ernie Gross ran for mayor amidst great applause. Roger Black, who was finally elected, has returned to his home in the mountains and according to him, he will make an annual visit to Springfield to see that things are going along alright. Mrs. Goffan served special University of Oregon ice cream for all those present. This was a new stunt for the town. It was colored with Oregon State College's traditional colors, green and yellow, which blend unusual. It was made by means of Mrs. Cartwright's recipe and was eaten by all.

Miss French was heard to utter these phrases, "Oh, you're all treating me so wonderful," and there was a large tear dripped into her cake which was served also, of course, later in the afternoon.

It was definitely rumored tonight that Ernie Gross has been fraudulating his wife's savings account and so it was a great gift of fate that Roger Black was elected to be our mayor. He will also serve in the capacity of sheriff and constable if possible.

Miss French was the guest of honor at the tea and she wishes by means of the News to thank all those who expressed their sentiments at the tea which Mrs. Goffan gave her there.

Junction City, Ore.—Miss Babette French arrived back here to her home from where she was intending college at the University of Oregon in Eugene Oregon which is located 3½ miles northeast of here according to the road signs.

Miss French was immediately looked up on her return by the News correspondent, Mr. Jones the correspondent who invented this paper 15 years ago and brought it up to what it is turned the buzzer on the young college girl's front porch. He was surprised but delighted that Miss French herself answered the door. She explained that she had just come out of the living room after feeding the chickens. "Then we both sat down on opposite boxes," said Mr. Jones, "and the interview began."

One interesting and college-like thing about Miss French that Mr. Jones noted peculiarly was that she had had her hair barbed. Blushingly Miss French admitted that she belonged to several honorable fraternities. Among these were the Mill race society which met in the Spring, Mammal and Gill, honorable biological club, and Gilbert's demented psychology course.

Miss French is the second young lady from Junction City who has left her home and family which has always brought her up right to leave off in pursuit of greater knowledge.

Miss French brought her father a beautiful big Oregon penant which lay across the piano and also her mother who received a salad fork which is the beginning of a new silver service to which she can add to year after year.

With tears in her deep green eyes the last words which Miss French uttered as the correspondent left the kitchen was—"Tell them I love my Alma Mater."

LIVES OF GREAT COLLEGIANS

Robert Stigma Mutz

Robert Stigma Mutz was born at an early age in Portland in 1910. Robert was a husky little fellow weighing in at 14 pounds and 15 ounces. He should have been twins. A few days after his fourth birthday Robert began to walk and he has been walking ever since.

In 1913 Robert was entered in the baby show as blue ribbon stock and won the first stripped stock prize.

Robert, like all red-blooded American boys experienced many temptations throughout his boyhood life. Once when he went to a little birthday party he was offered a cup of coffee. The temptation was very great and just as he raised the cup to his lips his mother's words came to his mind. "My dear son, never drink coffee for it may stunt your growth." With a sudden turn he thrust his cup to the floor, turned, and stalked straight from the house and on to home and his mother's arms.

On another occasion Robert succumbed to the only crime of his life of which we have record. He was caught stealing pennies from a blind man. When asked to explain his unmanly conduct he said, "I cannot tell a lie. I did it. But I have always wanted to be a graduate manager and was only practicing."

Robert, like all other great collegians, saw and has realized a great vision. Robert's vision was that of becoming a great football leader. And now we see him as the great Oregon Captain.

"Don't let anything that you tackle get you down," is his motto.

And so, dear reader, like the lives of all great men, this enticing story of the life of a great collegian, Robert Stigma, the greatest of Mutz, should serve as a fitting example for those to come.

Kenneth Index Steffanson

In 1908 when Portland was only a small village, Kenneth Steffanson was born to his father and mother. They decided to name him Kenneth in memory of his grandfather whose name was also Steffanson.

Kenneth grew to be a strapping youth of—oh, say—six years of age or so and his father earned a living for the entire family. Kenneth's mother had a great love for him and she used to take him for long walks down a long the water front where he used to take off his shoes and stockings and wade in up to his neck and watch the river boats as they shot past. Thus he learned to love the water with its oily surface and one day as he stood in the river and looked at a large torpedo boat across on the opposite shore he said, "Mother, some day I am going to be a great army officer and join the Infantry." "May your wish come true, my dear," answered his mother and she sang, "I Didn't Raise My Boy to Be a Soldier."

And so as he nursed and preserved his original ambition, Kenneth has finally nosed his way to the front and was recently made the commander-in-chief of the Military Dance during which occasion he showed a lot on the ball. He it was who pronounced the affair one of the greatest of campus functions.

The military leaders at Camp Lewis are impatiently awaiting Steffanson's arrival there next summer and have already started some new novelty drilling which they will put on for his benefit in the early summer.

Kenneth Index Steffanson—soldier, poet, and B. A. major. His name fills our very being with a tender love and memory which will never swindle. For he was a he-man.

Victor Stain Rizzlay

Beer made Milwaukee, Wisconsin, famous while Victor Stain Rizzlay made Milwaukie, Oregon, famous.

Victor was born two years after the year that prune raising was discovered to be profitable in Oregon. The exact connection here is unknown but there are several possibilities.

Victor has always been a healthy young fellow except for one ailment. When dancing every girl complains that he has rickets. (Medical term for uncontrollable feet, etc.) He learned of this very indirectly for when one has such a trouble as this even his best friends will not tell him oftentimes.

Now the insidious part of Victor Stain Rizzlay's life has been his failure to capture a life mate. However the rays of good fortune are finally shining on Victor for he has learned what he formerly lacked in clutching a woman's heart and is now the persistent lover of the woman known as "Ivory." She is 99 44/100 per cent pure, while the other 56/100 is just her own sweet self.

All through his life, Victor has been blessed with unusual originality. When he was nine years old he thought how exciting it would be to set off some giant firecrackers at a Holy Roller meeting. His act brought down the house.

During his college life his originality has made him very famous. Once he thought up an original method of being elected vice-president of the student-body. This has been his greatest success. In this he also brought the house down—that is he brought his own house down to the polls.

As we look back on such men as Victor Stain Rizzlay, we cannot help but realize how small the rest of the world really is.

Basil Axel Bjurke

As Timothy Cloran has often quoted with tears in his eyes, "There is only one great person born during each generation." The University of Oregon is unusually fortunate in having within it a personage who beyond a doubt is the greatest living man of the age — Basil Axel Bjurke.

Basil was born in Portland in a little frame house of three rooms and a basement which was located where the new Salvation Army headquarters now stand. Basil was an amiable little fellow with rosy cheeks, bow legs, and dirty hands. He was liked by all his best friends and, as can be seen in his picture, he was very prominent.

As Basil grew from boyhood into manhood a great desire surged in his breast. "In whatever I do I want to 100 per cent all-American!" he was heard to say in 1897. To this end has the sterling young man worked his way until now he has most deservedly attained the title of "All-American manager." "No matter what you do, do it swell," is Bjurke's advice to those who are to follow.

Bjurke has just recently returned from a speaking tour around the United States and from one of his dinner talks at the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, the "Frisco Squawk" quotes the following: "Fellows, the only thing it takes to become an All-American manager is that old pep and vinegar and grim determination. It's a long hard road to climb but once you get there I'll tell the world it's sure keen stuff. And now I'll bid you all good night and by gosh I love you all. Hot Dog, everybody!"

Now does there live or breathe a man who holds a doubt that Basil Axel Bjurke is our greatest living example? I ask you!

SONG OF DESIRE

I'm going to find a woman, a woman
all for me,
As yet I don't know where she is, or even who she'll be,
She's going to have an auto, a great big Cadillac,
And when I go to see her she's going to bring me back.
Her dad will be a millionaire, but he seldom will be home,
So when I go to see her, we'll always be alone.
He's gonna have a cellar that is full of pre-war stock,
This cellar will have everything, except a key and lock.
I forgot to mention something, beside which all else is mild,
Her dad will have tuberculosis, and she'll be the only child.

Diary Of A Co-Ed In Heaven

Friday—Feel that some mistake must have been made in regard to my case, or else, the Recording Angel missed the last house party. St. Peter looked at me kinda funny and he thought something was wrong, but finally admitted me after consulting his card catalogue. The Gates of Heaven squeaked like anything.

Saturday—Persuaded Lady Godiva and several other angels to bob their hair. They sure looked better. Found a package of cigarettes in my binder (which they mercifully allowed me to bring along) and several of us sent Lord Fountleroy down for a light. We let him play with us girls, because he's the only man in Heaven and feels lonely, anyway. When he got back we lit up, but Elsie Dinsmore choked so bad we were afraid she would wake the dead.

Honest Joe

Talked St. Peter into appearing in golf togs, but it was a mistake. His Scotch legs look better in their primal nightie.

It's my turn in the tub——

Sunday—Never will learn to play this damn harp. Sat on a cloud all day and watched a football game in Hell between U. of O. and O. A. C. Alumnus. Was given five demerits for yelling. Sure feel lonesome.

Monday—Mistake has been discovered and am to be sent at once to proper place. Have promised to write to all the Angels. Feel sorry for them having to stay in this God-forsaken place, but they should have known better. Hope I get there in time for Hell's Home-Coming week.

"We're On Our Way"

YOUNG men and women who achieve that thing called success know what they want, where they want to go. They have mapped out their plans for this "trip" just as they figure train arrivals and departures for a trip across the continent. They aren't just "on their way." They have a definite objective.

"My bank" is a vital factor, whatever you may choose to do. Take a banker into your confidence. He'll be glad to advise with you. Small accounts grow into large ones. Think of the examples you could cite, for instance.

And so you can see why a bank welcomes the opportunity to be "your bank." Here at the First National, for instance, we look back with pleasure upon our years of association with men and women in whose achievements we feel as much pride as they.

We Recommend This

Sam Wilderman walked into the Ham's the other day, sat down at a table, and a waiter approached him.

Waiter—Can I do anything for you?

Sam—No, thank you. (He takes a sandwich out of his pocket and starts to eat.)

Waiter—Can I get you anything to drink?

Sam—Oh! No! Thank you (takes orange out of his pocket and squeezes it.)

Waiter (surprised, goes to the head waiter)—Do you see that fellow over there, he isn't ordering, but he is sitting at a table.

Head Waiter (determined to oust him goes over to him)—Do you know who I am? I'm the Head Waiter.

Sam—Fine, that's who I was looking for. It's 4 o'clock; why hasn't the music started?

How I wonder what you are—
Way up in the sky so high,
My I wish that Jack was light

—FLIPPA SHERMAN.

I flit along like a daisy,
My wings spread eight feet from tip

I pass up all the dandelions,
And only at buttercups sip!

—MARG SKAVLAN.

As I sit.....
Idly thru the night,
Wondering
Perhaps
Maybe.....
Something
Little daisy.....
Tells me.....
My curley locked God
Is quite a sight in tights.

WHY IS A COLLEGE?

"Yes, but now the colleges do the

Addressed to a Frat Pin

I put you out on Helen,
 I planted you on Joe,
 And next you went to Mable,
 And finally to Flo.
 I coaxed you back from Helen,
 I wrestled you from Joe,
 I called you back from Mable,
 And finally from Flo.
 Now Helen rooms with Mable,
 And Mable rooms with Joe,
 And Joe, so goes the story,
 Is rooming with Flo.
 Now can you please decipher
 The puzzling mystery,
 Why Helen, Mable, Joe nor
 Flo,
 No more do speak to me?

Park—No, his coat tail covered the loss.

I'll Take One

"Yes, indeed; no family should be without it."
