My Dear Mr. Pease:

It seemed to some of us who have been interested in various alumni affairs in New York that you might be interested to have for "Old Oregon" an account of what has been a very satisfactory solution for weekend holidays from the routine of ordinary living. We have enjoyed this kind of getting away greatly and thought that other alumni groups might be interested in our venture.

I am sorry to send you hand written copy, but perhaps you have good readers on your staff. I shall follow your editing with interest and shall look forward as before with pleasure to your budget of news. I suppose all alumni correspondents incline to giving you advice—mine is to omit the humor pages, and to concentrate on interpreting the new spirit of the University along with the alumni news. A publication such as "Old Oregon" has a special function for both the University and the alumni and should try, through its able editing, to carry that forward, leaving other things aside.

Sincerely yours,

LAURA H. V. KENNON, '11.

A group of Oregon alumni and some of their friends living in New York have hit upon a good weekend plan for escape from town. They rent a stone cabin with a huge fireplace at Bear Mountain, in one of the state parks, some forty miles by train or automobile from New York. The park is situated along the Hudson River in a region rich in American historical lore and near the sites of Revolutionary forts and famous battlegrounds. The enterprise is a community venture, with each member paying a certain basic share toward the partnership and thereafter assuming his pro-rated share of weekend expenses for himself and his guests. There is some household property owned in common, with each person supplying individually articles which make for his own comfort. John MacGregor, '23, wears "the gloves of authority" for the Popolopen Pioneers in the winter (the cabin is built on the high banks of the Hudson River and overlooks Popolopen Creek, where Hendrick Hudson anchored "The Half Moon") and carries on the general duties of the head of the household.

From October to June the partners have the use of the cabin with the facilities of the park for hiking, skating and skiing; the famous Appalachian Trail passes a short distance from the door. Around the long table in front of the fire gather weekly from four to sixteen partners and guests—there is a constant variety represented in the company—each person has had his co-operating share in the schedules of food and fun which have included everything from wood-splitting to cooking, with the necessary intermediate visit to the country grocery store. There is no radio or telephone to mar the escape; outdoor sports and wide-ranging talk with occasional song fests provide a wealth of enjoyment. Many Oregon dinners and reunions and plans for visiting alumni and faculty have been plotted in front of the cabin fireplace. A traditional Christmas party has come to be one of the high spots of the year and is an annual event for the weekend between Christmas and New Year's.

For the summer the partners shift quarters to the shore, where at Normandie, New Jersey, within two hours of New York by boat down the bay, they have a block from the Atlantic, "marine headquarters" in a modernized houseboat. The skipper for the marine division is Claude Robinson, '24, who takes over for the summer. There is an annual special Oregon picnic and swimming party which has been enjoyed by various alumni, their children and their dogs. At each place there is always a welcome for visiting and local alumni, many of whom have shared in good times. Both the winter cabin and the summer place are available through the whole week so that partners as well as their friends have found good vacation retreats for quiet and study, as well as recreation.

Any group of congenial alumni might find some such venture a good way to solve the weekend problem and enjoy getting away from it all in town. University alumni charter members of this enterprise, which has worked out to everyone's satisfaction and comfort, are: Claude and Elizabeth Manning Robinson, John M. MacGregor, Philip and Margaret Bergh, A. Gurney Kimberley; Laura H. Kennon, Mary Jane Dustin Bowles and Velma Farnham (now Mrs. Robert Allen).

One of the happiest gatherings of the Oregon alumni for the year was that on August 8 at Normandie, New Jersey, when some twenty-odd alumni met for a day of good cheer at the summer cabin quarters of the Popolopen Pioneers. Swimming, reminiscence, plans for winter meetings, a picnic spread with Oregon stalwarts freezing ice cream in the time honored fashion filled the day with satisfaction and good comradeship. Claud and Betty Robinson, John MacGregor and Laura Kennon were unofficial hosts for the day. Others present were:

Mrs. Frances Rose Youel, ex-'26, and Kenneth Youel, '23; Leon A. Culbertson, '23; Mary Jane Dustin Bowles, '25; Gordon Gilkey, '36; Maude Long, '36; Captain William C. McFadden, ex-'20; Mrs. William C. McFadden, Leona Marsters, '20; Con Hammond, ex-'32; Mrs. Con Hammond, Mrs. Alice Latture Klep, ex-'29; Rolf Klep, '27; Mrs. Jessie Powell Greig, ex-'29; Humboldt Greig, ex-'28; Mrs. Esther Hardy Winterer, '26; Steele Winterer, '26; Mrs. Rachel Husband Nichols, '21; John Nichols, Mrs. Elizabeth Brown Wagner, ex-'32; Lawrence Wagner, ex-'30; Maurice J. Warnock, '26, and Dr. Nelson Bossing, of the University faculty.

Sir Fansett:

The Oregon population of New York city is increasing with the addition of several alumni and others arriving. Vivian Malone, '34, arrived this Sunday to continue her violin studies at Juilliard after having studied with Calmon Luboviski in Los Angeles last winter. Her progress will bear watching.

Wilma Spence is arriving shortly to enjoy graduate work at Columbia. Mr. and Mrs. Victor Bryant (Grace Burnett, '32) are back in town after a summer of sailing in the L. I. Sound. Victor is teaching music in the schools of Newark, N. J., however, their address is the apartment above "Buck" Nash, '33, 3 Franklin Terrace, 364 W. 26th street, New York city.

Oren Freerksen, '34, and George Bikman, '37, were back this summer but have returned to Eugene.

As to my labors—signed a contract with the National Broadcasting company

Come Back for a Real Homecoming

An Invitation From Elmer Fansett, Alumni Secretary

How about an old time honest to goodness Homecoming this fall? During recent years we have all regretted the absence of the big noise parade, the huge frosh bonfire on the campus, and the all-University rally after the bonfire. To those of us who helped make that noise and build that fire and joined in the general festivities, Homecoming has been a dead affair for the last few years.

Well, here are the plans for the 1937 affair. As you know, we meet our old rival, O. S. C., here on Hayward field, which has been transformed into one of the most beautiful turfed playing fields in the country. That in itself is an incentive to return to the campus.

Real Bonfire This Year

The lid will be blown off Friday evening with a real old time noise parade through the streets of Eugene and out to the campus, where the frosh will set off one of the biggest bonfires ever to be seen on the Oregon campus.

After that we will have one of those rallies such as we used to have in the Eugene Armory. The only difference will be that it will be held on the playing field right here on the campus.

Many of the old timers will be back to demonstrate the spirit of the bygone days. The team will be there. The coaching staff will be there. Every student on the campus will be there. You can't afford to miss this part of the program.

Alumni Meet Saturday

On Saturday, the day of the big game, the University of Oregon Alumni will hold their annual meeting. That wonderful new library will be dedicated. At noon there will be a big all-campus luncheon for everyone—FREE.

At 2:00 p. m. the big game will start and it is our promise that you are going to see some sensational football. We have the team, the spirit, and everything that should write this game into Oregon history.

After the game a real surprise will await you. The Eugene Armory will be thrown open for a University of Oregon Alumni get-together. Everyone will be there and at last you will have a chance to see and talk to all of your old friends again. This should be one of the highlights of the weekend. You will see classmates and old friends that you have not seen for years.

We have a great student body this year, and one which is capable and willing to make this Homecoming the best we have ever had.

Cancel all prior plans for October 22-24 and return to the campus for the weekend of a lifetime.

Alumni returning for Homecoming this year will be greeted with a bonfire for the first time in years

Seventeen Alumni Pass Bar Examination

Seventeen graduates of the Oregon law school were admitted to the Oregon bar this year after successfully passing the yearly state examinations. Twenty University graduates took the examination, giving the University an 85% record—this far exceeds the general average as out of 94 applicants only 58 were accepted.

During the past five years 90% of the law school graduates taking the exams have passed and 12 more graduates who took other state exams have all been successful.

The accepted candidates included one girl, Miss Nora Hitchman; others were Harold R. Fuller, William M. Davis, George R. Birnie, Richard Kriesien, all of Portland.

James R. Devers, Salem; D. R. Dimick, Gerald B. Gray, Eugene; Arvin O. Robb, Thomas H. Tongue, Hillsboro; Anthony Yturri, Jordan Valley; Harry McCall, Jr., Redmond; Robert S. Miller, Glendale; Ronald Rew, Pendleton; Robert Anderson, Astoria; Burton L. Coan, Oswego; and Orval M. Thompson, Shedd.

Other Oregon alumni were: Richard A. Rawlinson, ex-'30; Tom J. White, ex-'32; Etta Belle Kitchen, '31; Harrison R. Kincaid, ex-'32; Martin P. Gallagher, ex-'34; Robert Y. Thornton, ex-'37; John T. Chinnock, ex-'36.

Donald E. Heisler, '34; William J. Crawford, ex-'29; Chester N. Anderson, ex-'31.

Bankers Elect Hollister

Because of his aggressive work in organizing the independent bankers of the Pacific Northwest, Robert F. Hollister, LL.B. '16, has been named executive secretary of the Independent Bankers' association of the 12th federal reserve district.

The association numbers 457 of the 560 banks in this district which are eligible to membership. Hollister will maintain offices in 802 Failing building in Portland, where he has been for some time.

Reports from the troubled areas of the Orient indicate that five Oregon alumni are registered with the state department and remaining there. Included are Barry C. Eastham, '10, and his wife, Edna Luckey Eastham, '04. Mr. Eastham has been teaching in Tientsin for nearly 20 years. Others registered are: Captain Thomas N. Page, B.A. '27, M.D. '29; Germaine Dew Page, B.A. '22, M.A. '24; and Myrtel I. Pelker, ex-'25.

With the appointment of his successor taken care of, Charles A. Rice, M.A. '23, has retired from the superintendency of the Portland schools, which position he held for six years. S. Stephenson Smith, professor of English, was one of a committee of three which selected Rice's successor.

A diet of boiled owl and porcupine in the Alaskan wilds was forced on Mrs. Hortense Parker Landru, ex-'32, for two and a half months of her summer vacation this year. Mrs. Landru and a woman companion left early in the spring for Fairbanks to visit Mrs. Landru's parents. They went from Seward to the Togiak lake region by plane—there they were left stranded when the airplane pilot forgot to pick them up, and they were forced to start back afoot. They didn't arrive in Anchorage until the middle of September.

Mrs. Landru graduated from the University of Alaska in mining engineering soon after she left the Oregon campus. She is now living in Vicksburg, Missouri, where her husband, Herschel C. Landru, '28, M.A. '30, is historian for the National Park service.

Carson New Bar Prexy

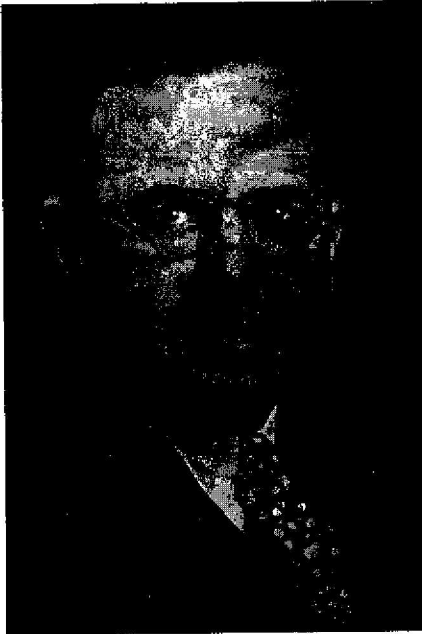

Allen G. Carson, ex-'23, was elected president of the Oregon State Bar association, which met in Baker this summer. At the same time Blaine Hallock, LL.B. '15, was elected delegate to the American Bar association.

Other graduates of the University figured prominently in offices and committee elections. Arthur H. Lewis, LL.B. '11, was re-elected treasurer and will remain on the board of governors. The finance is entirely Oregon graduates, H. H. DeArmond, LL.B. '10; Arthur M. Geary, B.A. '10; and Rupert R. Bullivant, LL.B. '26.

Deceased members of the bar honored included Julius Meier, LL.B. '95;

Karl W. Onthank, '13, who this month resigned as state director of the National Youth Administration to devote full time to his duties as dean of the personnel division of the University. Under his skilled guidance the NYA has aided more than 8000 young people to continue their education.

Arthur M. Geary, '10, has been named on the finance committee of the Oregon State Bar association.

Wallace U. Douglas, Jr., ex-'34; Charles J. Shelton, LL.B. '15; and Orville B. Mount, ex-'97.

Of the fourteen educators elected to membership in Phi Delta Kappa, national honorary education fraternity, this summer, three are alumni of the University. John W. Leonhardt, '29, principal of Central High school in La Grande; Floyd V. Barrett, '36, principal of Halsey High school, and Horton Webb, M.A. '31, principal of Buckman school in Portland, were recognized for their work in education.

The Russell Sage Foundation has just announced the publication of a new book, "Handicrafts of the Southern Highlands," which has been the work of Allen H. Eaton, '02.

Eaton spent several years in the Southern Appalachian highlands gathering data on the arts and crafts peculiar to that region. The book is beautifully illustrated with many pictures in photogravure.

Eaton has long been connected with the Russell Sage Foundation as a social science research expert. In 1934 Mr. Eaton was elected vice-president of the American Institute of Graphic Arts.

The Umatilla County Alumni association met in Pendleton at the Pendleton hotel on the evening of September 8 for a reunion banquet. Because of the busy summer season and the work of preparation for the Round-Up only 40 of the 250 members were able to attend the meeting.

Big event of the evening was the election of new officers to serve during the coming year. Sprague H. Carter, '20, was elected to take over the presidency, replacing B. B. Richards, '98, who has served during the past three years. Carl Webb, '32, was named secretary for the organization.

The banquet hall was decorated with Oregon posters and lemon and green was put at each plate, and, fittingly enough, the main entree was roast duck.

Special guests for the evening were eight high school graduates who entered the University this fall.

Featured on the front page of the September Scribners was a natural color photograph of Mrs. Jane Day Northup, B.A. '32, M.D. '36, who is now interning in New York city. An article in the magazine gives a short sketch of her career. Mrs. Northup is in the obstetrics division of the New York infirmary for women and children. She plans at present to return to Oregon to practise in some town of 4000.

six years. After her graduation from the University she was given a scholarship at the New England conservatory of music. Last fall Miss Brockman was presented in concert with the Boston Philharmonic orchestra; a signal honor for so young an artist.

David A. Morris, ex-'37, recently returned from a year's study at the University of Heidelberg at Heidelberg, Germany, and has entered the University of Oregon medical school this fall.

Morris was able to study medicine in Heidelberg through arrangements made by his fraternity, Beta Theta Pi, which offered the scholarship and made the arrangements for an exchange student from Germany to study forestry at Oregon State college.

Lloyd Faust, '35, has been named to teach economics at the University of Kansas during the coming year. Following his graduation from Oregon in 1935, Faust spent the last year as a teaching fellow in economics at George Washington university in Washington, D. C.

Opening the fall season's important social functions was a silver tea September 19 for the benefit of the University library browsing room. The tea, sponsored by the alumni association, was held at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Burt Brown Barker, in Portland.

University Enrollment Leaps to 3,084

By Martha Stewart

Enrollment jumped 7.5% this term to hit the 3084 mark, Clifford L. Constance, '25, assistant registrar, announces.

As usual, the Sophomore class has the largest enrollment, 1151. The Freshman class, largest in many years, totals 1046. Senior class is 392, followed by the Juniors with 247 members. Other classifications are: Auditors, 11; special students, 19; professionals, 91, and graduates, 127.

Increased enrollment is attributed largely to the fine promotion program staged this summer by various University groups—climax of the promotion was the University of Oregon picnic in Portland on September 9.

New Staff Members

To fill vacancies made by the transfer of former faculty members to other colleges and positions 35 persons have been added to the University of Oregon teaching staff this fall. Among the new members will be Dr. F. G. Macomber, recently assistant city superintendent of schools at Riverside, California, taking the place of Dr. Ralph W. Leighton, who has been made dean of the school of physical education; David Thompson, new assistant professor of English, late of Harvard; Major Edwin E. Wheatley of the Philippine Islands replacing Major R. H. Back, who left the University last year, and Dr. Frederick M. Cambellack, who comes into the English department. At the same time L. K. Shumaker, M.A. '32, assistant-professor of English, was granted leave of absence for a year to accept a fellowship at Stanford University.

Recently appointed custodian of the University's much-lauded browsing room is Miss Ethel R. Sawyer, graduate of Wesleyan University of Middletown, Conn., and the Pratt Institute of Library Science in Brooklyn. Miss Sawyer, who has been with the Hillside Catlin school in Portland for the past 11 years, has been engaged in library work since 1907.

Justin Miller, former member of the University law staff, has been appointed as Associate Justice of the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia by President Roosevelt.

With the opening of the regular term Monday, September 27, five night classes, especially arranged for Eugene townspeople unable to attend regular sessions, will open. The classes will include American literature, problems of the curriculum, administration of justice, conduct of group discussion, and advanced art appreciation. Included on the night school teaching staff will be David Thompson, assistant professor of English; Wayne L. Morse, dean of the law school; Professor N. B. Zane of the art school, and Dr. F. G. Macomber, new member of the school of education faculty.

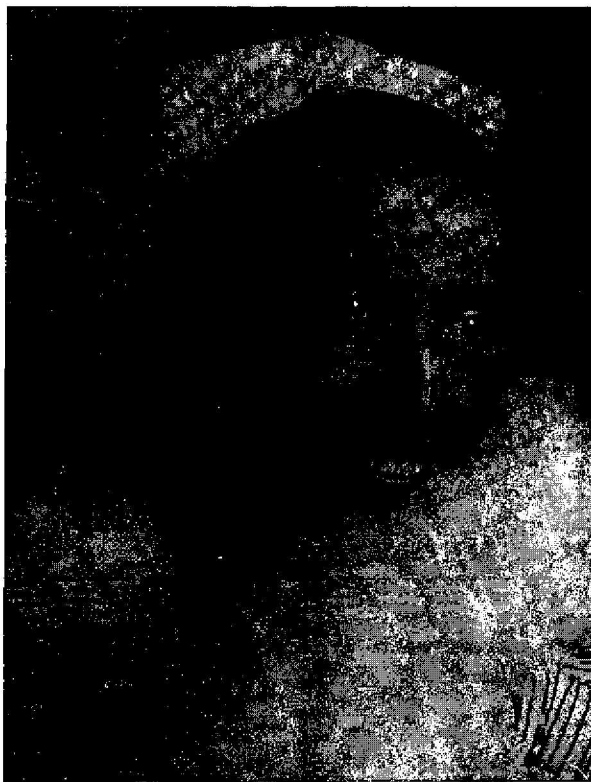

The 60-piece University band under the direction of John Stehn made its first important appearance of the fall at the Oregon-Stanford football game, October 2, in Eugene. Mr. Stehn, who has returned to the campus after a year in the graduate school of music at Columbia university in New York and at the Eastman school of music, plans to organize both a concert and marching band this year for University events.

In spite of the time-honored law school warning to new students to "look at the student on your right and the one on your left and realize that only one of the three of you will be here next term," registration showed an increase of 10 per cent in freshman enrollment in the school of law.

Dr. Norman A. David, recently associate-professor of pharmacology at the University of Cincinnati college of medicine, has been added to the teaching staff of the University of Oregon medical school. Dr. David is a graduate of the University of California and the University of California medical school.

Library Gets Portrait

At a special presentation ceremony on September 28, the University of Oregon library was presented with a life-sized portrait of Woodrow Wilson. The portrait, a gift of Milton A. Miller, former regent of the University, will be hung in the special collection room of the library.

Amelita Galli-Curci has been booked by the ASUO to fill the concert spot on the Sunday afternoon of Homecoming

Paul Cushing (left) has been chosen Yell King for the year. With him is Leland Terry, who acts as his partner

The new battle song, "Marching Oregon," composed by Hal Young and George Hopkins of the University music school last spring, to take the place of the controversial "Mighty Oregon," is to be recorded by Jimmy Greer and his orchestra in Los Angeles this fall. The song, which was greeted with enthusiasm when it was introduced on the campus, will be heard at student assemblies and rallies this year, and is to be used by the Oregon Melody Men, a singing group directed by Mr. Young.

Due to the expansion of the Oregon Law Review during the past five years resulting in cramped and inadequate facilities for the editorial board, a complete new office with individual desks for board members has been provided this fall. The Review, which has gained recognition as one of the best 10 in the country, is also the official publication of the Oregon State Bar association.

"Blood Atlas" Published

Blood cell structures that foretell almost certain death within a week if present in the blood stream have been identified and studied by Dr. Edwin E. Osgood, M. D., professor of experimental medicine at the University of Oregon, inventor of the Osgood "glass bone" for propagating blood and bone marrow cells in the laboratory.

The "death cells" are neutrophil cells that stain a darker blue than normal neutrophils. When these cells are vacuolate, and the nuclei are characterized by toxic granular surfaces under microscopy, the prognosis is death within a week.

Dr. Osgood has checked his findings on patients in the Multnomah county hospital, affiliated with the University of Oregon Medical school. The death cells are fully identified and the technic for staining and microscopic identification are described in Dr. Osgood's "Atlas of Hematology," published this month.

This is the first Atlas of Hematology that has ever been published by an American doctor, and only two others are available in English.

Monumental advances in studies of blood cell structures in the "glass bone" are described in part in the Atlas. Dr. Osgood has developed a device that functions as a kidney, lung and blood stream in simulating normal life conditions for propagating individual blood cells. The technic permits, for the first time, quantitative research in cell growth, and broadens the field of research in immunology, pharmacology, deficiency diseases and cancer causation.

New Course Suggested

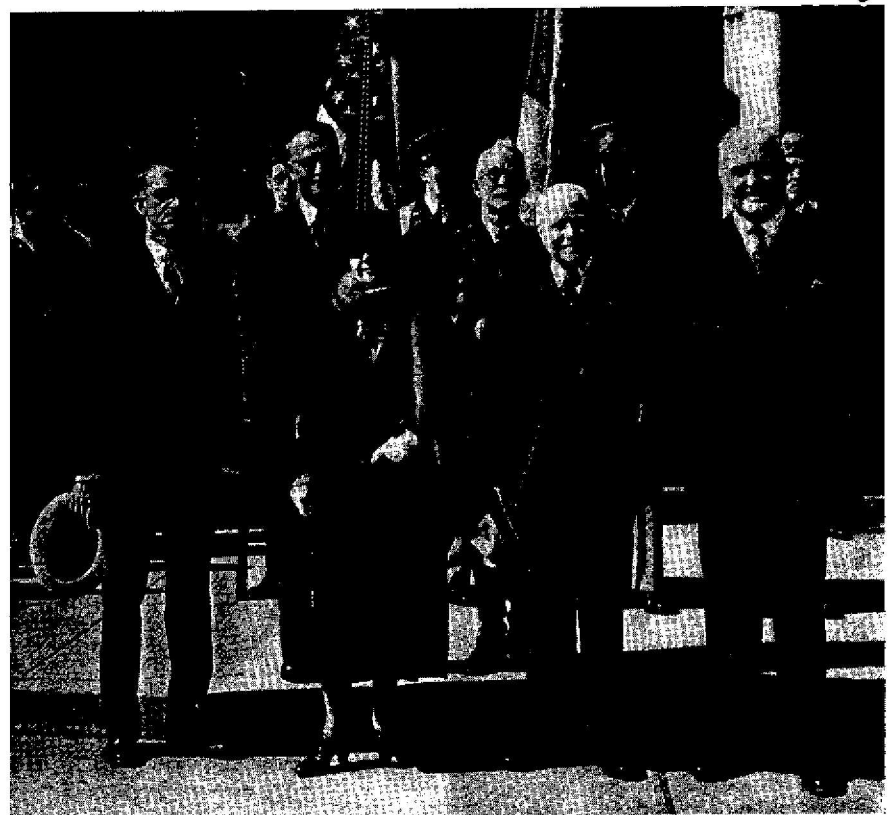

A possible way to friendly relations between the two warring Oriental countries at the close of the Chinese-Japanese conflict was the subject of an address given before a University audience, September 23, by Herbert S. Houston of New York, commissioner to the far east of the New York world's fair, who was a recent visitor in Japan. The address, entitled "Matsuoka, a Builder of New Asia," proposed the organization on the campus of a department of far eastern affairs for study and research toward establishing and maintaining peace between the belligerent countries.

Sigma Nu Pledges Most

Finals on the University of Oregon's "rushing" race run by sororities and fraternities of the campus showed a total of 484 men and women pledged to membership in the social organizations this fall. Topping the list for the women came Chi Omega with 27 new pledges, while Delta Gamma ran a close second with 23. Heading the men's houses were Sigma Nu with 32 and Alpha Tau Omega with 25.

The University journalism school will be the scene of the thirteenth annual convention of the Oregon State High School Press association, October 29 and 30. A limited number of delegates from each school throughout the state will be allowed attendance. The five best high school papers will be chosen and winners announced at the conference.

Ducks Wax Stanford Gridsters 7-6

By Hubbard Kuokka

Oregon's "skittish" sophomores helped upset the dope bucket October 2, when they took Stanford 7-6 at the dedication of the newly turfed Hayward field.

This is the first time that Oregon has beaten Stanford in football. The dedication of the turf field included speeches of thanks and acceptance by President Boyer and Chancellor Hunter.

UCLA 26- Oregon 13

In the U. C. L. A. game, the Bruins first scored in the first quarter with a 57-yard end run by Kenny Washington, negro halfback. The kick was good. The second U. C. L. A. touchdown came after a power march down the field in the second quarter, but the kick was no good. Meanwhile, Oregon had made two drives down toward the enemy goal but did not quite hit paydirt.

However, before the half was over the Ducks led by the sophomores Rowe, Graybeal and Smith, hammered, passed and ran the ball from the Oregon 40-yard line to the Bruin goal and Smith went over for the score. Try for point blocked.

In the second half, U. C. L. A. took the kickoff and marched down the field, eventually to score with a pass. Again the conversion was blocked. But a few minutes later they again brought the ball back to the Webfoot goal line and scored, and made the conversion.

But the Ducks came back and again with the aid of the sophs, passed, high-powered and slipped to the 7-yard stripe and a pass from Smith to Graybeal paid dividends. Kick good. The Webfoot almost started another drive before the game was over but they ran out of time.

Captain "Tony" Amato came out of the game in the first quarter with a badly gashed eye. He will be back in the fray in about two weeks.

In the Oregon-Stanford game, the passing combination of Smith to Graybeal from the 50-yard line was the scoring play in the second quarter. Joe Huston kicked the conversion that won the game. However, things looked pretty gloomy for Oregon at the first of the game. Stanford took the kickoff and moved on up toward the Oregon goal line with great ease, ripping wide holes in the Webfoot line to make yardage and yardage.

The home team stopped the Indi-

It was just such a pass as this that little Jay Graybeal, sophomore back, caught to score the winning touchdown against Stanford on October 2 when the turf field was dedicated.

ans on the five-yard line, however, and managed to hold the threatening Stanford boys back. In the second quarter a break in the form of a fumble by Stanford on the 50-yard line was taken advantage of by Bentley and Jensen of Oregon, who recovered the bobble.

Then on the next play Smith heaved a 26-yard pass to Graybeal, who squirmed his way 25 yards through the Stanford backfield to cross the goal line standing up. Then the little Pendleton buckaroo held the ball while Huston converted.

But in the final quarter of the game,

Graybeal, the little hero, fumbled a Stanford punt, and the ball was recovered by Stanford, who immediately marched down to the end zone and over for a touchdown. Then Bill Fosskett, Oregon's left tackle, blocked Groves' try for the extra point and the score remained through the end of the game 7 to 6 in favor of Oregon.

Sophomores from "Honest John" Warren's mythical Northwest championship Frosh team of last year were the hot sparks in the offensive of both games but a sadly inadequate line was the Oregon team's big blemish.

Frosh Schedule Tough

John Warren's 1937 Duckling football team has bitten off a man-sized chunk of competition this fall. Starting on the evening of October 1, with a night game with Oregon Normal school at Independence, Oregon, and on the following Friday with another little "civil war" battle with the Oregon State Rooks at the Multnomah stadium in Portland, the youngsters have been scheduled for seven strenuous games on seven successive Friday nights. This is the heaviest Frosh schedule in history.

The schedule includes three games with the Rooks, one with the University of Washington Babes, and one each with Oregon Normal school, Southern Oregon Normal school, and Eastern Oregon Normal school.

Two of these games have been scheduled for the Multnomah stadium in Portland, one with the Rooks, and one with the Babes. Of the other two Rook games, one will be played in Corvallis and the other in Eugene.

Tie First Game

The game of the Frosh versus the Oregon Normal school team ended in a 6 to 6 tie. The Frosh carried the battle most of the way and put the first touchdown over in the first quarter with a series of passes and ground-gaining runs, featuring Dungey, Hendershott and Mabee. The Wolves scored on a blocked Oregon punt behind the Frosh's goal line, in the last quarter. Neither team was able to convert.

The Freshman squad looks potent in its backfield power but a trifle weak in its line.

Some of the more talented Freshmen are: Chet Haliski, from Roosevelt; Leonard Isberg, Benson, and Gordon Olson, Jefferson, all of Portland; Mar-

Frosh Games Boosted

The Portland Alumni association has undertaken the sponsorship of the Frosh games to be played in Portland this year between the Frosh and the Oregon State Rooks and the Washington Babes.

Tickets for the games—all to be played at Multnomah stadium—are only 40 cents for adults and 25 cents for high school students.

Heading the ticket sales for the Washington Babes game will be N. Thomas Stoddard, formerly assistant graduate manager.

Plans are being made for an all-University dance at Multnomah club immediately following the game. The game is on a Friday night and will be over at 10:00, and dancing will be until 1:00.

Johnny Callahan's band has been signed for the dance. Committee members appointed by dance chairman Freeman Young, ex-'33, are Mrs. Ralph Staley, '28; Velma McIntyre, '36; Paul Hunt, '30; N. Thomas Stoddard, '30, and Ralph Walstrom, ex-'33.

Again! Rifle Team

The University of Oregon rifle team again hit the bullseyes in a national rifle shooting contest during the R. O. T. C. training camp season this summer. Although it was awarded second place in the contest for the "Warrior of the Pacific" trophy awarded by the University of Hawaii, the Oregon team had the distinction of having the highest general average of all the R. O. T. C. teams in the continental United States.

First place went to the University of Hawaii, who won their own trophy with an average score of 217.44 per man with a 22-man team. Oregon scored an average of 213.13 per man with its 32-man team. To compile these scores, the total score of the team is divided by the number of men firing. Then the scores are sent to the War department in Washington, D. C., where the results are compared.

The Oregon team shot its scores at the annual R. O. T. C. summer encampment at Vancouver Barracks, Washington.

Hughes With L. A. Team

Bernie Hughes, a former University of Oregon and more recently a professional football player with the Chicago Cardinals, has signed up with the Los Angeles professional football squad. Before coming to the Webfoot gridiron, Hughes played on the Medford High school team.

Olympic Star at Oregon

Mack Robinson, a member of the 1936 United States Olympic team has enrolled in the University of Oregon this fall and will compete in the green and lemon-yellow of track coach Bill Hayward's cinder squad. This dusky runner, a transfer student from Pasadena junior college, will mean plenty of dynamite in the sprints and broad-jump.

Robinson, who placed second in the 200-meter run in the Berlin Olympics, is considered one of the greatest sprinters in the country, and last spring he jumped farther than anyone else in the United States has jumped this year. He broad-jumped 25 feet 5½ inches at the Drake relays.

He has run the 200 meters in 20.9 seconds, the 100 meters in 10.4 seconds, the 100-yard dash in 9.6 seconds, the 220-yard dash in 20.9 seconds, and the 440 in 47.5 seconds.

Robinson will enter the school as a sophomore in physical education.

Varoff Tours Europe

George Varoff, the famous Webfoot polevaulter, returned to the University this fall after a strenuous summer of competition in the United States and in Europe. After the A. A. U. meet in Milwaukee he was selected as one of the 10 men sent to represent the A. A. U. in competition with athletes in England, France, Switzerland and Italy.

He won all his meets with ease save the first one in London when he was still stiff and logey from his ocean voyage. The pulled thigh muscle which bothered him earlier last spring is well now and he is looking forward to a number of indoor meets this winter.

Hobson Starts Basketball

Preparatory to the opening of basketball practice in a week or two, the basketball floor on McArthur court has been thoroughly sanded, the court repainted and revarnished. A big year is expected in basketball at the "Igloo," and with the inclusion of the University of Montana in the Northwest loop the enlarged schedule will probably make for a fierce championship race all around the Northern division this year.

The first few weeks of practice will center about the sophomores and last year's reserves, Coach Howard Hobson has intimated, and the usual barnstorming into California during the Christmas holidays will be dropped this year because of the enlarged schedule.

The pre-season games will be with the smaller schools and independent teams in the state.

Sallee Top Man

A University of Oregon man, Joe Sallee, also won the distinction of being on the ten-man team sent to the national rifle matches at Camp Perry, Ohio, from the ninth corps area. He was one of the two men chosen from the Vancouver encampment of several colleges.

Stanley Warren, another Oregon man, was on the Oregon National guard team sent to Camp Perry.

Dale Lasselle proved himself a line plunger in the Stanford game

Bill Foskitt's broad chest blocked Stanford's try after point and gave Oregon the one-point margin to win

Who listens to the ASSOCIATED FOOTBALL SPORTCASTS?

MORE people listen to the Associated Football

Broadcasts than to any other radio show in the West.

All of the stadiums  on the Pacific Coast combined could not hold this great radio crowd.

But who are they? Why aren't they at the games?

They are people in far-off places, in  lumber camps, on construction jobs, in the mines... agriculturists, folks many cities away. They are travelers,  on land, on ships at sea.

They are people whose duties keep them, who listen as they work or as they ride.  They are in hospitals, in sanitariums... children, veterans, aged. They are invalids at home. They are fans who could not follow their local team to a contest miles away. They are folks in public places, hotel lobbies, in front of radio stores. These are the listeners to Associated's Football Broadcasts.

Plus you, your family,  your friends

when time or circumstance keeps you from the stadium. Tide Water Associated Oil Company is pleased

PORTLAND'S FINEST HOTELS

GEORGE S. WITT, high school teacher, says: "I have used Triton in my Nash for 2 years. Seldom add oil between drains at 1200 to 1500 miles. Pistons and cylinder heads stay clean and free from carbon."

MISS LEE HIGGINS, director of private school at Palm Springs, says: "I have used Triton in my Pontiac for 13 months, in desert driving in temperatures from 24 to 115 degrees. Have had no motor trouble at all, have never had a motor 'ping' and do not have to add oil between drains."

WITH TRITON!

R. H. PETERKIN, trucking operator, says: "I have used Triton in my 1934 Chevrolet since the car was new. Now have 34,000 miles and have had no motor trouble and the valves ground only once. Get fine oil mileage—drain every 1000 miles and seldom necessary to add oil."

JACK DODD, master barber, has used Triton for 2 years in his 1935 Dodge. Says: "Have driven 20,000 miles with Triton, and like it so much that I took a case with me on a trip to Chicago last year. I find that Triton goes just as far and stays cleaner than any oil I have ever used."

Triton gives finest type of lubrication money can buy — PLUS freedom from carbon knocks!

Triton is saving money for its thousands of users in the West because it is 100% PURE paraffin-base... 100% PURE lubricant. So pure, motors easily burn away previous carbon deposits. So pure, it will not break down to form harmful carbon and sludge that cause excessive motor wear.

Thus Triton saves carbon scrapes, saves gasoline, saves oil drains, saves repairs. Try Triton next time you need oil. It is sold at over 9,000 stations in the West.
