Foreword

In presenting this, the Nineteen Sixteen Oregana, we offer neither apologies nor explanations.

In its preparation we have done our best to faithfully record the events of the college year, and although we realize that "to err is human," we can only hope that the inevitable mistakes have been reduced to the minimum.

If, when scanning its pages, you are made to feel in larger measure the potency of the Oregon spirit we,
the class of Nineteen Sixteen,
will consider our effort
well directed.

To

Professor Eric W. Allen

Our friend and advisor, whose loyalty to the Class of 1916 has won the heart of every member, we respectfully dedicate this volume of the Oregana.

Retrospection

The dear dead days are faded in the bitter toil of life,
But still the memories come drifting
down the saddened years;
Tonight we'll hide away the thoughts of all our anguished strife,
And passing swift a down the heights
we've gained, behind the tears
We'll revel in the retrospect that shines with silver light,
And hungry souls shall feast on joys that were for us last night.
Last night it only seems that we were wandering in the shade
Beneath the arches ever green, beside the vine clad walls,
Where sunshine came with those dear friends and intermittent played
Upon the grass beside the race, and round those grey sad halls.
The ones we loved are gone; tear
clouds enfold our wistful gaze;
The vision fades - the labors surge;
those were our sweetest days.

Senior History

SOME years ago, when the members of the class of 1915 first banked their entrance money with Magnate Tiffany, they were declared by Dean Straub to be the most promising bunch that had ever matriculated. That we are still a promising bunch is attested by the merchants of Eugene, as well as the members of the Faculty. (In fact, some of us have had to do considerable promising to remain in college.)

Of course, that is just a pleasantry. Were we not the most modest company of ascetics, and were we to tell the unvarnished truth, we would be forced to admit that, physically, mentally and MORALLY, we are the class of all classes.

Just allow the following statistics to occupy the focal point of your consciousness for a moment: Quality, and not quantity, has been our distinctive feature; great in deeds rather than in numbers are we. From our ranks have come four letter men in football, three in baseball, two in basketball, and five in track. Five of our members have represented the University in Oratory and Debate, while ten have made the Glee Club more harmonious.

The Class of 1915 has the reputation of finishing everything it starts—and some of the things other classes start. Look at the success of our Underclass Mix and our Junior Week-End last year. Owing to a fortunate misunderstanding of Faculty restrictions, at our Sophomore Hop we served the only real nourishing punch ever enjoyed at a similar function.

Witness our Oregana, that most marvelous, magnificent, monumental, mirth-provoking compendium of information ever compiled by college students. (Copies can still be obtained by a fortunate few at $2.00 per. Address A. Jaureguy, Class Treasurer, enclosing money.)

And our GIRLS! Of all dainty, delightful, delectable, dazzling damsels, ours are the most desirable.

Seriously, as the day draws near when Hello Lane and the Mill Race will know us no more, we feel the truth of the old saying that college days are the happiest of our lives. We believe we have the kind of Oregon Spirit that will abide with us after we have left the campus and hold us steadfast and loyal to Alma Mater. Wherever we may drift during the coming years, we will be with you in spirit on the campus.

Law Senior History

WHEN we assembled in 1912 for our first recitations, we looked enthusiastically and hopefully forward to the day when we would graduate with a full and complete knowledge of "all the law."

How difficult the path of legal learning really is, has been fully and sufficiently impressed upon us. However, we have diligently and hopefully pursued our studies with advantage to ourselves, and with apparent satisfaction to the Faculty.

In scholarship we maintained a standard we modestly admire. A few of our classmates took the Bar in their Junior year and passed an examination conceded to be the most severe ever held in Oregon.

Class politics in our Freshman year were turbulent, and only after repeated elections did our plurality of officers become reduced to the "officially authorized" minimum.

Arriving at the dignity of Juniors, we endeavored to prove to the Freshmen the truth of Blackstone's maxim, that "law is a rule of conduct laid down by a superior to an inferior." The Freshmen, however, had not arrived at that point in their evolution where "Junior law" was acceptable, and they resorted to mob violence, "contrary to the statute in such case made and provided"—and only by a stroke of strategy were we spared and allowed to continue our studies unmolested.

Our Senior year was one of hard work, for with the finals and the bar examinations being held in succession, there was no time for play, but we survived the test with the minimum of enthusiasm for our future in our chosen profession.

Medics Senior History

With the graduation of the present fourth year class, another cycle is completed, another link forged in the chain which has bound together the Medical Departments of Oregon and Willamette Universities.

In one more year the last class under the merger will have graduated and the Willamette Medical College, as an entity, will exist only in the memory of her alumni.

Time will witness the development out of this merger of the Medical Department of the Oregon University into a school in every way worthy the support of the vast territory which it serves.

Other medical schools have called some of our members, some have given up the study of medicine for other pursuits, and a few, but all too many, death has claimed.

Out of the Willamette division, J. Howard Longbottom was stricken in his first year with pulmonary tuberculosis. A young man of sterling character, and easily the leader of his class in his studies, it seemed that death was indeed exacting the fairest flower in his harvest.

Out of the ranks of the Oregon division two men were called and their mates left sorrowing over their going.

George Hastings met his tragic death at the hands of an assassin, and Oscar Curren was taken with smallpox.

Our history will have to be that of toilers and builders—the plain work-a-day commonplaces—not of great generalship or achievements; but we go out with the hope that we may always be a credit, at least no discredit, to the institution which gives us our degree.

Junior History

WHER class histories have been egotistical, even boastful, but not this. Let this be a different recital of the facts, events, and epochs which have distinguished the Class of 1916.

When we entered the University and found that we were expected to take the place of the illustrious Class of 1912, we were at once stirred to action. We were the first class to ourselves enforce "the wearing of the green." Our dance was the best ever, our class hour set a new standard and has never been equalled except by our own class; we defeated the Sophomores in debate; won the inter-class track meet; burned our green caps; our Freshman year ended in a blaze of glory.

During the second year we maintained the same high standard we had set in all things. And with a better knowledge of the University, members of our class were forcing themselves ahead in all activities.

This year our Underclass Mix was the first square mix in the history of the University.

During the three years we have been here, the shoulders of the Junior Class have borne the athletics burdens of the University. Names of men with Northwest track records, men chosen on All-Northwest teams in every branch of sports, debaters, orators, Glee Club men and women, actors, poets, musicians, and even social lions, will be found on our class roll. Are we satisfied with what we have accomplished? No! During the one year we have yet to attend the University we expect to accomplish, if possible, even greater things.

And in closing let us say, with all due modesty and no arrogance, "that we look good to us."

PRENTISS BROWN.

Law Junior History

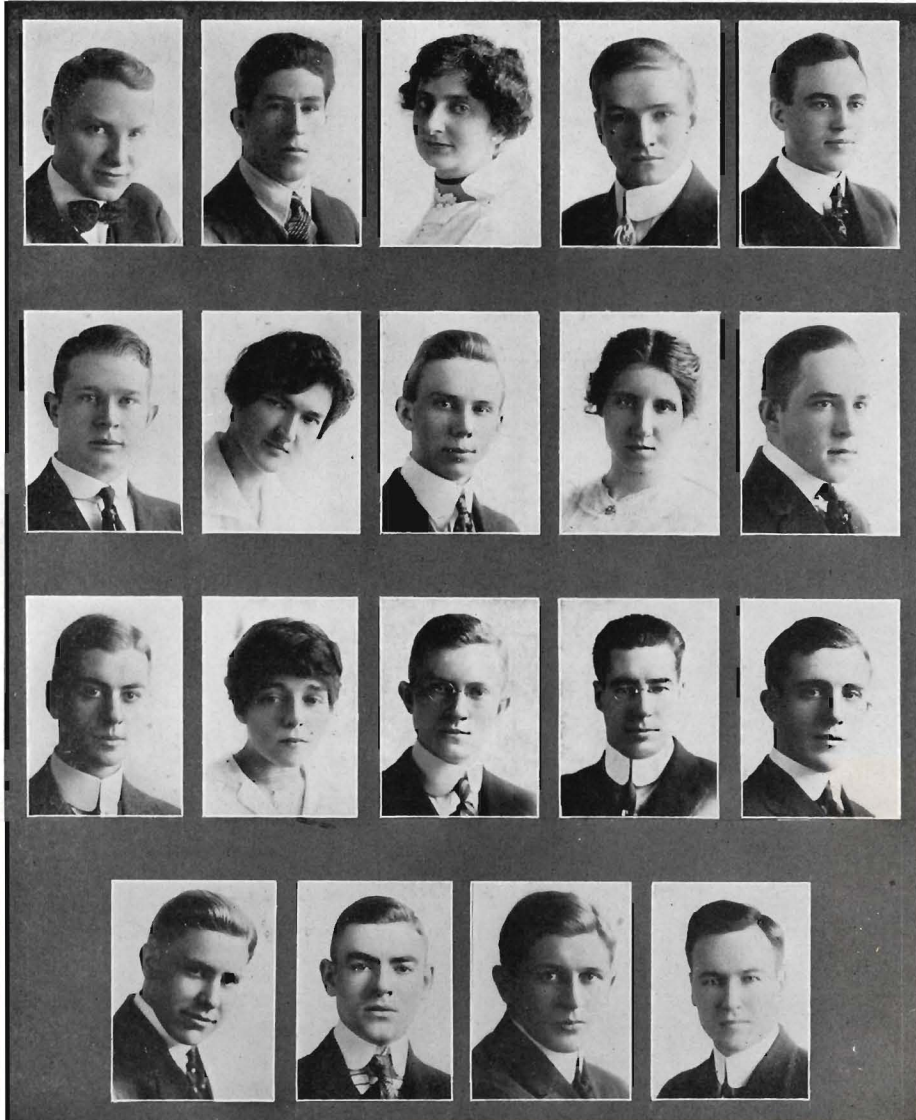

AT the opening of the year 1915 the students of the Law Department were ushered into new quarters. In our new home we have access to all the courts which are in session and the County Law Library. With these facilities, our earnest efforts in class work and the instruction and council of our Faculty, the Law School of "Old Oregon" takes on a new life, and we all anticipate the time when we can reflect with pride upon our participation in making this "the Law School of the Pacific Coast."

The Junior Class was the first to call a meeting at the beginning of the school year for the purpose of electing officers, which proves that we still have the "old pep" with which we started as Freshies. Shortly after a meeting of the Student Body was held, and after a few speeches and a general "get together," the officers for the ensuing year were chosen. Contrary to the past "lambastings" given the members of the Freshman Class, the Student Body met them off with a glad hand and a hearty welcome.

In a short time the Law Department will graduate another large class, all of whom have been loyal and enthusiastic workers for the interest of the school and their fellow students, and to this Senior Class of 1915 the Juniors extend their sincere good wishes for a successful future. We feel sure that many of our departing brothers will prove to be a credit to the University of Oregon Law Department.

Sophomore History

FOR almost two years, the Class of 1917 has been participating in the undergraduate life of the University. We believe that our achievements at this stage in our college career compare favorably with those of other classes, past and present. A brief review of the activities of the members of the '17 class, both individually and collectively, demonstrates that we have not been found wanting in the various lines of student endeavor.

In Varsity athletics, '17-ers have won thirteen "O's." Last year our basketball and track teams carried away first honors in the inter-class series. The first three men to breast the tape in the 1913 cross country were "last year's" Frosh.

It was the 1917 class that originated the Victory Flag which flies to the breeze in front of Villard when success is attained by a University athletic team. The fact must not be overlooked that we were the first class to finish its Freshman year with money in the treasury.

The feminine members of the class have distinguished themselves in the activities open to women, and we feel justly proud of their efforts.

Our past achievements will not cause us to rest on our oars in self-complacency, but, instead, will serve to spur us on to greater things for "Old Oregon."

Frae an Auld Scotch Graduate

By Milton A. Stoddard.

Are ye prood o' your-r-r varsity, laddie,
Do ye lo'e here wi' a' o' your-r soul?
Does a feelin' o' rapture run doon your spine
As her-r-r name on your tongue ye roll?
Or-r-regon! Or-r-r-regon!

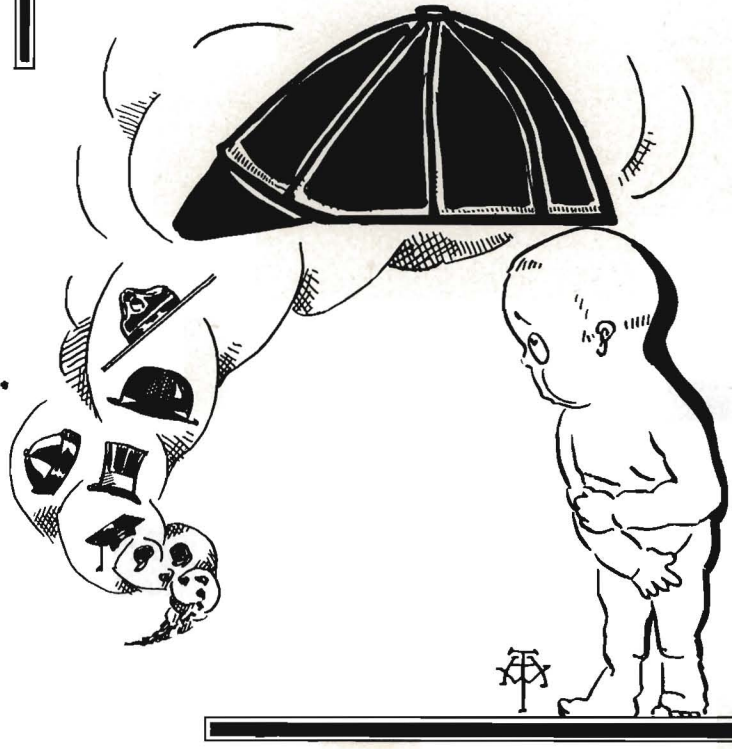

I'm tellin' ye, lad, the soond o' her name
Fills my heart fu' o' joy and mak's me exclaim,
Ye've a school wi' the spir-r-rit that never says die;
"That-a auld fecht!" puts the fechtin' in ye.
Or-r-regon! Or-r-r-regon!

When ye're far frae your hame and awa' frae your friends
Wi' your-r college days past, then your main joy depends
On readin' the sportin' page, weighin' the "dope,"
And ye dream o' your team and ye pray and ye hope,
And ye feel like a laddie that roots at the game;
Your dear-r-r Alma Mater is a'ways the same!

And O what a sang
When the game comes alang
And a' the auld grads wi' the young laddies gang!
The dopesters are tellin' ye that it's in vain,
But I smile and I answer, "Ye'll ken us again!"
When the yellin' is started
There's nae yen doon-hearted,
And ye work and ye root
And ye sing and ye shout
For the team that ye ken is your-r ain.

When against ye are the ver-r-ra gods,
And the betters gi' ye biggest odds,
And the whole wairld says ye're sure to lose,
I tell ye, lad, dinna get the blues,
But smile and pray, and what's more—fecht!
And the game 'll surely gang a' recht.

Freshman History

IN the early part of September, 1914, three hundred and forty-five would-be seekers of knowledge entered through the stately portals of Villard Hall, paid their fees, and recorded their names on the class roll of 1918. With this act was brought into existence the present Freshman Class. A class which prides among its members students from every county in the state, from other states in the Union, and from foreign countries.

As a class, we believe we have established a record which succeeding Freshman classes will have to strive hard to surpass. We placed our numerals on Skinner's and Kincaid Field, and most humbly deplaced them. We sent forth a fighting football team against the Sophomores and we were only defeated by a small margin; we won first place in inter-class handball and basketball series and lost the Underclass Mix only after a hard fight.

The Freshman bonfire was the largest and highest that has ever been built in the history of the University. The Freshman Glee was conceded by "old timers" as the greatest formal in every resepect ever pulled off in Hayward Hall.

Our motto will always be: "A Greater Oregon."

KENT R. WILSON.

Law Freshman History

THE Freshman Class started with a membership of eighty. Only about three or four of our number failed to pass the examinations and discontinued, due we presume to unexpected business affairs.

The class was organized about the middle of October and officers elected. The organization of the class had a tendency to draw the members closer together (several of the boys having made small loans already), and, while it has worked a hardship on some of the members to attend, each has profited by the presence of the other.

Our class is composed of graduates from colleges in all parts of this country and Italy. Even the "war college" of Portland is represented, one Freshman being a leading member thereof.

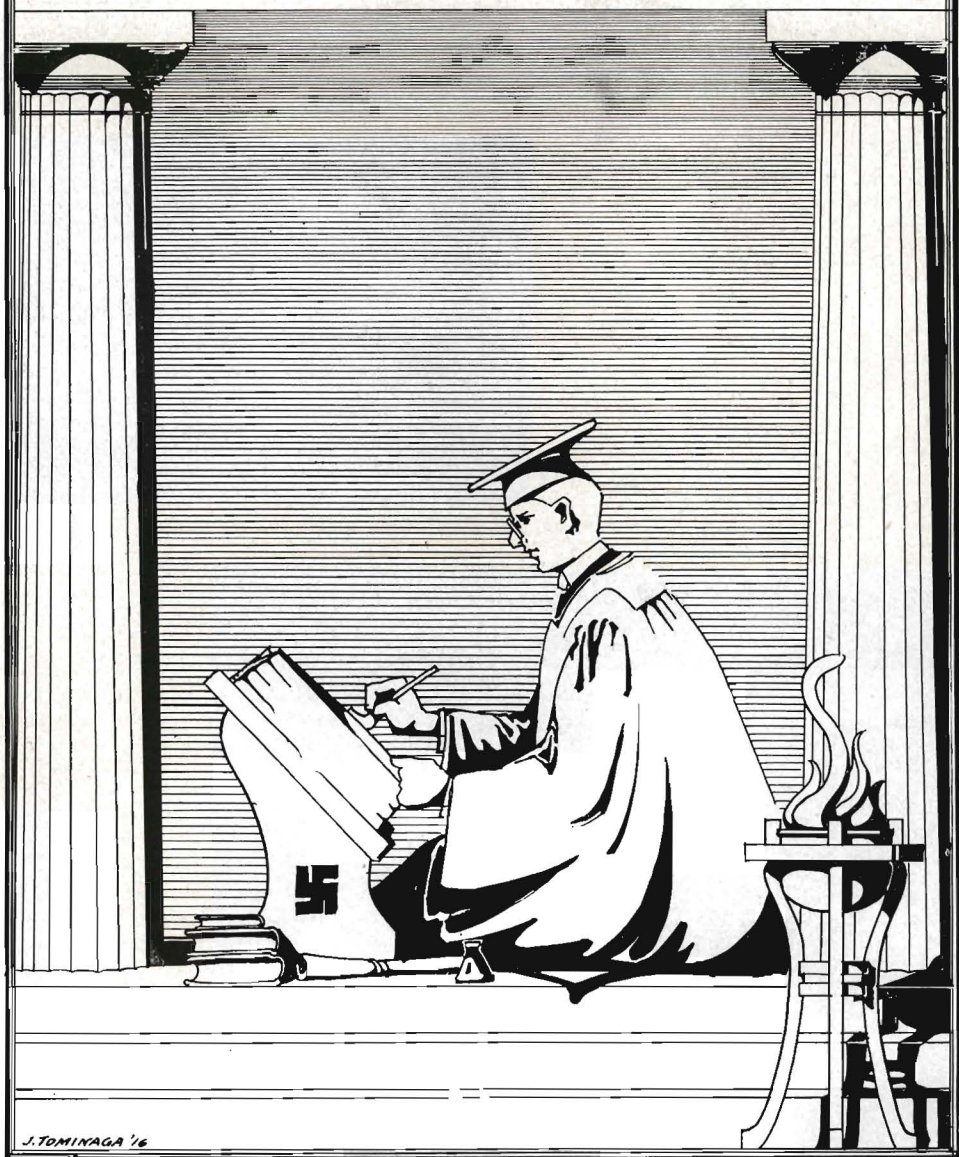

Our "Admiral" had a close call this spring when the Legislature placed his head across the political block of economy, and swung the well sharpened ax over him. But for the Admiral's understanding of Criminal Law he would be but a memory now. The Admiral owns the Cruiser Boston, as well as all of the other war boats in port. He thinks that he owns the militia, but by the time he is through with "Burdick on Sales" he will know that his title is invalid.

The more law we learn, the more we find there is to learn, and we trust that the conclusion of our Senior year in 1917 will find us equipped to do credit to ourselves and our Alma Mater.

Law School Associated Students

In my mind, no Student Association could have had more loyal and painstaking officers than this Association of Students in the Law Department of the University of Oregon. We hope that the officers to come will not only measure up to the standard heretofore attained, but carry on the work of the organization so that it may reach a position of power and strength in the educational field. This can only be gained by co-operation, and my earnest plea is that every man connected with the Law School at present, and in the future, will do his part, however small it may be.

The Senior class, which will be with us for only a short time longer, holds an enviable position and has made a splendid record that will always be the one bright spot in the annals of this school. Practically through the efforts of this class alone, the Law School forced a reluctant recognition of athletics, and at the same time they have upheld the high standard of the school in all the branches of its curriculum.

The Junior class, having almost twice as many members as the Senior class, are well qualified to assume the burden which will be handed to them in the short space of a few weeks. And we know that in the spring of 1916, they will have carried forward the purpose, work and honor of the institution that shall be allotted them to a successful termination.

The Freshmen have shown themselves to be exceedingly energetic and what they will do is no matter of conjecture, because we know them; and because we know what they are, we wish them good luck.

1010 OREGANA 1010

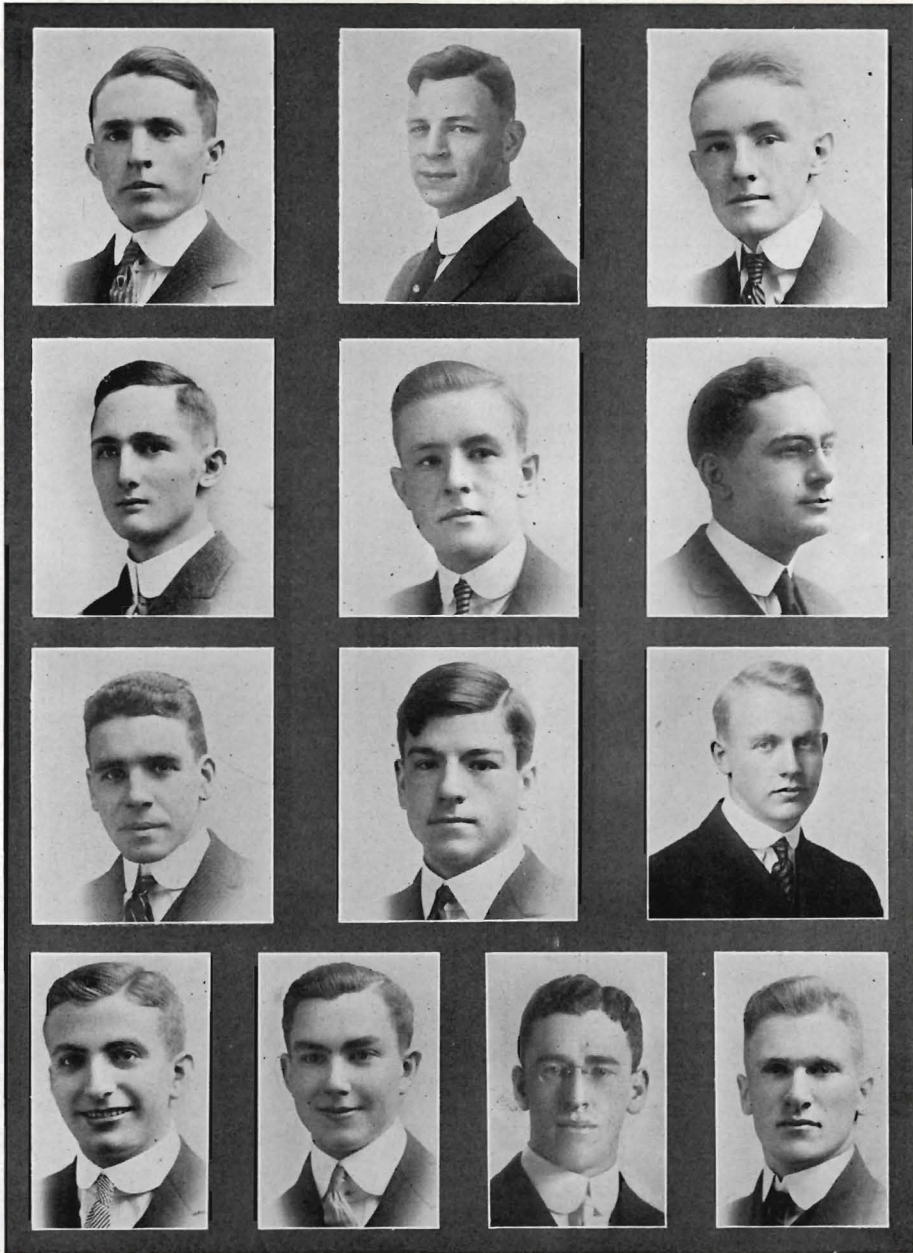

After all is said and done, the true reason for our success is the unfailing unity of action and the never-ending spirit of good fellowship, which has so far been the keynote of our organization. As President, and on behalf of the other officers of the Association, I wish at this time to extend the good wishes of the Associated Students of the Law Department of the University of Oregon to our big brother, "The Student Body of the University," and to say that our greatest source of pride is the fact that we ourselves are a part of that Student Body, identified in interest with it and working, striving and struggling to attain the same results and ends, and to place our University in such a position among the great educational institutions of the country that it will ever reflect credit, honor and esteem upon our state.

WILLIAM J. MACKENZIE.

For years Oregon has had a band which has been known all over the Coast as "Oregon's Boola Band." Every year the musically inclined gathered together, and, after a few short practices, took in the football games, giving Boola as an excuse for so doing. However, up to the last two years the band was organized solely for football games, and, after the season, disbanded and was heard from no more for the rest of the year. Two years ago it was decided to attempt to make the band a permanent Student Body affair, and a leader was hired to take charge. For three months things went swimmingly and the band was becoming recognized as a musical organization of some worth, when the leader's services were dispensed with and things slowed up. Football season being over, the band did not get together again except to play for basketball and baseball games. At the last meeting of the Student Body last year an amendment was passed awarding sweaters to the members of the band and prospects looked good for this year.

As soon as the first rush of registering was over this fall a meeting of all the musicians in school was called to ascertain what material was on hand. Thirty-five responded, and from this number twenty-four were selected. Rehearsals commenced at once, and by the time a public appearance was necessary the band was in fairly good shape.

The band has at last, after many years of struggling, come to its own at Oregon, and it remains only with the Student Body to decide how long it shall continue. With the proper support next year an organization could be effected which would be permanent. In order to do this it would be necessary to have a man added to the faculty who could handle the band and give instruction on wind instruments. This is the goal toward which the band men are working and which, if realized, will mean a real band for Oregon.

THE INTERNATIONAL PEACE CONTEST, AT CORVALLIS, FEBRUARY, 12, 1915

Clarence Young, of Reed College, received first place. Peter C. Crockatt, of the University of Oregon, taking second with the oration entitled "An Illogical State Concept."

The I. O. A. O. Contest was held at McMinnville, Oregon, March 12, 1915. Victor Morris, of the University of Oregon, won first place, using the oration entitled "Democracy and World Peace." Mr. Edward Livingston, of Pacific University, won second and M. C. Smithson, of McMinnville College, won third.

On May 14th, 1914, there was held in Portland, Oregon, a dual extempore speaking and oratorical contest between the University of Oregon and the University of Washington. The U. of W. won both contests by a 2 to 1 vote of the judges. The winners of the contests each received a $50.00 prize, which had been offered by the King County Bar Association. The general subject for the extempore speaking contest was Unemployment, and the specific subject was "The Panama Canal and Unemployment in the Pacific Northwest."

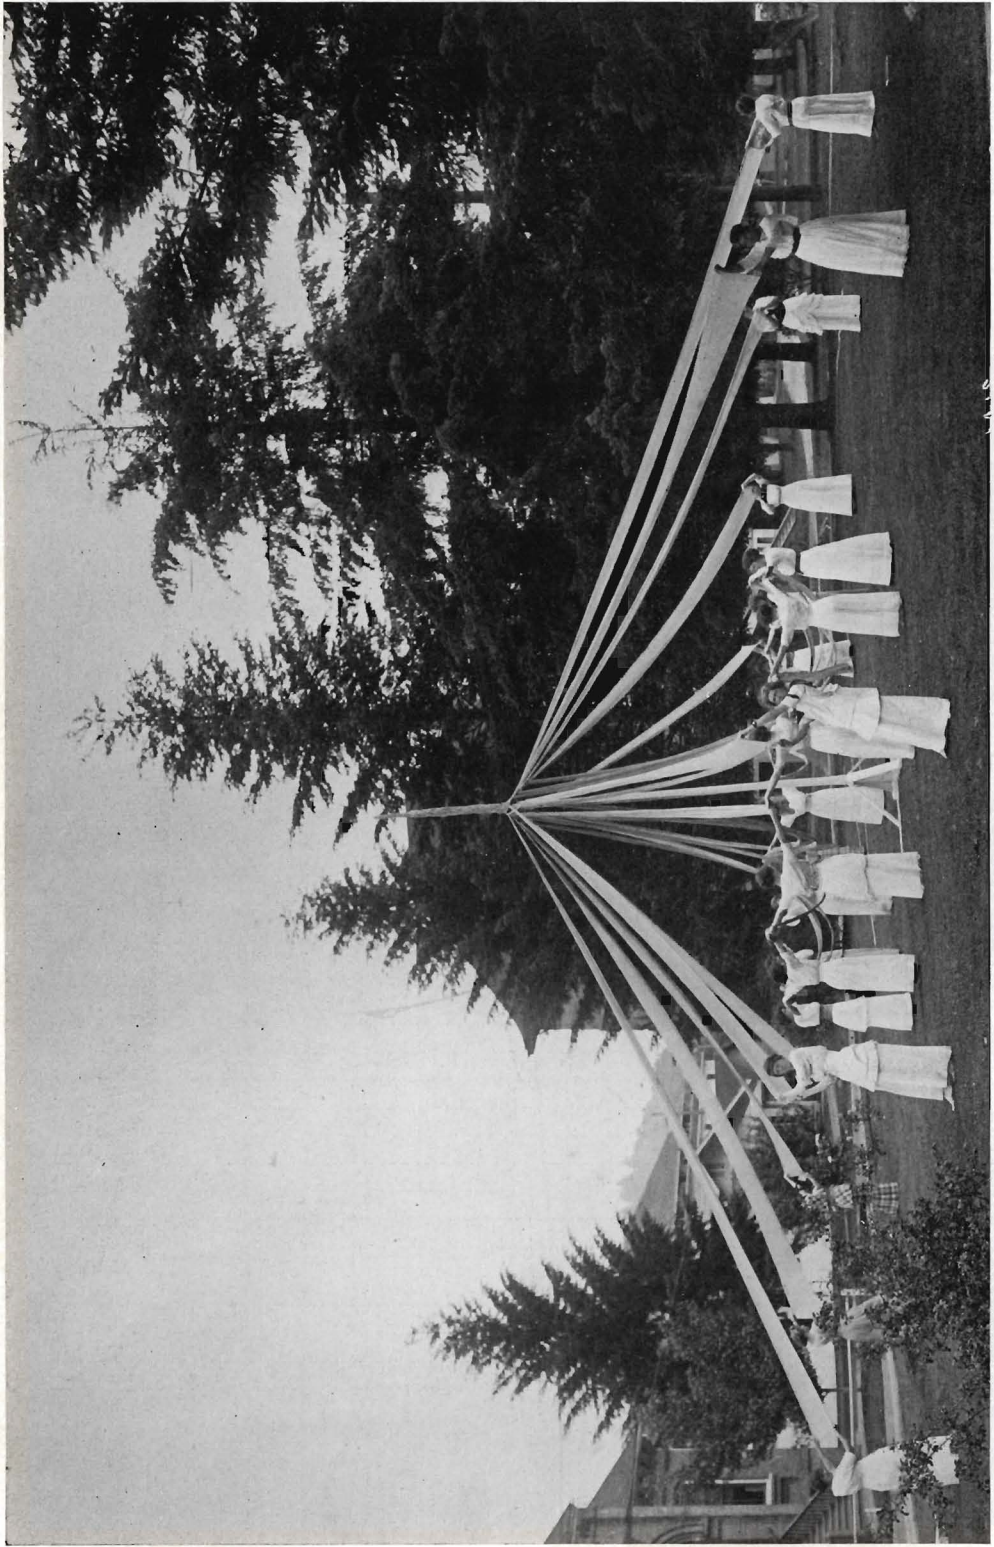

Mr. Nicholas Jaureguy represented the U. of O. in the extempore contest, and Victor Morris in the oratorical contest. Mr. Morris's subject was: "A Moral Aspect of War: A Factor in Shaping Codes of National Honor."

1914 FOOTBALL TEAM

Review of 1914 Season

The 1914 football season, from a student standpoint, was an entire success; an even break with the Oregon Aggies, when defeat seemed assured, sent the Lemon Yellow supporters home thoroughly satisfied with their team and the desperate fight that they put forth against their most immediate rivals.

Football, throughout the Northwest last season, was of a higher class than previous years had shown; the squads were experienced, the games close and the coaches well up in their work. Oregon, perhaps, was the hardest hit by the loss of old men, there being only six veterans who answered Bezdek's first call to togs when college opened in September.

However, after a two week sojourn at Nimrod, a summer camp on the McKenzie river, the football squad launched into active work with the added advantage of being together before the regular semester of collegiate work commenced.

The big problem which confronted the Oregon coaches was the developing of men to fill the line positions vacated by the graduation of Hall, Fenton, Bradshaw, Caulfield and the failure of Bill Holden to return. From the ranks of the "Frosh" class Bezdek drew three regulars in the personnel of Philbin, Risley and Snyder. Wiest grabbed Bradshaw's vacated wing, while Garrett and Powrie landed safe in the other extremity.

With practically a new line and a veteran set of backs, Oregon drew first blood of the season when she walloped the Whitman Missionaries 29 to 3. One week later, in Portland, Johnny Bender's Washington Aggies were given a 7 to 0 drubbing, and incidentally Oregon received a mighty scare.

The next game of the year was with Idaho, in Moscow. This victory cost Oregon the loss of two backs when Cornell and Malarkey were relegated to the hospital, lost for the remainder of the season. Oregon won 13 to 0 only after a hard fight.

With three victories credited to the Lemon Yellow, students were looking forward to the game with Washington, to be played three weeks after the Idaho contest. A practice battle was given Old Willamette, and when the second team were through, a 60 to 0 defeat had been administered the Methodists. Kind of evened up an old score.

Before the Washington game Sam Cook was sent to the hospital with the mumps and Beckett suffered an attack of tonsillitis; both men recovered in time to make the trip and to play the game, although the loss of practice seriously handicapped their condition and prevented Bezdek from working up a series of new plays.

OREGON BLEACHERS
PREPARING FOR THE GAME

As a result, Washington again trimmed Oregon; this time by a clean 10 to 0 score, which came as the fruit of a successful forward pass and a beautiful place kick. Oregon's only alibi is that she lost to a better team.

It was a pretty badly crippled squad which returned to Eugene after the Washington struggle, and to cap the climax Risley came down with the mumps and Cornwall was protested. Bigbee, now regular halfback, was ambulated to the hospital with blood poisoning. This was absolutely the worst crippled Varsity which ever represented Oregon.

Cossman substituted for Risley, Crowell for Bigbee, Sharp for Cornell, Powrie for Cornwall. With this change Bezdek sent his men against the Aggies at Corvallis, little expecting that they would emerge from hostilities on even terms. Yet, this was what they did, and the greatest climax to a great game of football was reached when Huntington, Freshman halfback, stepped back on the Aggie 40-yard line, after Sharp's successful pass to Wiest and drove the leather squarely between the posts, giving Oregon a tie.

The annual Turkey Day game in Portland with Multnomah Club men closed the season. As usual, we were defeated by the beefy Portlanders.

Despite a hundred adversities, Coach Bezdek and his assistants, Dallenbach and Mitchell, labored through the year without a bit of protest. These men deserve the highest of praise for their work, and as a trio of coaches they are the cream of the Conference.

Cornell's election to the captaincy fittingly brought the 1914 season to an end. Next fall, with all of the old men again in college, Oregon should win. Here's hoping!

—JOHN PARSONS.

Track Review

"Bill" Hayward has been dedicated a page in this particular section of the Oregana for so many years in succession, that the writer is not quite sure but that he was the founder of the "game" commonly known as track. Anyway, "Bill" has been taking the highest honors for Oregon so regularly in the Northwest Conference that he might well be the inventor of track meets in the Northwest.

Nine championships out of eleven years' residence at Oregon. What more could be said? It would be superfluous and unnecessary if it were not for the man himself, which commands us to elucidate, for he is a man with a record to be proud of and of which Oregon students are proud. Every upperclassman knows his history, and every underclassman should be tubbed if he does not by this time. So here goes.

"Bill" was first heard of as a ten flat man running in Canada and the Northwest, and it is with no little pride that he confides this fact to his friends. He has been there himself and knows what he is talking about. That was in the late 80's and early 90's. Later he acted as coach in Toronto for some of the English games, including rugby and lacrosse, also hockey and track. His teams won. For a year previous to 1900 he acted as assistant coach at Princeton, but not suited to the country, he felt the call of the West, where men of strength and ability are found. All they need is the right coach. So he came to Berkeley in 1900. While there he began coaching Oregon teams during the summer after the California season had closed, with such success that Oregon saw the man they wanted. They got him in 1903. Watch him this year.

Baseball Review

With the advent of the 1914 baseball season came Hugo Bezdek out on the baseball diamond to look over his galaxy of "vets," prep school stars and ne'er do wells, and from them he whipped into shape the second Northwest championship team that Oregon has put on the field. Be it said here, that the rag was hauled down by a team that won on good, clean ball, worthy of the pennant, for less fight than it happened to take last year to win, on account of an unexpected slump at a critical moment. The result was that Oregon had to take six out of the last seven games played, and Oregon took the first six.

Undoubtedly one of the hardest, if not the hardest hitting team that ever made the circuit was turned out by Bezdek. Owing to his recent return to Oregon, and having to work his men over and line them up to his style of playing, the team was a little slower in getting into league form than otherwise would have been expected; but once started, they did not stop.

Oregon opened the season in Seattle, and by heavy hitting in the pinches took the two openers from Washington. Washington turned the tables by coming to Eugene and waltzing away with two. Washington forfeited one to Corvallis, at Corvallis, after a dispute, and won the other. O. A. C. also lost to Washington at Seattle. This put Oregon in a box where she had to take a series of four from Corvallis to win the championship of the Western division, or lose one and tie up the division, as occurred the year before, lose two and be out of the running. Being afraid to trust the "champ" honors with O. A. C. against W. S. C., Oregon chose the first alternative and did it by scores which grew on the Oregon side with every game, until it was a regular merry-go-round. Home runs and three base hits with the bases full were regular occurrences.

W. S. C. then came to Eugene to participate in the Junior Week-End festivities, but with a grim determination to take home the big belt. They made it interesting until the first half of the ninth inning of the second game. Moss, the W. S. C. pitcher, had been given orders to walk "Dick" Nelson at bat with "Skeeter" Bigbee on second. He tossed the first ball down towards the backstop, wide of the plate. He threw the next one side-armed about two feet six inches east of the rubber, thinking to take no chances on allowing Nelson to connect, but he did with a Texas over second base. The game ended suddenly and the crowd was dispersing before W. S. C. woke up. The rag was "ourn" and the prospects look good this year.

Basketball

Oregon's 1915 basketball team made a good showing in the Conference race, despite the fact that she did not close at the top, but second from the bottom, O. A. C. being just below. But one letter man turned out this year, and Coach Bezdek faced the problem of building up a green team from the first.

Basketball material suffered a relapse at Oregon and the result was that Oregon had a fast but light team. A trip north, playing Washington, Idaho, and W. S. C., with several practice games, proved to be too much of a grind for the Oregon men. Though defeated four conference games on the trip, Oregon shot more baskets than her opponents. The games on the home floor were more hotly contested.

By thorough work last season on a goodly bunch of new material, Oregon should lead the conference next season, as all of the games last season were close, Oregon losing largely on account of the fact that Washington and O. A. C., her hottest rivals, had teams that had made the circuit before. Oregon will be in the running strong in 1916.

1914 Tennis

The first Northwest Conference meet in tennis was held on the Oregon campus, beginning Thursday, May 22-24, and resulted in a tie, Oregon taking the singles and Washington the doubles, owing to darkness falling on the last matches. O. A. C. and W. S. C. were eliminated, Oregon eliminating O. A. C., and Washington W. S. C.

Oberteuffer defeated Mason, of O. A. C., by the scores of 3-6, 6-3 and 6-1. Bond defeated Shoemaker, of O. A. C., 6-2 and 6-3. Brooks defeated Walton two straight matches, 6-2 and 7-5, both using the Lawford stroke. Mason also used this stroke, and it was largely through his inability to control his serves that he was defeated.

In the Oregon-Washington singles, Brooks took three straight from Caulfield, 6-2, 6-4, 7-5. Muria won from Bond, 6-1, 6-2, 1-6, 3-6, 6-1, three out of five. Oberteuffer defeated Kauffman, 2-6, 6-4, 5-7, 6-3 and 6-3, three out of five.

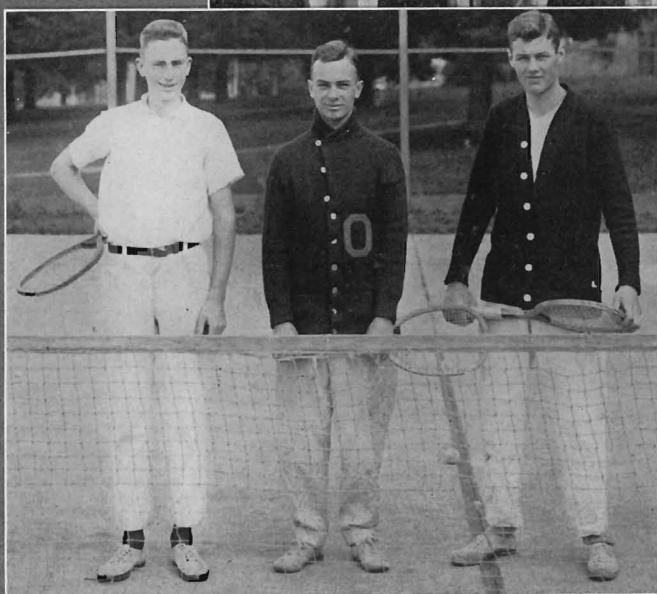

The doubles were won by Washington by the following scores: 6-4, 6-8, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3, five out of six.

Unable to finish the matches before Monday, Captain Brooks and the Washington team effected a compromise, Oregon taking the singles and Washington the doubles, thus tying up the conference belt.

Muria, of Washington, was the star of the meet, showing excellent judgment and ability to place his balls just where he wanted them at all times. The Oregon team played a steady game throughout. Oberteuffer was recovering from a recent illness and was not up to his usual form.

Tennis is not recognized this year as a conference sport, though Oregon awards letter to members of championship teams. Several college matches were played this spring, Washington and O. A. C. being considered.

Review of Soccer

Oregon's second year of soccer proved to be as much of a success as the year before. In 1914 Oregon played Columbia, the champions of the interscholastic league of Portland, two tie games, one at Portland and one in Eugene. This year Oregon played the crack Multnomah team, interscholastic champions this year, two tie games, one in Portland and one in Eugene.

This is a splendid record for the two years that Oregon has indulged in the game, and speaks well for Professor C. V. Dymont, instructor in the Journalism Department, formerly a member of the Multnomah team, who also played at the University of Toronto in his undergraduate days, and who coached Oregon. The record as it stands today is, no games lost, no games won, four tie scores.

By official action the Student Body supplied funds last season for the second game in Eugene and this sport bids to become a popular one at Oregon, coming at a time when other sports are off the boards.

Wrestling

The Varsity wrestling team lost the dual match with O. A. C. this year only after the bout on which the decision rested had gone for a tie three times between the contestants in the 125-pound class.

Ed. Shockley, coach, had worked up a scrappy bunch of boys, and they made a good showing against their opponents, who had had several years of experience against Oregon's two. Two of the bouts were ties and extra minutes had to be taken to decide the ties.

The results of the match at Corvallis were as follows:

145 pounds, Captain Rutherford (O), decision; Mosby (O. A. C.).

158 pounds, King (O), decision; Waters (O. A. C.).

135 pounds, Mort (O. A. C.), decision; Griffin (O), two bouts.

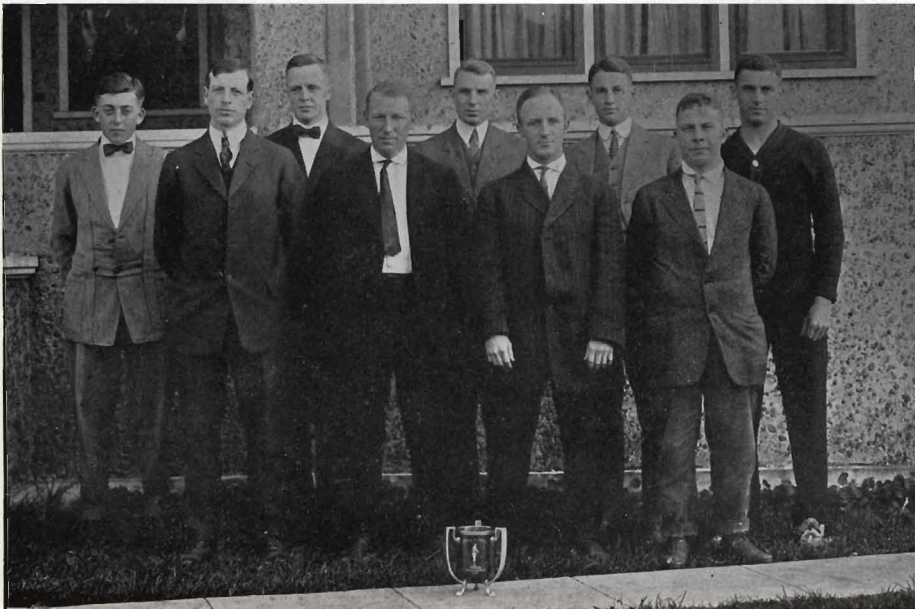

125 pounds, Bolin (O. A. C.), decision; Shaffner (O).

125 pounds, Piercy (O. A. C.), decision; Barnett (O), three bouts.

115 pounds, Mardman (O. A. C.), decision; Hargreaves (O).

Two bouts in the 125-pound class, as per previous agreement. Both ties were awarded to O. A. C. on points.

For the third consecutive year, the Phi Gamma Deltas took the inter-fraternity baseball championship in this series of games held every year. Two cups were awarded last year, one for first place and one for second, Phi Delta Theta being awarded the second cup.

Rathbun, for the Phi Gams, allowed but three hits, and, backed up by good fielding, his cohorts made away with the closing game of the series by a 4 to 3 score.

Inter-Frat Track

By taking 30 out of the 38 points needed, Ray Bryant won the individual silver medal awarded for high point winner in the inter-fraternity track meet for the spring of 1914, and incidentally won the meet for the Sigma Chis.

Bryant, placed in every event that he entered, took four firsts, three seconds and one fourth.

By taking the first two out of three games in the inter-fraternity handball tournament, the Delta Tau Deltas, represented by Leo Furney and Austin Brownell, captured the handball cup.

The scores were 21 to 12 and 21 to 16. The Dormitory was represented by Harry Kuck and John Huston.

University Days

1914 SENIOR CLASS

Commencement

In the annual program of a University, Commencement time is a time full of pleasure and regret: pleasure, because of the natural satisfaction that always follows the successful completion of any kind of work, whether it be manual work or mental work; regret, that the receiving of the diploma marks the formal separation from the ties that have bound the recipient to a living institution for four years.

Thus when the members of the Nineteen Fourteen class received their diplomas from the hands of President Campbell last June, they must have experienced this admixture of feelings. For, certainly, they had completed a successful career at the University of Oregon. Numerically, the 1914 class was the largest that ever graduated from the University—sufficient evidence of the ability of its members to carry their projects through to a successful conclusion. Scholastically, it ranked high, as is again attested by the unprecedented number it graduated. In Student Body enterprises, it especially was influential. Probably no other class took such a prominent part in Student Body activities and established so many customs and precedents for the guidance of succeeding classes. It was, truly, an "all-around" class.

Then, to, the Fourteeners have sensed a deep feeling of regret. To leave the classic, ideal surrounding of the University campus and enter the active, more or less sordid duties of life, is surely a great change. We have it from old alumni of the University that the true value of the institution is not fully appreciated until after graduation; retrospection discloses advantages concealed to the eyes of the undergraduates.

The Fourteen class was the thirty-eighth in the history of the institution. Without doubt, those old pioneers, Matthew P. Deady, Benjamin F. Davis, little thought thirty-eight years ago that, within a third of a century, the institution of which they laid the foundation would send out a yearly quota of one hundred and twenty men and women, fully equipped for the business of life. It is at Commencement that the marvelous growth of the University is most fully appreciated.

Junior Week-End

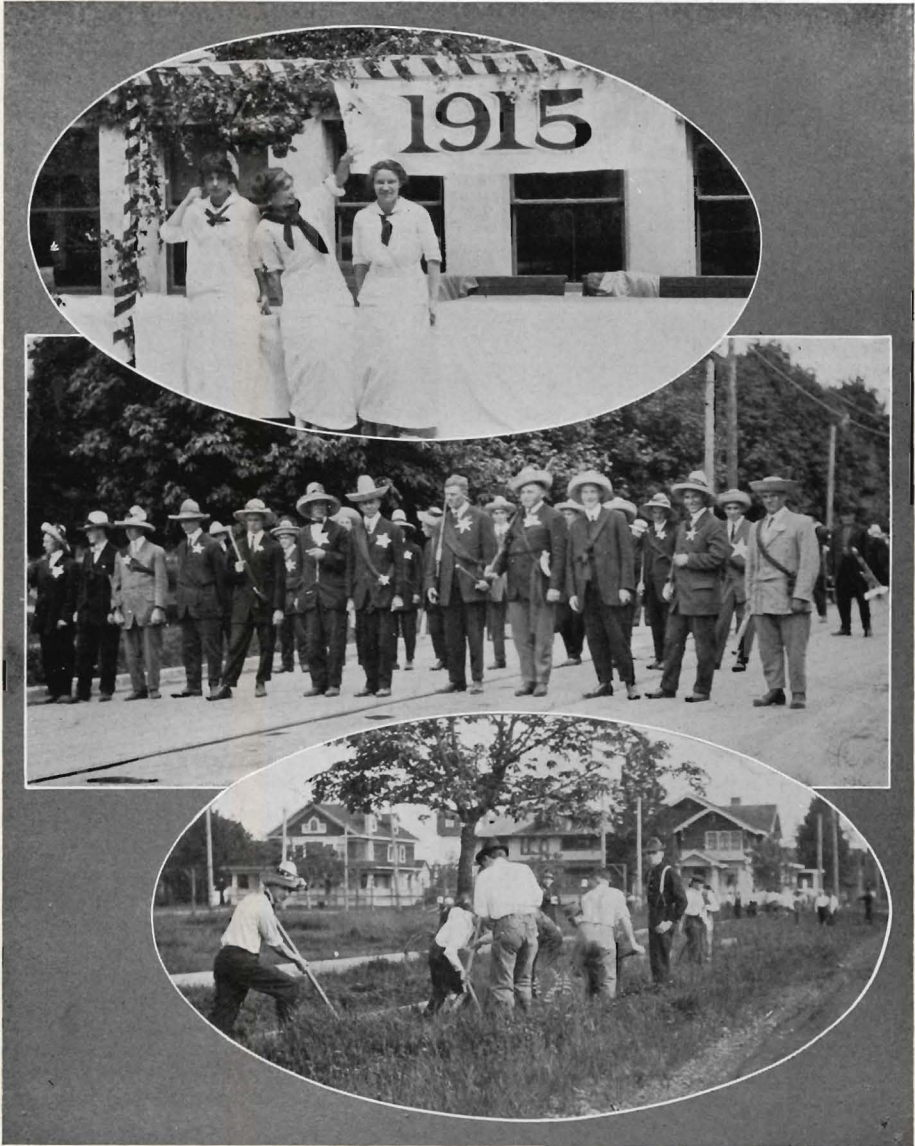

In the year 1913, when the illustrious class of 1914 held their high jinks on the campus, J. Pluvius was the chief mourner. His tears, ever abundant in this locality, were so copious as to cause all present to seek the shelter of the trees before Deady, from whence came the inviting odor of beans and other eatables dispensed by the co-eds. Now, according to all rules and regulations of the game, and according to the prophecies of such renowned men as Charles Koyl and Jim Cossman, the weather last May should have been perfect. The sky should have been azure blue, gentle zephyrs should have wafted to our olfactory organs the delicious odor of spring flowers and Dormitory beef steak, and the sun should have made us wish to lay aside our implements of toil and throw ourselves into the arms of Morpheus in the shade of some nearby tree. But (Oh shades of Parkison) our dreams of such bliss were rudely shaken when, on waking on the morn of May 8th, we found Old Sol and J. Pluve struggling for supremacy. All morning the struggle continued without either gaining any marked advantage. The afternoon was but a repetition of the morning, despite the fact that rain was one of the principal courses at the co-ed hand-out at high noon.

But to leave the depressing subject of the weather and divert to the real events of the day. In order to make this account complete it will be necessary to go back to the previous day and start at the beginning.

Promptly at 1:30 P. M. the stupendous parade, announcing the opening of Junior Week-End, left the campus. Withal, the parade was a rare collection of marvels and well worth the price of admission. On returning to the campus, the parade proceeded immediately to the baseball field, where, amid much wailing and gnashing of teeth, Washington walked away with a 2 to 1 score in their favor. That evening Pendleton and Oregon City argued hotly over the tariff question.

The big show, however, started early the next morning. At 8:00 A. M. things began to happen, and they kept on happening without intermission until late that night. Dutch Young and his pick and shovel gang attacked with vigor the job of beautifying the parking along Thirteenth, Alfred Collier with a band of huskies began operations on Kincaid Field, Heinie and Gene took a few of the more artistically inclined and scaled Skinner's to retouch the 'O,' a few (identity unknown) endeavoring to lend a helping hand to the fussers who frequent the mill race, constructing a landing at the portage, which, as later reports show, lasted almost a week, "Monkey" Brooks and his allotted apostles did the cross country around the tennis courts, dragging after them the scraper on which reposed a few of the more indolent upperclassmen. Even the Divinity students, catching some of the enthusiasm, ceased their exhortations long enough to get out and weed the lawn and water the flowers.

While all of this was going on, another and even more interesting scene was being enacted on the green between McClure and the Dorm. Long benches were being constructed and decorations were being hung. A festive air, mingled with the smell of eats, filled the atmosphere. Here is where the co-eds got in their good work, and long before noon everything was in readiness. However, before the results of their handiwork could be examined, there was another and more serious duty to perform, so at 11:30 everybody solemnly paraded over the the Library, where Prexy and Sam Friendly turned over a few shovelfuls of dirt as a start toward the new Library. During this ceremony the band touchingly rendered its favorite hymn, "Snooky Ookems."

Scarcely had this been accomplished when a long line of weary and hungry advocates of the I. W. W. cause formed in front of the lunch counters, and soon the clinking of spoons, etc., announced that the repast was in full sway. The Glee Club and Orchestra formed the cabaret attractions, while numerous photographers fittted about.

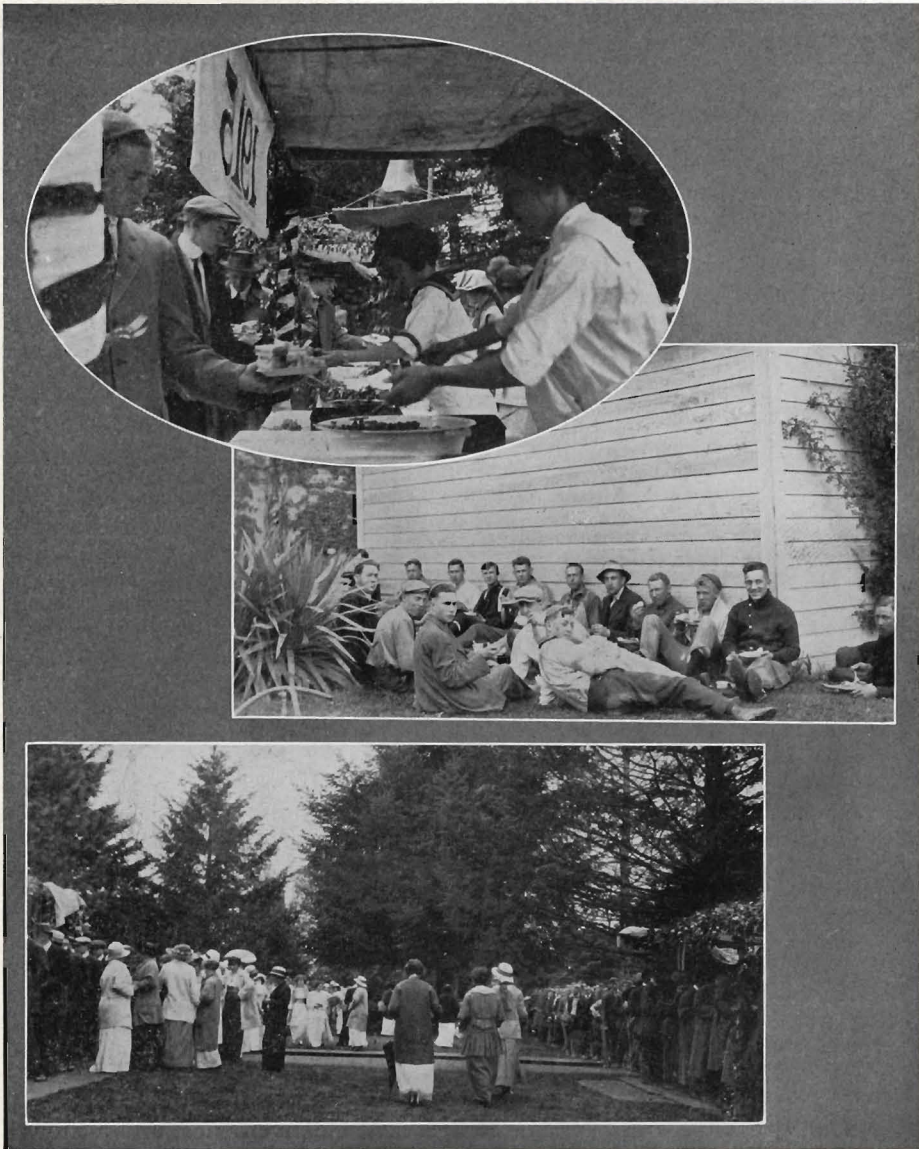

That afternoon Bill led his cohorts against the Aggies, with the usual success. In the evening the Senior class brought forth a new Anna Held, in the personage of Ethel Tooze, who held her audience spellbound throughout the entire performance.

The next day the preppers were in their glory. They were given the best of everything. Their spirits soared, as did the house bills, and they were filled with the glamour of college life. Everybody was happy.

But the crowing feature was yet to come, and along about 8:00 P. M. a different part of the campus became the attraction. This was the Gym, otherwise known as Hayward Hall. Here assembled all who craved the "light fantastic," and about 9:00 P. M. the struggle commenced. The crowd was enormous, the music great, the punch delicious, and everybody got completely worn out, which goes to show that the Prom was a complete success.

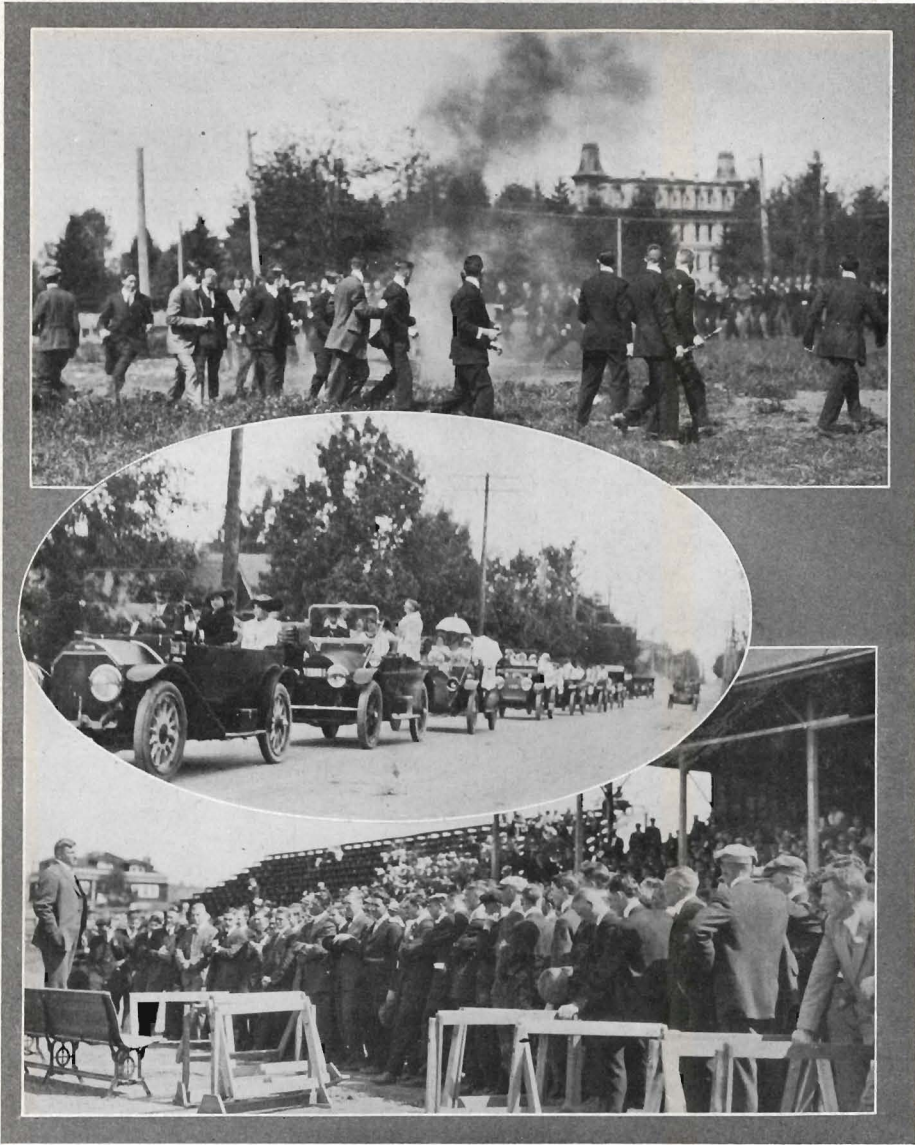

Taking it altogether, the Week-End was a howling success, and everybody felt fully repaid for his (or her) temporary inconvenience, and although it was with a sigh of relief that the last guest was seen to depart, eevrybody will be just as eager to go through it all again this year, when the class of 1916 holds forth.

Underclass Mix

On October 10th, 1914, history again repeated itself, to the extent that the Sophs won out over the Frosh in the annual Underclass Mix.

Rain, which continued most of the morning, prevented the Juniors from pulling off their stunt, and otherwise hindered the performance; but nevertheless promptly at 10:00 A. M. the Frosh made their appearance, and after parading the field, led by their band, which had been materially decreased by the activity of the Sophs, they halted in front of the grandstand. Here, to the tune of "Nearer, My God, to Thee," they sorrowfully strewed flowers (cabbages and potatoes) on the coffin which they had labeled "1917," after which they touched a match to it and blew it to pieces.

The Sophomores then entered, and, led by their band, proceeded to the front of the grand stand, where they portrayed their idea of the mix of the future if all suggested reforms were to be carried out. Their stunt impressed the judges favorably, and they were awarded 10 points. They also annexed 10 points for appearance and yells, while the Frosh were awarded 10 for decorations. The tie-up contest, which came next, also resulted in a victory for the Sophs, as, after ten minutes of desperate struggling in the mire, it was discovered that they had succeeded in roping up two Frosh, while the latter had only subdued one. The sandbag contest was the next event, and the small pile of sandbags in the center of the field became the main attraction. For fifteen minutes the battle raged, and when the whistle blew fifteen sacks were found behind the Sophomore goal, while the Freshmen had succeeded in capturing only thirteen.

But it's a long worm that isn't crooked someplace, and in the next argument the Frosh retrieved some of their lost honors. A tall pole, bearing at its top the 1917 banner, had been erected at one end of the field, and the Sophomores gathered around it to protect it from the invading Frosh, who, after ten minutes of desperate conflict, pulled the pole down and captured the flag. This gave them 10 points.

The water fight, held on the campus lawn, was declared a draw, 5 points going to each side. This was surely a wet affair, and everybody participating, as well as some of the spectators, got thoroughly drenched.

This ended the performance, and the Frosh, now thoroughly subjugated, docilely obey the commands of their conquerors and await with eagerness the time when they will be able to administer the same treatment to the next Freshman class.

Prelude

Now, gentle reader, you have come to that part of this book which you perchance consider bum, for seriousness we have forsook. It is the wondrous feature department. and if through other parts you slept; at other joke-books you have wept, it's up to you to get repped.

But hist! Just heed this awful warning! If sense of humor you have not, at every joke you put on mourning, or tear your hair and get real hot; and, if the joke should be on you, you straightway want the wag to hurt, and muss his features black and blue—then just keep on your little shirt. Close this book without a fuss, and do not read another page.

But if you aren't cantankerous, and that much honored sort of sage who reads a joke about himself and keeps on smiling just the same—don't lay this book upon the shelf, but read! Read on! Be game, be game!

A Junior's "Get 'is Dollar" Address

Two months and seven days ago, our Juniors brought forth before the Student Body a new proposition, conceived in justice and dedicated to the proposition that all Student Body enterprises should pay equally. Now, we were engaged in putting out a GREAT Oregana, and we were testing whether that Oregana so conceived and so dedicated could long endure. We were met to decide that question. We came to petition the Student Body for their proportionate share in the cost of that Oregana. It was altogether fitting and proper that we should do this.

But in a larger sense (dollars) we could not petition, we could not plead, we could not argue this proposition. The brave men whose memorial we have here erected have undedicated this proposition far above our power to add or detract. The Student Body little noted nor long remembered what we said there, but it never forgot what they did there. It is for us, the vanquished, rather, to put out a book the cost of which will fall within the scope of our ability to furnish the wherewithal. It is rather that we should dig up the money out of our own pockets than that the Student Body should be subjected to the ignominy of paying its share; that we should highly resolve that these deceased did not speak in vain (for the Oregana appropriation failed) and that the 1916 Oregana, published by the Juniors, paid by the Juniors, and issued in the interests of the Student Body, should not perish from the earth.

A Romance in Four Bites

A Queen to college came, I ween;
A clever, youthful maid was she;
Her age, proverbial sixteen;
And this is her full history.

A Senior loved this pretty lass,
As fair and sweet as daisy wreath;
But when he sought a kiss, alas,
His mustache only brushed her teeth.

A Junior longed to steal the kiss;
She rippled out into a laugh,
And spoke some cruel words like this,
"You're on the Oregana staff."

A Sophomore then tried, but that
Was easily declined. "You wear
No cap of green nor cowboy hat,
It isn't worth the chance, I swear."

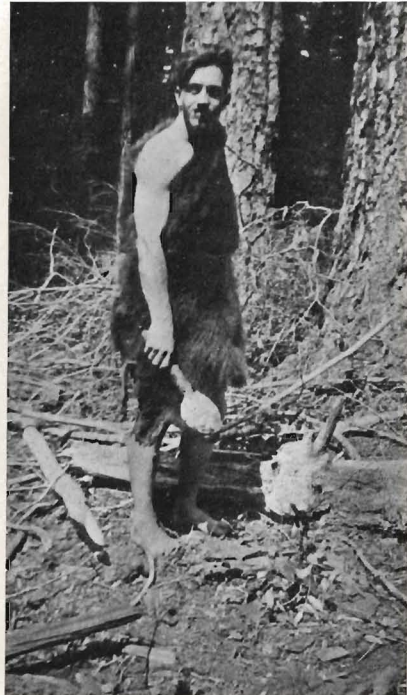

She said unto a Frosh at last,
'I'd rather have your cap than gold.'
But he refused, and when she asked,
Remarked, "The race is really cold."

Eugenics brought within its sway
A treatise on such germs as this,
And all her suitors went away;
She now has no one left to kiss.

TORCH AND SHIELD

Secret Meaning: Torch stands for light, to show the brethren the road from Springfield, and the SHIELD is to protect them from the faculty.

Pass-Word: FATIMA.

History: Torch and Shield is an organization whose foundation antedates that of the T. N. E., To-Ko-Lo and other Soph societies, having been established contemporaneously with Phi Beta Kappa during the Revolutionary War, when the torch of liberty was glowing its brightest.

Purpose: To stimulate interest in a higher and better living and to promote the moral uplift of its members.

FRIARS

Secret Meaning: Sh-h!

Pass-Word: 'S Death!

Honorary Members: Timmy Cloran. (Dr. Schmidt has absolved membership since the war started.)

History: Friars is an organization that was founded during the middle ages, when ecclesiastical feeling was running high. The local chapter acts in co-operation with Charles Koyl and the E. B. U. in preparing men for missionary service in the wilds of Africa.

Purpose: To promote the intensive cultivation of Senior moustaches and the compulsory wearing of the sombrero.

TAU KAPPA ALPHA

Secret Meaning: Talk, Kick and Argue.

Pass-Word: DanielWebsterHenryClayDemosthenesPrescott-----

Honorary Members: Sam Cook and Henry Heidenrich (proficient with the discus(s)).

History: But little is known of the early history of this worthy (wordy) organization. Probably when Lincoln was giving his Bunker Hill oration and Webster his Gettysburg address, Tau Kappa Alpha had been living for centuries.

Purpose: To secure the granting of sweaters to members of 'Varsity debating teams.

SIGMA DELTA CHI

Secret Meaning: NONE (? ? ?)

Password: The pen is stronger than the sword.

Honorary Members: President Campbell, Professor Dymont and Professor Allen (because they couldn't get out of it).

History: Sigma Delta Chi is an evil that was perpetrated upon the University during April, 1913, by Bones Allen in collaboration with Sam Michael and Lee Hendricks.

Purpose: To put out scandal editions of the Emerald and conduct mixers in opposition to the April Frolic.

SIGMA ALPHA

Secret Meaning: STIFFS and ACIDS.

Pass-Word: Cerebellum oblongata.

Honorary Members: Doctor Gilbert and Doctor Smith.

History: Sigma Alpha is an association of students engaged in the pursuit of drugs, dollars and diplomas, and was founded as a Freshman society in the fall of 1914. Its existence as a strictly Frosh society was very limited, due to the fact that the faculty deemed it unwise to allow the Nineteen Eighteen youngsters to pursue their hazardous undertakings without the guiding influence of Sophomores and upperclassmen.

Purpose: To cut cats and classes.

PHI SIGMA

Secret Meaning: PLEAD SARCASTICALLY.

Pass-Word: Here's hoping that Hope hopes that Hope's hopefuls will pass Hope's Criminal Law examination.

Honorary Members: Edison MARSHALL and Blackstone.

History: This society, composed of future jurists, was brought into being shortly after the Frosh had organized Sigma Alpha. It existed sub-rosa for a year until the members could agree upon the verbiage to be used in the announcement that subsequently appeared in the Emerald.

Purpose: To bring united effort to bear against the further development, increase and augmentation of four-hour law examinations.

TO-KO-LO

Secret Meaning: A Japanese word, indicative of cemeteries and pink teas.

Pass-Word: In the shadow of the Cross.

Honorary Members: Ruth Guppy, Charles Koyl and Doctor Straub.

History: To-Ko-Lo was founded by the class of 1914 in 1912, and has always found the highest encouragement from the faculty and the Y. W. C. A. Fiddledy-winks and checkers are the principal items of business at the regular meetings.

Purpose: To initiate a movement for high school pledging and to secure better attendance at debates and Y. M. C. A. meetings.

PHI SIGMA PHI

Secret Meaning: PSYCHOLOGY, SURGERY and PHYSIOLOGY.

Pass-Word: It's nothing but a crutified exegesis antispasmodically emanating from the germ of the animal refrigerator producing a prolific source of irritability in the parachranial epidermis.

Honorary Members: Several were elected, but refused to accept, because they couldn't see any honor in it.

History: Phi Sigma Phi was inspired by the organization of Phi Sigma, the law fraternity, as is indicated by the selection of the first two words—Phi and Sigma—as a part of its nomenclature. The connection between law and medicine is readily apparent: the doctors make a fatal mistake and the lawyers protect them in the damage suit that follows.

Purpose: To cultivate further interest in Social Biology.

YE TABARD INN

Secret Meaning: (Due to its recent establishment, the boys haven't written the ritual yet, but those in authority say that it will exceed in literary merit "Ten Nights in a Bar Room" or "The Adventures of KATHLYN.")

Pass-Word: He staggered in.

Honorary Members: "Tick" Malarkey and "Shorty" Howard.

History: Ye Scabard Inn is the modernization of the literary crusades of the Canterbury Pilgrims. It was established at the University but a few short months ago, but in that time it has sent out an influence that has been most beneficial in raising the literary standards of the world; an influence, benign and yet forceful; far-reaching and yet unnecessary.

Purpose: To provide a dumping ground for the poems and contributions of its members.

KWAMA

Secret Meaning: A square deal.

Pass-Word: Votes for wimmin.

Honorary Members: Professor DeCou and Doctor Bennett.

History: Kwama is the product of several imaginative members of the class of 1915 who failed to foresee the dire consequences of their worthy intentions—for it is rumored that several of its inactive members have been seen playing checkers for the Hersheys in the Y. M. Exchange.

Purpose: To teach the latest in the terpsichorean art.

SCROLL AND SCRIPT

Secret Meaning: (Dean Guppy doesn't believe in secrets, since it is such a well known fact that the ability to bone is the principal qualification for membership.)

Pass-Word: Don't let your studies interfere with your college education.

Honorary Members: Gavin Dyott and Bill Burgard.

History: Scroll and Script was founded prior to the passage of the cumulative cut rule and has been active in the promotion of the campaign against the nefarious practice of the University in charging a sixteenth of a credit for absence from classes.

Purpose: To work zealously for the addition of more pipe courses to the curriculum.

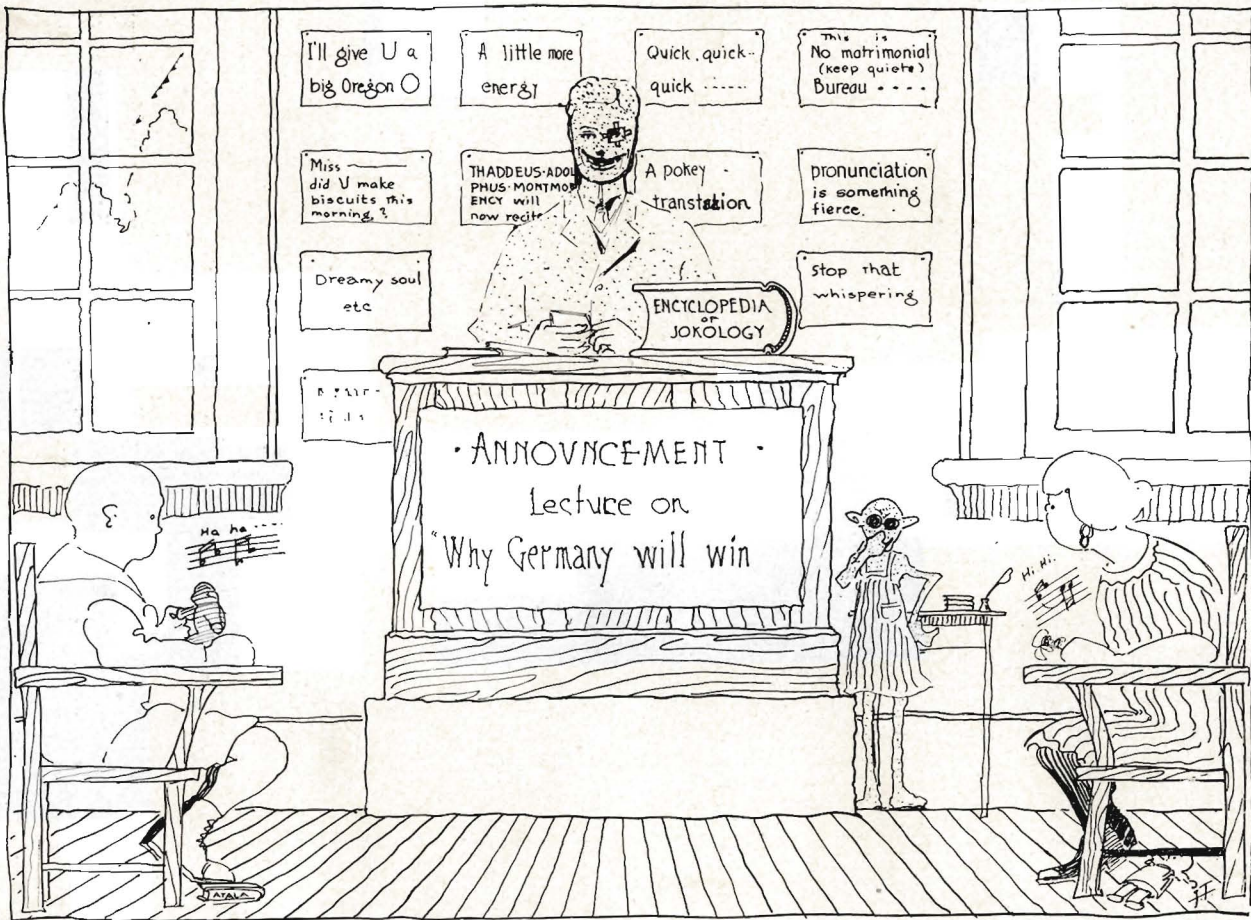

In English Novel class:

Miss Watson: "Miss Zahl, what do you mean when you refer to a girl as being very sweet?"

Echo: "Well, I think that a sweet girl is one who would suit your sense of—of—"

Ray Fleming (on back row): "Taste."

A song entitled "One Day a Freshman" was sung to an enthusiastic audience at the Theta house soon after the grades were published. There was loud applause. Evidently they did not see the joke.

Stone Age Stuff

Does the same thing that makes Georgia Cross, make Gene Good?
If Oregon won the football game, what did Marsh Goodwin?
If Spencer's Butte is six miles from Eugene, where is Maurice Hill?
If roses grow in Portland,
Although my verse is silly;
Please tell me where I'll find
Beatrice Lilly.
When the Germans bombarded Przemysl, what did Lombard?
If Prof. Barnett was with Miss Hair, who was Arvilla Beckwith?
Next leap-year will May Neill?
If Sam Cook puts the shot, what will Don Orput?
Suppose there was a bearded lady in a side-show, would Genevieve Shaver?
If the allies riddled a German battleship, what did Mildred Riddle?
Speaking of large insects, how about Morris Bigbee?
If Anson B. Cornell, is it logical to suppose Austin B. Brownell?
If Julia wept for fear, did Doris Ball?
I've studied shrubs, but I ask: "What is a Madge Barry?"
How can Karl Beck be, if John Beckett?
If the faculty does not let upperclassmen haze Freshmen, who does Beulah Hayes?
You can't see the darkness, but you can see Hazel Knight.
If the Dormitory had a formal dance, would Nail wear a claw-hammer?
Rotation: Ethan Allen—Allen Eaton.
Where does Leland Belknap and Ray Couch?
What is Flawnice Killinsworth when Roberta Killam?
Where has Dave Philbin?
While the Germans are maneuvering their battleships, what is Louise Manning?

Apropos to the War

Doctor Timothy Cloran: "French will be the universal language after the European war is concluded. The Germans can't fight anyway. They fight just like they talk."

Doctor F. G. G. Schmidt: "Germany will win. Dose French and Englishmen can't even agree among themselves. The Germans taught the English and French all they ever learned about fighting."

Pres. P. L. Campbell: "For the ultimate good of higher civilization and for the promotion of an international morale that will be opposed to any forms of warfare as the means of settling disputes between nations, it is necessary to stimulate interest in the work of the Student Y. M. C. A. and other worthy organizations."

Prof. Eric W. Allen: "I am neutral; I don't care who licks Germany."

Prof. R. C. Clark: "The allies will win, providing the Germans don't kill too many of them off."

"Bill" Holt (arguing for the Student Body appropriation for the 1916 Oregana): "The European war has raised the price of printing ink, making it impossible to put out the book at the same cost as previous publications."

Mrs. Pennell (before Art class): "Do you know, dear girls and boys, that the statue of Venus de Milo, in Paris, was buried when the German advance into France became dangerous to the safety of the city? Well, you see, she was unarmed."

Prof. Colin V. Dymont: "If the English are defeated, I will move to South America."

THE RETURN ENGAGEMENT OF THE "PROFESSOR'S LOVE STORY"

Scene: A home in Portland, tastefully decorated.

The room is filled with expectant guests; the men in full dress; the women arrayed with all the art they hold most dear.

Heavy portiers hang over the doorway, where all eyes are turned, excluding a view of the other room.

Suddenly the lights go out and the curtains are drawn back.

A light in the interior room discloses a woman, divinely fair, standing. Kneeling at her feet is a princely figure with long Apolline hair and an intellectual brow.

The woman speaks:

"Ladies and Gentlemen: Edmund is at my feet."

Quick curtain.

Promotion of "Bill" Burgard Takes Place in One Night in Alaskan Waters in North.

"Bill" Burgard, football and basketball athlete, a Portland senior at the University of Oregon, rose in one night from deck hand, the lowest job, to captain of the ship on which he spent the summer in Alaskan waters.

The story of how the 24-year-old college man piloted a ship in the open ocean among the Alaskan islands, 1,000 miles north of Seattle, with a drunken crew, saving his father's cannery thousands of dollars' loss, that made young Burgard a hero among the fishermen and cannery men of Southeastern Alaska, is now going the rounds of his college mates since his return to college this week. He will be known among the students as "Steamboat Bill."

J. H. Burgard, of Portland, is the treasurer of the Alaskan Pacific Fisheries Company, which has, among others, a cannery on Yes Bay. His two sons, as a semi-vacation outing, took jobs as deck hands on the two boats which ply between Ketchikan and Yes Bay. As the boats passed the boys would hail each other.

Bill Burgard, deck hand, with four passengers and a load of supplies and can tops for the cannery, was the only member of the crew on his boat at starting time one afternoon early in August. The boat was due to leave at 5 o'clock, but at 10 o'clock at night the crew had not shown up. The can tops were needed at the cannery. If it did not have them at 8 o'clock the next morning, 400 men would be idle and several thousand dollars' worth of fish would spoil. Ketchikan is between 70 and 100 miles from Yes Bay.

Three Years on Field and in Gym Makes Boy Grow from 130 to 230 Pounds.

University of Oregon, Eugene, Or. Jan. 16—When a man makes good on an ideal he is to be congratulated. When a college freshman, 15 years old, weighing 130 pounds and spreading those pounds over a puny pair of legs and a narrow chest, on the day of his matriculation makes the acquaintance of the gymnasium and in three years is center of his college football team, tipping the beam at 192 at the end of a strenuous season, he may be regarded as a wonder.

James Cossman, alias "Gunpowder," alias "Blacksmith," alias "Slim," alias "Iowa," at 18 a Junior in the University of Oregon, with a high school record in DeWitt, Iowa, of but one grade below 95 during his college preparatory days, has done just this. Jim, or "Jimmie," as Cossman is known on the campus, has another distinction at the University of Oregon. He belongs to the students who are working their way through school.

PHILBIN TO FEATURE IN "BROWN OF HARVARD"

Of all the remarkable student types that Roda Johnson has drawn in her great college play, "Brown of Harvard," which the Radiators are to produce here by local talent next Thursday and Friday, "Tubby" Anderson, the part played by Dave Philbin, stands out as a character absolutely unmatched in the realm of comedy.

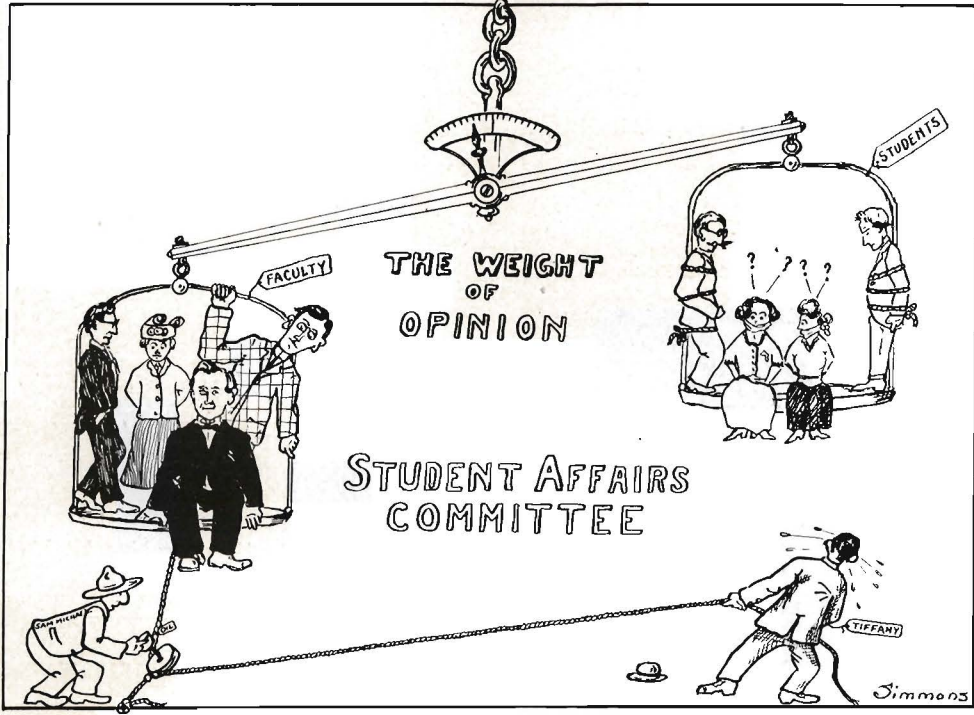

If Roda Johnson herself had selected the players for the Radiators' production of "Brown of Harvard," she could not have found a better type for "Tubby" than Dave Philbin.

Some Class to These Collectors

As one who barter friendship for the music of the cash ;
As one who leaves you homeless, with nothing to 'hock" for "hash"
As one who bawls for payment, and who makes you seem an ass,
I look upon his features—The Collector of the Class.

But still I've learned a secret, and I'll give it unto you ;
Don't rattle all your jitneys, and remember what is due,
So when he strikes some morning, you can say without a laugh,
"I'm busted like a board, sir—Kind Collector of the Class.

We have some true collectors, but my favorite is Sam.
I've also dealt with Collier, and he touched before exam.
Fred Hardesty was there, too, then came Leslie Tooze also ;
They spoke quite glad and kindly, but they tried to pinch my dough.

I write to you, my brothers, you, who need your lonely beans
To pig your fairest maiden, or to jingle in your jeans.
Let's hang a broker's shingle, and we'll simply just yell "Pass," when it comes right down to business with Collectors for the Class.

According to the Beans

It's Johnny this,
And Johnny that,
And John, "how do you do;"
But it's this way, dear Professor, when you cut a class or two.

He says:

|---------------------------------|---------------------------------|
| You've cut too many classes; | You're spending too much money; |
| My, but your grades are low. | A post in French, you see; |
| I'd advise you to get glasses; | I think it strange, not funny; |
| Really, your folks should know. | Your folks shall hear from me. |

Don't bowl; no pool nor candy;
Don't smoke a cigarette,
Don't try to be a dandy;
Your actions bring regret.

And so with everything you do, with everything you mean;
It's don't do this, and don't do that, according to the Dean.

It's Ruthy this,
And Ruthy that,
And Ruthy to her face;
But it's this way, Madam Guppy, when you go upon the race.

She says:

|--------------------------------|---------------------------------|
| Don't go to tango dances, | Don't let the fellows kiss you, |
| Or rag across the floor, | Or even hold your hand; |
| Don't learn the fancy prances, | Don't stroll upon the Avenue |
| Or clap for an encore. | Till after eight, My Land. |

And on the race don't linger
Till after nine alone;
No Osburn Sunday dinner
Without a chaperone.

You have to run and sneak about, and never can be seen;
It's don't do this, and don't do that, according to the Dean.

IN EXPLANATION

Due to the activities of certain self-appointed guardians of the student body treasury during the recent campaign for the Oregana appropriation, the management has found it necessary to omit the next one hundred pages.

FOUR RING CIRCUS

Calendar

April

8—Oregana election. Editor and Manager sentenced by Sophomores to thirteen months of hard labor.

10—Spring vacation starts. So does Archibald Ferguson Reddie and his troupe on their trip through Southern Oregon, with "The Professor's Love Story." Curiously enough, Professor Reddie assumes the leading role.

13—Professor Reddie stars in the "Professor's Love Story" at Junction City. "Spid" Blackaby is appointed Delta Gamma house father.

16—Cowden (Nort) and Shaver torture audience at Rex.

18—"Deac" Davies, et al, put out an Emerald that is "red" all the way through.

19—Bill Cass loses his dog. "Dog-gone."

20—Back on the job. There's no place like home-except Oregon.

24—Fenton gets tired while on duty in the outfield and tries sitting posture. Result satisfactory.

1910 OREGANA 1910

25—Oregon allows M. A. A. C. 60 points in track meet while contenting herself with 71.

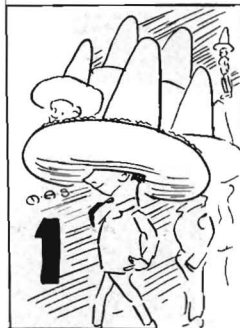

Seniors "at-track" much attention with white hats, canes and monocles.

Fijis bag stuffed owl. Chi Omegas form searching party.

27—Inter-fraternity baseball games begin. "Bush" DeBar and several other "bushers" report for practice.

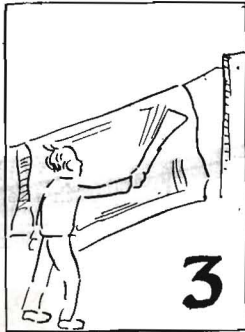

30—Political pot begins to boil. Aspiring candidates build up fences.

1—Sophomores blossom out in Mexican headgear. Junior troubadours take offense.

2—Y. W. C. A. gives ice cream party.

May

3—Junior Week-End five days off. Fraternities have annual house cleaning. Sororities' correspondence department works over-time.

6—Student Body nominations. Big odds offered on Jerard, Lombard and Michael. Harold Quigley makes nominating speech. Forgets candidate's name.

7—Preppers arrive. Fraternities rent annexes. Freshmen sleep in bath tubs.

Mexicans open Junior Week-End.

"Deac" Davies in clutches of the law. Friends to the rescue.

8—University day. Preppers superintend operations on the campus.

Evening—Senior play. Performance delayed because of loss of part of leading lady's wardrobe.

9—Kappa Sigs report loss of another fraternity pin. Lead in matrimonial race.

Later—Prominent Theta receives congratulations.
Evening—Junior Prom. Gymnasium scene of annual struggle. No fatalities reported.

1916 OREGANA 1916

10—Prep guests leave. University hibernates.

12—Bob Fitzmaurice does tonsorial stunt. Victim, "Botts" Avison.

13—Circus in town. Lois Ladd and Echo Zahl flirt with the clowns. Ernie Vosper applies for a job.

13—Student Body election. Political pigging pays profitably.

14—Bob Bean gets on steady again at the Theta house. Gene still following the cross.

16—Ray Bryant wins the inter-fraternity track meet. The rest of the Sigma Chi track (?) team was also present.

18—Sigma Nu's give banquet. Anse Allen refuses to partake of the punch.

Batley and Jerard run in opposition to Vosper. Decision, draw.

Charlie Fenton tries the rest cure.

Fijis show that they are the (w)hole thing in the Doughnut League by defeating the Dorm.

1916 OREGANA 1916

23—Mu Phi's weekly picnic great success.

22—Ira Staggs performs at Tri Delt house. Bob Farris is stage manager.

24—Ben Dorris qualifies for Carnegie medal by rescuing Bess Cowden from the icy waters of the mill race. We are proud of our Benjamin.

26—Fijis again demonstrate their superiority in the national pastime by defeating the Bigbee brothers in the Phi Gamm-Phi Delt game.

19—Exams three weeks off. Wayward studes get busy. Social gaieties on the decline.

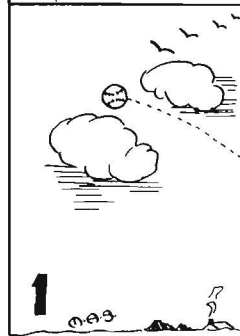

27—Freshman class hour. George Colton presents Echo Zahl as leading lady. Trixie Friganza and Sophie Tucker in danger of losing their positions.

28—Commonwealth Conference. Balcony seats in Villard in great demand.

29—Obak temporarily moves to Villard Hall.

Dramatic Interpretation class gives play on campus. Archibald Ferguson, Etc., appears in title role as usual, one hour after scheduled time as usual.

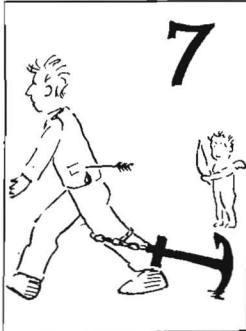

June

1—Buck Bigbee's three-bagger wins from Washington. Buck is campus hero. Delta Gammas celebrate.

3—Johnnie Welch elected baseball captain for 1915. Charles Koyle receives large shipment of cigarettes.

Seniors appear in funeral garb.

More student rights are taken away: the Registrar is made graduate manager of student enterprises.

7—Sims announces his anchorage to Delta Gamma.

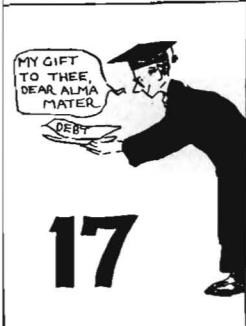

Mr. and Mrs. Boyer entertain in honor of the Sigma Chis.

8—Final exams start. Profs receive many callers.

12—Exams over. Studes commence to leave.

17—Nineteen Fourteen graduates. Leaves Senior memorial Oregana debt.

22—Summer School session begins. Editor and Manager of the 1915 Oregana enroll as students.

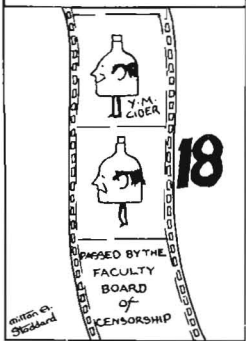

September

14—College opens.

Frosh infest campus.

Y. M. C. A. inveigles innocent Freshmen to part with a part of their hard-earned cash.

Fraternities in receipt of large shipment of pledge pins. Sororities buy up seats at Rex.

15—Coach Bezdek brings his cohorts from the mountains.

18—Y. M. dispenses doughnuts and cider at annual mixer. Cider undergoes inspection by faculty board of censorship.

20—Sororities have open house. Frosh on exhibit. Piggers lay plans for the future.

23—Joe Sheahan wins three cornered race for Sophomore Presidency.

26—Galloway joins Y. M. C. A. to set an example for wayward Freshmen. The unselfish, sacrificing spirit of some people is beyond comprehension.

October

1—The Glee Club boosts for Oregon at the State Fair.

5—Faculty desires change in program for the underclass mix. Proposed program: 1, Grand entrance parade and drill of all the girls and boys of both classes. Parade ends in front of grandstand, where the boys shake hands and the girls exchange kisses in evidence of their good will. 2, Grand chorus of mixed Frosh voices. Suggested selection: "Shall We Gather at the River?" Tiddlede-winks game between two class Presidents. 4, Marble tournament. Doctor Barnett, umpire. 5, Beauty contest between girls of both classes. Bert Jerard, judge. 6, Grand finale, "Down By the Old Mill Stream."

George Colton inaugurates anti-fly campaign at the Sigma Nu house. Dr. Hodge's advice secured.

7—Sophomore "procs" appear on campus. 'S death.

8—Vosper leads cohorts through streets of Eugene in first rally of the year. Orput gets devilish. Bowen and McMurray officially accredited with being the prize nuts of the evening.

10—Underclass mix. Sophs and Frosh enjoy mud bath on Kincaid Field. Echo June leads Soph co-eds.

Evening—Homecoming grads indulge in the light fantastic at the gym.

13—Prexy Prent Brown, the nut fisherman, hides from the Eugene police.

1910 OREGANA 1910

Wallace Eakin comes back to the "makins."

17—Dunbar gets the dope on the Ore.-O. A. C. game. Lombard calls mass meeting and we decide to keep game out of Portland. Tiffany raves, but to no avail.

21—Walt White goes to sleep during assembly.

22—The football team leaves for Moscow.

24—Tick Malarkey beats Idaho.

26—Dean Guppy concocts another obnoxious ruling. All fussers must get her permission before taking canoe trips up the race. Lee Hendricks searches for his reporters.

27—Student Body poses for panoramic picture.

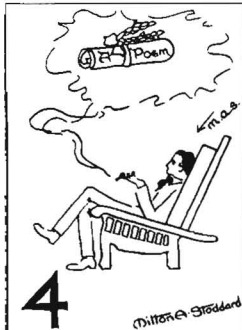

Sophomore class meeting. Howe, arguing for distinctive dress for Sophomores: "The Freshmen have their green caps, the Seniors have their sombreros, the Juniors have their corduroy trousers, and the Sophomores are left out in the cold."

29—In response to Vosper's call for rooters one Senior and three Frosh report for duty.

Sigma Delta Chi holds initiation. Neophytes appear on campus in dress suits, silk hats and monocles. Water bags in evidence.

31—Dean Guppy denies statement in Emerald that co-eds must secure permission to go up the race. Hendricks fears libel suit.

November

3—State election. Co-eds fail to vote because of legal requirement that they must divulge their age.

4—Having sent a poem off to a big magazine last week, Jimmie Stodard is going to stand in front of Deady several hours each day so that everybody can get a good look at him and get jealous if they want to.

5—Poem returned. Jimmie quits post.

Dean Straub announces that parents will be kept posted on studes' grades. "Posted" is good.

6—Gamma Phis put ban on one-step. Piggers mourn. Doctor Straub registers hearty approval.

7—Professor Allen establishes journalism museum. Many rare "types" on exhibit.

Bert Jerard announces band dance in gym. Says admission will be fifty cents.

8—"Cap" Spellman loses fraternity pin.

D. G. Sophomore says she's not afraid of snakes anyway.

9—Phi Deltis decide to pig systematically. Frosh Flynn is goat.

10—Death-like gloom pervades Oregon campus. Washington game four days off. Beckett, Cornell and Malarkey on the retired list.

11—Special Student Body meeting. JERARD MAKES SPEECH RECOMMENDING STUDENT BODY RECOGNITION OF WOMEN'S GLEE CLUB. Boylen summarily halts eloquence.

12—Beth Reah gets Alpha Phi. Iota Chis feel individual.

Two days before band dance. Everybody has engaged partners for the drag. Tickets raised to six bits. "The high cost of living," etc., becomes popular.

13—Friday, the thirteenth. All bets off.

14—Oregon loses to Washington. "We'll get 'em next year" becomes slogan. Gamma Phi Frosh inaugurate Freshman bench.

15—"You know us, Aggies," pins appear on campus.

17—O. A. C. reports loss of "Iron Woman." Blames it on us.

Later—Agies report return of "Iron Woman." Admit there was no "steal" in it.

19—Seniors draw mates for lottery dance. Prexy Ben Dorris draws Gertrude Taylor. Accused of frame-up. "Not guilty," avers leader of sombrero wearers.

O. A. C. game two days off. Frosh guard "O." Risley down with the mumps.

Our Advertisers

In the following pages are shown the advertisements of those firms whose dealings with the students of the University entitle them to our highest recommendation. Only the highest class firms are solicited, and the Oregana Board takes great pleasure in commending them to all of the readers and the friends of the OREGANA.

These firms have always shown the greatest interest in the student activities, and especially in the student publications, and to them is due, in a large measure, the financial success of the Annual. For this reason alone they are entitled to the support of every friend of the OREGANA.

DORMITORY—NEW ADDITION

"Is it not true that two plus two equals four?" shouted the class protege, during a lull in the heated argumen.

"The assumption," replied the staid Professor of Mathematics, "Is admitted correct, excepting in the case of ROYAL BREAD. Here the nutritive value of a single loaf is often the equivalent of four of the other kind.

Whereupon the class was immediately dismissed to repair to the nearest grocery store.
