President's Welcome

On behalf of the University of Oregon, I congratulate members of the Centennial Class of 1976 and extend best wishes to their parents, families, and friends here assembled.

The year 1976 is an auspicious one in the life of the University, in the life of the nation, and, we hope, in the life of each individual whose accomplishments are recognized during this ceremony.

William Boyd, President

The University

The University of Oregon opened its doors to 177 students on October 16, 1876. Today the University enrolls some 17,000 students. Its 925 faculty are engaged in teaching, research, and scholarship covering a broad range of humanistic, scientific, and professional knowledge.

The campus houses 35 departments and special programs in the liberal arts; nine professional schools and colleges; 12 research bureaus, institutes, and centers; and a graduate division.

The University's more than 80,000 alumni include two graduates who have won the Nobel Prize: William Parry Murphy, co-winner of the prize in 1934 for a development in the treatment of anemia, and Walter Houser Brattain, who won it in 1956 for the co-invention of the transistor. Seventeen Rhodes Scholars call the U of O their alma mater.

The University is one of only 24 public schools in the nation to be selected for membership in the prestigious American Association of Universities.

Alumni Membership

Welcome to the University of Oregon Alumni Association. As graduates you are entitled to receive copies of the Old Oregon magazine and Oregon Today. These are published alternately with eight issues a year. In addition to these publications, the Alumni Association sponsors social events in several communities, reunions, and alumni charter flights throughout the year.

Awards for Distinguished Service

Carlton Raymond Savage

The cause of international peace was the magnet that drew Carlton Raymond Savage from his native Oregon to the nation's capital and a lifelong career in the Department of State. There he served with distinction as aide and advisor to Secretary Cordell Hull and his successors, seeking always to promote the best interests of America and of world peace. First as diplomat, later as teacher, he exemplified his belief in reasonableness as a substitute for violence and hate in personal, national and international affairs. Loyal alumnus of the University, he stands with the most illustrious of her progeny.

Leona Elizabeth Tyler

Esteemed member of this University's faculty for three decades and first woman Dean of the Graduate School, Leona Elizabeth Tyler achieved distinction as a superb teacher, prolific and influential scholar, creative administrator and notably respected president of the American Psychological Association. Endowed with great clarity of thought and expression, she imparted to countless students a richer appreciation of the humanistic roots of her discipline, epitomized by her commitment to a "hopeful psychology." For her many contributions to the vitality of education on this and other campuses, she merits the enduring regard of all who prize the quality of our legacy to the future.

Owen Meredith Wilson

Ninth President of the University of Oregon and one of the great educational leaders of this country, Owen Meredith Wilson is possessed of the creative passion, of which Ortega wrote, that admits of reflective criticism without losing its energy. Gifted with a clear vision of what a University ought to be and an unflagging will to move it towards that goal, he helped to transform an essentially undergraduate college into a University of national repute. Pressing always for the University's wants in the perspective of the community's needs, he left both University and community the richer for the excellence of his aspiration and achievement.

Effie Lu Fairchild

Effie Lu Fairchild has won the affection and regard of her students and colleagues in the Department of Recreation and Park Management. She is the author of the department's new, innovative curriculum, which allows professional majors both flexibility and continuity through a special core program. She is a nationally recognized leader in community education and a pioneer in focusing national efforts on the leisure needs of handicapped persons. She has been responsible for organizing creative arts festivals locally in recent years. Dr. Fairchild is an outstanding teacher who performs exemplarily before large lecture and workshop classes, and with graduate seminars.

John Reynolds

His course on environmental control systems is regarded as one of the best in the United States. Even in large classes, he makes sure that every student has the opportunity for very detailed and extensive contact with the material. He spends great amounts of time working individually with students. He has been a leader in developing the use of solar energy in the Northwest. He is widely regarded and well-known as a leading authority on solar energy in the region.

The University of Oregon's Centennial

"EDUCATION: A Heritage and Future for Oregon" is the theme of the University of Oregon's year-long Centennial observance which began January 1, 1976.

In August of 1872, five Eugene citizens resolved to build a University. They organized the Union University Association and presented a proposal to the 1872 State Legislature that the State locate the University of Oregon in Eugene if the local citizens could buy a site and erect on it a building worth $50,000. Governor LaFayette Grover signed the enabling act "To create, organize and locate the University of the State of Oregon . . ." on October 19, 1872. Four years later Deady Hall, located on a 17 acre site, opened its doors on October 16, 1876 to 177 students, 79 in the collegiate course and 98 in the preparatory program, and a faculty of five.

The University's first class graduated in 1878 with five students eligible for degrees. The community celebrated the event. Newspaper accounts reported that people donated art works to hang on the walls of the auditorium and hundreds attended to honor the first graduates.

Today the University of Oregon enrolls more than 17,000 students and confers more than 3,500 bachelor, master and doctoral degrees each year. The campus encompasses some 250 acres with 41 major buildings. The full-time faculty numbers 925.

The basic mission of the University has remained what the 1872 Legislature authorized: "The University shall have for its design to provide instruction and complete education in all departments of science, literature, professional pursuits and general education. . . ."

Academic Costume

The history of academic dress goes back several centuries, to the chilly universities where cap and gown and hood were needed for covering and warmth. Subsequently this has become a ceremonial costume, with certain standardized features. For example, sleeves in the bachelor's gown are pointed, in the master's gown are oblong, in the doctor's gown are bell-shaped. Only the doctor's gown has velvet facing. The hood is lined with the official colors of the degree-conferring institution; for the University of Oregon these are lemon yellow and green. The outside trimming of the hood and the color of the tassel signify the subject in which the degree is conferred, as follows:

Maize—Agriculture
White—Arts, Letters, Humanities
Drab—Commerce, Accountancy,
Business
Lilac—Dentistry
Copper—Economics
Light Blue—Education
Orange—Engineering
Brown—Fine Arts, including
Architecture

Russet—Forestry
Crimson—Journalism
Purple—Law
Lemon—Library Science
Green—Medicine
Pink—Music
Apricot—Nursing
Silver Gray—Oratory, Speech
Olive Green—Pharmacy
Dark Blue—Philosophy
Sage Green—Physical Education
Peacock Blue—Public
Administration, including
Foreign Service
Salmon Pink—Public Health
Golden Yellow—Science
Citron—Social Work
Scarlet—Theology
Gray—Veterinary Science

At the University of Oregon it is customary for master's candidates to wear their hoods in the academic procession. Doctoral candidates carry their hoods and are hooded during the ceremony. Traditionally, baccalaureate candidates change tassles on their caps from front right to the front left as the degree is conferred.

Caps are removed during prayer, the playing of the National Anthem and the Alma Mater, and during the commencement address if desired.
