University of Oregon Commencement June 14, 2008

WELCOME—STUDENTS, PARENTS, AND FRIENDS—to the University of Oregon. With each year's commencement comes a great sense of accomplishment as well as an awareness of the future. This year is no exception, holding as it does the joy and satisfaction of achievement and the promise of challenges and opportunities that will stretch courage and creativity in new and exciting directions.

The University of Oregon began 132 years ago with a promise from one generation of Oregonians to future generations. This promise was based on the belief that education could make a difference in the lives of men and women, and it was this difference that would, in turn, improve the quality of the state, the nation, and the world. This year we renew our commitment to be a part of making a difference.

Our pledge is kept in part by the traditional commencement ceremony we attend today, and it will be kept in full by the accomplishments that you as graduates build and celebrate in the future.

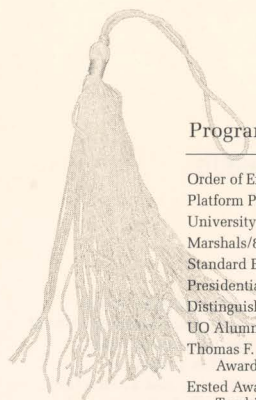

On behalf of the university community, I offer our best wishes as you continue to fulfill that original promise in the years to come, and I offer our gratitude to your friends and families for their support and encouragement.

The president's centennial medallion, shown above, was commissioned in 1975 and is worn by the president as a badge of office during formal university ceremonies. Professor Emeritus Paul Buckner of the Department of Art created and executed the design, carved from the wood of the Oregon myrtle.

The University of Oregon opened its doors in 1876. Deady Hall housed the entire university in those days. Built of bricks made from clay dug out of the local hills, the building was guaranteed by its architect to last 1,000 years. The first commencement in 1878 graduated five students. Today the university serves more than 20,000 students on its 295-acre campus. More than 1,500 faculty members teach in its arts and sciences departments and in its professional schools and colleges.

University Mace

In medieval times the mace was usually carried into battle by kings, bishops, and other leaders for use as a weapon. Later on it came to be used more for ceremonial occasions. Today it is a symbol of authority.

Designed and created in 1981 by the late C. Max Nixon, Department of Art, the university mace—shown at right—combines copper, bronze, and silver in the four-sided spherical head atop an oiled walnut shaft. The sphere is made up of four university seals joined at a common axis. The outer rims of the seals are copper. The university's name and motto, in Latin, are in bronze. The mountain at the center of the sphere is in silver, and the forests and hills are in bronze. Surmounting the linked seals is a replica of Deady Hall, the university's first building, cast in bronze.

At the top of the oiled walnut shaft and within the sphere created by the seals is the university's founding date. At the base of the shaft is a finial ornament in bronze, finished with a stylized pine-cone pattern. Embedded in its tip is the seal of the state of Oregon, also in bronze.

Marshals

The academic procession is led by the university marshal, who carries the university mace. The position is one of honor and is traditionally held by a previous recipient of the Thomas F. Herman Faculty Achievement Award for Distinguished Teaching.

Students carrying the academic standards were selected by their academic departments or programs for outstanding scholarship, leadership, or contribution to the university. The green-and-yellow standards display the emblems of each school or college.

DOROTHY "DODY" DORNSIFE JERNSTEDT

When Dody Jernstedt earned her bachelor's and master's degrees from the College of Education, she planned to pursue a career as a speech pathologist. Nearly forty years later, she has turned that interest in education into a far-reaching effort as president of the HEDCO Foundation and the Quest Foundation, private foundations based in Danville, California, that support educational, social, and health-related organizations.

Under Jernstedt's careful stewardship, HEDCO has provided broad support to the College of Education. An endowed professorship in communication disorders and sciences carries the foundation's name, as will the new College of Education building, which is currently nearing completion. HEDCO provided the lead $10 million gift toward the $48 million project.

Jernstedt is a former member of the UO Foundation Board of Trustees and College of Education Dean's Advisory Council. In 1996, she was the inaugural recipient of the Distinguished Service-Friend of Education Award from the College of Education, a testament to her ongoing support and commitment to her alma mater. In her local community, Jernstedt has been involved with the Greater Bay Area March of Dimes, Martha's Village and Kitchen, National Charity League, and the Herrick-Pacific Corporation.

MARILYN AND CALVIN SMITH

Known for their dedication to community service and enrichment, Marilyn and Cal Smith are longtime supporters of the University of Oregon. The Smiths, from Edmonds, Washington, are generous with their time and resources and have made the University of Oregon one of their highest priorities.

Cal spent his career with J. C. Penney and retired after spending thirty-one years with one of the nation's largest retailers. Marilyn, who has done extensive research on fetal alcohol syndrome, spent most of her adult life serving the communities where she and Cal lived and worked. Both are 1950 graduates of the University of Oregon.

The Smiths are recognized at the university as a caring couple whose support of the campus has no boundaries. They have created funds for the faculty and students of the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics, the College of Arts and Sciences, and the Charles H. Lundquist College of Business. They have provided funds for the construction of the new MarAbel B. Frohnmayer Music Building, the HEDCO Education Building, and the Ed Moshofsky Sports Center.

In 2000, the Smiths were inducted into the university's Order of the Emerald Society at their fiftieth class reunion.

The Presidential Medal was established in 1991 to honor individuals who have demonstrated extraordinary service to the university and whose professional and personal leadership in the world community places them among the nation's foremost citizens.

The medal is a hand-forged, solid-silver replica of the president's centennial medallion worn by the university president for ceremonial occasions.

Distinguished Service Awards

The Distinguished Service Award is presented to individuals who, by their knowledge and skills, have made a significant contribution to the cultural development of Oregon or society as a whole. The awards are presented by the University Senate on behalf of the faculty.

VIRGINIA BEAVERT

A keeper of culture, a collector of stories, a preserver of language, a protector of treasures—Virginia Beavert has worked for decades to record and save the Sahaptin language, once spoken on both sides of the Columbia River above the Dalles. This, along with her efforts to save tribal stories, legends, prayers, and place names, not only keeps those cultural treasures alive, but serves as a model for younger tribal members in those efforts. As an elder in the Yakima Nation, she teaches, writes, speaks—and is held in great esteem by native and nonnative peoples of the United States and Canada. It is a great honor to present the 2008 Distinguished Service Award to Virginia Beavert.

JOHN KITZHABER

Whether as an emergency room doctor or Oregon state governor, as a leader in meaningful health-care reform or a guiding force in environmental protection, John Kitzhaber is dedicated to finding solutions. And in that dedication, he is not afraid of opposition or, seemingly, of the time-consuming effort and commitment that any real change takes. His continuing work will enable Oregonians, current and future, to live their lives in a richer and more humane state. It is therefore a great honor to present the 2008 Distinguished Service Award to John Kitzhaber.

JAMES WARSAW

The words “forceful,” “eloquent,” and “visionary” describe Jim Warsaw. Entering his family business, he helped expand Sports Specialties into the world’s leading licensed headwear company. But his vision and commitment also extends to the community at large and to higher education. In fact, so much does he value higher education that he returned to the University of Oregon in 2006 to complete his own degree requirements. Launching the James H. Warsaw Sports Marketing Center at Oregon has enabled him to foster in students those values he holds so highly. Those same values drive his founding of the James H. Warsaw Foundation to Cure Parkinson’s Disease, as well as numerous other community and educational organizations. It is therefore a great honor to present the 2008 Distinguished Service Award to Jim Warsaw.

University of Oregon Alumni Association Awards

Outstanding Young Alumnus

JEFFREY WHITTY

Jeffrey Whitty won the 2004 Tony Award for Best Book of a Musical for Avenue Q. Avenue Q opened off-Broadway at the Vineyard Theatre in March 2003. It began previews at the John Golden Theatre on July 11, 2003, with a July 31, 2003, opening on Broadway.

A native of Coos Bay, Whitty studied theater and English at the University of Oregon as a student of the Robert Donald Clark Honors College.

His other plays include The Plank Project, a parody of documentary theater pieces such as The Laramie Project; the romantic New York comedy The Hiding Place; the dark comedy Suicide Weather; and Zora, based on a true story that appeared on NPR's This American Life. He is currently developing Freedom City, an original movie musical with music by André 3000 of OutKast. Whitty is also an actor, having appeared in New York productions of plays by Amy Freed, including The Beard of Avon and Freedomland. As an actor, he's worked off-Broadway, regionally, and in film and television.

His latest play, The Further Adventures of Hedda Gabler, is currently playing at the Oregon Shakespeare Festival in Ashland.

For his career accomplishments and commitment to the University of Oregon, Jeffrey Whitty is a deserving recipient of the Alumni Association's 2008 Outstanding Young Alumnus Award.

Distinguished Alumnus

DAN WIEDEN

Dan Wieden is cofounder, president, and creative director of Wieden and Kennedy, a Portland-based company that has become one of the most respected and successful advertising agencies in the world. The company came to prominence in the 1980s with its iconic work for Nike, including the slogan "Just Do It"—chosen by Advertising Age as one of the top five ad slogans of the twentieth century. The campaign has been enshrined in the Smithsonian Institution.

Starting with only one client, Nike, the company's list of customers has skyrocketed to include Microsoft, Coca-Cola, ESPN, Subaru, and Miller Brewing Company. The agency has won numerous awards for its innovative and provocative campaigns, including being named Adweek's Global Agency of the Year for 2008. The company now has outposts in London, New York, Tokyo, Paris, Milan, Barcelona, and Melbourne. Wieden's list of professional awards includes Oregon's Professional of the Year, Oregon's Entrepreneur of the Year, distinction as one of the world's fifty Cyber Elite by Time magazine, and one of thirty-two members of the One Club Creative Hall of Fame.

In addition to his professional accomplishments, Wieden has been a longtime supporter of numerous civic and charitable organizations. Currently, he serves on the boards of the American Indian College Fund, the National Multiple Sclerosis Society's Oregon chapter, and Ecotrust. Wieden has received Portland's First Citizen Award as well as the University of Oregon Pioneer Award.

Each year, Wieden returns to the University of Oregon and leads creative workshops for advertising students. Wieden and his wife founded Camp Caldera, a nonprofit creativity camp for inner-city kids. His list of volunteer work also includes SMART (Start Making a Reader Today), the reading program of the Oregon Children's Foundation, and Portland Public Schools.

Wieden's achievements and excellence in the advertising industry and his commitment to the University of Oregon make him a natural choice for the Alumni Association's 2008 Distinguished Alumnus Award.

The University of Oregon Alumni Association traditionally recognizes two individuals who have attained extraordinary distinction in their chosen professional field or through personal endeavor. Nominations are reviewed and award recipients are selected by the association's board of directors.

Thomas F. Herman Faculty Achievement Awards for Distinguished Teaching

The Herman Award recognizes senior faculty members whose careers have been characterized by years of sterling teaching. Originally created in 1984 with a grant from the Burlington Northern Foundation, the award continues today with funding provided by an endowment established by former UO Foundation trustee Thomas F. Herman.

DENNIS GALVAN

International Studies Program

Since coming to the University of Oregon in 2001, Dennis has excelled in every possible arena—as a classroom teacher, program administrator, student mentor, and scholar. Galvan's many publications and academic accomplishments are surpassed only by his ability to engage and enlighten students in the classroom. Student evaluations, from his introductory courses and graduate-level offerings alike, attest to Galvan's superior teaching abilities, citing his passion, his charisma, his depth and breadth of knowledge, and his humor and wit.

Galvan regularly accomplishes what few others can—creating an atmosphere of engagement no matter the class size. One student in Perspectives on International Development claimed, "This course was a lecture class but it felt like a small class." Other glowing adjectives that consistently appear on Galvan's near-perfect evaluations include "great," "awesome," "energetic," and "incredible." Many students cite Galvan's classes as the best they've taken at Oregon. Amid the overflow of praise, one student succinctly and very timely summed it up: "Galvan for president."

For excellence in teaching throughout his career, and the inspiration he brings to the classroom, Dennis Galvan is the recipient of the 2008 Thomas F. Herman Faculty Achievement Award for Distinguished Teaching.

PETER K. MILLS

Charles H. Lundquist College of Business

Peter Mills has a reputation as a demanding instructor who requires students to be well prepared for each class. The courses Mills teaches integrate and apply all of the functional training of the disciplines at the Lundquist College of Business into a final comprehensive course that leverages conceptual and case-based discussion to promote learning. Mills' classes require critical thought and analysis through the interaction of students and teacher that demands concentration and the ability to respond when called upon. Students learn quickly that they must be prepared with in-depth knowledge of the material to justify their responses when called upon in the classroom.

Students note their appreciation of the rigor of the courses as well as Mills' effective and interactive teaching style. They consistently comment that they feel significantly more prepared for the challenges they will face in the business world after taking Mills' class. No doubt speaking for many others, a student writes that "I have never had a class with such a professional atmosphere." A master's student described his services-management course as "the most challenging course I have had during both M.B.A. years." Other students describe Mills as genuine, inspiring, dynamic, and a teacher who pushes students toward their full potential.

Mills is a model for rigor and brilliance in the classroom, and serves as an exemplar for his colleagues. Alumni frequently comment that he influenced their career more than anyone else at Oregon.

For his outstanding efforts in the classroom, we are pleased to recognize Peter Mills with the 2008 Thomas F. Herman Faculty Achievement Award for Distinguished Teaching.

Ersted Award for Distinguished Teaching

Department of Human Physiology

Susan Verschure's devotion to teaching is not only attested in student reviews and in the praise of her colleagues but in her innovative development of teaching materials, especially for her courses on human anatomy. She has authored two laboratory manuals and has also developed a unique way of teaching human anatomy based on a body of materials entitled the External Brain project. This project results in each student in the class creating a book. While these books are individualized according to the particular student's own learning style, Verschure provides extensive illustrations and descriptions of the pertinent anatomy to be incorporated as a part of the student project. The syllabus to this course and all other courses Susan Verschure teaches are models of organization and clarity. They fully demonstrate just how much she cares about her students and the subjects she teaches.

Student reactions to Verschure are overwhelmingly enthusiastic and reflect her commitment to competent, thoughtful teaching. "I have never had an instructor more dedicated to students learning," one student says. Another describes her as "awesome" and adds that "seeing her so excited made the learning processes for me fun." It is this rare combination of careful preparation, deep concern with student learning, and unbridled enthusiasm for teaching that makes Susan Verschure a most deserving recipient of the 2008 Ersted Award for Distinguished Teaching.

The late A. J. Ersted established the Ersted Award for Distinguished Teaching to enable the University of Oregon to annually honor faculty members "who have taught comparatively short periods and have demonstrated exceptional abilities to induce students to reason and not merely to memorize." The Ersted Award is presented to faculty members early in their teaching careers.

Wayne T. Westling Award for University Leadership and Service

Named in honor of Wayne T. Westling, professor of law at the University of Oregon from 1979 until his death in 2001, this award recognizes exemplary long-term service to the university, inspired leadership, and commitment to principles of faculty governance and the fostering of inclusiveness and respect.

The Johnson Award was created by the UO faculty to honor the memory of Charles E. Johnson—professor of accounting, dean of liberal arts, and acting president—whose UO career spanned the years 1952 to 1969. The award recognizes the unique qualities that served Johnson well during his acting presidency in the often-turbulent 1960s. Johnson's legacy to the university is one marked by outstanding contributions as a scholar and teacher as well as an outspoken academic leader.

JAMES REINMUTH

Charles H. Lundquist College of Business

James Reinmuth joined the University of Oregon's business faculty in 1967 as an assistant professor. He served as dean of the Lundquist College of Business from 1976 to 1994, and as vice president for academic affairs and vice president for advancement in interim capacities for the University of Oregon.

Reinmuth has held visiting teaching appointments at universities in New Zealand, Australia, Indonesia, France, Hong Kong, and China. He has written and published more than forty articles on business planning and analysis, and is the coauthor of Statistics for Management and Economics, a textbook now in its seventh edition.

In 1975, he was awarded the University of Oregon's Ersted Award for Distinguished Teaching. After leaving the dean's position in 1994, Reinmuth was named the Lundquist Distinguished Professor of Business. He has been instrumental in the evolution of development and fundraising on campus—being one of the first deans to implement successful development efforts and then advising other colleges and units on best practices. This legacy is still felt today, and has allowed the university to maintain financial viability despite the severe reductions in state support.

For his many accomplishments, it is an honor to present the 2008 Wayne T. Westling Award for University Leadership and Service to James Reinmuth.

Charles E. Johnson Memorial Award

JOE A. STONE

Department of Economics

Throughout his more than twenty-eight years as a member of the University of Oregon faculty, Joe A. Stone has combined academic excellence with outstanding leadership as a teacher, researcher, department head, assistant dean, and dean of the College of Arts and Sciences.

In each position he has continually exemplified commitment to the principle that freedom of speech and assembly are central in American education. He also has been committed to increasing diversity within the faculty and the student body, while also establishing first-year undergraduates in the College of Arts and Sciences as the strongest academically at the university.

In the spirit of the Charles E. Johnson Award, he has demonstrated, through superb scholarship, instruction, and leadership, his belief that a liberal university is, in Johnson's words, "a place where it is possible to bring up for examination all ideas, good and bad." It therefore is an honor to present the 2008 Charles E. Johnson Memorial Award to Joe A. Stone.

University of Oregon

Doctoral Research Fellowship

JOSHUA FISHER

Dissertation Against Savage Capitalism: Participation, Inequality, and Making "Fair Trade" a Social Movement in Nicaragua

Joshua Fisher's research compares our view of fair trade as an "equitable, democratic, and participatory transnational social movement" with the actual experience of local producers in Nicaragua.

A graduate teaching fellow in anthropology since 2004, Fisher has received more than eight research and travel awards during his graduate career, including the very competitive National Science Foundation Doctoral Dissertation Research Improvement Grant.

JENNIFER MARLON

Dissertation Fires of the Past: Syntheses from Global Charcoal Records

Jennifer Marlon's dissertation centers on fire occurrence and biomass burning over the last 21,000 years. She is compiling the "first-ever long-term global fire data set," the analysis of which she hopes will help us to understand ecosystem shifts and climate change.

Marlon has served as a graduate teaching fellow in political science and geography, and has had appointments in both research and teaching. She has coauthored multiple publications on climate change and fire, and she is also a recipient of the prestigious National Science Foundation Doctoral Dissertation Research Improvement Grant.

ERIN ROKITA

Dissertation Rewriting Borders: Women Writers of Migration in the United States and Germany

Erin Rokita is studying women's migrant literature. More specifically, she is comparing literary conventions found in the work of Chicana writers of the southwest United States and those found in contemporary migrant literature.

This year, Rokita served as an associate editor for Nomad, the University of Oregon's undergraduate comparative literature journal, and she cofounded the Comparative Literature Undergraduate Mentorship Project. She has been a graduate teaching fellow in both the Comparative Literature Program and the Department of German and Scandinavian.

The UO Doctoral Research Fellowship, provided jointly by Graduate School and the Office of the Vice President for Research and Graduate Studies, is designed to promote excellence in research at Oregon. Each award includes an $18,000 stipend and a tuition waiver to support an outstanding advanced doctoral degree candidate in the final year of his or her program.

Jennifer Marlon's dissertation centers on fire occurrence and biomass burning over the last 21,000 years. She is compiling the "first-ever long-term global fire data set," the analysis of which she hopes will help us to understand ecosystem shifts and climate change.

Marlon has served as a graduate teaching fellow in political science and geography, and has had appointments in both research and teaching. She has coauthored multiple publications on climate change and fire, and she is also a recipient of the prestigious National Science Foundation Doctoral Dissertation Research Improvement Grant.

ERIN ROKITA

Dissertation Rewriting Borders: Women Writers of Migration in the United States and Germany

Erin Rokita is studying women's migrant literature. More specifically, she is comparing literary conventions found in the work of Chicana writers of the southwest United States and those found in contemporary migrant literature.

This year, Rokita served as an associate editor for Nomad, the University of Oregon's undergraduate comparative literature journal, and she cofounded the Comparative Literature Undergraduate Mentorship Project. She has been a graduate teaching fellow in both the Comparative Literature Program and the Department of German and Scandinavian.

The UO Doctoral Research Fellowship, provided jointly by Graduate School and the Office of the Vice President for Research and Graduate Studies, is designed to promote excellence in research at Oregon. Each award includes an $18,000 stipend and a tuition waiver to support an outstanding advanced doctoral degree candidate in the final year of his or her program.

Phi Beta Kappa Society Alpha of Oregon Chapter

Senior Recognition Awards

AAUW Senior Recognition Award

KATHLEEN MOXLEY

Presented by the Oregon division of the American Association of University Women, this award is presented to an outstanding senior woman. Award criteria are scholarship, character, personality, contributions to campus and community life, and the potential for future growth.

N. Ray Hawk Award

SARAH OAKS

Established in 1982 to honor N. Ray Hawk, a former UO vice president for administration and finance, the Hawk Award is presented to the outstanding member of the senior class. Recipients are selected for their leadership, scholastic achievement, service to students and the university, involvement in student activities, and contribution to the quality of undergraduate life.

Jackson Award

JENNIFER MAY

The Jackson Award was created to recognize senior students for their athletic ability, inspiration to other athletes, scholarship, and leadership ability. It was created in 1981 and is named in recognition of Muriel Jackson, a retired assistant vice president for administration, and her husband Ross.

Wilson Cup

KYRA HAYASHI
JAZZ MCGENNIS

The Wilson Cup was established in 1991 to honor Shirley Wilson, former dean of students. It recognizes seniors whose outstanding leadership and willingness to challenge conventional thought have stimulated awareness of and fostered education in the areas of social and cultural issues.

Paul Olum Award

JACLYN TOH

Created in 1995 and sponsored by the UO Alumni Association, the Paul Olum Award recognizes the graduating senior who best exemplifies the qualities of the UO's thirteenth president. Olum was widely recognized for his academic excellence, integrity, concern for people, and dedication to the university's welfare.

Honorary Degrees

The University of Oregon, on April 6, 2008, honored twenty Japanese Americans who had been students at Oregon when World War II broke out. The students were expelled under a federal order and their educations cut short.

At the ceremony, President Dave Frohnmayr told the group that "we are proud to claim you as alumni." The university awarded nineteen bachelor's degrees and one master's degree.

scarlet/theology
gray/veterinary science

At the University of Oregon it is customary for master's degree candidates to wear their hoods in the procession. Doctoral candidates carry their hoods and are hooded during the ceremony. Each bachelor's degree candidate changes the cap tassel from front right to front left as the degree is conferred. Caps are removed during the pledge song and during the commencement address.

Honor Cords

Bachelor's degree candidates who graduate with academic honors may wear honor cords over their gowns. Colors of honor cords signify specific honors.

Graduation with Latin Honors

Graduating seniors who have earned at least 90 credits in residence at the University of Oregon and have completed all other university degree requirements shall be awarded graduation with honors: upper 2 percent, summa cum laude; upper 5 percent, magna cum laude; upper 10 percent, cum laude. These distinctions are based on students' percentile rankings for their graduation term. The honors determination for spring 2007 degree candidates is provisional. It is based on academic work completed prior to the graduation term and is not official until final grades have been recorded.

Names of degree recipients and candidates are listed alphabetically by college or school, degree, and term—fall 2007, spring 2008, spring 2009.

For fall 2007 and winter 2008, the degree lists are official. Fall 2007 degrees were conferred in December, and winter 2008 degrees were conferred in March.

For spring 2008, the students whose names are listed here were considered to be candidates for the degrees indicated when this program was printed. This is not an official degree list. Degrees and diplomas will be awarded to those candidates who have successfully completed all requirements by the end of spring term 2008.

Robert Donald Clark Honors College

The garland, the Greco-Roman symbol of victory and honor, has been selected to represent the Clark Honors College, which offers students with exceptional abilities the opportunity to achieve their highest potential. Established in 1960, the college was named in honor of University of Oregon President Emeritus Robert D. Clark, whose vision and drive were instrumental in its creation.

School of Architecture and Allied Arts

A stylized letterform, integrating the three basic design shapes, symbolizes the creativity and utility in the School of Architecture and Allied Arts. Established in 1914, the school provides training in the philosophy and expertise necessary for responding to human needs for shelter and a harmonious relationship with the environment.

College of Education

The lamp of knowledge is an established symbol for the role of teaching and learning in society. It is a fitting insignia for the College of Education, which provides students, professionals, and the public with a wide range of services and training programs in the teaching-learning process. The college was established in 1910.

School of Journalism and Communication

The flash or starburst, with its many rays reaching to infinity, suggests the importance of communication to society.

The School of Journalism and Communication fosters this relationship in its professional programs in the areas of advertising, communication studies, electronic media, print media, and public relations. The school was established in 1916.

School of Music and Dance

The familiar treble clef and the "dancing" eighth rests represent the School of Music and Dance. Established in 1900, the School of Music and Dance fosters the development of teaching and performance skills, creativity, scholarship, and the creation of new works and ideas in the fields of music and dance.

School of Law

The scale of justice needs no lengthy interpretation. It is the universal symbol for the highest ideals of human society, which are reflected in the programs and goals of the University of Oregon School of Law. The school was established in 1884.

Graduate School

The mortar board and diploma are a simple representation of the Graduate School's central purpose—to coordinate all advanced-study programs on the campus and ensure that graduate students receive the support necessary for pursuing their postbaccalaureate goals. The school was established in 1900.

Oregon Pledge Song

Old Oregon, we pledge to thee
Our honor and fidelity,
Both now and in the years to be,
A never failing loyalty.
Fair Oregon, thy name shall be Written high in liberty.
Now, uncovered, swear we every one
Our pledge to Oregon.

John Stark Evans, a member of the music faculty for many years, wrote the Oregon Pledge Song, fondly known as "Old Oregon," in 1919.
He gave the rights to the pledge song to the University of Oregon.
