NEWS AND COMMENT

By Clair Johnson, Editor

Sports Program On The Upgrade

THE University sports program is definitely looking up. George Varoff did a lot more than his share when he soared to new heights recently and gave Oregon a real world's champion. Webfoot swimmers have been doing their part with an undefeated slate to date. Students, faculty, and business men are aiding the cause with a concerted drive for funds to turf Hayward field. The athletic department has reorganized and added All-American Mike Mikulak as backfield coach. And then to top it off, those "Driving Duck" basketekers boomed through to gain a tie for the northern division hoop crown.

"World's champion" . . . "all-American" . . . "conference champs" . . . those are all extremely sweet-sounding words to Oregon sports fans. Congratulations to the ones who make use of the words possible. May both theirs and the University's good fortune continue.

Employment Service in Full Swing

THIS issue of Old Oregon features a special article by Miss Smith and Dean Onthank telling of the function of the new employment service and how it can help alumni.

Keen-thinking alums, with a desire to improve their present position, will do well to register with the bureau. With the present boom in the industrial world, the demand is greater than the supply for skilled, experienced University graduates. Of course, requests from alumni who are in a position to need employees are still welcomed and will be filled only if Miss Smith and Dean Onthank think a capable person is available.

The employment service is a part of the personnel division of the University and operates closely in conjunction with the deans' offices. Accordingly, it has immediately available the intimate knowledge of students possessed by the members of the staff of this division.

Miss Janet Smith, who is immediately in charge of the employment service, has herself had extensive and responsible business experience and possesses wide acquaintance among employers in the Northwest.

Mr. Fansett, alumni secretary, is field representative for the service. He brings to the office business experience and many connections of his own.

In addition, an advisory council of faculty members especially concerned with placement of graduates guides the policy and operations of the office, and assures the cooperation of every department in the University toward giving this service a maximum effectiveness.

Miss Smith will be expecting and awaiting replies from interested alumni.

Thanks To Sound-Thinking Legislators

PARTIAL restoration of salaries to educators and availability of funds to carry on the work of handling large registration increases has finally been assured through the hard work of sound-thinking Oregon legislators with their eye on the future.

Although not as large as the $1,317,000 asked for as a minimum appropriation by Chancellor Hunter, the amount the legislature did allocate will do much to further the progress of education, and to relieve the strain of low paid professors and inadequate facilities.

From time immemorial increased and wider education has been the measuring stick of a nation's progressiveness. We are certain people with the welfare of the state and the University at heart join with us in thanking the men who have made possible further continuance of a successful educational system in Oregon.

Infra-red Brings Special Effects

Considerable curiosity has been shown as to how the unusual photographic effect was achieved on the January and February issues of Old Oregon. Credit for same is due George Godfrey, University Publicity Director, who took both pictures and used a new infra-red process to obtain his appealingly different results. Snowy effect in February issue was not snow at all, but infra-red fuzziness.

DUCKS IN TIE FOR HOOP CHAMPIONSHIP

WSC, U of W, Oregon Knotted for Title

A driving, never-say-die University of Oregon basketball team rose to great heights in the final game of its conference season and tossed the northern division championship race into a three-way tie.

Perched right in the middle of the deadlock were Howard Hobson's Webfoots, who downed Washington's Huskies in their Seattle pavilion in that final game by a 41 to 38 count. Washington and Washington State were other teams in the triple knot.

When the Oregon basketeers went to Seattle for a two-game series three possibilities remained for the outcome of the race. If Oregon won two, they would take undisputed possession of the crown. If they lost two, Washington would hold the undisputed top spot. If the teams split and Washington State defeated Oregon State twice, it would be a three way tie.

Webfoots Draw Bye In Playoff

The three-way tie became fact after the crucial weekend. With three teams sharing the top niche, the next thing was a squabble over what kind of a playoff would ensue, where it would be held, and several other items.

As Old Oregon went to press, arrangements were completed whereby WSC and Washington were to play the first game Friday, March 12. Oregon, having been the lucky drawer of the coveted "bye," was then scheduled to meet the winner of that game on March 16 for the championship. This game would be played at either Pullman or Seattle.

Ducks Lost First Husky Game

The Ducks were off form the first night of the Seattle series and they took a heart-breaking 42-to-25 licking. They couldn't make their shots good, couldn't seem to do anything right. Washington's shots all went in.

A victory on that final Saturday was necessary if Oregon was to stick in the title running. With Bob Anet and Wally Johansen, fighting sophomores from Astoria, leading the way, the Webfoots rushed into an eight-point lead at the start. They added to it and at one time held a 15-to-6 advantage over the Huskies, whose shots were missing as they had clicked on the previous evening.

Fighting Tony Amato, veteran guard on the Oregon grid team was named captain for next year at the annual spaghetti feed given for the squad by Coach and Mrs. Prince Callison.

Every point of the top-heavy early lead was needed before the end. Chuck Wagner, Bob Égge, Jack Gannon, and Ed Loverich, four poisonous Washington seniors, began swishing the net from outside Oregon's zone defense. The Huskies cut the Webfoot margin to two points, 18 to 16, by the end of the first half.

Huskies Make Desperate Bid

Anet led a Duck drive at the outset of the second period that gave Oregon renewed heart and a renewed lead. Two field goals in rapid succession made it 22 to 16 for the Webfoot sophomores. The Huskies began to cut the advantage at that point. They tied the score at 26. Slim Wintermute tipped in two field goals in a row, making it 30 to 26 for Oregon, but the Huskies boomed back once more.

Gannon tied it at 34 with a field goal and then sank another to give Washington a 36-to-34 edge. Dave Silver caged a free throw, putting Oregon within a point, and then Wintermute scored under the hoop to make it 37 to 36 for the Webfoots. A lay-in field goal by Laddie Gale, who had replaced Silver when big Dave committed his fourth personal foul, gave Oregon a three-point margin, but Ziegenfuss and Gannon of the Huskies cut it to a point with free throws.

Oregon Wins 41 to 38

It was 39 to 38, with a minute left. The Webfoots tried to stall on their slim one-point lead. The Huskies came after the ball and Wintermute slipped into the open under the hoop. He took a pass, flipped it in, and Oregon had the game.

The Webfoots were an iron man team. Only substitution came when Silver went out on fouls and was replaced by Gale. With Gale at forward, four sophomores were in the lineup. Wintermute, Johansen, and Anet were superb in the victory drive. Silver and Acting Captain John Lewis turned in outstanding performances.

Wintermute scored 11 points, Anet 9, Silver 7, Lewis 6, and Johansen and Gale 4 each.

Oregon 35, Oregon State 31

The Webfoots fought their way into a preliminary tie with Washington by coming from behind to nudge out Oregon State in a final regular-season game at McArthur court, 35 to 31.

Oregon trailed all through the second half until, with

VAROFF IS WORLD'S CHAMPION VAULTER

A Double World's Champ Is George

It's George Varoff, Oregon's own double world champion, now!

George Varoff, the Webfoot sophomore who set a new outdoor pole vault record of 14 feet, 6 inches last summer, scored again on an eastern trip last month.

In the A. A. games at Boston Varoff vaulted 14 feet, four and seven-eighths inches for a new world's indoor mark. That performance established the Oregon lad as undisputed top man in the world of pole vaulting.

George Varoff is a slight, quiet, unassuming young music major. He plays the bass viol in the University symphony orchestra. When he broke the indoor record, he felt, in his own words "Tired but plenty relieved and happy."

Varoff went back to the eastern meets by airplane and returned the same way. He was in Eugene 48 hours after his record shattering feat at Boston. The previous Saturday he had vaulted in the Millrose carnival at Madison Square Garden in New York. He went only 13 feet, 9 inches in that meet and finished third.

First Indoor Competition

The New York and Boston meets were Varoff's first tests in indoor competition. His rivals all had had considerable previous experience. Included in their number were Southern California's Earl Meadows, leading American vaulter in last summer's Olympic games, and Suetō Oye, the Japanese Olympic ace.

Varoff missed the Berlin boat last July when he finished fourth in the Olympic tryouts a short time after setting his outdoor record. Many protests were registered at that time in favor of Varoff making the trip despite failure to qualify in the first three, in view of his record. But the Oregon lad was left at home.

When he set his outdoor mark, Varoff was competing for the San Francisco Olympic club. When he established his recent indoor mark he was wearing University of Oregon colors. He has three years of collegiate competition left.

In a recent assembly Varoff was presented to the University student body and awarded a major letter. The ovation he received from fellow students was the greatest given any athlete here for several years.

Bill Hayward Given Credit

Much of Varoff's success can be attributed to Colonel Bill Hayward, Oregon's veteran track coach. Varoff gives a large portion of the credit to Colonel Bill.

Hayward has worked with the musically-inclined lad for two years. Bill believes Varoff could go 15 feet, were there only vaulting poles which would hoist a man that high. That is the big difficulty now, Hayward thinks.

Varoff has been bothered by a "charley horse." For that reason his indoor competition for the season ended with his record-breaking vault at Boston. He won't compete again until April 1, when Bill Hayward will launch his Webfoot track team on a pretentious schedule.

CAMPUS AND FACULTY

Children Are Helped

Dr. Elizabeth Montgomery has announced the expansion of the annual summer session clinic for atypical children into a year-around program following favorable comment everywhere on its service performed.

The clinic serves a dual purpose, for not only does it render service of untold value to hundreds of children, but it provides a laboratory for the teaching of methods employed. Its work has recently been termed by Professor Lewis M. Terman of Stanford university as "the most dramatic thing going on in education today anywhere in the world."

Children with reading difficulties will be aided in the new all-year course. Those unable to learn to read will be helped by a new type of training which makes possible the learning of words through tracing the letters with their hands. Known as "kinesthetic learning," the new process serves to impress words upon the students' minds through the additional stimulation.

'On the Air' Again

The University made its second nationwide broadcast from the campus music auditorium on February 27. Sent over the red network of NBC, the symphony program reached thousands of listeners. Again the broadcast was hailed as a success by radio technicians and experts.

Robert Garretson, 21-year-old pupil of George Hopkins, appeared as soloist with the orchestra directed by Rex Underwood. Dean John J. Landsbury gave a short talk on the growing importance of music.

The program lasted one half hour. Arrangements were again in charge of Hal Young. Particular comment of experts has been the unusually fine acoustics in the music auditorium.

Speakers Stir Interest

Campus interest in the Orient was considerably stirred during February with the visit of two authorities on China and Japan. One was Dr. Y. T. Wu, editor of the Chinese Association Press, who assailed Japan and appealed to America to join Great Britain in friendly gestures towards China. He expressed his belief that modified socialism in some form would be best for China and would later be adopted by the rest of the world.

The other noted speaker was Harrison Brown, English lecturer and journalist, who predicted an "agrarian revolution" soon for China, in an effort to get away from an economic condition which binds most of the natives to "a next bowl of rice" horizon.

Mr. Brown also asserted that war was not inevitable, but almost certain, and that it was possible for America to stay out of a hypothetical next war, but not likely.

Libe to Open by June

Summer session students will be the first to officially occupy the new $464,000 library now nearing completion, according to President C. V. Boyer.

Actual construction will be completed by the end of March, but inspection and final installation of equipment and furnishings will delay occupancy. Difficulties in obtaining needed special lumber for the interior have delayed the completion of the project until now.

Health Work Outlined

Now in effect at the University is a three-fold program for the control of tuberculosis, according to Drs. Fred N. Miller and Marian G. Hayes.

A compulsory tuberculin test for entering students has been set up and at this examination a triple effect is accomplished. It detects any tuberculosis, it prevents danger of infection by providing opportunity for treatment, and it enables students to observe the scientific approach to the disease as an individual and community problem.

First in Studying

University students at Oregon rated first place in the nation in use of library books for the past year, according to a survey of 41 leading colleges and universities by Willis C. Warren, reserve librarian.

Each student used on an average 126.5 books during the year, the survey showed. In number of books taken from the circulation department for home use, the University also ranked high with an average of 36.6 books per student for sixth place.

Out of the old and into the new is the song of workmen now busy carting books from the old libe, pictured above, to the new library located almost opposite from the Phi Delta Theta and Pi Beta Phi living groups. Summer session students will be the first users of the new library.

A notable fact shown in the survey was that in expenditure of money Oregon was far down the list, ending in 32nd place.

Federal Money Comes

An allocation of $6,150 for special studies in the field of local government has been granted the University's bureau of municipal research, Director Herman Kehrlri reports.

President Roosevelt has approved the grant, and the studies will be conducted as a WPA project, according to latest plans.

State Tour Made

Discussing governmental problems such as "The Constitution of Today" and "Forms of National Government" some 25 members of the classes in speech at the University have been on various trips throughout the state.

Instead of the customary debate or competitive speech type of presentation, a forum type of delivery has been used much this year. Under this system, discussion of both sides of the topic in a less argumentative manner is accomplished.

Play Well Received

Under the direction of Mrs. Otilie T. Seybolt, campus thespians came through with another successful production March 4, 5 and 6, with the presentation of "Pursuit of Happiness."

Fast lines and awkward situations kept the audience in an almost constant roar of laughter. Hypocrisy in early American church and state life was satirized. Gerald Smith, Helen Roberts, Lester Miller, George Bikman, Adrian Martin, Robert Henderson, Daisy Hamlin, and Adelyn Shields played the leading roles.

Inter-School Feeling Helped

Students of Oregon State college joined forces with Oregon students immediately after the big annual basketball game on the campus February 26, and played together at the first "Lemon-Orange Squeeze." The affair was a dance which will be an annual event shifting between the campuses. Funds from the goodwill get-together were used to help finance Oregon's project to turf Hayward field.

Signifying the establishment of better relations between Oregon and Oregon State, students of the University are shown above as they bury the hatchet a few days preceding the "Lemon-Orange Squeeze," a dance held February 26 immediately after the big game at Eugene. Proceeds of the dance went to help in turfing Hayward field. In the picture are Co-chairmen Margaret Bell and Peter Buren, both of Salem; Zollie Volchok, also of Salem; Phyllis Gardner, Portland; Gilbert Schultz, Forest Grove, president of the student body; and Anson Cornell, director of athletics.

Work in Art School Praised

A statue, "Paul Bunyan and the Blue Ox" by Assistant Professor O. L. Barrett was highly praised by Joseph A. Danysh in a recent visit to the campus. Mr. Danysh is regional director for federal arts projects. He also commented favorably on the work of the art school, and on the art work done on the new library.

Gravy Out of Politics

In a move to take the gravy out of campus politics, the executive committee of the ASUO voted this term to place the sole appointive power for various student committees in its hands, instead of leaving it to the president of the student body.

Martin Plans Visit

Governor Charles H. Martin will be on the campus March 18 and 19 to address the annual convention of the Commonwealth conference, the League of Oregon Cities, and the Chamber of Commerce secretaries association in a joint meeting according to present plans.

¶ Eleven Oregon cities have been selected for police training classes sponsored by the League of Oregon Cities, Director Warren C. Hyde has announced. Eugene, Astoria, Salem, Pendleton, LaGrande, The Dalles, Corvallis, Marshfield, Medford, Klamath Falls, and Bend were chosen.

¶ Marcia Steinhauser, sophomore from Hood River, was recently named "Miss Oregon" by a campus jury of men, following an all-campus vote nominating five girls. She will head a "personality section" of the Oregonian.

¶ Dr. Daniel D. Gage, Jr., professor of Business Administration has had a book published entitled "Land Title Assuring Agencies," according to announcements made on the campus this month.

¶ Gayle Buchanan, Eugene, was elected president of the AWS for the coming year at the annual election late in February. Harriet Thomson, Hood River, was elected YWCA president.

ALUMNI

COMMENCEMENT

Exercises Set for May 29-31

Following the new precedent established last year, commencement exercises will again be held this spring one week prior to the end of the regular school schedule. Alumni day is set for May 29, Baccalaureate address for May 30, and Commencement exercises for May 31.

This arrangement worked very satisfactorily last year, in that alumni returning to the campus found it well-filled with students, and not a deserted University with only a few seniors and faculty members present.

May 29 has been set as the day for six class reunions, the annual meeting of the alumni association, the University luncheon and the traditionally beautiful combined concert and flower and fern procession after dinner in the evening.

Class Reunions Planned

The class of 1887 will lead the class reunions in a fifty-year anniversary meeting. Others will be 1897 (40 years); 1907 (30 years); 1912 (25 years); 1917 (20 years); and 1927 (10 years).

Monday May 31 will be a holiday for all students, and they will be able to join alumni and parents present in wishing seniors good-will in the annual Commencement exercises.

Class secretaries have already shown considerable interest and enthusiasm, and Mr. Fansett is starting plans to make this year's reunions and Commencement superior to any held in the past. Copies of Old Oregon are being sent to various members of the reunion classes for the next three months.

Top Posts Go to Alums

Many important positions in the newly formed Oregon Retail Distributor's Association are being filled with alumni and faculty members. This association was organized early in February and is open to all types of retailers in Oregon, to advertising men engaged in retail advertising and merchandising, and to staff members of the University. Its function is primarily educational, and it will meet in yearly convention on the campus.

Among the officers are Edward Bisel, ex-'30, advertising manager of J. C. Penney Co., Salem, who serves as second vice-president; F. D. Felter, '31, editor and publisher of the Pacific

George Hopkins, '21, is shown above at his piano. He is co-author with Hal Young of a new song for the University entitled, "Marching Oregon."

Drug Review, Portland, who is fourth vice-president; Professor N. H. Comish, permanent secretary and on the publicity and program committees; Dean Victor P. Morris, '15, program committee; Marion McClain, '06, manager of the University Co-op store, Professor Jesse H. Bond, '09, and Russell Evans, ex-'26, manager of the Valley Printing Co., all on the accommodations committee.

A New Song for Oregon

George Hopkins, '21, and Hal Young, both of the music school faculty, have collaborated on a new song to pep up and keep in tune with revived campus spirit. The song will be presented during spring term, with the only preview thus far being given at the annual spaghetti feed and meeting of the football team. A rally and marching song, it is entitled, "Marching Oregon."

LOAN FUND HISTORY

At the special request of the Executive Committee of the State Association of University of Oregon Women, Mrs. Ella Travis Edmunson has written a brief history of the extremely praiseworthy project, "The Mary Spiller Loan Fund." Mrs. Edmunson's account follows below.

Alumni Banquet April 9

The big annual banquet and meeting of the Portland Alumni Association has been set for April 9, instead of March 5 as previously announced. Conflicting dates necessitated the unavoidable change of time.

All alumni in the Portland area are being contacted, and an even larger attendance than originally expected is looked for. President Paul D. Hunt and General Chairman Robert C. Bishop are working hand in hand to assure success of the aimed for "biggest ever" meeting.

Chairman Bishop reports that many alums are regarding the affair as almost a second homecoming. He says several classes are contemplating reunions, and that many grads from Salem, Astoria, and other cities within driving distance are planning attendance.

Alumni Secretary Elmer C. Fansett is still directing work on the extensive program to be put on largely by campus groups. Everything from group singing to magic and motion pictures is on the schedule, he says. Present plans call for a five-minute limit on any one activity, however.

Other committees working with Mr. Hunt and Mr. Bishop include James Emmett as secretary; Mrs. Kirby Kittoe, Mrs. A. Ireland, Mrs. Harlow Davis, and Mrs. Vinton Hall on arrangements; Mrs. Alfred J. Herman, Mrs. Horace Fenton, Miss Betty Cook, Miss Henryetta Lawrence, and Miss Sally Holloway on the patrons committee; Bert Gooding, A. Veazie, Lamar Tooze, A. Bynon, O. C. Palmer, and E. C. Peterson on the scroll committee to pick the outstanding alum for the past year; and Malcolm Bauer, Robert Lucas, and Vinton Hall on the publicity committee.

Special Project Started

Interest in seeing that prospective students of the University receive correct information about the school has led the University of Oregon Federation to arrange for the inclosure of a special card with this month's Old Oregon.

The card asks alumni members to send in the names of prospective students, provides space for their listing, and requires no stamp. Anyone knowing of prospective students is asked to help this group of friends of the University by doing his part.

THE FUNCTION OF THE EMPLOYMENT SERVICE

By Karl W. Onthank

University Dean of Personnel

and

Miss Janet Smith

Head of the Employment Service

IT will be welcome news to University graduates and especially to the 1937 class that the employment market is looking up. Not for years has there been such an early and strong demand for graduates, both for members of the current class and for those ripened by experience, as there is already in 1937. The employment managers of great corporations and others representing smaller employers are asking for recommendations to fill vacancies in their organizations, or for new positions created in expectation of returning prosperity.

The demand for outstanding young men is unquestionably going to exceed the supply. Much the same thing may be said for that for young women. The demand is especially strong for graduates who have been out a few years, have had some successful experience, and are now ready to assume substantial responsibilities.

THE new Employment Service, announced in the January Old Oregon, was created to bring together University graduates and former students asking to improve their employment situations and employers seeking men for their organizations. Its aim is to serve both impartially. Accordingly, it endeavors to maintain connections with employers using University graduates on the one hand, and with graduates desiring to widen their range of opportunity or who are seeking immediate promotion on the other.

All graduates and former students of the University who are at all interested in bettering themselves occupationally are urged to register with the Employment Service. Even though they may not be dissatisfied with present jobs, most young people are glad to hear of attractive openings in their fields for which they may try if they look especially interesting. The Employment Office gives such service.

The registration fee of three dollars required of all employment offices operated by the State System to cover the initial cost of setting up files and records provides this permanent service. It should be understood that registration once made is permanent, and assures one of the service of the office whenever it is desired.

IN addition to providing service to graduates and former students desiring full time positions, the Employment Service has been remarkably successful in the last two years in finding vacation employment for students needing funds to continue their education. Thousands of dollars were earned last summer by students who were placed through the Employment Office. Jobs at summer resorts, on construction projects, in occupations of all kinds, were cleared through this office.

The Undergraduate Employment Office for students resident on the campus operates closely in conjunction with this. The experience of students at their undergraduate jobs, the skills developed, particularly the quality of performance, are often extremely helpful in placement on leaving college.

It is not without significance that more than one employing institution prefers students who have worked while they have been going to college, as evidence not only of determination and earnestness, but also of capacity to hold a job successfully. It is interesting also that employers are often more particular about qualifications having to do with personality and character than they are with regard to particular courses studied in college.

IT should be made clear that there is no conflict or duplication between the newly established Employment Service headed by Miss Smith, and the Appointment Bureau for Teachers headed by Miss Ida May Pope. The two supplement each other and work closely in cooperation. Nor does it duplicate or conflict with the assistance given to graduates in journalism, law, or other specialized professional fields. This office coordinates and attempts to record all such placements and assists students who are not entering one of the highly specialized fields, both those who have graduated from the University and those who have left before graduation.

ALUMNI are invited not only to make use personally of the Employment Office toward getting more desirable positions, but are invited also to let the office know when they hear of openings, present or prospective, for which University graduates might be recommended. A great many University graduates are strategically placed to assist their own organizations, or friends among employers, to get first-rate persons, and at the same time to help promising young graduates of their Alma Mater into attractive positions.

The famous "bundling" scene from the play "Pursuit of Happiness," recently presented on the campus is shown here, with Helen Roberts and Gerald Smith as participants. This was the way lovers of early Puritan days kept warm when the fire died down. The shockingness of the scene is relieved by all bundlers being required to wear their clothes and keep the centerboard down.

Surrounding us we have a trio of Oregon faculty men who have been in the news lately. Directly above is Professor N. H. Comish who has been instrumental in organizing the Oregon Retail Distributors' Association and is its permanent secretary; upper right is Horace Robinson, who has continued his fine work staging Guild Hall plays and is now at work on a tough production, "Ethan Frome"; lower right is Professor Howard Taylor, who is acting as director of an alumni economic survey which is part of a national project.

Dr. Harold B. Myers, associate dean of the medical school, also holds the position of professor of pharmacology. He is known internationally for his work in that field. Much recognition has been his for essential oil treatment of fungus diseases.

Two enthusiastic sport fans are Professors Rudolf Ernst and C. L. Huffaker. The former delights in taking his famous old pipe and coming to watch the boys work out, particularly in baseball. The latter still lives in the memory of his famous "hole-in-one" of over a year's age.

"Honest John" Warren has marked up another successful year as freshman basketball coach with nine wins, four losses. Two joys of Warren this year were watching his frosh roll up big scores, and seeing his two proteges Bob Anet and Wally Johansen lead the varsity to victory after victory.

slightly more than five minutes left, a field goal by Wally Johansen and a free throw by Johnny Lewis tied the count at 28. Kolberg's foul shot gave Oregon State the lead again, but Laddie Gale holed two free throws in a row to make it 30 to 29 for Oregon.

Bob Anet hit one from out on the right sideline, making it 32 to 29, and Wintermute added a foul toss, but Merryman of the Beavers made it uncomfortable again with a long howitzer. At that critical juncture Laddie Gale dribbled under to clinch victory.

Oregon State held an 18-to-14 advantage at the close of a ragged first half. Six thousand fans screamed as the Ducks, sparked by the slim Johansen, whose injection into the lineup with 12 minutes to play was a definite turning point, closed in on the fighting Beavers and then swept past them to win and assert themselves in the conference chase.

Gale was Oregon's scoring ace of the night with a dozen points, eight from field goals. Wintermute took the tip-off consistently and scored seven points. Anet was a firebrand in Oregon's offense. He had three assists.

Oregon, 33, Oregon State 26

Oregon led all the way in the third "civil war" meeting at Corvallis to down the Beavers, 33 to 26. It was zone defense against zone defense, and Oregon held the home team to five field goals.

The Webfoots rushed into an early lead and were ahead by five points, 15 to 10, at half-time. Laddie Gale paced the Oregon scoring with nine points. John Lewis scored seven. Ken Purdy sank two of his famed long shots and one short one for six points.

Oregon State, led by Art Merryman, threatened in closing minutes, but the Webfoots stiffened and pulled further ahead.

Split With Vandals

Idaho's fighting Vandals put a temporary crimp in Oregon's championship dream and kept the Webfoots from winning undisputed first place by edging out a 35-to-31 victory in the first of a two-game series at McArthur court. The Ducks were jittery and couldn't hit the basket. At the finish they fell behind the inexperienced Vandals, whose confidence picked up gradually as the game progressed.

The following night Hobby Hobson's men redeemed themselves by driving to a 46-to-33 win in a listless game. Wintermute and Johansen tied for scoring honors with 11 points each.

a successful season. The frosh won nine regular games and several practice contests and lost only four.

They waxed Oregon State's rooks in the first two games of "little civil war" competition, but the rooks, flashing a lineup composed entirely of all-state players, took the final pair by scores of 41 to 34 and 43 to 41.

Sarpola, Dick, and Pavalunas are sure-fire varsity prospects. Sarpola, an Astoria lad, is an ambidextrous sharp-shooter who is almost unguardable. Dick, from The Dalles, is a 6 foot, 4 inch center, a fine jumper and a crack shot. Pavalunas hails from Raymond, Washington, is a driving, fighting guard.

Other Ducklings with varsity possibilities include Stan Short, stocky guard from Roseburg; Bob Blenkinsop, forward from McMinnville; Wimpy Quinn, guard from Grant high of Portland; and Jimmy Jones, wee California speedboy.

Baseball Looks Good This Spring

An upward trend in Oregon baseball fortunes is forecast for the coming spring. Bill Sayles, promising sophomore right-hander, is a pitcher counted upon to twirl the Webfoot horsehiders high in the northern division race.

A wealth of infield talent is on hand. Leaders include Gale Smith and Bill Courtney, first base; John Lewis and Jack Gordon, shortstop; and Ford Mullen, third. Courtney, regular first sacker last year, may be moved into the outfield. Ralph Amato is a returning outfield regular. John Thomas, first string catcher last season, is ready for another campaign.

Webfoot Swimmers Win Meets

Swimming will be fully recognized as a major sport at Oregon, if a resolution passed by the Order of the O is adopted by the executive council. This year's swimming team met and defeated Oregon State twice in early engagements. Mike Hoyman's squad, composed of only six swimmers and two divers, downed the Beaver mermen at Corvallis, 41 to 31, and then duplicated the trick in Eugene's Gerlinger pool. Score at home was 43 1-2 to 31 1-2.

Amato Named Football Captain

Anthony J. (Tony) Amato will captain Oregon's football forces next fall. Tony was elected captain by his teammates at the annual "spaghetti feed" given by Mr. and Mrs. Prink Callison.

All varsity and freshman gridmen were at the "feed," and also present were numerous guests. Captain Amato, honor student in the law school, plays all-coast football at right guard, eats more spaghetti than the average man.

University of Oregon Alumnae in Villard Hall, to form the organization now known as the State Association of University of Oregon Women.

At this first meeting a committee on functions was appointed. This committee made its report the following year and recommended as one of its objectives that a scholarship in the University of Oregon be established and maintained for a worthy young woman of Oregon. This committee also recommended that the scholarship be known as "The Mary Spiller Scholarship" in honor of Prof. Mary Putnam Spiller, the first woman elected to a professorship in the University.

After a conscientious effort, through a period of 15 years, to raise each year the money for this scholarship, the Executive Committee thought it advisable to withdraw the scholarship temporarily, for the reason that the response of the graduate women was not sufficient to finance it. There were less than 150 women who were paying annual dues of one dollar per year, while it required about $300.00 for each scholarship.

Based on these facts, the Executive Committee of the State Alumnae proposed a plan to raise $5,000.00 and use the interest on this sum as a permanent loan fund. This plan was proposed in 1923 and in June 1934, the Executive Committee announced that the $5,000.00 had been raised. For the completion of this fund, too much credit cannot be given Mrs. Jennie Beatie Harris, Treasurer from June 1919 to September 1935, and Mrs. Edith Chambers, her faithful co-worker. It was their untiring efforts that spurred the organization on to reach the desired goal.

The "Mary Spiller Loan Fund" is now functioning. Applications for this loan may be made through the regular U. of O. Administration Department or the First National Bank, Eugene.

Trustees of the Scholarship Fund are Mrs. F. L. Chambers, Miss Elma Hendricks, Mrs. Ella T. Edmunson, Mrs. R. S. Bryson, with Miss Lenore Casford, President and Mrs. J. O. Holt, Treasurer, Ex-officio members.

JUST TRIBUTE TO DR. ESTHER POHL LOVEJOY

This month's Old Oregon pays just tribute to Dr. Esther Pohl Lovejoy, who is one of the earliest women graduates of the medical school and one of its most distinguished alumni.

The Medical School is recently in receipt of a gift from Dr. Lovejoy in the sum of $1,000, first payment toward the Pohl Memorial fund, proceeds of which will establish a memorial fellowship or scholarship in the school. It is in honor of her husband Dr. Emil Pohl, also a graduate of the school, and her son, Frederick Clayton Pohl, both deceased.

After graduating from the Medical School she began the practice of medicine in Portland and continued therein until the beginning of the World War except for absences for post graduate work in Chicago and Vienna. During her practice in Portland she served as a member of the Portland Board of Health from 1905 to 1909, and as head of the Health Department from 1909 to 1912.

In 1917 she served with the American Red Cross in France, and in 1918 was returned to the United States to make a tour of the country and tell the people of the great need of the Red Cross in Europe. During that time she was asked to take active charge of the American Women's Hospitals service, in which position she has continued to the present time.

Dr. Lovejoy is a fellow of the American Medical Association; a member of the Medical Women's National Association (Pres. 1932-'33); the Medical Women's International Association (Pres. 1919-1924); and an honorary member of the Oregon State Medical Society and the Multnomah County Medical Society.

Decorations she has been awarded include: Cross of the Legion of Honor (France); Cross of the Redeemer; Grand Cross of the Order of King George I and War Cross (Greece); Cross of the Holy Sepulcher (Jerusalem); Gold Cross of Saint Save (Yugoslavia).

Dr. Lovejoy is author of "The House of the Good Neighbor," 1919, and "Certain Samaritans," 1927-1933.

She still considers Portland her home, but her present address is 50 West 50th Street, New York.

Dr. David G. Mason, M.D. '35, writes: "My wife (Louise Peck of Portland) and I have been in Minnesota nearly two years now and certainly have enjoyed the news that OLD OREGON brings to us each month. Last year we were in St. Paul where I served a rotating internship at Ancker hospital, a city and county institution. At present I am in my first year of a three year fellowship at the Mayo Clinic in surgical pathology. We often see Dr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Montgomery (1929). He ("Hips") is doing fine and will complete his three year fellowship in urologic surgery this June." "P.S.—that turf football field should boost our win column."

Dr. Esther Pohl Lovejoy, above, is an illustrious alumna and benefactor of the University of Oregon medical school. She is paid tribute to in an article on this page.

QUACKS

INAUGURATED in December, "Quacks" is here to stay. Its quality we hope to improve as reader response intensifies. The office ducks, (Iguesso, on the left, and Iguesso II, on the right) indicate what we want. Shouting or weeping, chuckles or "gleeping," will fill the bill. Fire away!

THE March award of $1 cash for the best Quack-of-the-month goes without a dissenting voice to Dr. P. N. Root, M.D. '24, of Bakersfield, California. His contribution to "Quacks" follows:

Quack Department,
Old Oregon.
Gentlemen:

Please make yourself clear. Just whom are you referring to under the name of Quack. Do you refer to the natatory aquatic avian specimen genus anser, under which appellation are known the apulmate biped inhabitants of the central state of the Pacific coast of the United States, or do you refer in a derogatory manner to the followers of the great Aesculapius and mother Hygeia? If the latter, I can assure you we have been cussed by experts, and your poisonous darts do not reach their aim.

Yours truly,
P. N. Root.

P.S.—Do not rush cancelling my subscription, even though I am suspecting you of making derogatory remarks about the medical profession. P.P.S.—Should you need to translate my epistle in English, please apply to your sanscrit department. Maybe they know what it means. I certainly am not able to translate it for you.

We hasten to assure Dr. Root that Old Oregon's monthly column of comment known as "Quacks" is not aimed at doctors, and that we shall continue to leave heckling of the profession up to experts. Meanwhile, the Quack page will continue to be an heterogeneous assortment of curt quirps, whether they be commendatory, condemnatory, silly, or sad.

NEXT in line comes a contribution from Haines, Oregon, which expresses a feeling we hope many alumni have for Old Oregon.

Dear Editor:

A hasty line or two to let you know that I enjoy each issue of Old Oregon to the 'nth degree.

Many of the people I know—lots I've only heard of, but for some reason they are like old friends.

Kept busy by an assortment of high school subjects, letter writing is at its lowest stage of production. That means gradually losing track of college acquaintances. It is for this one fact, especially, that I like Old Oregon—whether one has time to write or not—through this magazine we still can keep in touch with one another.

The best wishes of continued success.

Sincerely,
Barbara Jordan, '36.

FROM an anonymous reader who each month sends in some critical denunciation, "Quacks" this month has its attempts at terseness, curtness walloped with words.

Dear Mr. Johnson:

Your messed up attempts at revival or initiation of a new or different literary style emphasizing terseness and curtness in both your editorial and "Quacks" columns should be abolished.

Leaving out of words such as the, continued use of slangy collegiate words, and similar mistakes only shows your lack of ability to use correct grammar. It produces a result faulty in rhythm and not euphorious in sound.

Sincerely,
A. Reader.

Sorry, Mr. A. Reader, that attempts at pepping up, collegiating Old Oregon have not met with your approval. Admitted, smooth flowing reading is not one of virtues of style used. But it is different, has a certain attractiveness, we think. For answer to implications of illiteracy, lack of grammatical ability, we refer A. Reader to general news of Old Oregon, where accepted King's English is target writer strives for.

* * *

NEXT comes a comp, and a statement of the value which alumni associations can really give a grad. Feeling expressed in pledge of support is example of what we hope for from every alum.

Dear Mr. Fansett:

Glad to hear of the progressive work you are doing to put Oregon on the map. Having just returned from Southern California want you to know we have had an opportunity to observe the value of alumni associations of other schools to their alma mater, and want to pledge our support in every possible way to organize either a strong Eugene Association or State Association. Any of our old classmates can find us at 1790 Fairmount, Eugene, Oregon.

Sincerely,
Claire Kneeland, '26,
Coral Graham Kneeland, 38.

IN answer to many questions, Iguesso, the office duck, flew over past the law school building (others term it the Oregon building) and looked at the front of it. Sure enough, in big letters, just as shown on the cover of February Old Oregon, was inscribed, "Education Bvilding." A short bit of historical research reveals that when first constructed the building housed the education school. So take your choice of the three names, but it still remains across the street from Condon, facing Commerce.

* * *

AN Emerald columnist came through with a parody on "roses are red" during a contest to determine a King of Hearts from leading campus representatives of masculinity. Candidates Don Casciato, editor of the Oregana, and Gib Schultz, student body prexy, were satirized and pictured waltzing down the street singing in unison, "Roses are red, violets are blue, if you'll vote for me, I'll vote for you."

* * *

RESPONSE to the monthly contest for best letter to "Quacks" with accompanying prize of $1 is still not up to expectations. Let any Quack you have fly for the alumni office. We're waiting. Also remember slogan contest now on. Details in another part of this issue. Fire away!

OLD OREGON READERS

● Write in and let us know what you think of the revised Old Oregon Magazine. Suggest changes. Tell us what you like, and what you dislike.

● Contributions of all kinds are always welcome to "Quacks." Names will be held upon request, but please sign your letters. Make them short, interesting, and sparkling.

● Write and let us know what the alumni organization can do to help you. This is YOUR office and YOUR magazine. We will endeavor to serve you to the best of our ability.

Sincerely,

Clair Johnson, Editor,
Old Oregon Magazine.

SLOGAN CONTEST

Because the alumni association feels that it has a new spirit and a revival of interest but lacks words to express it, a slogan contest is being started. A $5 membership in the alumni group, which includes all alumni privileges and a subscription to Old Oregon for three years, will be awarded the winner.

Write in and help in trying to express this new enthusiasm, this feeling that we are driving toward a greater University and a greater alumni group. Eight words or less is the length requirement.

James H. Gilbert, Lynn McCready, and Marion F. McClain will act as judges. Get your entries on the way. Rules are as follows:

1. Contest closes April 1. However, since this is all-fools day this rule won't be observed and entries will be accepted until April 15.

2. Customary rule of having your entry written on the back cover of the last issue of Old Oregon or a reasonable facsimile will not be observed. Pencil, paper, an idea, and some way to get it to us is all that is required.

3. Duplicate awards will be made in case of a tie unless we decide to flip a coin.

4. No reflection on the judges, but their decisions will not be final. If you want to argue come into the office, and we'll attempt to convince you of the necessity of your giving us $5 instead.

Old-World Vacation Land MEXICO!

For a vacation that is different, consider Mexico. Centuries off the beaten path, today it is one of America's most talked-about travel lands. You'll thrill to its foreign color, old-world scenes, vivid contrasts. You'll enjoy its mild delightful climate and appreciate the rate of exchange which trebles the American dollar.

No way to Mexico is more fun than our West Coast Route through Nogales, Guaymas, where our beautiful new hotel, Playa de Cortes, is located; dreamy Mazatlan; the rugged barrancas and Guadalajara to Mexico City. You can go and return via this route or at no additional fare go one-way on the National Railways of Mexico line via El Paso—(see map). Modern air-conditioned trains all the way.

Roundtrip rail fares are surprisingly low. You can, if you wish, make a sidetrip to Mexico City on your way to or from the East for only $50 extra rail fare.

For literature, fares and details, see your local S. P. agent or write J. A. ORMANDY, General Passenger Agent, 622 Pacific Bldg., Portland, Ore.
