NEWS AND COMMENT

By Clair Johnson, Editor

Rally, Rally, Rally

EVERY alum that attended the banquet in Portland couldn't help but notice the better spirit that prevailed. The largest crowd ever to attend such an affair helped. But the main thing was the boom in enthusiasm for the University and the alumni association.

Things are picking up.

Preaching a "Revival of Spirit" is an old theme song. But when concrete evidence is available, when there are so many accomplishments to be justly enthused about, then this note rings true. And that is the case right now.

The University is booming. New buildings and more adequate finances are making possible a partial restoration of pre-depression standards. Extremely successful athletic teams are giving Oregonians something to talk about. University educators are making notable achievements in their individual fields.

All this combines for an improved, and decidedly better student spirit.

Old Oregon has been talking about this different feeling on the campus for some time now. We like it. We feel it is indicative of better things to come next year and in the future. We want you to share in this feeling and in this understanding.

Sooooooo . . . to make it short, let's see you returning for a campus visit either during Junior Weekend or at Commencement. You'll see a grand show, and you can check up on things for yourself.

Quack, Quack Again

THE above summarized story of why we want every alum possible to come back for Junior weekend or Commencement tells our editorial story for this time, so again Brothers Ignesso and Ignesso II take over the page to edit letters from interested readers.

CAMERA enthusiasts will be interested to know that the cover picture this month was taken by George Jones, a member of George Godfrey's reading and conference course in graphic journalism. One of the popular Argus miniature cameras was used.

FOR a helpful suggestion and a thoroughly interesting letter the $1 prize for the best Quack-of-the-month goes to Chalmer N. Patterson, '17, this issue. His letter follows:

4623 N. Morris Blvd.,
Milwaukee, Wis., April 15.

Editor, Old Oregon,
Eugene, Oregon.

Dear Sir:

My copy of the April Old Oregon arrived last evening, reminding me that my dues for the year should have been paid before this.

I am enjoying the paper even more than it can possibly be enjoyed by those close enough to have Oregon news in other ways. We never have any news from there in the local press.

I am glad for the new and interesting feature you are introducing. And I have a suggestion to make in behalf of all of us who are far from home. Why not print complete lists for a few states each month, of those living in places where the number of former Oregon students has been too small for an active Alumni branch to exist? In this number, I see that Mrs. Katherine Harvey Corrie of the Class of '35 is moving from Milwaukee ("ee", not "ie" as you have it) to Whitewater, Wis. I never knew Mrs. Corrie but had I known she was here, I should have tried to meet her. Such lists might stimulate little Oregon gatherings in many far corners of the country. Since coming to Milwaukee, over seven years ago, I have seen very few from Oregon. If the list I suggest is printed, it should include the address and year of each one known to be in the state.

At the present time, I am still educational adviser in a CCC camp at the limits of Milwaukee. Am hoping that with better business conditions, I can return to my college work again.

Occasionally I see Miss Constance Brown who took her A.B. and A.M. at Oregon just a few years ago. She is staying with her sister who is teacher of a church school class of which my wife is assistant teacher. When I was in Madison last summer at an educational meeting, I had a fine visit with Dr. Schafer who was at Oregon so long. Just missed Roger DeBusk by a few hours, as he left to attend his father's funeral. While at Chicago for the Physical Society meeting in November, I visited with Dr. Monk who taught at Oregon in 1919-20. Have seen no others for many years. There are several Oregon State people here and I see some of them occasionally.

This has grown longer than I planned but I wonder if you will send me the names and addresses of all the Oregon people in this part of the country? I am going to send a card to Mrs. Corrie. If there are three or four others in reach, we might be able to have an Oregon reunion here, even if we can't return for the Class reunions. The two summers I spent at the U. of Iowa several years ago, I did arrange such gatherings and we had fine times.

Yours sincerely,

CHALMER N. PATTERSON

ANOTHER letter of interest pays just tribute to Miss Amy Dunn, whose death we recorded in the April issue of Old Oregon. Checking up we find that Miss Dunn did preparatory work at the University before entering Stanford from which she later received her bachelor of arts degree.

To the Editor Old Oregon:
Eugene, Oregon.

There has recently passed from this life one who, tho not an alumna of Oregon, nonetheless deserves more than ordinary mention in your columns. Miss Amy L. Dunn was for some years house-mother at the Delta Gamma chapter at Eugene and for long prominent in the affairs of the University and city. Thru her interest in the school and active part in its affairs she has become endeared to several generations of its students. Many readers of Old Oregon will be surprised to learn she is not an Oregon graduate, but all will be pleased to see an appropriate account of her life and labors.

Mrs. C. S. Williams, (Irena Dunn, ex-'81) 1991 Garden Ave., Eugene, sister of Miss Dunn and of the late Prof. Frederic S. Dunn can give much of the information needed for such an account. There are several others of her family who could be profitably interviewed in getting material.

I believe there is sufficient precedent for giving space in your columns for benefactors of the school who might not be alumni. If any one is deserving of such recognition and tribute, Miss Dunn is.

Sincerely
LOWELL L. HALL, ex-'27.

APPEAL for even a big business executive is Old Oregon's latest accomplishment. The following letter tells the story:

Apartment 74-6, 61 East 86 Street,
New York City, March 23, 1937.
Old Oregon
University of Oregon
Eugene, Oregon
Gentlemen:

Best I inform you of my correct address, listed above. My March copy of "Old Oregon" was sent to the branch office of the Berlitz School of Languages where the boss picked it up to bring to me at the main office in Rockefeller Center.

About three days later I got "Old Oregon"—with the calm announcement that the boss had been carrying it around with him to read on the subway. He's never been further west than Chicago, and has no personal interest in our alma mater—so you can take this as a first-class compliment to your writing ability. I suppose this puts you in a class with the New York Daily News—which is what everyone else reads on the subway.

Seriously, you have a very good magazine; and after struggling through reams of publicity and beating my head on the wall in an attempt to write some advertising copy all in the un-inspiring surroundings of a strange city—your "news from home" comes as a welcome relief. The best of luck to you!

Sincerely,
Ann-Reed Burns, '36.

ANOTHER much appreciated "best wishes" letter follows:
Editor, Old Oregon.

Editor, Old Oregon.
Dear Sir:—

For several months I have been enjoying very much my copies of the awakened Old Oregon. It has been sent to me for having paid my diploma fee.

Now my class is really '27—(a reunion class this year). It hasn't taken me nine years to pay my fee—but it has taken me nine years to earn my degree, and incidentally just that long to realize how very nice it is to get the news of other alums so completely.

Receiving Old Oregon has not only compensated the fact that our U. of O. literature comes marked G'26 and G'36, but it has put the names of two more Oregon alums on your subscription files—for now and a time to come.

Best wishes for the continued success of "Old Oregon."

Yours truly,
Mrs. Harriett Ross Wright, '36,
2139 S. E. Ladd Ave.,
Portland, Ore.

JOHAN H. KING writes an interesting letter of information from Washington, D. C. where he lives at 2000 Connecticut Ave. N.W. The more letters like this the better, say Ignesso and Ignesso II.

Editor, Old Oregon
University of Oregon
Eugene, Oregon
My Dear Sir:

I am enclosing my check for $2.00 for one year's subscription to Old Oregon. I received the three copies that you sent and enjoyed them very much as also did my wife who is Mary Katherine Fenton of the Class of 1932. I am sending them on to Mr. Leslie W. Dunlap of the Class of 1933 who is living with his wife at 531 West 122nd St., New York City. Mr. Dunlap is employed as chief of the Photostat department of the New York Public Library and is making a fine record there. He is also attending Library school at Columbia University. His wife, Marie Neese Dunlap, ex-'35, is employed as secretary to the dean of the Columbia Library School.

Mr. Robert T. Miller of Class of 1933 and his wife, Hope Shelley Miller, 1932, are residing at 61 Bank St., New York City. Here in Washington we have seen Elizabeth Steiwer McElvenny, ex-'34, who lives here with her husband, Ralph, and small daughter. Mr. McElvenny is employed as an attorney by the SEC.

Just a word about myself and my wife. I have been employed by the Simmons-Boardman Publishing Corporation as one of their Washington correspondents for the past four months and devote most of my time to work on the magazine Railway Age. My work consists of attending all kinds of press conferences from the President on down and covering the Interstate Commerce Commission and committee sessions on the Hill. I am a member of the National Press Club here in Washington and have met a great number of interesting people here. My wife is employed as a social worker by the Travelers' Aid Society and works in the Union Station here in Washington. I will have some more news for you next month if you can find space to print it. I might say that I think the magazine is looking much better and that we enjoy it very much.

Sincerely yours,
John H. King, '33.

Rifle Team Aces Again

For the second time in three years Oregon's five man ROTC rifle team has won the national ROTC senior division championship and a year's possession of the 1937 Hearst trophy, by shooting a score of 961 out of 1000 in competition with over 100 colleges and universities throughout the United States this spring. These were indoor matches.

Beside the national trophy the rifle team won permanently the plaque for the championship in the ninth corps area, each member won a gold medal, and Captain Del Bjork won a gold stamped bill fold for the highest individual score of the ninth corps area.

Last summer at the summer training camp, Oregon's cadet corps won the national championship for outdoor shooting.

With Captain Bjork, who is graduating this spring, the team was composed of William Gieseke and Jack Lew, juniors, and Stanley Warren and Donald Boyd, sophomores.

Sergeant Harvey Blythe, instructor in military science who acts as coach for the rifle team, came to the University five years ago from the seventh infantry regiment at Vancouver barracks, Washington, where he shot in the small bore rifle team that won the national championship every year that he was there.

Born in Conway, Arkansas, Sergeant Blythe enlisted at Camp Pike in December 1920 and has been in the service for over 16 years.

Besides teaching at the University ROTC, Sergeant Blythe is the scout master of a local troop of boy scouts. He will take the Eugene troop to the national scout jamboree in Washington, D. C. this summer.

Rain! Rain! Rain!

Spring sports were seriously held back by the abnormal amount of rainfall that deluged the track, the diamond, the tennis courts, and all but washed away the surrounding country in the early April, but the impatient athletes diligently worked out wherever suitable space was available indoors and between cloudbursts dashed out for brief romps in the great outdoors.

The Oregon baseball team had to call off two "opener" games with

HOYMAN'S SWIMMERS PILE UP AMAZING RECORDS

PE Teacher, Not Swim Coach

Mike Hoyman, coach of the Northwest champion Webfoot swimming team, has never competed in a swimming meet! He is very decidedly not what one would call a dyed-in-the-wool coach.

He says so himself. He says he is primarily a college How does he do it? tive hygiene, and only incidentally is he a coach.

His phenomenal success as a swimming coach in the four years he has been at the University of Oregon has attracted a great deal of attention from the sporting world, however.

In the four years, Mike's teams have been undefeated in intercollegiate dual meet competition, have been the Northwest intercollegiate champions in 1935, 1936, and 1937, and have been the Pacific coast intercollegiate co-champions in 1936. Furthermore, his teams have established twenty-five world, national, coast, or northwest records of which one national, six northwest, six coast and two state marks are still on the books.

It was largely due to his successful efforts that swimming has been made a major sport at the University.

How does he do it?

How Hoyman Does It

These are the factors which in Hoyman's opinion have been responsible for the success of the Oregon swimming teams:

- (a) an enthusiastic team spirit;
- (b) exceptionally good individual performers;
- (c) a long, hard training schedule with carefully planned and supervised workouts daily;
- (d) self directive coaching with which the swimmer assumes responsibility for his own success or failure;
- (e) a carefully discussed and planned team strategy;
- (f) group determination to win;
- (g) and a scientific analysis of the swimming strokes and the development of the stroke suited to each individual man.

Hoyman lays most of his emphasis on self directive coaching, in which every man takes charge of his own training program and uses the coach largely as a consultant.

Willamette University and Oregon Normal school on account of the wet weather, but on April 7 took a loosely played ten inning game from Oregon Normal at Monmouth, 8 to 6.

Bill (Chic) Sayles, Oregon sophomore speedball artist snatched a 2 to 0 game from the University of Portland Pilots on Howe field. Later in a double-header on the Pilots own territory Oregon lost 3 to 0 in the first game and then tied 12 to 12 in the tenth inning of the second game which was called on account of darkness. The Webfoots easily beat Linfield twice, 13 to 2 and 8 to 4.

In a double header with Willamette, Sayles pitched a one hit game to win 3 to 1 in the first game but Oregon lost the second game 4 to 0.

Bill Hayward's track men slopped around warily in the cold wet weather, closely guarding against pulled muscles and colds. The mile relay team won the university mile at the Hill Military relay carnival in Portland in 3:47.2. George Varoff, world's indoor record holder, cleared the bar at 14 feet 3 inches in an exhibition vault.

With decent weather, Oregon's spring athletic program is finding itself in the midst of a busy season.

Golfers Start Strong

The Webfoot golfers served notice to the Northwest golfers that it was out to retain its northern division dual meet title this year when it defeated the University of Portland team 17½ to ½ on April 3 in Portland and the

A FOUR YEAR RECORD

During the past four years Oregon's speed-mad mermen have accomplished the following outstanding things under Coach Mike Hoyman's tutelage:

1. Won three northern division championships.
2. Won one coast championship.
3. Won every dual meet, to remain undefeated in that type of competition.
4. Won world, national, coast, northwest, and state honors by piling up a total of 25 records broken. Fourteen of these are still good.

"The athlete must study as well as practice in the water", he says. "When the swimmer understands the intelligent reasons for his training routine, it tends to personalize discipline".

Thus Hoyman turns over the credit for his success to his stars like Jim Reed, Jim Hurd, Harold Sexton, Leonard Scroggins, Jim Smith, Chuck Reed, Bob Chilton, and others.

Mike Wears Phi Beta Key

Hoyman graduated from Ohio State University in 1930 after majoring in physical education and science. He not only completed the four year course in three years but also earned a Phi Beta Kappa key for outstanding scholarship.

He earned his master's degree in school health education at Columbia university. This summer he will start his doctorate work. He has written extensively in various nation wide and state wide journals in regard to physical and health education.

Although he has been successful as a swimming coach he has never swum in competition himself. He developed his interest in swimming when he started as life guard at the municipal pool in Ohio, by being made manager of the pool and teaching swimming classes.

Right now his main interest is the development of the frontier of school health education in the state.

University of Washington team 18 to 9 on the Eugene country club course. In a match with the frosh golf team, on April 16, the varsity defeated the first year men 11 to 7.

Tennis Team Wins

The 1937 University of Oregon tennis team opened its current season with a bang by defeating both Oregon Normal school and Willamette university by the score of 7 to 0 on April 6 and April 8 respectively. On April 12, the Webfoots beat Linfield 5 to 2, and on April 15, Reed college by the score of 7 to 0.

The first two matches scheduled for the home courts had to be played indoors on account of the rain.

CAMPUS AND FACULTY

New Oregon Song

A rousing, peppy marching tune, "Marching Oregon" has been composed and copyrighted by Hal Young, professor of voice, and George Hopkins, professor of piano.

The spirited new tune may replace "Mighty Oregon," the copyright of which was bought by Chicago publishers much to the embarrassment of Oregon students and faculty.

The new song has proved very popular, and it is being used at all University events when an Oregon song is sung. Assemblies, down town meetings, and informal get-togethers have already put the song into good use.

Following are the words of the chorus:

We are marching on with Oregon,
Eyes front! Heads held high!
We are marching on with Oregon,
So hear our battle cry.
On and on to victory,
'Til the mighty battle's won,
We will fight! Fight! Fight!
As we go marching, marching on!

Coed Athletes Meet Here

Delegates from 39 Northwestern colleges gathered on the Oregon campus April 1, 2 and 3 to attend the Northwest sectional division of the Athletic Federation of College Women's conference.

John F. Bovard, of the University of Oregon, Miss Eva Seen, director of women's physical education at Oregon State, Colonel John Leader, and Dr. J. B. Nash of New York university, were among the featured speakers.

A tea and fashion show sponsored by the associated women students provided entertainment of a more feminine sort.

Education Against War

University students and faculty carried on various programs of education against war during April. On the 12, 13, and 14 peace-week forums under the leadership of faculty members discussed phases of international relations. On April 22 students joined other schools throughout the nation in a "protest" or "strike" against war. Members of various peace organizations bore placards denouncing war and militarism.

Full Houses Greet Play

Superb directing and designing by Horace Robinson and fine acting by Wally Boyle, Margie Tucker, and Patsy Neal drew enthusiastic applause from campus critics and playgoers who attended "Ethan Frome" April 9 and 10.

Full houses greeted the actors both nights, and a repeat performance was given April 14. Production for George Bernard Shaw's "Pygmalion" is now under way. It is scheduled for May 14 and 15 with Gerald Smith and He'en Roberts playing leads, Mrs. Otilie T. Seybolt directing.

New Libe Opens

Final moving of books into the new library was being completed just as Old Oregon was going to press, and it was the belief of leaders that students would be permitted full use of the new building the first week in May.

Many of the books not often used were transferred during spring vacation, and then intermittent moving continued until the last week in April when a three-day concentrated period accomplished most of the shifting.

Enrollment in police training classes in 11 Oregon cities has reached approximately 250, it was announced by Warren C. Hyde, director of the project.

The University bureau of municipal research, League of Oregon cities, University law school, federal bureau of investigation and local police agencies are cooperating with the program.

FULL PROGRAM SLATED FOR SUMMER SESSIONS

New Facilities, Fine Faculty and Courses

At Eugene—New library building, new physical education quarter unexcelled in the country, full quota of courses, strong faculty, including 13 visiting professors from institutions all over the land; eighth year of the special art courses.

At Portland—Usual strong listing of courses and faculty, including 17 visiting professors from many American colleges; second year of the summer school for writers.

At both—Exceptional recreational facilities, with easy access to sea beaches, mountains, golf courses.

Such (Old Oregon's space being "tight") is a thumbnail sketch of the University of Oregon Summer Sessions in Eugene and Portland.

In addition there will be, both at Portland and Eugene, sessions of the Educational Policies Commission, headed by Dr. A. J. Stoddard, former president of the department of superintendence of the National Education association. Chancellor Hunter and Dr. Fred J. Kelly, chief of the division of colleges and professional schools of the United States office of education, will be among the speakers. Dates of the conferences are Monday, July 12, at Eugene; Wednesday, July 14, at Corvallis; Friday, July 16, at Portland.

The University of Oregon has been honored again by selection of its School of Architecture and Allied Arts as one of the two institutions—Harvard is the other—to give special courses for teachers of art in the public schools under the special Carnegie grant.

DeBusk's Work to Be Kept Up

Work in supervised remedial teaching and diagnostic and remedial technique, directed so long by the late Dr. B. W. DeBusk, will be offered again, by Dr. Elizabeth Montgomery of the Oregon education faculty and Miss Lillian Rayner of the Los Angeles school system. Both are specialists in this type of teaching and familiar with the methods of Dr. DeBusk.

The writers' school at Portland will be offered again in connection with Summer Session as a result of the great success of this new undertaking last year. The week of lectures and laboratories drew an attendance of 100, who were inspired by outstanding writers and literary authorities. Details of the writers' week for this year—June 28-July 2—will be announced soon. These meetings were a definite stimulus to those attending Summer Session as well as to those specially registered for writers' school.

Institutions sending prominent faculty men as instructors to the Eugene Summer Session are the Universities of Washington, Idaho, California, Stanford, Montana, and Indiana. Colleges are Whittier and Massachusetts State.

Portland will draw on the following universities, in addition to Oregon: British Columbia, Washington, Idaho, Pacific, California, Stanford, Virginia, Indiana, Kansas City, and Arizona. Colleges drawn from are Arizona State Teachers', Harris Teachers' at St. Louis, and the City of New York.

Many Old Friends Return

Old Oregon Summer Session friends returning to the faculties are Dr. J. Duncan Spaeth, formerly professor of English at Princeton, now head of Kansas City; Dr. Donald M. Erb, formerly professor of economics at Oregon, now at Stanford; Dr. Frederic C. Church, professor of history, Idaho; Dr. Joseph A. von Bradish, professor of German, College of the City of New York; C. G. Van-nest, professor of education at Harris Teachers' College; Eugene Gustav Steinhof, school of decorative art, Vienna; Dr. Harold J. Noble, formerly of Oregon history department, now in research at California.

For the first time in several years Dean Alfred Powers and Dr. Dan E. Clark, in charge of the sessions, have signed up a visiting professor for journalism. Elmo Scott Watson of the faculty of Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., who is editor of Publishers' Auxiliary, for newspaper men and co-author of works on feature-writing, will handle the work in Portland.

ALUMNI BANQUET

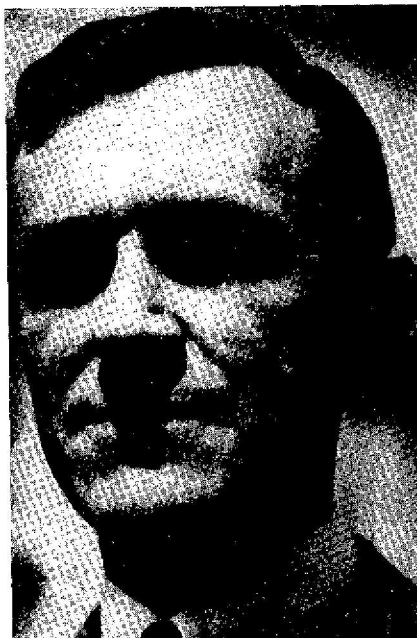

Gathering a Success

With an estimated 350 present, and more unable to be seated because of lack of room, the annual Founders' day banquet and meeting of the Portland Alumni association on April 9 was declared to be "the biggest and best" in years by leaders.

Short talks and miscellaneous entertainment kept the interest at a high pitch the entire evening, with retiring President Paul D. Hunt acting as toastmaster. Concluding feature of the evening was the election of Roland Davis as president, Vinton Hall as vice-president, Mrs. Gwinevere Lamson Grimes as secretary, and Nancy V. Nevins as treasurer of the Portland association.

Murphy Top Alum

Dr. William Parry Murphy, '14, was named as the outstanding Oregon alumni for the past year and was

Winner of the scroll award for the outstanding alum of the University during the past year is Dr. William Parry Murphy. Now connected with Harvard, he won the Nobel prize for medicine in 1934.

THEY SAY:

Success of the big alumni banquet was more than reflected in commendatory comment from all over the state. Below are only a few brief quotations from various alumni and University friends.

"This Alumni banquet was by far the most successful that has ever been sponsored by the local alumni association. . . . The program was outstanding."—Bert S. Gooding, ex-'26.

"I thought that it was decidedly a great success."—Hazel P. Schwering, M.A. '35.

"I think the results of the banquet just confirm the statements we have often made that the potentialities of the alumni association are very great . . . a splendid start . . . have heard several complimentary remarks since the banquet. . . am sure it is just a beginning."—Paul D. Hunt, '30.

"I have attended many University functions since leaving school and this banquet was to me, and I believe to all of those who were present, the most interesting and varied program that I have witnessed."—George Weber, '31.

"There is no doubt that the alumni banquet was a big success. . . . The members who did not attend ought to be fired with the same enthusiasm and some notion ought to be given them of the things the University has been accomplishing."—C. Valentine Boyer.

"The enthusiasm evidenced at the banquet was most gratifying to everyone attending. The success of the gathering was a result of the splendid work of Robert Bishop, general chairman, and the fine cooperation given him by his committees."—Elmer C. Fansett, '28.

JUNIOR WEEKEND, COMMENCEMENT, REUNION PLANS LAID

'Romantic Serenade' Theme

With a "Romantic Serenade" as its theme, the annual Junior week-end will be a glamorous affair filled with activity, from the first meeting at the campus luncheon Friday until the last note of Nino Martini's voice has faded out Sunday afternoon.

COMPLETE PROGRAMS

Hour by hour programs of activities during Junior Week-end and Commencement Week, along with good wishes from Eugene merchants, will be found in a special section on pages eight and nine of this issue.

Junior leaders hail the week-end as a cavalcade of melody and excitement, with pleasurable entertainment going on every minute. Honored guests throughout the three days will be Oregon mothers.

Registration opens at 1 p. m. Friday, just after the colorful campus luncheon and the parade of Mortar Board, Friars, and the Queen's court. During the afternoon a burlesque canoe fete will include the usual water carnival events, while other sport events are also on the schedule.

Mothers Honored Guests

"Serenade in the Night" is the romantic title given the annual Junior Prom, slated for Friday evening, with special seats for mothers.

Saturday will be another full day with committee meetings, building inspections, and teas. The day will be climaxed by the Mother's day banquet and the nationally famous canoe fete in the evening.

Nationwide broadcasts of the fete, and special news reel cameramen to snap interesting pictures are indicative of the high quality of the annual event, leaders say.

Sunday will be filled with special services at churches and special dinners at living organizations for all mothers. Then the final event of the week-end will take place in McArthur court when world-famous Nino Martini sings in a special concert.

COMMENCEMENT

Aitchison, Ballard Are Speakers

Plans for graduation exercises and class reunions are now in full swing following Dean James H. Gilbert's recent announcement of Rev. J. Hudson Ballard and Clyde B. Aitchison as the baccalaureate and commencement speakers, respectively.

A DISTINGUISHED VISITOR

Among the many prominent alums planning to attend Commencement and Alumni day exercises is John M. MacGregor, '23, according to word received from him at his home in New York City recently.

Dean Gilbert and Alumni Secretary Elmer C. Fansett are heading campus committees planning for the events starting May 28, through Alumni day May 29, Baccalaureate May 30, and Commencement on May 31. Meanwhile permanent class secretaries of 1887, 1897, 1907, 1912, 1917, and 1927 are contacting members through programs sent out from the alumni office, and a representative attendance is expected from each group.

Noon Friday will mark opening of registration at the alumni office for all returning alumni. That evening the annual Failing and Beekman orations contest for seniors will be held. One of the judges will be E. O. Potter, '87, Eugene.

Alumni day on Saturday will be filled from early morning until past dark with varied activities for all. Opening event will be the annual meeting and breakfast of the State Association of University of Oregon Women, with senior women invited. Miss Lenore Casford, '27, is president.

Meeting, Big Luncheon Scheduled

At 10:30 the semi-annual meeting of the University Alumni Association will be held in the Guild theater with President Ben Chandler, '13 presiding.

Talks, music, entertainment, and good food will mix for the next big gathering of the day, when all alums and seniors turn out for the annual University luncheon. Reunion classes and the class of '37 will be seated together, with President Ben Chandler wielding the gavel as toastmaster.

A CHALLENGE

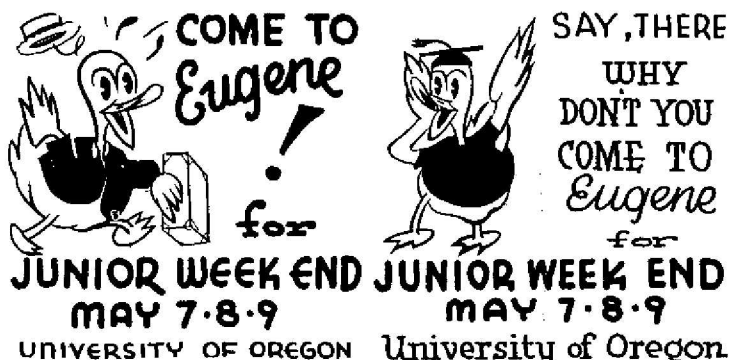

Among the reunion class members planning to attend exercises are Frank L. Beach, Los Angeles, and George T. Colton, Portland, both of the class of '17 and both Sigma Nu fraternity members.

At the end of the reunion meetings they will canoe to Portland down the Willamette river just as they did twenty years ago. The trip is planned for four days of paddling.

They challenge any other two members of the class of '17 to a race.

The traditionally beautiful flower and fern processional, scheduled for 7:30 at the site of the Pioneer Mother statue, will bring the busy day to a close, and as the shadows lengthen into twilight the annual glee club concert led by John Stark Evans will sound the final notes to the ceremony.

Bacca'aureate services are scheduled for 8:00 p. m. instead of in the morning as was customary, and all Eugene churches are expected to dismiss regular services to join with the graduates. Dr. Ballard is well-known throughout the state, holding the position of pastor of the First Pres-
