Alumni Secretary:

Please note change of address. We just recently returned from a three months' trip around the country—mostly by train, but 700 miles of it through New England by bicycle, using the Youth Hostel facilities. Visited both the fairs and saw a lot of new sights in the Deep South—Florida, New Orleans.

Headquarters Seventh Engineers.

Alumni Secretary:

My renewal delayed, as we say in the army, due to the exigencies of the service.

Am spending the winter in the South—not by choice—commanding the Seventh Engineers and Division Engineer of the Fifth Division. The Fifth is one of the new streamlined, or as now called officially, "triangular" infantry divisions, of 8,000 men. It is assembled at Fort McMillan, Alabama, for winter maneuvers, terminating in May or June.

The family, Faye Ball Bond, '13, and two daughters are left at the home station, Fort Logan, Denver, Colo., but may join me later.

AUBREY H. BOND, ex-'12.

The Cover

The State Board, as administrators of both the University and the State college, must perforce maintain a strict neutrality when the two schools compete.

Mr. Smith can perhaps be excused if once in awhile his cheers for the Lemon and Green are a bit more hearty than for the Orange and Black, for Edgar Smith, Mrs. Smith, and two sons have attended the University.

Mr. Smith became a member of the State Board in January when he was named to fill the unexpired term of Walter E. Pearson, now state treasurer. He will serve until March 2, 1946. Long active in civic affairs, Mr. Smith was chairman of the state milk control board for several years prior to his appointment to the State Board.

Chancellor Hunter is a strict "neutral" and is officially listed as professor of education at both the University and the College. When he came to Oregon in 1935 to take over the toughest educational job in the country, Dr. Hunter took to himself a new mascot.

At the student assembly which introduced him to the students, Dr. Hunter told the undergraduates that nature had designed a mascot for the exclusive pleasure of the Chancellor. In Australia lives the duck-billed platypus—a furry little fellow with the head of a duck and the body of a beaver.

So, during the "big game," Dr. Hunter sings the praises of neither the Duck nor the Beaver but of his own mascot—the duck-billed platypus.

Dr. Hunter received his A.B. at the University of Nebraska, where he also played a whale of a football game for three years. His A.M. and Ed.D. were earned at the University of California. He was city superintendent of schools for Lincoln, Nebraska, and later for the city of Oakland, California. In 1928 he went to the University of Denver as Chancellor and served until 1935, when he was called to Oregon.

In recognition of his services to higher education, his alma mater, Nebraska, this year conferred upon him her highest degree, the LL.D., as both the University of Colorado and Colorado College had done previously.

Nobel Prize Winner

Corneille Heymans, a former University of Oregon faculty member, has been awarded the Nobel Prize in medicine for his work in head circulation through the carotid artery.

In 1927 Heymans was engaged by the University of Oregon to give a series of lectures to the medical school in Portland and also several lectures here.

Professor Heymans is now a professor of pharmacology at the University of Ghent.

The Nobel prize is $40,000 or 1,200,000 Belgian marks.

Attendance Records Broken

The largest Homecoming group in history returned "Home to Honor Oregon" on November 11 and see the annual civil war between the Oregon Webfoots and the Oregon State Beavers. Alumni, despite disappointment at the outcome of the game, enjoyed a weekend crammed with activity.

Festivities began on Friday night with the traditional noise parade hooting its way up Willamette street and ending at the Frosh Bonfire held again this year on the Amazon flats. Undergraduates joined to rally football spirit before the game with by far the noisiest parade ever given. Theta Chi fraternity and Alpha Xi Delta sorority teamed together to produce the noisiest float and were awarded the cups. Richard Werschkul, '40, handled the parade.

The rally, held by torchlight, featured numbers by the band and special yells arranged by the rally committee. Short pep talks were given at the rally by "Baz" Williams, ex-'19, great Oregon player of former days; President Donald Erb, Elmer Fansett, '28, alumni secretary. Vaughn Corley, line coach, spoke for "Tex" Oliver and the faculty.

The Frosh bonfire was built in a hollow square formed by four forty-foot poles which the Eugene Water Board erected for the event. Les Anderson, '43, president of the freshman class, had charge of the Bonfire arrangements.

Signs Brighten Campus

The same evening, returning visitors toured the campus to view the illuminated signs erected by all living organizations to welcome the guests. Many of the signs were animated and kept in operation until midnight. Theta Chi fraternity pulled a double win by taking the sign contest as well as the noise parade. This is the second consecutive year that this group has won both events. General theme of the sign competition was "Remember When." The winning sign displayed the old library in the background with an unfortunate freshman "assuming the angle" to be hacked by a letterman. A duck wearing a mortarboard at a jaunty angle asked "Remember When They Hacked on the Library Steps?" The sign was completely animated and even had a freshman standing in back of the sign yelling "Ouch" ever time the paddle descended. Bob Corby, '40, was in charge of the sign contest.

Saturday morning saw the annual meeting of the Oregon Alumni association in the Guild Theater. Minutes of the meeting and discussion of the action taken will be found on page five of this issue.

Because Homecoming day coincided with Armistice day, a parade and memorial meeting were incorporated as parts of the program. The parade started from downtown, was conducted by veterans' organizations of the city and the student ROTC unit, ending at Gerlinger hall, where the meeting took place.

Joe K. Carson, L.L.B. '18, mayor of the city of Portland, was the principal speaker on the program. An ex-serviceman himself, Mayor Carson told his audience that "the greatest problem facing the United States today is the protection of our own interests and institutions so that foreign 'isms' may not challenge our form of government."

Mayor Carson pleaded for the local groups of this country to work for inner harmony to maintain a united front against "those who oppose the freest country in the world today."

Although the football game did not see an Oregon victory (see sports this issue) Oregon alums saw a thrilling game and were given special entertainment at half-time.

During half-time, Chancellor Hunter of the state system introduced the many distinguished guests of the day including the Governor, members of the state board, and other state officials. Both the Oregon band and the Oregon State band, both led by pretty baton-twirling drum majorettes, put on special marching numbers.

Lowell Stockman, president of the Oregon State College Alumni, presented Ron McCreight, president of the Oregon association, with a beautiful blanket as a token of the mutual friendship and interests that bind the two organizations. The blanket is one half green with a yellow "O" and the other half black with an orange "O."

Homecoming Dance

The Homecoming dance at McArthur court on Saturday night was the wind-up event of the weekend. More than 1300 couples danced to the music of Leon Mojica and his orchestra, which had been brought from San Francisco for the dance. The traditional Homecoming pledging of Friars, senior service honorary, was held at this time. Those seniors tapped for the organization were: Philip Lowry and Bob Smith, both of Medford; Hal Jahn, Milwaukee; Jack Hay, Lakeview; and Walt Miller, Portland.

Dancers were entertained during the intermission period by the pay-off of a bet made by the yell leaders of the two schools. Because Oregon lost, Bob Elliott, '40, yell king for the Ducks, was forced to submit to the indignity of having his head shaved by the Beaver yell-leader.

Actual registration of alumni at the registration table totaled 595 persons, but estimates of the actual attendance placed the number well over three thousand out-of-town alumni. A special train from Portland sponsored by the Portland Alumni association, brought more than 500 people who were too late to register. The attendance prizes for living organizations went to Chi Omega sorority and Kappa Sigma fraternity. The Chi Omega alumni have won the attendance prize for the past three years.

Burton Barr, '40, general chairman for Homecoming weekend, was assisted by Joe Gurley, '42, publicist; Bud Aronson, '41, Homecoming dance; Bob Corby, '40, signs; Richard Werschkul, '40, parade; and Les Anderson, '43, bonfire rally.

October 10 was a big day at the University library. The reserve department issued 1592 books during the day. The University library provides a reserve system that allows students to check out textbooks to be used for one hour in the library. This effects a substantial saving to students.

Senior Six

Climaxing their college life, six seniors at the University became members of the 1939 "Senior Six" of Phi Beta Kappa. Phi Beta Kappa, oldest of scholastic honoraries, each fall names the six seniors whose scholastic standing and extracurricular endeavors have marked them as the outstanding members of their class.

This year Loraine Gjording, Portland, English; Wilbur Jack Grant, Portland, Journalism; Alice M. Coldren, Eugene, Psychology; Philip B. Lowry, Medford, Law; and Don Castanien, Eugene, Romance Languages, have been chosen for honors.

At the same time the society announced that Orlando Hollis, '26, J.D.

Ed Crowley, ex-'28, has been elected president of the Los Angeles alumni association. Mr. Crowley is assistant manager of the Hull Hotels, Inc.

'28, has been elected president. Mr. Hollis is a professor of Law. Andrew M. Fish, '20, M.A. '21, associate professor of History, will serve as vice-president.

Los Angeles Alumni

Following the first luncheon of the Los Angeles alumni group, the following officers were elected:

Ed Crowley, ex-'28, president; Bud Pozzo, '34, vice-president; Roy Herndon, ex-'28, secretary; Bob Byington, ex-'30, treasurer. Entertainment committee: Ted Gillenwaters, '26; W. Earl Shafer, '24, and Vern Duncan, '24.

Any alumni in the area who wish to be added to the list and learn more of the activities of the association should get in touch with Ed Crowley at the Hollywood-Roosevelt hotel where he is assistant manager in charge of promotion for the Hull Hotel chain.

Zoology Display

The zoology department has an unusual display of a snake with two heads. The snake is about six inches long, and it is believed that the separation begins in the pelvic region and that the snake has two sets of separately functioning organs, but only one spinal cord. The snake was found by two zoology students near Portland.

Constitution Amended at Meeting

MINUTES OF MEETING UNIVERSITY OF OREGON ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

Homecoming, November 11, 1939.

The meeting was called to order at 9:30 a.m. by Ronald McCreight, president. The minutes of the semi-annual meeting were read and approved. The president called for a report from the secretary on the activities of the association. A copy of the report was attached to the minutes.

There being no old business, the president called for new business. Roland Davis, member of the Alumni Council, presented amendments to the constitution. The amendments to the constitution were adopted with minor changes made by motion from the floor. The president then called for other new business. Several members of the association expressed their views on various phases of the associations' activities.

The president then called for the report of the nominating committee. Ira Woodie, chairman of the committee, made the following report:

For president—

Dr. Delbert C. Stanard, Eugene, Oregon.

For vice-president—

Hollis Johnston, Portland, Oregon.

The president then called for further nominations from the floor. The following names were added to the ballot for president:

Ira W. Woodie, Eugene, Oregon.

Henry Fowler, Bend, Oregon.

John Huston, Klamath Falls, Oregon.

The following names were added to the ballot for vice-president:

Otto Frohnmayer, Medford, Oregon.

Douglas Milne, Portland, Oregon.

In accordance with the amended constitution, the secretary was instructed to contact these persons immediately for their acceptance of the nominations and was also instructed to prepare the final ballot for mailing on December 1.

A motion for adjournment was made at 11:15.

Signed,

ELMER C. FANSETT,
Secretary,
Oregon Alumni Association.

Major change in the organizational set-up of the Oregon Alumni association which the amended constitution affects is found in Section 4 of Article VII.

The alumni council provided in that section replaces the old board of directors which consisted of the president and vice-president, and three directors who were elected for three-year periods—one new member being named each year. The new board will consist of the president, vice-president and 36 directors—one from each county in the state named by the president.

In order that there may be a continuity of membership in the board, the constitution provide that of the first board named shall have 12 three-year members, 12 two-year members, and 12 one-year members.

When the new president appoints his board, the counties of Baker, Benton, Clackamas, Clatsop, Columbia, Coos, Crook, Curry, Deschutes, Douglas, Gilliam, and Grant will be represented by one-year directors.

Two-year directors will be named from Harney, Hood River, Jackson, Jefferson, Josephine, Klamath, Lake, Lane, Lincoln, Linn, Malheur, and Marion counties. The three-year directors will come from Morrow, Multnomah, Polk, Sherman, Tillamook, Umatilla, Union, Wallowa, Wasco, Washington, Wheeler, and Yamhill counties.

Thereafter the new president will name directors in the twelve counties whose directors expire each year.

Mail Ballot

The new constitution also provides that all paid members of the Alumni Association be mailed ballots on the first day of December following the annual meeting. All ballots to be officially cast must be postmarked not later than December 25. The election board announces the result of the election on January 1.

The ballots were mailed from the alumni office on December 1 and are now in the hands of the members of the association. Pictures of the nominees will be found on page seven of this issue.

Alumni Council Meetings

Provision has been made for the Alumni Council to meet on the campus twice each year—immediately preceding the annual meeting at Homecoming and the semi-annual meeting at Commencement time. The council may be called at any time by the president's pleasure or upon the request of any five directors.

Lowell Stockman of Pendleton, president of the Oregon State alumni association, gave this beautiful blanket to Ron McCreight (right), president of the Oregon alumni association, during half-time at Homecoming. With them is Rod Keating, '28. The blanket is one half green with a yellow "O" and the other half is black with an orange "O."

Huge Gifts Made to University

Two huge gifts—one for $250,000, in the will of Anna M. Williams, of New York; the other, equities valued in excess of $250,000, in the will of the widow of Dr. Edward Brown, of Portland—designate the University of Oregon as recipient. Possible reunion of the University with its medical school in Portland is one of the results thought probable through the gifts.

The will of Mrs. Williams "gives and bequeaths to the University of Oregon the sum of $250,000, in memory of Dr. Kenneth A. J. MacKenzie, to be known as the MacKenzie Memorial Fund" and "the trustees of the University may use this fund for such purposes as they in their absolute discretion may deem to be the best interests of the University."

The bequest of Mrs. Brown sets up a fund to promote a school of public hygiene and names either the president of the University of Oregon or the Chancellor of the State System of Higher Education to direct the administration of it under the board. The trust department of the Bank of California at Portland is the executor under this will.

Though lawyers so far do not agree entirely as to the final interpretation of either will, they are in general accord that the bequests create a situation whereunder it will be necessary to recognize that the medical school at Portland is still a functioning part of the University rather than a detached unit in the state system of higher education.

The Williams will in particular raises some interesting points. Only insofar as the gift creates a memorial to the late dean of the Medical School does Mrs. Williams imply an intent to assist medical education and she is specific in saying that the board shall have "absolute discretion" in using the money "for the best interests of the University."

Erb Welcomes Gifts

Dr. Donald M. Erb, president of the University, said that both gifts were extremely welcome because of the common interests of the University and Medical school and said he anticipated no difficulty in meeting any of the legal situations involved.

If it should be decided that the Williams bequest must be administered by the University and direct for work on this campus, it is believed that the policy will be to use the funds to improve the work in the physical and social sciences for the preparation of medical students.

Largest Gifts

The gifts are among the largest ever received by any Oregon school, and according to Burt Brown Barker, vice-president, they are in large part the result of the efforts of the late President Arnold Bennett Hall to interest Oregon people and friends of Oregon in Oregon educational projects.

In the Williams will, one interesting point has to do with a large bequest made to the University of California for medical research. In the California gift, medical research is specified. In the Oregon gift, the general purposes of the University are specified.

Dean MacKenzie, in whose memory the Oregon fund is given, was as well known on the campus as at Portland. He was a leader in the development of the University of Oregon Medical school from a small localized school for training doctors to the great regional school which now serve the entire northwest and Alaska by common consent of the major universities in the area.

Dr. Kenneth A. U. MacKenzie in whose memory the MacKenzie Memorial Fund of $250,000 has been created by the will of Mrs. Anna M. Williams.

R. C. Clark Dies Suddenly

Dr. Robert Carlton Clark, 62, head of the history department of the University and a member of the faculty since 1907, died suddenly on December 4. Death was thought due to a heart attack suffered as he was lecturing to one of his classes.

Dr. Clark is survived by his widow and a daughter, Ruth, now in grammar school, and three children by a former marriage: Wallace Clark, Edith Clark, '37, and Louise Clark, '33.

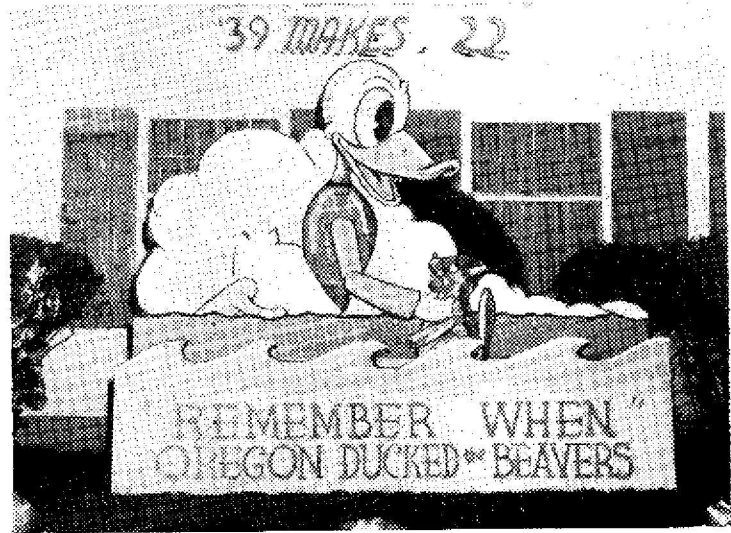

Professor Clark was born at Thorp Spring, Texas, March 4, 1877, and was graduated from Texas Christian University in 1895. He received his master of arts degree from the University of Texas in 1901 and his doctor of philosophy degree from the University of Wisconsin in 1905. Before coming to the University he taught at Epworth university in Oklahoma, and at the state normal school at Bloomsburg, Pa.

A member of the editorial board of the Pacific Northwest Review and the Pacific Historical Review, Dr. Clark is a fellow in the Texas Historical Society, a member of Phi Beta Kappa, national scholastic fraternity, the American Historical association, and in 1921 accepted the presidency of the Pacific coast branch of the last named group. His career included study and travel in Europe and a summer school term of teaching at the University of Hawaii.

Several contributions to Oregon and Northwest history were also made by Dr. Clark during the time he taught at the University. In 1927 he wrote "History of the Willamette Valley." He was co-author with two others on a history of Oregon which ran to three editions. With D. C. Munro, he wrote "War Readings," published by Scribners in 1918, and "Beginnings of Texas," published by Texas university in 1907.

Dr. R. C. Clark, head of the history department and faculty member for thirty-two years, died suddenly on December 4.

Portland Dads Meet

Deans of the academic schools of the University of Oregon, long accustomed to sitting in judgment on the efforts of aspiring students, had the tables turned on them December 1 and were themselves judged by the mothers and fathers of the students over whose scholastic destiny they rule.

The occasion was the dinner at the Masonic temple, with the Portland unit of Oregon Dads as hosts and the University deans and officials as guests, especially invited so that fathers and mothers might learn what manner of men and women teach their children.

Ticket sale for the affair was stopped when 965 tickets had been sold, but others came without tickets, filling the hall and occupying the gallery.

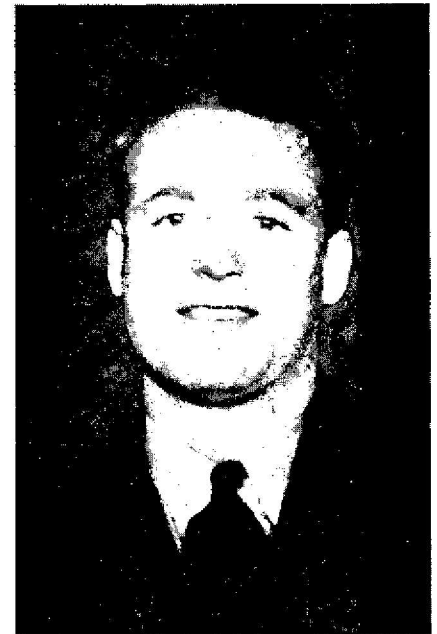

President Erb, principal speaker, made no speech but "took inventory," introducing each dean, all of whom were at the speakers' table. Dr. Erb explained the work of each department.

Many of the fathers and mothers present were former students of the University. Daughters of many of the parents attending came to Portland from the campus to serve as waitresses for the dinner.

Janet Smith, University secretary of housing and employment, told of the work of her department, and Basketball Coach Howard Hobson related hopes of the Webfoot basketball team, national collegiate champions for the 1938-39 season. Washington high school's 65-piece band furnished music.

Dean Vincent, president of the Portland unit of the Oregon Dads, was in general charge and acted as toastmaster.

Gilbert Schultz, '37, was nominated for the position of three-year director by the nominating committee. Adoption of the new constitution at the annual meeting eliminates this office. Mr. Schultz, a former student body president, is from Forest Grove.

Webfoots Wind Up Football Season

By GEORGE PASERO, Sports Editor, Old Oregon

Oregon 38 WSC 0

Oregon's Olivermen, their offense working as smoothly as the best division of Hitler tanks, rolled over Washington State's fighting but outclassed Cougars, 38 to 0, at Eugene, November 4.

The score was the largest posted by a Webfoot eleven since 1900, when Oregon whipped Washington's Huskies, 43 to 0.

Firing passes with abandon and clicking on every play, Coach Tex Oliver's boys marched up and down the field. And when they smelled pay dirt, they poured it on and crossed the last white line with remarkable regularity.

A "one-touchdown team" the Webfoot machine was termed before the game by reason of single goals against Southern Cal, Stanford, California, Gonzaga, and UCLA, but the driving Webfoots put an end to this with a true track-meet exhibition.

It was not the Webfoot regulars alone that chalked up the points. The whole Webfoot squad had a hand in the massacre, and reserve sparkled just as brilliantly as regular.

John Berry, Bob Smith, and Frank Emmons of the regulars all scored. And Dick Horne, Stevie Anderson, and Ron Alpaugh, a bench-warmer playing his first varsity game. They all tallied six points.

The Webfoots scored in every period. Berry started the rout by plunging over from the three, after the Olivermen had pounded from their own 35.

In the second period, Tackle Jim Stuart recovered a fumble on the Washington State 34, and the Webfoots began to roil again. This time it was Emmons who smacked over from the 5-yard line.

Leading only 12 to 0 going into the third period, the big Webfoots continued to march. In 13 plays they crunched 81 yards for their third goal, Smith counting it on a reverse from Emmons from the two.

The final three Oregon scores were made by reserves. Stevie Anderson skirted left end for 34 yards and six points on a punt signal for one, and End Dick Horne took a 10-yard pass for another.

With the seconds of the last minute of play ticking away, Anderson passed again, this time to Alpaugh, who made a great catch on the Cougar 2, eluded two tacklers, and stepped over as the gun sounded.

Anderson kicked two extra points. Final score, Oregon 38, Washington State 0.

Old Oregon

In one of the wildest scoring sprees in Oregon "civil war" football history, Oregon State's brawny and burly gridmen crushed Coach Tex Oliver's Webfoots under a 19 to 14 total in the climax highlight of the 1939 Homecoming slate, November 11.

The largest crowd ever to attend an Oregon-Oregon State contest at either Eugene or Corvallis, a partisan throng of 21,500, viewed the bitterly fought game, and cheered and moaned in turn as the tide of battle changed.

For Oregon, it was the "old faithful" combination of Bob Smith and Jay Graybeal that kept hopes of Webfoot rooters at a high pitch in a game that was as tense as it was wild.

Twice long passes from Smith to Graybeal ended in scores, but these two touchdowns were not enough to quell the sparking Orangemen.

Oregon State scored just after the opening gun, as the Stinermen recovered an Oregon fumble deep in Webfoot territory and swiftly passed 13 yards to the opening tally. Leonard Younce, husky Beaver tackle, booted the extra point to make it 7 to 0.

Again in the second period, the alert Staters marched toward the Oregon goal. But this time, the Webfoot defense dug in and held on the nine, whereupon Younce dropped back and booted a perfect placement to make it 10 to 0 for the men from Corvallis.

Oregon had the ball on its own 34, and Bob Smith faded back, cocking his powerful left arm. Down the field raced Jackrabbit Jay, and Smith let fly. Graybeal turned, took a few steps back, and gathered in the 33-yard heave. The little Pendleton lad galloped 39 yards before he was tackled on the OSC four.

From there in four plays, the Ore-gons were over. Graybeal shooting a pass to Dick Horne for the touchdown. Jay, himself, kicked the point.

All this, however, was just a prelude to a terrific third period. Oregon kicked off, and the Beavers' halfback, Bob Olson, caught the ball on his seven. Straight up the field he raced as a swarm of blockers cleared the way. Near midfield he swerved to the right, eluded the last tackler, Jim Cadenasso, as he raced up the sideline and across the goal line, 93 yards in all.

This put the Beavers 10 points ahead again, but back came Smith and Graybeal, and in a twinkling, the situation changed again. Graybeal returned Oregon State's kickoff 18 yards to the Oregon 33.

On the first play, Smith again faded and threw 22 yards to Jay on the OSC 45.

Two Oregon State defenders, Jim Kisselburgh and Olson, were covering Graybeal, but Jay jumped between them, caught the ball, and with a twist of the hips was away for Oregon's second touchdown.

67 Yard Toss

This pass was good for 67 yards, as compared to the previous 62.

The Ore-gons kept pounding all the way, never slowing in their effort for just one more touchdown, but a staunch OSC defense set them back, and the Stinermen posted two more points when they trapped Graybeal back of his own goal line for a safety.

Oregon 13 Washington 20

For little Jay Graybeal, the Washington game of November 23 was his "game of games."

A senior playing his final contest in the Lemon and Green of Oregon, Graybeal put on a one-man grid show that won't soon be forgotten by the 25,000 fans who saw it.

True, the Webfoots lost to the Huskies, 20 to 13, at Seattle, but the performance of the "Jackrabbit" relieved some of the sting of defeat. Spearhead of Oregon's attack for three years, Jay scored all of Oregon's 13 points and blazed his name indelibly in the ranks of Webfoot football immortals.

His first of two field goals gave Oregon the jump on the Huskies, and his touchdown on a long pass from Bob Smith shot Oregon to a 10 to 7 half-time advantage.

The second Graybeal field goal, following a Husky touchdown, tied the ball game at 13 all, at the beginning of the final period.

And although his and Oregon's scoring ended with this field goal (from a difficult angle), little Jay was never squelched. He played brilliant defensive ball in a vain attempt to stop the final Washington touchdown march, and when he walked "the last mile" to the Washington stadium tunnel and the dressing room, his jaw possibly fractured and two teeth gone, it was to the applause of spectators all along the bowl.

As for the game, the Webfoots played brilliantly at times and sloppily at others. Bob Smith, Jim Stuart, and Dick Horne were especially outstanding.

Washington's standouts were Ernie Steele, a fleet half; Dean McAdams, a truly great kicker and passer; Fullback Stackpool; Rudy Mucha, giant center; and the two ends, Marx and McDowell.

Hoop Season Opens

Coach Hobby Hobson's varsity basket squad began its defense of its varied assortment of titles, conference, regional, and national, with a smashing 64 to 44 victory over the Southern Oregon College of Education quintet at McArthur court, November 25.

Coach Hobson started a first team of John Dick, all-western forward and only member of last year's first five to return; Ted Sarpola, forwards; Archie Marshik, six foot six inch giant, center; and Matt Pavalunas and George (Porky) Andrews, guards.

Every player used by the Webfoot mentor registered points in the free-scoring contest.

The Southern Oregon game was the first of three preliminary contests before the Webfoots leave on December 7 for a transcontinental tour highlighted by a second annual appearance in New York's Madison Square Garden against the powerful Long Island University five.

An 11-man squad will leave Eugene December 7 for New York, via New Orleans. Workouts will be held at Los Angeles, El Paso and Houston prior to a game with the New Orleans Gaylords, December 12.

The Webfoots will help open the annual Madison Square Garden hoop season for a second year by meeting Long Island University in a double-header attraction on Saturday night, December 16.

DUCK TALK

By George Pasero

The Washington game brought to a close the grid careers of 13 Webfoot gridders . . . they won no championships in their three years in Oregon toggerly, but still they didn't do so bad.

This year they won three games, beating California, Stanford, and Washington State, and tied the mighty Trojans of Southern California. Yes, and that's a mite better than Webfoot teams have done in the past five years.

Of course, dynamic Tex Oliver wasn't satisfied by their showing this year, but the fact remains that his ball club, winning or losing, played interesting football and no doubt has become one of the favorites with the casual football fan of the coast.

And that, in our opinion, is an accomplishment in itself. Even Will Connolly of "Pardon the Yawn" fame has admitted that the Oregons this year weren't so bad to watch.

The 13 who have said goodbye to collegiate competition are Jay Graybeal, Bob Smith, Frank Emmons, Dennis Donovan, Stevie Anderson, Elroy Jensen, Merle Peters, Bud Nestor, Jim Cadenasso, Cecil Walden, Ernie Robertson, Vic Reginato, and Willie Reynolds.

Eugene is definitely basketball-minded.

Hardly had football passed beyond the Oregon athletic horizon, than fans began pouring out to watch basketball games.

Two thousand were out for Oregon's first game, with Southern Oregon Normal, and nearly one thousand witnessed Rubenstein's Oregons whip the Seattle Savidges, a team composed of last year's Washington Husky stars, 40 to 36, November 27.

What's more, a few have been dropping in at McArthur right along to watch Hobby Hobson work with his 1939-40 creation.

And speaking of Hobson brings up a question that is bothering every Webfoot hoop fan at present: How good a team will Hobby be able to mold from new material this year?

Our own opinion is that Oregon will have a fair-to-middlin' ball club this year, despite the loss of all-Americans Laddie Gale, Bobby Anet, and Slim Wintermute, and all-coast Wally Johansen.

Shaping such a ball club will be no easy task, however, for Coach Hobson will be working with green material, and can choose no definite first string until he has seen how good his transfers and reserves are.

Coach Hobson, who in the past four years has brought Oregon to top national ranking, has only one regular back from his great 1938-39 five, but rebuilding material is plentiful.

John Dick, six foot four inch forward, is the one returning regular. Both he and chunky Matt Pavalunas, brilliant guard who has seen regular action for the past two seasons, appear certain of first string berths again this year.

Competition for the remaining three positions is keen, however, with an assortment of reserves, sophomores, and newcomers bidding for assignments.

Other lettermen back are Ted Sarpola, the Astoria "Whirling Dervish," who is apparently a good bet at one forward spot; Earl Sandness, tall forward; and Evert (Red) McNeeley, rugged guard.

Three of the 1937-38 freshman stars, all held out last year, also are making strong bids. They are George (Porky) Andrews, hard-driving guard who may clinch a guard post; Toivo Piippo, from Astoria; and Archie Marshik, giant center, who appears to have gained a slight edge at the pivot position.

Sophomores who may break in are Leonard Gard, holder of the state high school tournament scoring record (previously held by Sarpola and Sandness), Don Galbreath, and Dick Whitman.

Several top-notch junior college transfers have also been showing well. These are Hank Anderson, six foot seven center from Eastern Oregon College of Education; Vic Townsend, all-state and all-conference guard from Compton Jaysee; Bill Borchner, rugged six foot five inch forward from Sacramento; Ed McGrath, husky star from San Mateo; and Herb Tompkins, also an all-conference star at Compton.
