Eugene, Oregon

The University of Oregon opened its doors in 1876. Deady Hall housed the entire university in those days. Built of bricks made from clay dug out of the local hills, the building was guaranteed by its architect to last 1,000 years. The first commencement in 1878 graduated five students. Today the university serves 17,300 students on its 300-acre campus. More than 1,200 faculty members teach in its professional schools and its arts and sciences departments.

The university seal, shown on the front cover in the background and as the crown of the university mace, was created by Judge Matthew P. Deady, first president of the Board of Regents, and was approved by that body in 1878. In its center is a representation of Mt. Hood as a symbol of the state. Around its edge is the university's motto, mens agitat molem—mind moves the mass.

Welcome to New Alumni

*Fair Oregon, we pledge to thee
Our honor and fidelity,
Both now and in the years to be,
A never failing loyalty.*

Do you recognize these words to the Oregon Pledge Song? I learned them as a freshman in 1954 and still proudly recite them today! And on behalf of the 130,000 Oregon alumni around the world, I congratulate you on your graduation.

Achieving great success is an Oregon tradition. NBC Today news anchor Ann Curry '78, Oscar Award-winning film director James Ivory '51, Nike founder and chief executive officer Phil Knight '59, renowned author Ken Kesey '57, and Football Hall of Famer and sports commentator Ahmad Rashad '72 are among the many UO alumni who have brought great recognition to their alma mater. I am confident the Class of 1998 will keep that tradition alive.

In the spirit of recognizing alumni accomplishments, the University of Oregon Alumni Association annually recognizes two individuals who have distinguished themselves. I hope you'll take a moment to read about the 1998 award recipients—Harry Glickman '48, founder and president emeritus of the Portland Trail Blazers, and Alberto Salazar '81, world-class marathon runner and a continued source of inspiration to countless young athletes. Likewise, news of your own success can be shared through the Alumni Association or by writing to the university magazine, Oregon Quarterly.

Based on experience, I expect that at some point after your departure from the University of Oregon, you will long to return. I have continued my connection to the University of Oregon through the UO Alumni Association. In the coming years, the association will offer you many opportunities to stay involved, including new-student recruitment activities, class reunions, legislative advocacy efforts, and alumni networking events in your own hometown. I hope you stay in touch.

*Fair Oregon, thy name shall be
Written high in liberty.
Now, uncovered, swear we every one
Our pledge to Oregon.*

Good luck, and best wishes,

Richard Allen '58, M.D., President,
UO Alumni Association

Order of the Emerald

It is an honor and pleasure to have the University of Oregon Class of 1948 and the Order of the Emerald join the Commencement procession and share in the celebration of this happy occasion.

Alumni who had their degrees conferred in a similar ceremony fifty years ago continue the practice of joining new graduates in the procession. Leading these returning golden anniversary alumni are members of the Order of the Emerald, alumni whose classes graduated more than fifty years ago.

Individual Ceremonies

Graduates and their families and friends are invited to attend the individual ceremonies of the colleges and schools.

Presidential Medals

The Presidential Medal, established in 1991, honors individuals who have demonstrated extraordinary service to the university and whose professional and personal leadership in the world community places them among the nation's foremost citizens. Each medal is a hand-forged, solid silver replica of the myrtlewood President's Centennial Medallion worn by the university president at ceremonial occasions. This year, five individuals receive Presidential Medals.

Earle M. Chiles

Through careful stewardship of the foundation established by his father and grandmother in 1949, Earle M. Chiles has dedicated his life to making a difference in Oregon. Under his strong leadership as president, the Chiles Foundation has provided transforming support for higher education and medical research.

At the University of Oregon, the Chiles Foundation has played a key role in elevating the Charles H. Lundquist College of Business to one of the most innovative business schools in the country. The foundation provided major support for construction of the Chiles Business Center, renovation of classrooms in Gilbert Hall, and M.B.A. scholarships. The foundation also funded the Frank E. Nash Endowed Professorship in the UO School of Law and provides continuous support for Presidential Scholarships and other UO scholarship programs.

Under Chiles's direction, the foundation has made a difference through support of Portland State University, Providence Medical Center in Portland, and the High Desert Museum in Bend.

Distinguished Service Awards

Chiles has devoted not only his financial support but also his time to many organizations. He is a member of the Portland State University Foundation Board, the UO International Business Advisory Board, and a former trustee of Boston University, Oregon State University, Portland Opera, the High Desert Museum, and the Providence Medical Foundation.

Chiles has been honored for his service by many state and national organizations, receiving the UO Pioneer Award in 1986, the Aubrey R. Watzek Award from Lewis and Clark College in 1992, and the Gold Medal for Humanitarianism from the American Lung Association in 1991.

Aaron and Marie Jones

From the timber industry to the arts, from education to horse racing, Aaron and Marie Jones have been active and influential leaders and volunteers on the local, state, and national levels.

Founder and owner of Seneca Sawmill in Eugene, Aaron Jones's ability to anticipate and adapt to changes in the timber industry has made his company one of the few surviving independent, family-owned wood products firms in Oregon. He has led the Oregon wood products industry in the use of small logs, and he has patented more than forty techniques for eliminating waste and increasing efficiency in his sawmill operation.

Aaron has served as a leader in wood products associations and often works behind the scenes in favor of legislation and government action beneficial to the industry and to other causes he supports. He was instrumental in initiating discussions that eventually led to a private-government land swap to protect streamside forest lands from logging. He and Marie are lifetime members of a national organization to preserve elk populations for hunting.

The Joneses own Seneca Livestock Company, which breeds and races thoroughbred horses. Since 1971 Marie Jones has been involved with horse organizations, and she and Aaron are known throughout the world in racing circles. Marie has served on the boards of the Assistance League of Eugene and the Willamette Science and Technology Center. She is an active member of the Eugene Symphony Guild and the board of St. Mark's Church.

Aaron and Marie served as co-chairs of the Red Cross 75th Anniversary Fundraising Campaign in 1992 and as honorary chairs of the Challenge 2000 McKenzie-Willamette Hospital capital campaign. Aaron '47 and Marie, who also attended the UO, have been generous supporters of UO athletics, most recently offering a significant one-to-one match for contributions to the Edward Moshofsky Sports Center.

Randy and Susie Papé

Dedication and enthusiasm mark Randy and Susie Papé's service to their community, their state, and their university. Both 1972 UO graduates, Randy and Susie believe in helping young people through support of education, athletics, and service organizations.

Randy is president and chief executive officer of The Papé Group, a Eugene-based, West Coast capital equipment sales and service company started by his grandfather in 1938. He is founder, president, and chief executive officer of Liberty Financial Group, Inc.

Randy joined the UO Foundation Board of Trustees in 1995. In 1996 he provided seed money and expertise to start a new Business and Industrial Sales Program in the UO's Lundquist College of Business. Susie serves on the UO Museum of Art Board of Directors. The Papés have been major supporters of UO athletics, most recently making a generous contribution toward construction of the Edward Moshofsky Sports Center.

The Papés have taken leadership roles in support of many organizations at the local and state levels. Susie Papé is a member of the Sacred Heart Medical Foundation Board of Directors, the Tri-County Campfire Board, the Shelton-McMurphy-Johnson House Board, the Kidsports Board, the Tri Delta Corporation Board, and Junior League of Eugene.

At the state level, Randy Papé has served as board president of the Oregon Trail Council of the Boy Scouts of America and as a member of the Governor's Task Force on Education and the Economy, the Oregon State University Family Business Advisory Council, and the Oregon Community Foundation's Valley Leadership Council. Locally, he has been a director of the Eugene Chamber of Commerce, chairman of the Eugene School District football stadium advisory committee, and a board member of the Lane County Juvenile Advisory Board.

Distinguished Service Awards are made to people who, by their knowledge and skill, have made a significant contribution to the cultural development of Oregon or society as a whole. The awards were established in 1956. Since then, 117 people of exceptional merit have been recognized with these awards.

Lawrence J. Dark

Social conscience and community service spring from a source, a faith that first touched Lawrence J. Dark in childhood. From that faith, and the nourishment of family, friends, and community that accompanied it, has grown a personal and professional life of service to others, of becoming one "who by his knowledge and skills has made a significant contribution to the cultural development of Oregon or society as a whole."

When culture is seen as the outworking of all human needs, the life and work of Lawrence Dark can be seen as that of one who understands the vital importance of those needs. As president and chief executive officer of the Urban League of Portland, Dark has brought informed leadership combined with passionate concern in his efforts to "strengthen African Americans and all who strive toward economic self-reliance and social equality." From the challenge of environmental problems that affect inner city residents to meaningful efforts designed to improve the lives of children, from leadership in the fight against HIV and AIDS to enlightening work on youth violence, Dark has shown his deep understanding of the words of Martin Luther King Jr. that "the time is always right to do something right."

His engaging leadership style combines his talent, energy, and enthusiasm to challenge diverse elements of our community to work together for the benefit of the whole. Lawrence J. Dark has remained true to the source of his calling while expanding the boundaries of that calling in a lifetime of work that can truly be called "distinguished service."

Ralph Johnson

If courage is doing alone what others would do in a crowd, the courage of Ralph Johnson cries out as a definition of the word. If the field on which that courage is shown is one that also makes possible substantial improvement in the lives of many, then Johnson stands at its center. If "distinguished service" is understood as "by knowledge and skills making a significant contribution to the cultural development of Oregon or society as a whole," Johnson qualifies beyond doubt.

As a University of Oregon graduate ('47 L.B. '49) Johnson has applied his courage, training, and skills in the fields of ocean and coastal law, water law, and Indian law in ways that have been pioneering and bold in their vision, influential in their impact, and meaningful to the daily lives of those involved. In particular, his often controversial work in defense of Indian fishing rights in the 1960s and 1970s included not only behind-the-scenes legal work but open and passionate public support that paved the way for a historic fishing-rights decision.

Whether working to protect minority rights or environmental standards, Johnson has gained the respect of colleagues and opponents. He is recognized for his willingness to generously volunteer time and energy for training and consultation.

One colleague calls Johnson "a symbol of the Oregon ideal and the contribution that state-supported higher education can make to the betterment of all society." Surely proving, as Oliver Wendell Holmes Jr. argued, that "it is possible to live greatly in the Law," Ralph Johnson also proves to be an individual of the highest and most admired distinguished service.

Hope Hughes Pressman

If art is a creative expression that comes from the most meaningful parts of life, then life itself can be touched by that art and become a creative expression itself. One need look no further than the life of Hope Hughes Pressman to see this creative expression as it has served the University of Oregon, our community, and the arts themselves.

As an employee of the University of Oregon since 1973, Pressman has—intelligently, diligently, and energetically—worked to ensure that this university can excel in meeting its mission to the state and people of Oregon. As an active volunteer in the community, she has devoted immeasurable time and effort toward activities that improve the health and well-being of a wide range of its members. As an advocate for the arts, she has enlarged the canvas upon which all members of our state can enjoy such varied creative expressions as painting, sculpture, drama, music, and other artistic expressions.

Through her own life's artistry, Hope Hughes Pressman has "by her knowledge and skills made a significant contribution to the cultural development of Oregon or society as a whole." In so doing, she has created a masterpiece of distinguished service.

Ersted Award for Distinguished Teaching

This award was established through a generous gift to the university from Mr. A. J. Ersted. The intent of the award is to recognize excellence in teaching. It is given to young faculty members who have demonstrated exceptional ability to induce students to reason and not merely to memorize.

Leon Johnson

Out of his own creative practice as an artist and a scholar, Leon Johnson, assistant professor of fine and applied arts, emerges as a teacher whose work expands beyond the framework of his discipline, enabling his students to gain better understandings of the subject matter and themselves. Whether challenging with ideas and concepts, encouraging with words and actions, or opening creative possibilities to unthought-of dimensions, Johnson is acclaimed by his students as an enthusiastic and dedicated teacher of some of the "most amazing classes" taught at the University of Oregon. In recognition of the excellence, artistry, and creativity of his teaching, Leon Johnson is presented with the Ersted Award for Distinguished Teaching.

Thomas F. Herman Faculty Achievement Awards for Distinguished Teaching

In December 1984 the University of Oregon received a grant from the Burlington Northern Foundation of Seattle to recognize excellence in teaching. The program honors members of the faculty whose careers have been characterized by years of sterling teaching.

Richard Koch

Clarity and enthusiasm combine in classrooms filled with students for whom variables and changing functions are but a small part of the equation of unequaled teaching by Professor of Mathematics Richard Koch. Whether circling the classroom to demonstrate the movement of particles through an electromagnetic energy field or adding sound effects to clear up ambiguities, Richard Koch teaches in a manner that allows his students to master a difficult subject while enjoying the experience. Praised by his students and admired by his colleagues, it is for these reasons that Richard Koch has been chosen a recipient of the Thomas H. Herman Faculty Achievement Award for Distinguished Teaching.

Luis Verano

Any language is a key to a culture. From the challenge of troublesome verbs to the adventures of the knight Don Quixote ever-tilting at windmills, Senior Instructor Luis Verano has proven a master at turning this key and opening doors for his students. Bringing passion and dedication to the classroom and to the direction of undergraduate studies in Romance languages, he has taken his students beyond the mere knowledge of words to the understanding of cultures and the new worlds that exist within the words. It is in recognition of this excellence in teaching that Luis Verano has been chosen a recipient of the Thomas H. Herman Faculty Achievement Award for Distinguished Teaching.

The Charles E. Johnson Memorial Award was established by the university faculty to honor the memory of Charles E. Johnson, professor of accounting, dean of liberal arts, and acting president from 1952 to 1969. Charles Johnson was recognized not only for his outstanding contributions to the institution as a scholar and teacher but also as an outspoken academic leader during a difficult time in our institutional history. He called on the university to adhere steadfastly to the principles of free speech and assembly—without which the objective of nurturing, promoting, and fostering new knowledge and the learning process cannot be achieved. A devotee of Thomas Jefferson, Johnson insisted that this university, like Mr. Jefferson's, should be a place where "we are not afraid to follow the truth wherever it might lead, nor to tolerate error so long as reason is left free to combat it."

Helen Gernon

Defining her feminism as "a belief in the equality of people, all people," Helen Gernon, Charles H. Lundquist Professor of Accounting, combines a dedication and devotion to the job of teaching ideas with a commitment to nurturing, counseling, supporting, championing, and mentoring countless women students. Turning often dry topics of study, such as taxation, into lessons about life, she enlarges on those life lessons to include efforts to see that those students, and in particular the women who leave her programs, are placed in firms where they can excel.

Working as a role model and mentor, Gernon adds a meaning for our times to the principle affirmed by Charles E. Johnson that a university can and must adapt to accelerating social change. Her work actively, creatively, and energetically promotes his other stated principles: freedom of speech and assembly, the willing examination of all ideas, and the fearless pursuit of truth. This can be seen through her involvement in numerous organizations on the forefront of creating meeting space for women, in the demanding nature of her scholarship and teaching, and in her willingness to defend her students.

From her academic and leadership responsibilities at the University of Oregon to a vast number of national and international publications and presentations, Helen Gernon is recognized for her knowledge and professional abilities. But it is through her students and the impact her teaching has on them, their lives, and their careers that she truly deserves the honor of the Charles E. Johnson Memorial Award.

Alan Wolfe

Authenticity—as an individual, a scholar, and a citizen of the world community—was ingrained in the character of Alan Wolfe, longtime associate professor of East Asian languages and literatures at the University of Oregon. In this authenticity, Wolfe's work and life exemplified the principles affirmed by the life of Charles E. Johnson: ultimate respect for freedom of speech, the ability to adapt to change while nurturing the learning process, a belief in the free examination of all ideas, and a fearless willingness to follow truth wherever it may lead.

From a base of scholarship that revolutionized thinking in his field of study, Wolfe built a teaching career that was as innovative as it was eclectic. From these scholarly accomplishments, he added courage and conscience to consistently offer support to international and minority students and programs, and to groups marginalized or otherwise disadvantaged on campus and in society. Whether through letters to the campus newspaper or by a visit to war-torn Nicaragua, his actions authenticated his words and beliefs.

Living in the world, reveling in its joys, committed to doing all he could for the challenge of its turmoils, Alan Wolfe believed that his efforts began in the community of this campus. However, in time or place, he knew they did not end there.

Williams Council Teaching Awards

The Tom and Carol Williams Fund for Undergraduate Education provides financial support for innovative ideas that contribute to the quality of the educational experience of University of Oregon undergraduate students. For 1998-99 a council of award-winning teachers chose four proposals for funding:

Aileen Buckley and Patricia McDowell

Assistant Professor Aileen Buckley and Professor Patricia McDowell, both in geography, will receive an award to develop new teaching and learning approaches in "Environmental Measurement and Mapping" across the discipline of geography. The approach will give students experience with new computer-based technologies for acquiring, managing, and visualizing environmental information.

Matthew Dennis and Gordon Sayre

Associate Professor Matthew Dennis, history, and Assistant Professor Gordon Sayre, English, will receive an award to develop and offer an interdisciplinary course on "Contested Events in Early America." The team-taught course will explore the methodological differences and convergences between the academic fields of American literature and history.

Deborah Exton

Instructor Deborah Exton, chemistry, will receive funding for a second year to support peer learning support groups for introductory chemistry courses. The program involves advanced undergraduates in guiding other students on how to study and learn in these courses.

Anne Laskaya

Associate Professor Anne Laskaya, English, will receive funding for a second year in "writing in the disciplines." This program provides advanced undergraduates with writing instruction tied to the aims and practices of specific disciplines.

Alumni Awards

The University of Oregon Alumni Association traditionally recognizes two individuals who have attained extraordinary distinction in their chosen professional field or through personal endeavor. Nominations are reviewed and award recipients selected by the Alumni Association's Board of Directors.

Although the 1998 recipients come from different generations and made their names in different sports, Harry Glickman '48 and Alberto Salazar '81 share perseverance and an abiding affection for the University of Oregon. They now share the UO Alumni Association's highest awards, the Distinguished Alumnus Award and the Outstanding Young Alumnus Award, respectively.

Distinguished Alumnus Harry Glickman '48

While a sophomore journalism major at the UO, Harry Glickman became director of the university's athletic news bureau, now called sports information, and reported sports for both The Register Guard and The Oregonian newspapers. In addition, he served as editor of the alumni magazine then called Old Oregon. But it was a job he didn't get that led to his career in sports promotion, which literally put Oregon in the big leagues. Glickman had a job lined up at The Oregonian right after graduation, but that position was given to the man who had left the paper to serve in the military and who, by law, had a right to get his old job back. A newspaper executive suggested Glickman instead try to get some "publicity" accounts. The rest is Oregon sports history.

In 1952 Glickman became a sports promoter; by 1960 he was president of the Portland Buckaroos hockey team. Over the next thirteen years, the Bucks broke attendance records while winning eight Western Hockey League championships. When he founded the Portland Trail Blazers in 1970, success was by no means certain. Early attendance was sparse, but within seven years the Blazers had won the league trophy and were playing to a packed house.

Glickman served as the organization's president from 1970 to 1994. Now he is president emeritus.

Glickman's many honors include the 1993 First Citizen of Portland award, The Oregonian's 1992 Distinguished Service Award for Sports and his 1986 election to the Oregon Sports Hall of Fame. In 1986 the Oregon Sportswriters and Broadcasters Association renamed their Pro Athlete of the Year Award, now the "Harry Glickman Award." Harry Glickman is author of Promoter Ain't a Dirty Word.

Outstanding Young Alumnus Alberto Salazar '81

Born in Cuba and raised in Wayland, Massachusetts, Alberto Salazar was a highly recruited runner coming out of high school. However, it was the legend of the UO track-and-field program and the reputation of head coach Bill Dellinger that attracted him to Oregon.

While at the UO pursuing a B.S. degree in marketing, Salazar won a national cross-country championship and finished in the top ten two other times, posted three top-six finishes in the 10,000 meters at the NCAA track-and-field championships, set a world record in the five-mile event, won a national amateur championship in the 10,000 meters, and made the Olympic team (and again, after graduation).

Salazar was the New York City Marathon winner for three consecutive years (1980-1982), setting a world record in 1981. He won the Boston Marathon in 1982. In 1994 he won the Comrades Ultra-Marathon Championship race over a grueling 54-mile course in South Africa.

Off the track, Salazar has done extensive color commentary work for ESPN and worked with the ABC, NBC, and Turner networks. Salazar was co-owner and operator of the Oregon Electric Station restaurant in Eugene. Today, while a track-and-field promotions representative in the sports marketing division of Nike, Inc., Salazar is one of about thirty former Duck track athletes employed at Nike who belong to an organization called the Lame Ducks, which raises funds to support the UO track program. A mentor to many, Alberto Salazar also gives motivational speeches on goal setting and training.

Graduate Teaching Fellow Awards

The university established the Graduate Teaching Fellow Awards in cooperation with the UO chapter of Mortar Board, a national academic and service honorary society. First presented in 1979, the awards recognize excellence in teaching and academic guidance.

Approximately 1,300 students serve as graduate teaching fellows for all or part of each year. They contribute an essential element to the teaching mission of the university. Teaching quality and diversity of instruction are enhanced by the presence of these talented, developing professionals.

This year's recipients were selected from fifty nominees representing more than thirty departments and programs. Finalists were observed in their classrooms by members of the selection committee and submitted statements describing their philosophy of teaching.

Jonathan Flojo

Jonathan Flojo, a doctoral student in school psychology, serves as the graduate teaching assistant in a sequence on educational testing, measurement, and statistics. He is praised not only for "helping students in these classes master concepts that are often frustrating and difficult to understand" but for a lecture style in which "he establishes an excellent rapport with the class early in his presentation and interacts effectively throughout." By his own definition, "teaching is a joy because this act allows me to connect with students." For effectively making this connection with his students, Jonathan Flojo is awarded the University of Oregon Graduate Teaching Fellow Award for 1998.

Elaine Roth

Elaine Roth, a doctoral student in English, has served as a graduate assistant in History of the Motion Picture and in Introduction to the English Major. She designed a course, Women in American Films, which she will teach for the first time this summer as part of the Women's Studies Program. Her students and supervisors praise her classroom performance, noting that she is intellectually demanding, witty, organized, and stimulating. She is noted for her accessibility outside of class and her willingness to provide additional assistance with writing projects and outside assignments. For this excellence in teaching, Elaine Roth is awarded the University of Oregon Graduate Teaching Fellow Award for 1998.

Phi Beta Kappa Society

Founded December 5, 1776, the Phi Beta Kappa Society honors students whose academic records reveal high quality and breadth in liberal-arts course work. Each year six outstanding members-elect are designated the Phi Beta Kappa Oregon Six. Their academic records are exceptional because they combine extraordinary breadth and excellence in upper-division liberal-arts courses with very high grade point averages. The following students were elected to Phi Beta Kappa on May 26, 1998. Members-elect who accepted their invitations were initiated at a ceremony held this morning.

Seals of the Colleges and Schools

College of Arts and Sciences

An open book is a fitting symbol for the College of Arts and Sciences, which encourages a spirit of inquiry and discovery in its many programs in the liberal arts and the sciences. The college was established in 1876.

School of Law

The scale of justice needs no lengthy interpretation. It is the universal symbol for the highest ideals of human society, which are reflected in the programs and goals of the University of Oregon School of Law. The school was established in 1884.

Graduate School

The mortar board and diploma are a simple representation of the Graduate School's central purpose—to coordinate all advanced-study programs on the campus and ensure that graduate students receive the support necessary for pursuing their postbaccalaureate goals. The school was established in 1900.

School of Music

The familiar treble clef and the "dancing" eighth rests represent both the School of Music and the Department of Dance. Established in 1900, the School of Music fosters the development of teaching and performance skills, creativity, scholarship, and the creation of new works and ideas in the fields of music and dance.

College of Education

The lamp of knowledge is an established symbol for the role of teaching and learning in society. It is a fitting insignia for the College of Education, which provides students, professionals, and the public with a wide range of services and training programs in the teaching-learning process. The college was established in 1910.

Charles H. Lundquist College of Business

The symbol is a stylistic interpretation of the front façade of the Earle A. Chiles Business Center. Established in 1914, the college offers programs in the skills needed to support this nation's free-enterprise system.

School of Architecture and Allied Arts

A stylized letterform, integrating the three basic design shapes, symbolizes the creativity and utility in the School of Architecture and Allied Arts. Established in 1914, the school provides training in the philosophy and expertise necessary for responding to human needs for shelter and a harmonious relationship with the environment.

School of Journalism and Communication

The flash or starburst, with its many rays reaching to infinity, suggests the importance of communication to society. The School of Journalism and Communication fosters this relationship in its professional programs in the areas of advertising, communication studies, electronic media, print media, and public relations. The school was established in 1916.

Robert Donald Clark Honors College

The garland, the Greco-Roman symbol of victory and honor, has been selected to represent the Clark Honors College, which offers students with exceptional abilities the opportunity to achieve their highest potential. Established in 1960, the college was named in honor of University of Oregon President Emeritus Robert D. Clark, whose vision and drive were instrumental in its creation.

Academic Costume

The history of academic dress goes back several centuries to the chilly universities where cap, gown, and hood were needed for covering and warmth. Subsequently this has become a ceremonial costume with certain standardized features. The hood is lined with the official colors of the degree-conferring institution; for the University of Oregon these are yellow and green. The outside trimming of the hood and the color of the tassel signify the subject in which the degree is conferred:

maize/agriculture
white/arts, letters, humanities drab/commerce, accountancy, business blue-violet/architecture
lilac/dentistry
copper/economics
light blue/education
orange/engineering
brown/fine arts
russet/forestry
crimson/journalism
purple/law
lemon/library science
green/medicine
pink/music apricot/nursing silver gray/oratory, speech
olive green/pharmacy dark blue/philosophy
sage green/physical education peacock blue/public administration salmon pink/public health golden yellow/science citron/social work
scarlet/theology
gray/veterinary science

At the University of Oregon it is customary for master's degree candidates to wear their hoods in the procession. Doctoral candidates carry their hoods and are hooded during the ceremony. Each bachelor's degree candidate changes the cap tassel from front right to front left as the degree is conferred. Caps are removed during the pledge song and during the commencement address.

University Marshal

The academic procession is led by the university marshal, who carries the university mace. The position is one of honor and is traditionally held by a previous recipient of the Thomas F. Herman Faculty Achievement Award for Distinguished Teaching.

University Mace

In medieval times the mace was usually carried into battle by kings, bishops, and other leaders for use as a weapon. Later on it came to be used more for ceremonial occasions. Today it is a symbol of authority.

The mace leading the University of Oregon's academic procession was designed and made by C. Max Nixon, professor emeritus of fine and applied arts, as a gift to the university he has served since 1958. The creative use of copper, bronze, silver, and walnut typify the spirit of the university over the past 119 years.

The head of the mace is a sphere made up of four university seals joined at a common axis. The outer rims of the seals are copper. The university's name and motto, in Latin, are in bronze. The mountain at the center of the sphere is in silver, while the forests and hills are in bronze. Surmounting the linked seals is a replica of Deady Hall, the university's first building, cast in bronze.

At the top of the oiled walnut shaft and within the sphere created by the seals is the university's founding date. At the base of the shaft is a finial ornament in bronze, finished with a stylized pine-cone pattern. Embedded in its tip is the seal of the State of Oregon, also in bronze.

Oregon Pledge Song

Fair Oregon, we pledge to thee
Our honor and fidelity,
Both now and in the years to be,
A never failing loyalty.
Fair Oregon, thy name shall be
Written high in liberty.
Now, uncovered, swear we every one
Our pledge to Oregon.

John Stark Evans, a music major at the University of Oregon, wrote the Oregon Pledge Song while waiting to be shipped out during World War I. When he returned in 1922, he gave the rights to the pledge song to the university.

Graduation with Honors

Graduating seniors who have earned at least 90 credits in residence at the University of Oregon and have completed all other university degree requirements shall be awarded graduation with honors: upper 2 percent, summa cum laude; upper 5 percent, magna cum laude; upper 10 percent, cum laude. These distinctions are based on students' percentile rankings for their graduation term. The honors determination for spring-term degree candidates is provisional. It is based on academic work completed prior to the graduation term and is not official until final grades have been recorded.

The students whose names are listed herein were considered to be candidates for the degree indicated when the program was printed. This is not an official degree list. The appropriate degrees and diplomas will be awarded to those candidates who have successfully completed all requirements by the end of this term.
