University of Oregon Commencement June 13, 2009

WELCOME—STUDENTS, PARENTS, AND FRIENDS—to the University of Oregon. With each year's commencement comes a great sense of accomplishment as well as an awareness of the future. This year is no exception, holding as it does the joy and satisfaction of achievement and the promise of challenges and opportunities that will stretch courage and creativity in new and exciting directions.

The University of Oregon began 133 years ago with a promise from one generation of Oregonians to future generations. This promise was based on the belief that education could make a difference in the lives of men and women, and it was this difference that would, in turn, improve the quality of the state, the nation, and the world. This year we renew our commitment to be a part of making a difference.

Our pledge is kept in part by the traditional commencement ceremony we attend today, and it will be kept in full by the accomplishments that you as graduates build and celebrate in the future.

On behalf of the university community, I offer our best wishes as you continue to fulfill that original promise in the years to come, and I offer our gratitude to your friends and families for their support and encouragement.

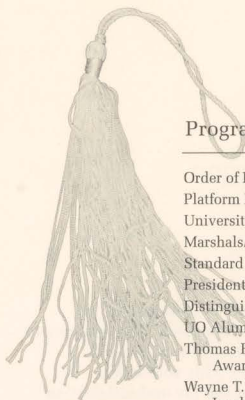

The president's centennial medallion, shown above, was commissioned in 1975 and is worn by the president as a badge of office during formal university ceremonies.

Professor Emeritus Paul Buckner of the Department of Art created and executed the design, carved from the wood of the Oregon myrtle.

The University of Oregon opened its doors in 1876. Dady Hall housed the entire university in those days. Built of bricks made from clay dug out of the local hills, the building was guaranteed by its architect to last 1,000 years. The first commencement in 1878 graduated five students. Today the university serves more than 20,000 students on its 295-acre campus. More than 1,500 faculty members teach in its arts and sciences departments and in its professional schools and colleges.

University Mace

In medieval times the mace was usually carried into battle by kings, bishops, and other leaders for use as a weapon. Later on it came to be used more for ceremonial occasions. Today it is a symbol of authority.

Designed and created in 1981 by the late C. Max Nixon, Department of Art, the university mace—shown at right—combines copper, bronze, and silver in the four-sided spherical head atop an oiled walnut shaft. The sphere is made up of four university seals joined at a common axis. The outer rims of the seals are copper. The university's name and motto, in Latin, are in bronze. The mountain at the center of the sphere is in silver, and the forests and hills are in bronze. Surmounting the linked seals is a replica of Deady Hall, the university's first building, cast in bronze.

At the top of the oiled walnut shaft and within the sphere created by the seals is the university's founding date. At the base of the shaft is a finial ornament in bronze, finished with a stylized pine-cone pattern. Embedded in its tip is the seal of the state of Oregon, also in bronze.

Marshals

The academic procession is led by the university marshal, who carries the university mace. The position is one of honor and is traditionally held by a previous recipient of the Thomas F. Herman Faculty Achievement Award for Distinguished Teaching.

LORRY I. LOKEY

Lorry I. Lokey's love of education started at an early age. Growing up on Northeast Bryce Street in Portland, his experience at Alameda Elementary School and the dedication of his teachers inspired him to learn and pursue opportunities he could not even dream of as a regular, middle-class boy. Seventy years later, Lorry has become the one who inspires others.

Lorry founded Business Wire in a one-room office in 1961, building it into the preeminent commercial news wire service by the time he sold it in 2006 to Warren Buffett of Berkshire Hathaway.

During the last five years, Lorry and his companion of nearly twenty years, Joanne Harrington, have committed some $132 million to the university. From the School of Music and Dance to the College of Education to the Lorry I. Lokey Laboratories, the impact of Lorry's generosity is being felt campuswide. Lorry provided funds for capital improvements that were later matched by other donors and by the State of Oregon. These early and generous investments provided extraordinary leverage to secure additional funding.

Lorry's generosity extends well beyond Oregon, pledging some $675 million to organizations throughout the world, including Mills College; Stanford University; Technion Institute of Technology and the Weizmann Institute of Science, both in Israel; and a dozen others in California, Oregon, and Israel. And he supports Alameda Elementary School, the place that started it all.

PENELOPE AND PHILIP KNIGHT '59

Before there was Nike, there was Blue Ribbon Sports Inc., a partnership founded in 1964 on a handshake by Phil and former UO track coach Bill Bowerman. Phil and Bill shared a passion for helping athletes reach their full potential. That passion, combined with a business plan Phil wrote while earning his M.B.A. at Stanford, planted the seed for what would become the world's largest sports and fitness company.

Phil and Penny have made some of the largest gifts from individuals to the University of Oregon, transforming the lives of students, faculty members, and community members through their generous philanthropic support. These donations have enhanced the university's quality by enabling it to attract outstanding new faculty members, create new facilities, and provide new state-of-the-art services and equipment.

The Knight's generosity spans athletics and academics. More than thirty faculty members across campus hold endowed positions created by Phil and Penny. These scholars, researchers, and teachers are among the most accomplished in their disciplines. In addition, the Knight family has supported Knight Library, Autzen Stadium, Ed Moshofsky Sports Center, James F. Miller Theatre Complex, track and field, Matthew H. Knight Scholarship, and "Matt Court"—the Matthew Knight Arena—named to honor the memory of the Phil and Penny's son, Matthew.

The Presidential Medal was established in 1991 to honor individuals who have demonstrated extraordinary service to the university and whose professional and personal leadership in the world community places them among the nation's foremost citizens.

The medal is a hand-forged, solid-silver replica of the president's centennial medallion worn by the university president for ceremonial occasions.

Distinguished Service Awards

The Distinguished Service Award is presented to individuals who, by their knowledge and skills, have made a significant contribution to the cultural development of Oregon or society as a whole. The awards are presented by the University Senate on behalf of the faculty.

ELI MORGAN

For Eli Morgan, success in business has become an opportunity to create success for others. He has created a legacy of transforming lives in Portland through his capital and endowed support of Self Enhancement Inc., dedicated to improving the lives of local underprivileged youth. Whether as a business and civic leader or through his seemingly tireless championing of social services, access to education, promoting diversity, community health, or numerous other causes, he has contributed time, influence, and resources that have made, and will continue to make, deep, meaningful and lasting improvements in the lives of Oregonians. It is an honor to present the 2009 Distinguished Service Award to Eli Morgan.

MATTIE REYNOLDS

Great things do not happen without great people to make them happen. Mattie Reynolds is one of those great people. As one of the few African Americans to settle in Eugene in the 1940s, she withstood the volatile racism of the time, courageously daring to live her life as an instigator of change. Through her faith and her understanding of the importance of community, she leads. Whether marching for human rights, founding the Congress of Racial Equality, "testing" housing rights, raising eleven children, or becoming the first African American to run for elective office in Eugene, she weathered the hardships and shaped the changes that have made our community a better place for all to live. It is an honor to present the 2009 Distinguished Service Award to Mattie Reynolds.

CHARLES WALKER

A citizen leader who turned awareness into action, who transformed his beliefs into reality, Charles Walker has been instrumental in the public investment in Oregon culture. Knowing that a cultural heritage is a people's treasure—but, one that can be lost—he advocated for the engagement of Oregonians in a bold, new cultural endeavor to invest in that treasure. As one of the members of the initial Cultural Task Force and on the Joint Interim Task Force on Cultural Development, Charles led the development of creating new mechanisms for the funding of Oregon's heritage in the arts and humanities. In so doing, he not only helped preserve our connection with past achievements, but also continues to encourage those of the future. It is a great honor to present the 2009 Distinguished Service Award to Charles Walker.

University of Oregon Alumni Association Awards

Outstanding Young Alumnus

EUGENE SANDOVAL

Eugene Sandoval graduated from the University of Oregon with a degree in architecture in 1989. Gene joined the architecture firm Zimmer Gunsul Frasca after graduation. During his tenure at ZGF, Eugene has been responsible for design and design-team leadership on architectural, urban design, and interiors projects ranging from academic buildings to regional transportation systems.

As one of ZGF's newer partners, his design philosophy is based on fresh, holistic, and socially responsible ideas. He is currently leading the design of the Port of Portland headquarters office building and parking garage, and 12W, a mixed-use building in Portland. His other recent experience includes the University of Oregon Treatment Center, the ZGF headquarters and Eliot housing project in Portland, the Portland Transit Mall revitalization, and stations for the Sound Transit Light Rail system in Seattle. Eugene was honored as one of Portland's top "40 under 40" business leaders by Oregon Business magazine.

Distinguished Alumnus

KENNETH MOORE

Kenneth ("Kenny") Moore was born in Eugene, Oregon, and is an American athlete and journalist. A 1966 graduate of the University of Oregon, he earned a bachelor's degree in philosophy and, in 1972, a master of fine arts degree in creative writing. Moore emerged as one of track-and-field coach Bill Bowerman's finest distance runners. After college, Moore ran the marathon at the Olympics in both Mexico City and Munich, finishing fourth in 1972.

After his track career, Moore became a journalist and screenwriter. He had a twenty-five-year career covering athletics for Sports Illustrated, and was one of the athletes who pushed for the Amateur Sports Act of 1978. In addition, he wrote the screenplay for the 1998 biopic Without Limits, a film about former Oregon Ducks standout Steve Prefontaine.

Kenny Moore currently lives in Eugene, Oregon, and Hawaii. He has published a book about his former coach, Bowerman and the Men of Oregon.

The University of Oregon Alumni Association traditionally recognizes two individuals who have attained extraordinary distinction in their chosen professional field or through personal endeavor. Nominations are reviewed and award recipients are selected by the association's board of directors.

Thomas F. Herman Faculty Achievement Awards for Distinguished Teaching

The Herman Award recognizes senior faculty members whose careers have been characterized by years of sterling teaching. Originally created in 1984 with a grant from the Burlington Northern Foundation, the award continues today with funding provided by an endowment established by former UO Foundation trustee Thomas F. Herman.

ALAN W. DICKMAN

Research Associate Professor and Senior Instructor, Department of Biology, College of Arts and Sciences

Students, graduate teaching fellows, and faculty members are often heard singing praises for Alan Dickman's teaching skills. Whether teaching large, general biology classes, specialized forest biology classes, or leading class field trips, Alan's students see him as inspiring, passionate, and challenging. One student commented, "This class has changed the path of my life," and an alumni recalled that Alan was his favorite UO professor. Students greatly appreciate the extra effort he puts into field trips, and feel these are an important part of their learning experience: "[The field trips] allowed us to apply what we learned in the classroom to the real world." In the classroom, Alan incorporates relevant and current media, and creates a dynamic environment in which students engage in give-and-take dialogue of questions and answers. Regardless of class size, Alan dedicates himself to optimizing students' learning experience both inside and outside the classroom.

New instructors and graduate teaching fellows frequently seek Alan's expertise as a master teaching resource for their own teaching development. Alan regularly participates in Teaching Effectiveness Program events to continue nurturing his passion for teaching. And although an experienced teacher who has taught for years, Alan he is always open to feedback, suggestions, and critical evaluation. As director for the Environmental Studies Program, he extends his considerable curricular-design skills to the program level, enhancing student learning on an even larger scale. He is a creative, thoughtful, and passionate teacher, and in recognition of his extraordinary contributions to student learning, Alan Dickman is a 2009 recipient of the Thomas F. Herman Faculty Achievement Award for Distinguished Teaching.

MICHAEL DREILING

Associate Professor, Department of Sociology, College of Arts and Sciences

Michael Dreiling exemplifies the kind of teacher who changes people's lives. Even in classes with very large enrollments, Michael's passionate teaching inspires his students. One commented, "This is the best class I have ever taken. I learned more about myself, the world, and how to apply what I want to do with my life through this course." Another student, after studying the tragedy of debt slavery in the modern world, tracked down an organization that fights debt slavery and pledged a monthly contribution.

Michael spurs students to both contemplation and action. His course syllabuses are detailed and analytical; they demand engagement from students and call for active participation in and out of the classroom. In his upper-division and graduate course on nonviolent social change, one student responded, "I have learned new tools for communicating with people and I have gained a new hope for the future. . . . It has been an inspiring education."

In addition to teaching large undergraduate courses, Michael is one of the most respected and popular faculty members in the department's graduate program. One graduate student explained, [Associate Professor Dreiling's] "graduate instruction and mentorship is exemplary. I'm actually not sure I would have made it past the second year of the graduate program were it not for him. He inspired creativity in me while directing me in rigorous social science methodologies." Enthusiastic comments about Michael come routinely from current and former graduate students on whose dissertation and comprehensive examination committees he has served.

For his sustained record of dedication, his passion and skill as a teacher at all levels, Michael Dreiling is a recipient of the 2009 Thomas F. Herman Faculty Achievement Award for Distinguished Teaching.

Wayne T. Westling Award for University Leadership and Service

DAVID T. DUSSEAU

Donald A. Tykeson Senior Instructor of Business, Department of Management, Charles H. Lundquist College of Business

David T. Dusseau has a stellar reputation in the Lundquist College of Business, where his teaching success is legendary. Typically, he teaches large enrollment sections of Introduction to Business and achieves remarkable student outcomes. Students enthusiastically note that David is an exceptional teacher who makes class an enjoyable learning environment—they consistently rate him high on both enthusiasm and class rapport as he expertly manages to make large classes a highly personal, intimate learning experience.

Particularly impressive is David's innovation in the classroom. He introduced experiential learning through a computer simulation where students must make strategic decisions for their fictional business firms and compete with others in their industry. The simulation involves each student in the broad variety of managerial decisions that determine results for their business firm and the industry. Students of all backgrounds find such course creativity extremely effective as an introduction to the business environment. One student commented, "Dave is able to effectively impact a huge number of people at once with the wealth of a foundational understanding of business." Another student notes, "I learned a phenomenal amount and I am grateful such a course is offered at the University of Oregon."

In recognition of his long-standing excellence in teaching and inspired classroom innovation, David T. Dusseau is a recipient of the 2009 Thomas F. Herman Award Faculty Achievement Award for Distinguished Teaching.

BRAD SHELTON

Professor, Department of Mathematics, College of Arts and Sciences

Recognizing the interconnectedness of all parts of this campus community, Brad Shelton actively pursues ways to make the University of Oregon a better place for students, faculty and staff members. While encouraging others to participate, he often takes leadership roles that not only achieve these goals, but also demonstrate his deep commitment to the principles of faculty governance, participatory decision-making, and the fostering of a campus climate of inclusiveness and respect. Representing, as he does, the very best of these ideals, it is an honor to present the 2009 Wayne T. Westling Award for University Leadership and Service to Brad Shelton.

Named in honor of Wayne T. Westling, professor of law at the University of Oregon from 1979 until his death in 2001, this award recognizes exemplary long-term service to the university, inspired leadership, and commitment to principles of faculty governance and the fostering of inclusiveness and respect.

University of Oregon Doctoral Research Fellowship

The University of Oregon Doctoral Research Fellowship, provided jointly by Graduate School and the Office of the Vice President for Research and Graduate Studies, is designed to promote excellence in research at Oregon. Each award includes an $18,000 stipend and a tuition waiver to support an outstanding advanced doctoral degree candidate in the final year of his or her program.

SHANNON ELIZABETH BELL

For her doctoral research, Shannon Elizabeth Bell is studying the social and environmental impacts of the coal industry on central Appalachia and the grass-roots environmental justice movement that has risen up to hold the coal industry accountable for irresponsible mining practices.

As a part of her field research, Bell used the participatory action research methodology of "photovoice," with forty women living in five coal-mining communities in southern West Virginia to study possible mechanisms for overcoming the challenges to grass-roots mobilization in Central Appalachia. In this eight-month project, Bell gave participants digital cameras and asked them to take pictures that would tell the story of their communities, including both positive and negative aspects of life in the region. The five groups met once every three weeks to discuss the photographs, identify common community concerns, and communicate those concerns to legislators and the public through local and regional exhibits.

Bell received funding for her research from the UO Department of Sociology's Wasby-Johnson Sociology Dissertation Research Award, the American Sociological Association's Spivack Community Action Research Award, and the Ohio Valley Environmental Coalition. In addition, the community capacity-building aspects of the project were funded by the Greater Kanawha Valley Foundation and the Appalachian Regional Commission.

CAITLIN SNYDER

Caitlin Snyder is currently studying the communicative properties of eighteenth-century music. By combining three normally separate analytical tools in music theory, Snyder is exploring musical meaning within François Couperin's collection for the harpsichord, Les Pièces de Clavecin. With this research she hopes to illuminate the ways in which composers convey motion (and emotion) through their use of musical pattern, gesture, and timing. In addition, her examination deepens modern perceptions of Couperin's music, typically discounted by modern scholarship for its perceived lack of complexity, and expands our understanding and appreciation of Couperin as a composer within the context of his time.

The title of her dissertation is "Structure, Pattern and Motion in François Couperin's Les Pièces de Clavecin." As a graduate teaching fellow, Snyder has taught various courses in musicianship and music history. Most recently in 2008-9, her teaching has included Eighteenth-Century Counterpoint, a composition course in which students learn to compose for the keyboard in the style of Johann Sebastian Bach.

Snyder has received several research and travel awards, has authored and coauthored articles, and has spoken at conferences both national and international. This summer she will present research from her dissertation at the 2009 International Conference on Music and Emotion in England.

Donald and Darel Stein Graduate Student Teaching Awards

CHU JUI "BETTY" CHEN

Department of Human Physiology, College of Arts and Sciences

Chu Jui Chen has been a graduate teaching fellow in human physiology for more than two years. Her teaching philosophy centers on active learning, and her dedication to this philosophy has led her to make use of opportunities for professional development. To reflect this philosophy, she has also taught in multiple settings including labs, discussion sections, and as a sole instructor. Chu Jui Chen received her master of science degree in human physiology last spring, and she is currently pursuing her doctoral degree in the same field.

SEAN LAURENT

Department of Psychology, College of Arts and Sciences

Sean Laurent has been a graduate teaching fellow in psychology since fall 2005, serving as a lab instructor, discussion leader, and co-instructor. Sean's commitment to obtaining student feedback during the learning process has brought him accolade. Each term he collects student input at both midterm and at the end to improve teaching and learning. He also engages students throughout the term to encourage student input and participation. In 2006, Sean earned a master of science degree in psychology, and he is currently completing his Ph.D. degree in the same field.

This award, funded by Donald and Darel Stein and administered by the Graduate School, is designed to recognize outstanding teaching performance by experienced graduate teaching fellows who have demonstrated a commitment to developing their instructional skills, while at the same time excelling in their academic degree program. Nominees for this award need to have at least five terms of experience as an instructor, a record of excellence in their instructional duties, and an exemplary academic record. Each awards includes a $1,000 stipend.

Donald Stein, who received his Ph.D. from the University of Oregon in 1965, is currently the Asa G. Candler Professor of psychology, emergency medicine, and neurology at Emory University.

Senior Recognition Awards

AAUW Senior Recognition Award

NATHALINE FRENER

Presented by the Oregon division of the American Association of University Women, this award is presented to an outstanding senior woman. Award criteria are scholarship, character, personality, contributions to campus and community life, and the potential for future growth.

N. Ray Hawk Award

REBECCA SPRINSON

Established in 1982 to honor N. Ray Hawk, a former UO vice president for administration and finance, the Hawk Award is presented to the outstanding member of the senior class. Recipients are selected for their leadership, scholastic achievement, service to students and the university, involvement in student activities, and contribution to the quality of undergraduate life.

Jackson Award

ANNA POPONYAK

The Jackson Award was created to recognize senior students for their athletic ability, inspiration to other athletes, scholarship, and leadership ability. It was created in 1981 and is named in recognition of Muriel Jackson, a retired assistant vice president for administration, and her husband Ross.

Wilson Cup

VERONICA BARRERA
KARI HERINCKX

The Wilson Cup was established in 1991 to honor Shirley Wilson, former dean of students. It recognizes seniors whose outstanding leadership and willingness to challenge conventional thought have stimulated awareness of and fostered education in the areas of social and cultural issues.

Paul Olum Award

ANTHONY MECUM

Created in 1995 and sponsored by the UO Alumni Association, the Paul Olum Award recognizes the graduating senior who best exemplifies the qualities of the UO's thirteenth president. Olum was widely recognized for his academic excellence, integrity, concern for people, and dedication to the university's welfare.

Military Science Commissioned Officers

University students who take military science courses may also participate in the process that leads to a commission as a second lieutenant in the U.S. Army. Students listed here will be commissioned at a ceremony held June 22, 2009.

Academic Costume

The hood is lined with the official colors of the degree-conferring institution; for the University of Oregon these are yellow and green. The outside trimming of the hood and the color of the tassel signify the subject in which the degree is conferred.

maize/agriculture
white/arts, letters, humanities drab/commerce, accounting, business blue-violet/architecture
lilac/dentistry
copper/economics
light blue/education
orange/engineering
brown/fine arts
russet/forestry

olive green/pharmacy dark blue/philosophy
sage green/physical education peacock blue/public administration salmon pink/public health golden yellow/science citron/social work
scarlet/theology
gray/veterinary science

At the University of Oregon it is customary for master's degree candidates to wear their hoods in the procession. Doctoral candidates carry their hoods and are hooded during the ceremony. Each bachelor's degree candidate changes the cap tassel from front right to front left as the degree is conferred. Caps are removed during the pledge song and during the commencement address.

Honor Cords

Bachelor's degree candidates who graduate with academic honors may wear honor cords over their gowns. Colors of honor cords signify specific honors.

blue/Clark Honors College
white/cum laude
green/departmental honors
silver/magna cum laude
blue and gold/Phi Beta Kappa Society purple/Presidential Scholars gold/summa cum laude

Graduation with Latin Honors

Graduating seniors who have earned at least 90 credits in residence at the University of Oregon and have completed all other university degree requirements shall be awarded graduation with honors: upper 2 percent, summa cum laude; upper 5 percent, magna cum laude; upper 10 percent, cum laude. These distinctions are based on students' percentile rankings for their graduation term. The honors determination for spring 2009 degree candidates is provisional. It is based on academic work completed prior to the graduation term and is not official until final grades have been recorded.

Names of degree recipients and candidates are listed alphabetically by college or school, degree, and term—fall 2008, winter 2009, spring 2009.

For fall 2008 and winter 2009, the degree lists are official. Fall 2008 degrees were conferred in December, and winter 2009 degrees were conferred in March.

For spring 2009, the students whose names are listed here were considered to be candidates for the degrees indicated when this program was printed. This is not an official degree list. Degrees and diplomas will be awarded to those candidates who have successfully completed all requirements by the end of spring term 2009.

Robert Donald Clark Honors College

The garland, the Greco-Roman symbol of victory and honor, has been selected to represent the Clark Honors College, which offers students with exceptional abilities the opportunity to achieve their highest potential. Established in 1960, the college was named in honor of University of Oregon President Emeritus Robert D. Clark, whose vision and drive were instrumental in its creation.

School of Architecture and Allied Arts

A stylized letterform, integrating the three basic design shapes, symbolizes the creativity and utility in the School of Architecture and Allied Arts. Established in 1914, the school provides training in the philosophy and expertise necessary for responding to human needs for shelter and a harmonious relationship with the environment.

College of Education

The lamp of knowledge is an established symbol for the role of teaching and learning in society. It is a fitting insignia for the College of Education, which provides students, professionals, and the public with a wide range of services and training programs in the teaching-learning process. The college was established in 1910.

School of Journalism and Communication

The flash or starburst, with its many rays reaching to infinity, suggests the importance of communication to society. The School of Journalism and Communication fosters this relationship in its professional programs in the areas of advertising, communication studies, electronic media, print media, and public relations. The school was established in 1916.

School of Music and Dance

The familiar treble clef and the "dancing" eighth rests represent the School of Music and Dance. Established in 1900, the School of Music and Dance fosters the development of teaching and performance skills, creativity, scholarship, and the creation of new works and ideas in the fields of music and dance.

School of Law

The scale of justice needs no lengthy interpretation. It is the universal symbol for the highest ideals of human society, which are reflected in the programs and goals of the University of Oregon School of Law. The school was established in 1884.

Oregon Pledge Song

Old Oregon, we pledge to thee
Our honor and fidelity,
Both now and in the years to be,
A never failing loyalty.
Fair Oregon, thy name shall be Written high in liberty.
Now, uncovered, swear we every one
Our pledge to Oregon.

John Stark Evans, a member of the music faculty for many years, wrote the Oregon Pledge Song, fondly known as "Old Oregon," in 1919.
He gave the rights to the pledge song to the University of Oregon.
