Oregon State System of Higher Education

THE Oregon State System of Higher Education, as organized in 1932 by the State Board of Higher Education following a Federal survey of higher education in Oregon, includes all the state-supported institutions of higher learning. The several institutions are now elements in an articulated system, parts of an integrated whole. The educational program is so organized as to distribute as widely as possible throughout the state the opportunities for general education and to center on a particular campus specialized, technical, and professional curricula closely related to one another.

The institutions of the State System of Higher Education are the University of Oregon at Eugene, Oregon State College at Corvallis, the Oregon College of Education at Monmouth, the Southern Oregon College of Education at Ashland, and the Eastern Oregon College of Education at La Grande. The University of Oregon Medical School and the University of Oregon Dental School are located in Portland.

Each of the five institutions provides the general studies fundamental to a well-rounded education. At the three colleges of education general and professional studies are combined in the teacher-training curriculum; students who do not plan to become elementary-school teachers may devote their time exclusively to lower-division studies in the liberal arts and sciences or (at Southern Oregon and Eastern Oregon colleges of education) to approved lower-division programs in semiprofessional fields.

At the University and the State College two years of unspecialized work in liberal arts and sciences are provided on a parallel basis in the Lower Division. Major curricula, both liberal and professional, are grouped on either campus in accordance with the distinctive functions of the respective institutions in the unified State System of Higher Education.

The Medical School

THE University of Oregon Medical School has been in continuous operation since 1887, when it was granted a charter by the regents of the University of Oregon. Although the Medical School, because of its location in a different city from the other schools of the University, has administrative and faculty autonomy, the academic position of the school as an integral part of the University, established by its charter, has been strengthened by long-standing tradition, and is recognized under the organization plan of the Oregon State System of Higher Education.

On September 1, 1913, the Willamette University department of medicine was merged with the Medical School. Under the terms of the merger, the students of the Willamette University medical department were transferred to the University of Oregon Medical School, and upon graduation received diplomas indicative of the consolidation. The alumni bodies of the two institutions were also merged.

The Medical School is organized into instructional divisions as follows: basic-science departments, offering instruction in those sciences basic to medicine; clinical departments, offering instruction in medicine with its various branches, surgery with its various branches, obstetrics, gynecology, and pediatrics; and the Department of Nursing Education.

Location

PORTLAND (population 410,000), situated on the Willamette River near its junction with the Columbia, is a modern city of diverse business and industrial activities. Although 100 miles from the Pacific, Portland is an important seaport. The city is known for its beautiful homes, parks, and boulevards, and for its equable climate. The foothills of the Cascade Mountains rise on the outskirts of the city. Mount Hood, one of the major peaks of the range, towers on the southeastern horizon.

As indicated elsewhere, concentration of a number of hospitals on the campus of the Medical School and articulation of the work of the school with various health and social agencies of the city afford superior opportunities for medical study.

Campus and Buildings

PRIOR to 1919 the Medical School was housed in a three-story frame building at Twenty-third and Lovejoy streets near the Good Samaritan Hospital. In 1919 the school was moved to a twenty-acre tract deeded to the regents of the University by the Oregon-Washington Railroad and Navigation Company in 1914, as a campus for future development of a center of medical teaching and research. The campus was enlarged in 1924 by the addition of Sam Jackson Park, an adjoining tract of eighty-eight acres, a gift of Mrs. C. S. Jackson and Mr. Philip Jackson in behalf and in memory of the late Mr. C. S. Jackson. The entire campus of one hundred and nine acres occupies a site of exceptional scenic grandeur, at an elevation overlooking the city and the Willamette River, isolated from noise and smoke but within one and one-half miles of the business center. It affords an ideal setting for Medical School buildings and affiliated hospitals. In 1920 the University conveyed to Multnomah County nine acres on the campus for the construction of a general charity hospital. In 1926 a tract of twenty-five acres was deeded to the United States government as a site for a Veterans' Bureau hospital of three hundred beds.

The First Medical Science Unit (1919) was financed through an appropriation of $110,000 by the 1917 State Legislature and by cash donations amounting to $25,000 from Portland citizens. The building is a three-story reinforced-concrete structure.

Mackenzie Hall (1922), second unit of the Medical Science Building, was financed by an appropriation of $113,000 by the 1921 State Legislature, matched by an equal appropriation from the General Education Board of New York. It is named in honor of the late Dean Kenneth A. J. Mackenzie. The building is four stories high, similar in construction to the first unit but with twice its capacity. The General Education Board appropriated $50,000 in addition for equipment.

The Doernbecher Memorial Hospital for Children (1926) was financed through a gift of $200,000 in 1924 by Mrs. E. W. Morse and Mr. Edward Doernbecher in memory of their father, the late Mr. F. S. Doernbecher. This fund was augmented by other gifts totaling $120,000. The hospital contains 63 beds for children. It provides exceptional facilities for the care of sick and disabled children committed to the Medical School by the counties of the state under the Children's Hospital Service Law.

The Outpatient Clinic (1931), connecting the Doernbecher Memorial Hospital for Children and the Multnomah Hospital, affords teaching facilities for the clinical branches of the Medical School. Funds for the construction of the building were provided through a gift from the General Education Board of New York amounting to $400,000.

The Multnomah Hospital (1923), constructed by the commissioners of Multnomah County, has a capacity of 275 beds and serves as one of the teaching units of the Medical School. The Multnomah Hospital group includes also the Nurses Home (1927) and the Heating Plant (1923).

The University State Tuberculosis Hospital (1939) has an 80-bed capacity and a large outpatient unit. Funds for the hospital were provided by a state appropriation of $110,000, a Public Works Administration grant of $130,900, and a gift from Mrs. Grace R. Meier, Jack Meier, Mrs. Joseph Ehrman, Jr., and Mrs. Frederick Ganz, in memory of Mr. Julius L. Meier, husband and father. The outpatient clinic of the hospital is called the Julius L. Meier Memorial Clinic.

The Library and the Auditorium (1939) were erected with funds provided through gifts of $100,000 from Dr. John E. Weeks and $100,000 from the Rockefeller Foundation, and through a grant of $163,500 from the Public Works Administration. The Library stacks provide shelving space for 100,000 volumes, and may be expanded to accommodate an additional 100,000. The Auditorium, with a seating capacity of 600, provides facilities for classes, lectures, and scientific meetings in the field of medicine for students in the Medical School and physicians of the state of Oregon and the Pacific Northwest.

The Nurses Dormitory (1943), formerly the Portland Medical Hospital, was purchased in 1943 to provide needed housing facilities for students in the Department of Nursing Education. The dormitory accommodates 95 students.

Clinical and Special Facilities

CLINICAL facilities are afforded in the hospitals and clinics of the Medical School (Multnomah Hospital, Doernbecher Memorial Hospital for Children, the Outpatient Clinic, and the University State Tuberculosis Hospital), City Isolation Hospital, Coffey Memorial Hospital, Emanuel Hospital, Good Samaritan Hospital, Oregon City Hospital, Portland Sanitarium and Hospital, Providence Hospital, St. Vincents Hospital, and Vanport Hospital. These institutions are effectively coordinated for the clinical needs of the Medical School.

Multnomah Hospital. The first unit of the Multnomah Hospital was opened in 1923. This unit, built at a cost of approximately $1,000,000, embodies the most modern conceptions of a teaching hospital. It is a general charity hospital and accommodates 275 beds. Contemplated additional units will increase the capacity to 500 beds.

Under the terms of a contractual agreement between the commissioners of Multnomah County and the University of Oregon, the Medical School has access to the hospital for teaching purposes, and the director of the hospital is a University official. The director of the hospital appoints the professional staff, from nominations by the Medical School. The arrangement provides a most successful affiliation for teaching, research, and the care of the sick.

The Doernbecher Memorial Hospital for Children affords every facility for teaching and research in the Department of Pediatrics and in other clinical divisions. The hospital is operated by state appropriations and private donations.

Outpatient Clinic. Admissions, medical records, X-ray, laboratory, social service, and other such medical services are unified and coordinated in the Outpatient Clinic, housed in a unit connecting the Doernbecher Memorial Hospital and the Multnomah Hospital. Through this arrangement, duplication is eliminated, and the care of patients and the teaching of medical students are greatly facilitated. The history of the Outpatient Clinic began with the founding of the Portland Free Dispensary in 1907 by the Peoples' Institute, a private philanthropic institution. The dispensary became affiliated with the Medical School in 1909. It was located at Fourth and Jefferson streets until January 1, 1931, when it was merged into the Outpatient Clinic on the Medical School campus.

The budget for maintenance and operation of the clinic is provided by Multnomah County, the Portland Community Chest, the city of Portland, the Public Welfare Commission, and the Medical School. Cooperative service is furnished by the Junior League of Portland and the Visiting Nurses Association.

The Tuberculosis Hospital is an 80-bed hospital devoted to the care of patients suffering from tuberculosis. It provides medical and surgical facilities for teaching medical students, interns, residents, and nurses.

Extramural Clinics. Clinics and ward walks for small classes are conducted in a number of hospitals not situated on the Medical School campus—at Good Samaritan Hospital, Emanuel Hospital, Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children, Waverly Baby Home, and Albertina Kerr Nursery.

Autopsy Service and Pathological Museum. Under a contractual agreement with the Multnomah County commissioners, the Department of Pathology of the Medical School is designated to perform and record all cor-ner's autopsies. This arrangement materially augments the Pathological Museum and affords unusual opportunity for teaching in pathology and medical jurisprudence, besides assuring authoritative records for medicolegal purposes. The Museum has gross and tissue specimens numbering many thousands. Approximately 700 autopsies are performed a year.

Library

THE Medical School Library contains more than 40,000 volumes of books and bound periodicals and a large number of unbound periodicals. Five hundred and seventy-one current periodicals are received. Through the privileges of interlibrary loan and microfilm service, it is possible to procure within a few days material not in this collection. The Oregon State Board of Medical Examiners, the Portland Academy of Medicine, and the Multnomah County Medical Society contribute part of the annual operating cost.

Included among the many valuable gifts of books and periodicals which have been given to the Library is the collection of the late Dr. Ernest A. Sommer, consisting of nearly 2,000 volumes presented by Dr. Sommer in March 1933. Books and objects of medical historical interest are being assembled through the aid of the Women's Auxiliary to the Oregon State Medical Society, the editor of the Service Bulletin of the Oregon State Medical Society, and many other friends of the Medical School.

During the first term of the school year, students in the first-year class and other interested students are given a brief survey of the resources of the Library and instruction in their use.

The following regulations govern fines and charges in connection with the use of Library facilities:

(1) If a book borrowed from the reserve department is not returned when due, a fine of 25 cents is charged for the first hour and 5 cents for each succeeding hour, or fraction thereof, until the book is returned or reported lost. A maximum charge of $1.00 per hour may be made in cases of flagrant violation of the rules.

(2) A service charge of 10 cents is added to all accounts reported to the Business Office for collection.

(3) If a book, which has been reported lost and has been paid for, is returned within one year, refund will be made after deduction of the accumulated fines, plus a service charge of 50 cents.

Graduate Residency Program

ONE of the important functions of a medical school is the training of physicians in the medical specialties. The demand for such training has been greatly increased by the return of physicians from the armed services. In response, the Medical School residency program has been expanded to provide approximately forty appointments.

Residency training follows one year of internship, and consists of a course of study for two or three years devoted entirely to one specialized field of medicine. Instruction is received both in the clinical department and in related basic-science departments of the school.

All residencies have received the approval of the Council on Medical Education and Hospitals of the American Medical Association and of the respective American boards. Approved services are offered in anaesthesia, dermatology and syphilology, internal medicine, obstetrics and gynecology, ophthalmology, orthopaedic surgery, otolaryngology, pathology, pediatrics, radiology, general surgery, thoracic surgery, and urology. Applications are made to the Medical Director of the Hospitals and Clinics. Appointments are made approximately six months in advance of the beginning of the residency period, July 1.

Postgraduate Program

THE University of Oregon Medical School has made available its teaching and clinical facilities to physicians for continued postgraduate study. To meet the needs of these physicians, an extensive postgraduate program has been arranged, consisting of the following phases:

Refresher Course for General Practitioners. This course is of twelve weeks' duration and is repeated every three months. It is designed primarily for physicians returning from military service to general practice, and presents a general review of internal medicine, pediatrics, general surgery, obstetrics and gynecology, orthopaedics, urology, radiology, ophthalmology, otolaryngology, anaesthesia, biochemistry, and anatomy. Instruction is given by means of lectures, ward walks, clinics, and observations in surgeries and delivery rooms. Enrollment is limited to twelve.

Informal Refresher Course. For physicians wishing a review of particular phases of medicine, an informal program is offered. Instruction is given by means of clinics, demonstrations, ward walks, and observations. The physician may select the types of instruction he desires and the length of time he wishes to attend. Individual instruction is given by members of the faculty. This program may be started at any time and continued as long as desired.

Five-Day Intensive Courses. A series of intensive five-day courses is offered for physicians who wish to pursue postgraduate studies by taking frequent short periods from their practice. These courses are devoted to special subjects and are scheduled throughout the year. Instruction is given by lectures and demonstrations, the method of presentation depending upon the subject covered. These courses constitute a permanent part of the Medical School program.

Admission and Requirements

ADMISSION to the Medical School is based upon two types of qualifications. The applicant must present evidence of good character, proper attitude, and sincere interest in the study of medicine. He must also have demonstrated sufficient intellectual ability to undertake satisfactorily the study of medicine, as judged by his premedical scholastic record.

Applicants for admission are required to have completed satisfactorily four years in an accredited high school, or its equivalent, and collegiate preparation of not less than three years of full-schedule work in an accredited college or university.

(1) High-School Preparation. The following high-school course, which meets all the formal requirements, is strongly recommended:

	Units		Units
English	4	Latin	2
Algebra	1½	History	1
Geometry	1	German or French	2
Physics	1	Electives	1½
Chemistry	1
Total			15

(2) Collegiate Preparation. The applicant must have completed satisfactorily 135 term hours (90 semester hours) of credit, exclusive of military science.

The following subjects and credits are prescribed as the minimum acceptable for admission:

	Term hours
Chemistry	23
General inorganic, which may include qualitative analysis	12
Quantitative analysis, emphasis on volumetric analysis	3
Organic	8
Biology	15
General biology or zoology	9
Selections from general embryology, vertebrate anatomy or general physiology (order of preference, embryology, vertebrate anatomy) ..	6
Physics	12
Mathematics	6
English	9
Total prescribed credit	65

Foreign language is not specifically required for admission to the Medical School, but some knowledge of a major modern foreign language (German, French, Russian, Spanish) is highly recommended as a part of the cultural training of the physician. Students anticipating research in the medical sciences should have a basic knowledge of German and French. The premedical students should keep in mind that some medical schools require credit in foreign language for admission.

The work in organic chemistry must include the chemistry of both aliphatic and aromatic compounds. Biochemistry will not be accepted toward meeting the requirement. Students electing additional work are advised to take a course in elementary physical chemistry. At least 25 per cent of all chemistry credit must be for laboratory work.

Human anatomy is not accepted toward meeting the minimum requirements in biology. Students electing additional work are advised to take courses in embryology, vertebrate anatomy, histological technique, or general physiology.

The work in physics must include the divisions of mechanics, heat and sound, light and electricity. Students electing additional work are advised to take further courses in electricity or atomic physics.

The work in mathematics should be of standard college grade, and should include subjects such as algebra, elementary analysis, or trigonometry. Students electing additional mathematics are advised to take work in calculus.

The premedical student is advised very strongly against taking any medical courses in his preparation for the study of medicine. Rather, he should devote his efforts to obtaining the best possible general cultural education and, in addition, a thorough training in the basic sciences of chemistry, physics, and biology.

Recommended Elective Subjects. The student preparing to study medicine is advised to plan a balance in elective courses between courses in liberal arts and courses, beyond the minimum requirements, in subjects prescribed for admission to the Medical School. Subjects suggested are: history, economics, sociology, psychology, English, public speaking, foreign language, mathematics, biology, embryology, general physiology, physics (especially electricity), and elementary physical chemistry.

A fee of $5.00 is charged for the evaluation of transcripts submitted with the application for admission. When an applicant is accepted for admission to the Medical School, a deposit of $25.00 must be paid not later than two weeks following acceptance, in order to reserve a place in the entering class. This deposit of $25.00 applies toward the tuition fee of the first term. It is not refundable after a period of thirty days following notice of acceptance.

Aptitude Tests. Applicants for admission are expected to have taken the aptitude test given by the Association of American Medical Colleges at the various institutions offering premedical curricula. Exceptions to this rule may be allowed in the case of applicants who, because of legitimate reasons approved by the Committee on Admissions, have been unable to take the test.

Bachelor's Degree. A student entering the University of Oregon Medical School without a Bachelor of Arts or Bachelor of Science degree must complete the work required for one of these degrees in the Oregon State System of Higher Education, or in the institution at which he received his premedical preparation, before entering upon the work of the third year in the Medical School.

The University of Oregon, Oregon State College, and most of the colleges and universities of the Pacific Northwest recognize credit earned by a student during his first year at the Medical School as credit earned in residence toward the bachelor's degree.

Special Students. Special students having the degree of Bachelor of Arts or Bachelor of Science and other qualifications in point of experience may be admitted to certain courses in the Medical School upon recommendation by the head of the department concerned to the Committee on Admissions, subject to approval by the dean. Academic credit will not be granted for such work in clinical subjects unless, upon the recommendation of the Committee on Admissions, the candidate is registered in the Graduate Division of the State System of Higher Education. Graduates in medicine may register as special students in any course. No graduates in medicine are accepted as candidates for the degree of Doctor of Medicine.

Special students are required to submit credentials and secure the approval of the Committee on Admissions before registering.

Students who register for special work and who are not candidates for the degree of Doctor of Medicine are charged tuition according to the amount of work undertaken and the nature of the course.

Advanced Standing. A student may be accepted for admission with advanced standing, provided his official credentials are accompanied by a statement from the registrar of the institution from which he is transferring to the effect that the applicant's scholarship in medical-school work ranks him in the upper fifty per cent of his class. An honorable dismissal and premedical preparation meeting the regular requirements for admission are also required. Students admitted with advanced standing must take at least the last year of work at the University of Oregon Medical School. In general, only transfer to the third-year class is feasible.

Promotion. In order to be promoted from the first to the second year and from the second to the third year in the Medical School, the student must receive a passing grade in all subjects and an average grade of IV or better for the work of the entire year. The status of students failing to meet these requirements will be determined by the Promotion Board.

For promotion from the third to the fourth year, the student must receive a passing grade in all subjects of the third-year curriculum, and must pass a general oral examination during the third term in medicine, surgery, and obstetrics and gynecology.

Fourth-year students must receive passing grades in all subjects of the fourth-year curriculum.

Requirements for Degrees. Work is offered at the Medical School leading to Doctor of Medicine, Master of Arts, Master of Science, and Doctor of Philosophy degrees. Graduate and professional degrees earned at the Medical School are conferred by the University of Oregon, upon recommendation of the faculty of the Medical School.

M.D. Degree. A candidate for the degree of Doctor of Medicine must have completed satisfactorily the curriculum prescribed by the faculty of the Medical School. All candidates for degrees are expected to be present at the commencement exercises to receive the diploma in person.

M.A., M.S., and Ph.D. Degrees. The Medical School offers graduate instruction leading to the Master of Arts, Master of Science, and Doctor of Philosophy degrees in the medical sciences: anatomy, bacteriology, biochemistry, pathology, pharmacology, and physiology. The Medical School admits as candidates for graduate degrees in these fields only those students who are preparing for a professional career in medicine or allied fields, such as dentistry, nursing, and work as a medical or dental technician. Work toward these degrees is offered as an integral part of the work of the Graduate Division of the Oregon State System of Higher Education, and is subject to the rules and regulations of the Graduate Division.

All refunds are subject to the following regulations:

- (1) Any claim for refund must be made in writing before the close of the term in which the claim originated.

REGULATIONS GOVERNING NONRESIDENT TUITION

The Oregon State Board of Higher Education has defined a nonresident student as a person who comes into Oregon from another state for the purpose of attending one of the institutions under the control of the Board.

In order to draw a clear line between resident and nonresident students, the Board has ordered that all students in the institutions under its control who have not been domiciled in Oregon for more than one year immediately preceding the day of their first enrollment in the institution shall be termed nonresident students, with the following exceptions:

- (1) Students whose father (or mother, if the father is not living) is domiciled in the state of Oregon.

Fellowships, Scholarships, Loan Funds, Prizes

Noble Wiley Jones Pathology Research Fellowship. This fellowship founded in 1919, consisting of the interest on $5,000 held in trust, is the gift of Dr. Noble Wiley Jones of Portland. It is awarded annually to a medical student or resident on the basis of scholastic ability, training in pathology, and interest in research in this field.

Kenneth A. J. Mackenzie Memorial Scholarships. Five $200 scholarships are awarded annually for the study of medicine, in accordance with the following plan: one $200 scholarship is awarded each year to the outstanding premedical student at the University of Oregon in the last year of his pre-medical studies; if the student enters the University of Oregon Medical School and continues to maintain a high scholastic record, the scholarship is renewable for each of his four years of medical training; if the student does not maintain a high scholastic record at the Medical School, his scholarship is transferred to the outstanding member of his Medical School class who has taken his pre-medical work at the University of Oregon. The scholarships are a memorial to Dr. Kenneth A. J. Mackenzie, former dean of the Medical School; they are endowed through a bequest from the late Mildred Anna Williams.

Pohl Memorial Scholarships. These scholarships were endowed in 1936 by a gift of $5,000 from Dr. Esther Pohl Lovejoy, in memory of her husband, Dr. Emil Pohl, and her son, Frederick Clayson Pohl. The original gift has been supplemented by additional annual donations from Dr. Lovejoy, which have increased the endowment to about $19,000. Awards are made to students of promise in the field of medicine. Two-thirds of the scholarships are given to men students, one-third to women students.

State Scholarships. In accordance with special authorization from the Legislature, the State Board of Higher Education awards annually a limited number of scholarships to students in the institutions of the State System who rank high in scholastic attainment and who need financial assistance. These scholarships cover tuition. Recipients must pay the building fee, the incidental fee, and special fees. Award of State Scholarships to students at the Medical School is made by the Committee on High-School Relations of the State System of Higher Education, upon recommendation of the dean and the Scholarship Committee of the Medical School. Applications should be sent to the dean not later than May 15.

George H. Strowbridge Memorial Scholarship. This scholarship consists of the annual income of a bequest of $5,000 from Mary S. Muellhaupt in memory of George H. Strowbridge, M.D., a graduate of the University of Oregon Medical School in the class of 1897. Award is made to a student of the second-, third-, or fourth-year class upon the basis of scholastic attainment and need. Application should be filed in the office of the dean of the Medical School not later than May 15. Scholarships will be awarded by the dean upon the recommendation of the Faculty Scholarship Committee.

The Frank Ralston Research Student Assistantship was made available in 1946 through a gift of $5,000 from Dr. Frank Ralston. The funds are devoted to research in glaucoma under the direction of the head of the Department of Ophthalmology.

Ben Selling Loan Fund. This fund, a bequest from the late Mr. Ben Selling, is administered by Dr. Laurence Selling. Applications for loans are made through the office of the dean of the Medical School.

W. K. Kellogg Loan Fund. In May 1942, the W. K. Kellogg Foundation established a $10,000 loan fund at the University of Oregon Medical School for the financial assistance of medical students. Preference is given to first- and second-year students who have demonstrated scholastic ability, character, and need. The usual loan is $250. Loans are administered through the Dean's Office.

The Leona M. Hickman Student Loan Fund, established in 1936, is available, by the terms of the trust, to young men who are actual residents of King County, state of Washington; the fund is administered by the Peoples National Bank of Washington in Seattle as trustee. Application should be made to the Trust Department of the Peoples National Bank of Washington, 1414 Fourth Avenue, Seattle, Washington.

The award is supported by a $600 fund, contributed by private donors as a memorial to Dr. Joseph Lipshutz, graduate of the Medical School who gave his life for his country in World War II.

University of Oregon Loan Funds. Except in the case of a few funds which are specifically restricted to University students at Eugene, students at the Medical School are eligible for loans from University student loan funds on the same basis as students on the campus at Eugene. For loan regulations see the general University Catalog.

Endowment Funds

The Dorothy Stowbridge Jackson Memorial Fund (1935) was made available through a trust agreement provided in the will of Zola P. White. The trust, the income of which is to be devoted to instructional needs of the Department of Medicine, is administered by the First National Bank of Portland. The assets of the fund include property in Portland and in Clackamas County.

THE student health service program at the Medical School is under the direction of a committee of the faculty. Service to the student is provided in the hospitals and clinics of the Medical School. In addition to the general service of the entire school, arrangement is made for securing the advice and service of the dean and heads of departments in all student health and welfare problems. All entering students are required to take a physical examination, and all graduating students are required to take a special chest examination. A fee of $4.50 per term is charged each student for health service.

Alumni Association

THE Medical School Alumni Association includes the graduates of the Medical School and of the Willamette University department of medicine, which was merged with the University of Oregon Medical School in 1913. A strong organization has been built up, devoted to the interests of students and graduates and to the encouragement of scientific and professional progress among members of the association and in the medical profession generally. Curriculum in Medicine

THE curriculum in medicine requires a total of seven years' work beyond high school. The first three years must be satisfactorily completed before admission to the Medical School in Portland. Since facilities for instruction provide for the acceptance of only a limited number of applicants, completion of the premedical years does not guarantee admission to the Medical School.

The four years spent in the Medical School in Portland are devoted to the subjects of the regular four-year curriculum in medicine required by law.

The prescribed and recommended subjects for the undergraduate sessions—i.e., premedical instruction—are described under ADMISSION AND REQUIREMENTS. In the first, second, third, and fourth sessions at the Medical School there are 4,931½ hours of required work. Elective courses may be taken with the permission of the instructor in any term for which they are scheduled. Descriptions of courses are to be found under the several departmental headings.

Course-Numbering System

MEDICAL School courses are numbered in accordance with the uniform course-numbering system of the Oregon State System of Higher Education. This numbering system, as it applies to the Medical School courses, is as follows:

- 400-499. Upper-division courses primarily for first-year students in medicine, but to which graduate students may be admitted on approval of the graduate adviser and department head concerned.
- 500-599. Courses primarily for students in basic medical science, but to which graduate students may be admitted on approval of graduate adviser and department head concerned.
- 600-699. Courses that are highly professional in nature and may count toward a professional degree, but cannot apply toward an advanced academic degree (M.A., M.S., or Ph.D.).

Certain numbers are reserved for courses that may be taken through successive terms under the same course number, credit being granted according to the amount of acceptable work done. These course numbers are as follows:

|----------------|------------------------------|
| 501. Research. | 505. Reading and Conference. |
| 503. Thesis. | 507. Seminar. |

* Includes hours allocated to student externship.

MILITARY SCIENCE AND TACTICS

The Army Reorganization Act of June 4, 1920 provided for the establishment of units of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps in selected medical schools. An R. O. T. C. unit was established at the University of Oregon Medical School in 1920.

The courses offered are correlated with other courses taught in the Medical School. The organization, administration, and functions of the Army in war and peace are studied. Particular stress is laid on the place of the medical department in the military organization.

Instruction is given by lectures, demonstrations, and quizzes.

REQUIRED COURSES

Work during the school year covers hygiene, sanitation, control of communicable diseases, history and development of military hospitals and hospitalization, school of the officer, medical and surgical diseases peculiar to war, aviation medicine, and allied subjects. A summer camp of eight weeks' duration is required as part of the advanced course. While in attendance at camp, students receive the pay of privates first class of the U. S. Army, and are furnished shelter, subsistence, medical service, and transportation to and from camp. Commutation of subsistence and uniform allowance for other portions of the training period are contemplated, but the exact amount will not be known until final Congressional action. General Information

THE Department of Nursing Education of the University of Oregon Medical School is organized on a collegiate basis. The undergraduate degree curriculum is designed to prepare young women for service as professional nurses in the skillful care of the sick and in the promotion of community health. The advanced professional curricula are designed to prepare graduate nurses for specialized service in the fields of public health nursing, supervision, and teaching in schools of nursing.

The Department of Nursing Education is accredited by the Oregon State Board for Examination and Registration of Nurses, the Association of Collegiate Schools of Nursing, and the National Organization for Public Health Nursing.

HISTORY

The University of Oregon introduced professional courses in nursing for the first time in the summer session of 1919. The courses were offered in Portland in cooperation with the Northwest Division of the American Red Cross Home Service Department, the Portland Visiting Nurse Association, the Welfare Bureau, and the Oregon Tuberculosis Association.

A standard course of study in public health nursing was established in the fall of 1920 as a part of the program of the Portland division of the newly organized School of Sociology; this division was known as the Portland School of Social Work.

In 1926 the University organized a five-year curriculum in nursing leading to a bachelor's degree. The first two years of the curriculum were offered on the Eugene campus; this preparatory training was followed by two years of work in a hospital school of nursing in Portland, and a fifth year of specialized training in such nursing specialties as public health nursing, hospital administration, etc. Work in the hospital school was supplemented by professional courses in the Portland School of Social Work.

A three-year certificate program was added in 1928, for high-school graduates enrolled in accredited hospital schools of nursing in Portland. The hospital training was supplemented by basic courses of collegiate grade offered through the cooperation of the Portland School of Social Work, the Portland Extension Center of the University, and the University of Oregon Medical School. The program led to the Junior Certificate from the University. The certificate program was discontinued in 1939.

When, as a part of the reorganization of the Oregon State System of Higher Education in 1932, the Portland School of Social Work was discontinued, the program in nursing was transferred to the Medical School and organized as the Department of Nursing Education. Two-year preparatory curricula for the basic degree curriculum were established both at the University at Eugene and at the State College at Corvallis. Until 1936 degree students received their clinical training in Portland hospital schools approved by the department; in that year the professional program was centered in the hospitals and clinics of the University of Oregon Medical School.

In 1943, as war measures, a diploma curriculum to which high-school graduates were admitted was established, and the degree curriculum was accelerated for completion in four years, including four terms of preparatory work. Both programs were approved by the U. S. Public Health Service, and students became members of the U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps. In 1945 the preprofessional curriculum was increased to a minimum of five terms.

BUILDINGS

Most of the graduate and undergraduate classes are held in the Medical Science Building, Mackenzie Hall, and the Medical School Library. Clinical facilities include the Doernbecher Memorial Hospital for Children, Multnomah Hospital, University State Tuberculosis Hospital, and the Outpatient Clinic. The resources of the Library are available to students enrolled in the Department of Nursing Education.

STUDENT HOUSING

Three residences are provided for students in the basic degree curriculum. A limited number of rooms are available at the rate of $20.00 a month, for students enrolled in the advanced curricula.

SCHOLARSHIPS, LOANS, AND PRIZES

The Oregon State Board of Higher Education awards, annually, a limited number of scholarships to students in the institutions of the State System who rank high in scholastic attainment and who need financial assistance. These scholarships cover tuition, laboratory, and course fees. Recipients must pay the building fee, evaluation fee, and special fees. Application should be made to the registrar of the institution where the student is taking the preprofessional curriculum or, if the student is enrolled in the professional curriculum, to the director of the Department of Nursing Education.

Scholarships are also made available through the Oregon Federation of Women's Clubs, the Auxiliary of the American Legion, the Daughters of the American Revolution, the Oregon Mothers of the University of Oregon, the Portland Mothers of Oregon State College, and other groups.

The W. K. Kellogg Foundation Loan Fund is available to students who need financial assistance for the study of nursing. Loans are made upon the recommendation of the director of the Department of Nursing Education. The maximum loan is $300 in any year.

The Alumnae Association awards prizes of $15.00, $10.00, and $5.00 to three senior students achieving the highest scholastic standing. Awards are made by a joint committee representing the alumnae and administration of the Department of Nursing Education.

A loan fund bequeathed by the late Mrs. Fannie Frank is available to graduate nurses for training in public health nursing. Applications should be made to the director of the Department of Nursing Education.

Certain graduate nurses are also eligible for scholarships and loans from the national nursing organizations.

The Oregon State Nurses' Association and the Oregon State Organization for Public Health Nursing have loan funds available for graduate nurses. Application should be made at the State Nurses' Headquarters.

Under Title VI of the Social Security Act, a limited amount of money is available for the financial assistance of graduate nurses wishing advanced training in the field of public health nursing. Application should be made to the director of the Division of Public Health Nursing of the Oregon State Board of Health.

HEALTH PROGRAM

Before admission to the basic degree or basic diploma curriculum, the student is required to take a health examination, including a tuberculin test. She must be vaccinated against smallpox and inoculated against typhoid fever and diphtheria. After admission, all students receive a routine physical examination, including an orthopaedic examination and X-ray of the chest. Students with negative tuberculin reactions are retested every six months, or as often as necessary. All students have chest X-rays directly preceding and following experience at the Tuberculosis Unit, and every six months thereafter until completion of their work in the department.

In case of illness, students may be hospitalized for a limited period without charge. Students are allowed fourteen days of absence for illness during the professional training period without being required to make up the time lost.

Students in the advanced curricula are eligible for benefits under the student health service program of the Medical School.

ADMISSION AND REQUIREMENTS

Basic Degree Curriculum. The basic degree curriculum, which leads to a Bachelor of Science degree with a major in nursing education, consists of five terms in preprofessional work at an accredited college, plus eleven terms of professional work at the Medical School. For admission to the professional curriculum in the Department of Nursing Education, completion of the preprofessional curriculum as listed on page 64 is required.

A student seeking admission to the professional curriculum should:

(1) send to the Department of Nursing Education an official transcript of her college record; (2) file an application (together with a report of pre-entrance physical and dental examinations) on forms provided by the department, at least three months prior to admission date; and (3) take the nursing-aptitude test given by the National League of Nursing Education, unless excused by the Committee on Admissions. The Committee on Admissions selects students on the basis of scholarship and personal qualifications for the nursing profession.

Basic Diploma Curriculum. This program leads to the graduate nurse diploma and carries 45 hours of credit toward the degree of Bachelor of Science, with a major in nursing education. High-school graduates meeting the general entrance requirements of the University of Oregon are eligible for admission. Preference is given to applicants who have had chemistry and mathematics in high school.

A student seeking admission to this curriculum must: (1) be 18 years of age; (2) rank in the upper third of her high-school class; (3) send to the Department of Nursing Education an official transcript of her high-school record; (4) file an application (together with a report of pre-entrance, physical and dental examinations) on forms provided by the department, at least three months prior to the admission date; and (5) take the nursing-aptitude test given by the National League of Nursing Education, unless excused by the Committee on Admissions. The Committee on Admissions selects students on the basis of scholarship and personal qualifications.

Advanced Professional Curricula. The specialized curricula for graduate nurses are outlined on pages 66-69. Credits earned in any of these curricula may be applied toward a Bachelor of Science degree, with a major in nursing education.

Admission is selective, with preference being given to graduate nurses from schools of recognized standing, whose personal and professional qualifications meet the requirements of the field they wish to enter.

A student seeking admission must: (1) file an application (together with a record of a physical examination) on forms provided by the Department of Nursing Education, and (2) send to the department official transcripts of high-school, college, and school-of-nursing records.

GRADING SYSTEM

The grading system consists of four passing grades, A, B, C, and D; failure, F; incomplete, Inc; withdrawn, W. A denotes exceptional accomplishment; B, superior; C, average; D, inferior. When the quality of the work is satisfactory, but the course has not been completed for reasons acceptable to the instructor, a report of Inc may be made and additional time granted. If an Inc is not removed within a year, it automatically becomes an F. A student may withdraw from a course only with the approval of the department.

SCHOLASTIC REQUIREMENTS

Students in the Department of Nursing Education are required to maintain a grade average of C or better throughout the curriculum. Students receiving a grade average below C in any term will be placed on probation for the following term. Students receiving a grade average below C for two successive terms will be disqualified for further work in the department. Students receiving a grade of F in any course must repeat the course; but a student will be permitted to repeat a course only if her grade average is C or above.

The faculty of the department reserves the right to request the withdrawal of students who, in the judgment of the faculty, are unsuited for the nursing profession.

Basic Curricula in Nursing Education

THE Department of Nursing Education offers a four-year curriculum leading to the degree of Bachelor of Science, and a three-year curriculum leading to a diploma. Both curricula prepare the student for state examinations for nurse registration.

Degree Curriculum. The student in the four-year degree curriculum takes the first five terms of her work at the University of Oregon in Eugene, at Oregon State College in Corvallis, or at another accredited college or university. This work is followed by eleven terms in the Department of Nursing Education on the campus of the University of Oregon Medical School in Portland. The work in Portland is coordinated with clinical education in the University of Oregon Medical School hospitals and clinics.

Students in nursing receive their degrees from the University of Oregon, with the exception that students who take the first five terms at Oregon State College receive their degrees from the latter institution.

A limited number of transfer students may be accepted upon the recommendation of the Committee on Admissions. Approval of transfer must also be obtained from the Oregon State Board for Examination and Registration of Nurses. At least a three-month period of orientation in clinical experience is required in the hospitals and clinics. No time allowance or academic credit is given for this orientation period.

Diploma Curriculum. As a war emergency, the Department of Nursing Education instituted a three-year curriculum in nursing leading to a diploma as a graduate nurse. It is not anticipated that this curriculum will be maintained as a permanent part of the program of the Department of Nursing Education. The class work is in no way related to the degree curriculum until the student begins her clinical experience in the specialties in the hospital units of the University of Oregon Medical School hospitals and clinics.

At no time does the student's work, including classes, total more than 48 hours per week. Every student has one full day each week off duty and one-half day off for all holidays.

Clinical experience begins in the second term at the Medical School. The teaching units in which clinical experience is received are as follows:

Multnomah Hospital, a general 275-bed hospital for adults and a teaching unit for both medical students and students in nursing. In this unit, students receive experience in medical nursing, surgical nursing, operating-room technique, diet kitchen, and obstetrics. Affiliate hospitals are used for additional obstetrical experience.

Doernbecher Memorial Hospital, a 63-bed hospital for children. The students receive three months' experience in the care of acutely ill children in this unit. During this period, each student spends three weeks at Shriners Hospital caring for children with orthopaedic conditions.

The University State Tuberculosis Hospital, devoted to the care of patients with tuberculosis. The unit has an 80-bed capacity and a large outpatient department which provides both medical and surgical facilities for teaching. Students receive six weeks' experience in this unit.

The Outpatient Clinic, affording teaching facilities in all branches of medicine. Students receive six weeks' experience in this unit or in various community health and social agencies.

Advanced Professional Curricula

THE Department of Nursing Education offers advanced professional curricula in the following special fields: public health nursing, ward administration, teaching and supervision, and teaching nursing arts. Courses are open to graduates of accredited schools of nursing. Credits earned may be applied toward a baccalaureate degree from the University of Oregon or Oregon State College.

In special cases, variations in the curricula listed below may be allowed, with the approval of the dean of the Medical School.

CURRICULUM IN PUBLIC HEALTH NURSING

The public health nursing curriculum provides a sound educational program of study to prepare the graduate nurse for the field of public health nursing. It assists the nurse to acquire the knowledge, attitudes, interests, abilities, and professional skills which the public health nurse should have in order to function with professional competence in relation to the health needs of the individual, family, and community.

A close working relationship is maintained with the Oregon State Board of Health and other social and health agencies, including the City Bureau of Health, Visiting Nurse Association, and county health departments. These agencies assist in teaching, provide consultation service, and supervise field experience. United States Public Health Service personnel give valuable assistance. The program includes three terms of theory and four months of field experience. In planning student schedules, previous academic courses and field experience are given consideration. Prerequisites are one term each of sociology, psychology, and English composition. These courses may be taken concurrently with work at the Medical School if a longer period of time is allowed to complete the curriculum.

The student must furnish her own uniforms, as well as transportation, for the field-experience period. Field experience will be much more valuable for the student if she has an automobile. Mileage will be allowed by most agencies. All students must learn to drive and secure a driver's license before beginning field experience.

The student may carry full- or part-time work, but all requirements should be completed within a three-year period. If the work is not completed within this period of time, an application for re-admission must be submitted.
