NEWS AND COMMENT

By The Editor

ONCE again the affairs of Oregon higher education are threatened with political interference. This time it is a move to take the compulsory vs. optional military training controversy to the voters of the state by attempting to place the matter on the November ballot by means of the state's initiative laws.

Unlike the student activity referendum, this matter is solely one of educational policy. Old Oregon opposed the referendum on the fee question for the same reason—that it was a matter for the designated educational authorities to determine—and the question of optional military drill is even more strictly an educational problem.

The question of whether military training shall be required or elective is just as much a problem for the state board of higher education to decide as is whether physical education shall be required or elective. To take the problem to the voters of the state is as foolish as it would be to submit to them for decision whether this textbook or that should be used in a given course.

OLD OREGON is not here arguing for or against required military training; nor does it feel obliged to state whether it considers military training to

Militarism Is Not Real Issue be conducive to "war fever" or not or whether the training makes confirmed militarists of the students.

That is not the question in this instance. The question is whether the authority of the state board of higher education is to be disregarded and whether orderly procedure and pressures are to be exercised or whether the people of the state are to be continually plagued with the necessity of deciding educational issues that rightfully belong with the board that has been constituted for that very purpose by the people themselves.

Active backers of the move to take the issue to the voting public constitute approximately the same coterie of fifteen or twenty students who have banded together in various organizations on the campus for various purposes during the last few years. Many of the same students were active in the student fee campaign. Many are active in the annual peace demonstrations. At present the two organizations (composed mainly of the same few students) that are promoting the initiative military move are the Oregon Committee for Peace and Freedom and the Oregon Branch of the American Student Union.

These students are not communists. In the main they are merely students who like to think of themselves as active liberals. Their success in stirring up controversy in matters such as the student fee question has only led them away from orderly methods of promotion for their "causes" into dangerous whirlpools of political manipulation and mass propaganda. In their methods and procedures, at least, they do not represent the large majority of the Oregon student body.

Though Oregon boasts of being a liberal institution, it cannot boast of the methods being employed by this small group in its efforts to obtain an end and to obtain that end—no matter what the effect on the prestige or welfare of the higher educational institutions may be as a result.

CHURCH groups, granges and labor are being drawn into the campaign under the guise of fighting for optional military training—and peace. That end,

Education's Friends Oppose if these groups are sincere in wanting it and at the same time are sincere in their support of higher education, can be obtained much better through orderly petition and proven public demand to the authorities in control than through blind emotional appeal to the public.

True friends of Oregon's institutions of higher education will oppose this initiative effort no matter what their convictions may be as regards the advisability or desirability of required military training. They will oppose it on two grounds: First, that it disregards the accepted and established authority vested in the state board of higher education and its passage would constitute a dangerous, almost ruinous precedent. And second, the methods of its promoters are harmful to peaceful and orderly progress in Oregon higher education and of no credit whatsoever to the institution under whose mantle these so-called liberals hide.

CONSTRUCTION

A Million in Mortar

As hundreds of men continue working on the University's three long-dreamed-of projects—a library, an infirmary and a physical education plant—another manner of expressing their tremendous importance to the future of the campus is found in figures.

Government appropriations for the three structures have totaled $933,000, within a few cents of one dollar for each person in the state of Oregon. Of greater meaning to students, however, is the fact that these appropriations amount to more than $350 for each enrolled student.

If construction costs were distributed among winter term's enrollment, then 2574 students would have to pay $362.50 each. They would each pay $178 to raise $463,000 for the library, $136 to raise $350,000 for the physical education plant, and $46 to raise $120,000 for the infirmary.

Major activity centered on the three new buildings as improved weather speeded the work. All cement pouring on the library and infirmary was completed in late March. Excavation for the new physical education plant was expected to be completed early in April.

Bricklayers have already started with the facing work on the new library, while heating experts and plumbers are busy in the interior of the building.

Many Minor Projects

Other projects that are contributing to the wholesale "face lifting" that is going on under the various governmental grants, are: regrading of the area west of Villard hall; regrading and banking of the fields between the Music building and Alder street; placing of concrete tunnels from the heating plant to various parts of the campus; and many other minor relandscaping and regrading projects. In addition, is the wrecking of the south half of the old gymnasium, and the conversion of the remainder of the building into an up-to-date natatorium, which was started April 1.

CONFERENCE

State's Needs Discussed

State, county and municipal problems, from taxation and indebtedness to stream pollution and scenery preservation, were the subject of the annual three-day Commonwealth Conference held on the campus March 19 to 21, under the active direction of P. A. Par-

Brick facing work has already been started and all cement pouring is completed. Upper right: Showing construction work on a section of the new heating tunnel system which will eventually carry heating pipes and light and telephone wires to all parts of the campus. sons, head of the department of sociology.

The meet boasted one of the most imposing rosters of prominent citizens of the state and invited experts ever to be assembled for the purpose of discussing and studying the many and varied problems of state development.

Speakers stressed the point that Oregon is on the verge of a great era of development and must have the co-operation of all groups of the state in order to realize the benefits. This was the keynote of the entire conference.

Governor Charles H. Martin stressed the need for mining development in a plea for the creation of a bureau of mining and geology designed to give aid to prospectors and miners, to guide mineral enterprises in efficient methods of production, to regulate safety features of the state's mining industry and to further the development of mine-to-market roads.

Chancellor Frederick M. Hunter declared that education must better train people to keep informed on governmental and developmental problems and also to offer greater training for governmental service.

County and city officials must work in harmony and must recognize and assist in solving each other's problems, was the plea of Frank L. Shull, president of the Association of County Judges and Commissioners.

Other matters discussed in detail were: relief, recreation, promotion, stream pollution, scenery preservation, power distribution, and airport development.

Enrollment Increase

Registration at the end of the first week of spring term indicated an increase of approximately eight per cent over figures recorded for the same period last spring term. At the end of the week 2380 students had registered in the University. Men outnumbered women by 364.

Weekend Plans Started

After more than a month of uncertainty over whether or not it had officers, the junior class finally held an election of new officers following the spring vacation, and now has an official president, Jack McGirr of Portland. McGirr's first official act was to appoint chairmen for the annual Junior Weekend and Canoe Fete, plans for which had been held up due to the eligibility difficulties of the ex-president, Kenneth Belieu.

Chairman for the weekend event, which will be held May 8, 9, and 10, is Fred Hammond, Portland. Dave Lowry, Medford, was named to head the canoe festival directorate. Committees were immediately appointed and plans are progressing rapidly for the gala weekend. Grace Peck, Astoria, and Lucile McBride, Junction City, have been named by James Blais, student body president, to head the directorate for Mothers' Day, which will be held in conjunction with the weekend activities.

Yale Challenges Oregon

The University of Oregon has accepted Yale university's challenge to debate the question "Resolved: That It Is More Fun to Be a Man Than a Woman." The debate will be broadcast over the NBC radio chain on April 18, each team receiving five minutes on the air. A trio of men orators will be selected by a campus-wide elimination contest to uphold the negative side of the question for the University. Oregon's request to use co-ed speakers has thus far been vetoed by Yale.

COMMENCEMENT

Exercises June First

Setting a new precedent for the University, 1936 commencement exercises will be held June 1, a full week prior to the end of the school year. Under this arrangement, alumni returning for the annual "alumni day" activities and class reunions will find a fully populated campus and not the sombre atmosphere prevalent at past commencements when only graduating seniors and a few faculty members remained after the closing of classes.

The new schedule was made possible by the state board of higher education after an attempt on the part of the alumni association and successive senior classes to have the commencement exercises advanced to the week prior to "exam week." Graduating seniors will be given their exams ahead of the regular exam week and will be graduated at exercises one week prior to the final closing of school for the year.

Class Reunions Scheduled

Saturday, May 30, will be Alumni Day. Six classes will hold reunions on this day, in addition to the annual meeting of the alumni association, the University luncheon and the traditional flower and fern procession and twilight concert in the evening. Classes to hold reunions are: 1886 (50-years); 1896 (40-years); 1906 (30-years); 1911 (25-years); 1916 (20-years); and 1926 (10-years).

May 30 being a holiday, all students will be free to participate with the alumni in the events of the day. University officials anticipate one of the most gala commencement events in University history. Class secretaries report enthusiastic response to reunion notices, presaging an unprecedented alumni attendance.

Friends Elect East

William G. East, LL.B. '32, Eugene attorney, was elected president of the Associated Friends of the University at a recent public meeting. He succeeded Dr. Irvin R. Fox, M.D. '21, who had been president since the group was formed.

Spencer Collins, '21, Eugene Accountant, was named secretary-treasurer to succeed John W. Anderson, '23.

Work of the organization during the past year included contacts with 6,500 high school graduates, it was reported. Dr. C. V. Boyer, University president, expressed his confidence in the group's activities.

Colorful Career Ends

An eventful career which took her into the whirl of European politics ended for Louise Bryant Reed, Oregon graduate with the class of 1908, when she died of cerebral hemorrhage in a hospital in Sevres, France, on January 6.

The sharp-witted writer was the widow of John Reed, an American who championed the Soviet cause and who, following his death in Moscow in 1920, was buried under the Kremlin walls near the tomb of Lenin. In 1923 she married William C. Bullitt, United States Ambassador to Moscow. She is survived by a daughter, Anne.

In Time magazine for January 20, she is said to have "wangled the first interview from Mussolini," and to have been a writer for the Hearst publications. During her last years she made her home in Paris.

She was a member of Chi Omega sorority.

UP Hires Alums

United Press directors in the northwest have shown a preference for University journalism graduates, as evidenced by the number now at work in its widely scattered bureaus.

Four out of five northwest bureau managers are Oregon alumni.

Since December, 1935, Donald F. Caswell, '34, has been manager of the new United Press bureau at Spokane, a new unit covering an area of 40,000 square miles.

James Sheehy, '19, at Seattle, Arthur Schoeni, '30, at Olympia, and Willis Duniway, '33, at Salem, are the other managers.

Three other alums work for the same news service. Newton Stearns, ex-'37, is assistant at Salem; Herb Lundy, ex-'28, is night manager in Portland, and Wilfred Brown, '30, is night manager in Seattle.

Crime Statistician Named

Regional director of the United States Attorney General's survey of disposition of persons convicted of crime is the title just given to Ronald H. Beattie, '26, J.D. '28, M.A. '31, who is now research associate in the bureau of public administration of the University of California.

Beattie, who has done significant work in criminal statistics and administration, is former research assistant to the president of the university and former research fellow in the School of Applied Science. He has written a number of publications on criminal statistics both in Oregon and California, which are widely used by law making and law enforcing agencies.

His new duties will be to gather accurate information on the laws and prac-ties governing administration of punishment and correctional treatment in the states of Nevada, California and Arizona.

Art Teacher Praised

Miss Harriet M. Cantrall, supervisor of art in the city schools of Springfield, Illinois, who graduated from Oregon in 1932, has been accorded national recognition by the Society of Arts and Sciences for her unusual contributions in the educational field.

Included in the list of nominations announced in connection with the Society's 1935-36 program, Miss Cantrall was honored not only for rendering a real public service, but for making in her own sphere a laudable contribution to the arts. The Society of Arts and Sciences, founded in 1883 by Herbert Spencer, has made significant contributions to American culture.

Editorially Springfield's Illinois State Register commented on the honor by saying: "As supervisor of art in the public schools of this city, Miss Cantrall has won and deserved numerous honors. It is a pleasure for The State Register to have encouraged this recognition of Miss Cantrall, and to have called attention to the able and distinctive manner in which she has developed study of and interest in real art."

¶ Among President Roosevelt's recent nominations confirmed by the U. S. senate were the names of two Oregon alumni, Clyde B. Aitchison, M.A. '15, and Russell M. Brooks, ex-'15. If the senate assents, Aitchison will be renamed interstate commerce commissioner, and Brooks, who is U. S. consul at Curacao, Dutch West Indies, will be raised from seventh to sixth grade in the foreign service.

¶ A recent anthology of Oregon poetry embracing work of 50 contemporary writers in the state, contains work by two University alumni and two faculty members. Margaret Skavlan, '25, and Walter Kidd, '26, M.A. '35, "made" the publication, as did Professor H. C. Howe, chairman of the English department, and Professor Alice Henson Ernst, English instructor.

¶ When the United States public health service begins its ambitious nation-wide survey of disabling illness and chronic disease, an advisory committee named by the Oregon State Medical Society will help with the work in the state. Two of the three members are Dr. Ralph A. Fenton, '03, and Dr. John H. Fitzgibbon, '17.

MEDICAL SCHOOL

FACULTY PORTRAIT

Miss Clarice Ashworth

Considered one of the best medical illustrators in the United States, Miss Clarice Ashworth has served seven years as artist at the University of Oregon Medical School. After completing her basic training at the Chicago Art Institute, Miss Ashworth studied under Max Brodel, at Johns Hopkins University. She was later a member of the staff of the Mayo Clinic until 1929 when she established her studio on Marquam Hill in Portland.

In the field of medical illustration the artist must have a thorough knowledge of anatomy and understand the technique of the surgeon. Rough sketches are made in the operating room that may later be developed into illustrations for medical journals or slides for illustrating lectures. At the autopsies or with pathological specimens, the artist works up charts and models, that convey knowledge more vividly than can be done with words alone.

Miss Ashworth is anxious to develop greater interest in this type of work among members of the medical profession and scientific and research workers in the Pacific northwest.

Dr. Osterholm in Portland

Dr. A. C. Osterholm, a graduate of the Medical School in 1923, has returned to Portland on a year's leave of absence. Dr. Osterholm is the resident surgeon for a large district in the Belgian Congo. He is stationed some 600 miles inland on a large tributary of this river. There are 30,000 people in the district who depend upon Dr. Osterholm for surgical and medical care. Several hundred major operations alone are performed in the course of a year's work. Dr. Osterholm has had to train his own anesthetists, nurses and laboratory technicians. The native inhabitants are barely removed from cannibalism and a few hours travel in any direction from the settlement takes one into districts where the original native customs still prevail.

Dr. Osterholm is accompanied by his wife and an eight year old daughter, Katherine Jean.

CLASS NOTES

1906

Lenthal A. Bollman, Jr., son of Dr. Lenthal A. Bollman, M.D. '06, of Dallas, has entered the University this spring term.

1908

Robert Holt, son of Dr. Robert E. L. Holt, of 2509 Northeast Thompson Street, Portland, died in Seattle, Washington, on March 8.

1914

Dr. William P. Murphy will represent the University of Oregon at the tercentenary celebration of Harvard University next September. Dr. Murphy received his B.A. degree from Oregon in 1914 and his M.D. from Harvard in 1920. He shared the Nobel prize in medicine for 1934 as a result of his work on liver therapy in anemia.

1926

Dr. and Mrs. H. Thomas Gentle (Gertrude Tormoen, ex-'23) live at III King Street, Medford.

Theodore A. Kennedy, '26, M.D. '29, may be addressed at the Veterans Administration, Legion, Texas. He is married and has a son, Harwood, six years old, and a small daughter, Theo Ann, born, December 17, 1935.

1928

John F. Renshaw, '28, M.D. '31, and Dot Ward Renshaw, '27, are preparing to return to the Pacific Coast after spending a year in Chicago. Dr. Renshaw has been doing post-graduate work with Dr. R. Schindler of Germany, who invented an instrument known as the gastroscope, to visualize the interior of the stomach. Dot and Jack have two small boys, Ward, who is two years old, and John Clark, who was born, November 26, 1935.

1929

About one hundred and fifty men go through the medical offices at the Bonneville dam every day. Of these, most come for treatments of colds, sinus and bronchial ailments says Dr. Lewis Jordan, who was chief surgeon there for one and one half years. Dr. Jordan now has offices in the Selling Building, Portland. Before going to Bonneville he was for two years at Stanford University Hospital, doing general surgery work. He took his internship at Multnomah County Hospital.

SPRING SPORTS

Full Program

The heaviest slate of spring sports events ever to be scheduled for University teams got under way late in March with the opening of spring term.

Included in the long list of athletic events listed for the spring quarter are the annual northern division conference swimming meet; dual track and field meets with Washington State college and the University of Washington; the traditional relay meet with Oregon State college (in which the University of Portland will also participate this year); the state's first A.A.U. track and field championships to be held on Hayward field May 16; eight home conference baseball games; and numerous tennis and golf contests. In addition there is a large list of freshmen events listed. A heavy spring football practice period is also on the schedule.

With ten lettermen missing from Bill Reinhart's last year's championship baseball squad, new Coach Howard Hobson and his 1936 baseballers are given only the slimmest chance of recapturing the conference pennant. The Webfoots first conference encounter will take place on April 24 in Eugene against Oregon State college.

This year's pennant scramble is expected to be hotly contested, with the Washington State Cougars boasting the best lineup on paper. Little is known of the strength of the other three entries, Washington, Oregon State, and Idaho, although all three are expected to figure prominently in the five week chase.

Koch, Gordon Gone

Severest loss to this year's squad is the stellar Ray Koch-Joe Gordon infield combination. Both of these players have heeded to call of professional ball and are working out as rookies under the guidance of the New York Yankees this spring.

Don McFadden, iron-man hurler of the past two championship teams, will be the mainspring of Oregon's squad this year. Two other holdovers are Cece Inman, letterman, and Earl Bucknum. Additions to the mound staff include Bob Millard, star frosh hurler last year, and Bill Marshall, transfer from Monmouth normal.

John Thomas, who capably substituted for Mickey Vail last year as catcher is scheduled to draw a permanent assignment this year, although Chief McLean, basketball luminary who followed Hobson north from Southern Oregon Normal, may see considerable service behind the plate.

Many Infield Changes

To fill the yawning gap at short and second, where Koch and Gordon departed last year, Hobson will have to choose between Mark DeLaunay, Russell Marshall, Robert Wimbush and Bill Moore, a numeral winner in 1931. John Lewis, regular third baseman will probably be moved to first to take over the berth held last year by Harry McCall. Wayne Scott, another transfer from Ashland, and Tom McCall, brother of Harry, are reserves for the initial sack post. At third base Hobson may use Bud Goodin, freshman star last year and a bootballer during the fall, or Eddie Vail, brother to last year's catcher.

Two lettermen outfielders are back—the hard-hitting Andy Hurney and the potent batsman, Ralph Amato. Bill Courtney, transfer from Ashland; Howard Parks, from Monmouth Normal, and Mark Hammericksen, up from freshman ranks, may also all see service in the outfield.

Oregon's schedule follows:

April 24, Oregon State at Eugene
April 25, Oregon State at Corvallis
April 29-30, Washington State at Eugene
May 2-4, Idaho at Eugene
May 8-9, Washington at Eugene
May 13-14, Washington State at Pullman
May 15-16, Idaho at Moscow
May 18-19, Washington at Seattle
May 29, Oregon State at Eugene
May 30, Oregon State at Corvallis

Frosh Prospects Bright

Prospects for an outstanding freshman baseball club this spring appeared bright when 35 candidates for the Duckling nine reported to Coach John Warren at the opening of the term.

A long list of former high school and summer league stars is included in the squad roster, which will be pared down after a week or two of outdoor workouts.

Heading the list of aspirants are Bill Sayles, Gale Smith and John Verby, all well-known in Portland baseball circles; Johnny Coomler, ace Silverton high hurler; Ford Mullen, all-state infielder from Olympia, Wash., and Jack Gordon, shortstop, brother of Joe Gordon, now with the New York Yankees.

T R A C K

Hayward Again Pessimistic

Although his relay team and two distance men, Captain George Scharpf and Sam McGauhey, turned in creditable early season performances at the Hill military academy relays on March 27, Bill Hayward, veteran track coach, is his usual pessimistic self in his early season predictions as to Webfoot track prospects this spring.

McGauhey placed second to barnstorming Glen Cunningham, leading American miler, in the event at Portland and Scharpf placed fourth.

Also the Webfoot relay team won the relay title at the indoor carnival, defeating Idaho, the only other college represented.

IRON MAN

Don McFadden, ace Oregon hurler and considered the best pitcher in northwest collegiate circles, who will attempt to lead Oregon to its third successive northwest championship.

Alton Kropp, Percy Freeman, Ken Miller, and Howard Patterson hold the four relay positions this year. Patterson's showings in this event last year and in early season workouts mark him as one of the speediest men in the northwest.

Develops Squad Slowly

Hayward has held no time trials as yet and although the men worked out in the halls of McArthur court during the closing months of winter term, he has developed them slowly so that Oregon's men will come to their peak performances later than usual, it being an Olympic year which means a longer season than usual.

Bud Shoemake heads the list of Hayward's sprinters. A letterman and northwest titlist, Shoemake's time of 9.5 in the northern division meet last year was the fastest ever run in the northwest. He also set a 220-yard dash mark for the northwest last year when he ran the distance in 20.8.

Arne Lindgren entering his final year of competition; Frank Lloyd, brilliant sophomore star; and Percy Freeman are the other outstanding sprint candidates. Lloyd has pressed Shoemake hard and has defeated him occasionally in early-season races.

Patterson heads a list of promising quarter-milers and was unbeaten in dual competition last season. He is being pressed hard by a transfer, Jim McDonald, who won the state junior college championship for Glendale junior college in 1935.

Gilbert Schultz, a letter-winner in the 440-yard event last season, is another promising candidate for the sprint events. Other outstanding quarter-milers include Alton Kropp, who also runs the half and is a newcomer to the squad; and four sophomores, Ken Miller, Barney Hall, Gordon Hall, and Ted Nickelsen.

Field Aspirants Promising

Frank Lloyd, besides his sprint work is expected to hang up new records in the broad jump. He will team with Lindgren in this event. Two weight men who did not win letters last year but who have shown much promise in the field events are Bill Foskett and Leonard Holland. Holland's specialty is the discus. Chan Berry, letterman, and Joe Huston, a new man to the squad this year, show promise in the weights, as does Clyde Walker, an outstanding shot-putter from the Ducklings of last spring.

Oregon came within half a point of tying for first place in the northwest conference meet last year.

STAR SPRINTER

Carson (Bud) Shoemake, holder of northwest records in both the 100 and 220-yard dashes and one of outstanding track men on Bill Hayward's 1936 squad. Shoemake will be a strong contender for a position on this year's Olympic squad.

The completed schedule, not including the Hill relays, is:

- April 25, Oregon State relays at Eugene
- May 2, Washington State dual meet at Eugene
- May 9, University of Washington at Eugene
- May 23, Oregon State at Corvallis
- May 29-30, Coast conference meet at Los Angeles

Summary sportcasts of the Oregon-O. S. C. relays at Eugene on April 25 and of the Oregon-Washington meet at Eugene on May 9 will be presented by the Associated Oil company.

Station KEX, Portland, will summarize the Oregon relays. Both KEX and KIRO, Seattle, are to broadcast the dual meet.

TENNIS

Defending State Champs

Handicapped by inclement weather, Oregon's varsity tennis players under the direction of Paul R. Washke have been making the best of the few fine days and inside practice facilities to steal a march on other sports and jump into active spring competition.

On days when the weather permitted, lettermen, sophomores from last year's freshman team, and newcomers, numbering sixteen in all, have been playing an inter-squad tournament to determine the eight ranking players on the squad.

Oregon's only loss on the courts in 1935 was to the championship Washington team. The University team placed second in the northern division conference meet and claimed the state title by virtue of double victories over Linfield, Willamette, and Oregon State college, and a win and a tie with the University of Portland.

Veterans who will be under Coach Washke's tutelage this spring are Captain John Economus, James Lewis, Norman Winslow, and Cosgrove LaBarre. Sophomore prospects include William Zimmerman, George Wilson, Larry Crane, Charles Eaton, and Jack Stafford, all numeral winners. Other varsity prospects are Worth Chaney, Allan Finke, Lauren Buel, Fred Mountain, Harrison Winston, Al Newton, Sam Bikman, and William Hutchinson.

GOLF

To Defend Title

With only one regular from last year's northern division championship team missing, the University of Oregon varsity golf team opens its season on April 11, against the University of Washington in Eugene.

Leonard (Lank) Anderson of Eugene, individual northern division champion last year, heads the list of prospects for the Webfoot squad. Sid Milligan, Eugene, Robert Thomas, Portland, and Stan Smith, Klamath Falls, are other returning lettermen. The sole loss is Edward Labbe, Portland, a two-year letterman.

Dave McGuire, transfer from Oregon State college, and two members of last year's undefeated freshman squad, Dick Pierce and Walter Cline, both from Salem, are other leading prospects.

The varsity schedule follows:

- April 11, University of Washington at Eugene
- April 18, Oregon State college at Corvallis
- April 24, College of Puget Sound at Tacoma
- April 25, University of Washington at Seattle
- May 2, Oregon State college at Eugene
- May 16, College of Puget Sound at Eugene
- May 23, Northern Division conference meet at Seattle

SWIMMING

Northwest Champs Again

Coach Mike Hoyman's colorful 1936 swimming team was successful in defending its last year's title in the first northern division championship meet ever to be held on the Oregon campus on April 4.

Jim Reed, the only senior on the squad, closed his collegiate career by setting two new individual marks and assisting in a new mark in the medley event. Reed opened the record breaking by posting a new national inter-collegiate record in the 300-yard individual medley. His time was 3:44.5, one and two-tenths seconds better than the previous mark held by Robert Clark of Stanford. He also broke his own 150-yard backstroke record. His new time was 1:42.9. In the medley event Reed, together with his younger brother, Chuck, and Jim Hurd established a new record, beating their time of earlier this year. New time: 3:13.4.

On All-American Team

National attention was drawn to Oregon last month when Jim Reed and Jim Hurd were placed on the all-American collegiate swimming team, following their participation in the national intercollegiate meet at Yale University March 27 and 28. Both men, together with Coach Hoyman, were sent to the national meet by students and faculty members who subscribed to a special "On to Yale" fund.

Hurd took fifth place in the 50-yard free style event, and eighth in the 100-yard, just inches behind Jimmy Gilhula, defending champion. Reed placed eighth in a field of 25 aspirants in the 150-yard backstroke race.

FOOTBALL

Squad Works Hard

With the heaviest football schedule ever faced by an Oregon squad coming up next September, Coach Prince G. Callison is conducting most of the rough scrimmage work during spring practice in an effort to have a toughened squad ready for the arduous season next fall.

A series of two-hour afternoon sessions, using the plays on which the Webfoots' next year's attack will be based, has kept the coaching staff busy rounding the squad into pre-season shape.

Chief problem facing Callison is the development of fullbacks and ends, where wholesale losses from 1935 will necessitate shifts and reliance on green material.

A trio of transfers, Arliegh Bentley from Glendale, Clifford Strom from Southern Oregon Normal, and Cece Walden from Eastern Oregon Normal are being groomed for the fullback post. Frank Goodin, letterman halfback of last year, is listed, at present, to again handle that position.

Backfield Takes Shape

Dale Lasselle and Bob Braddock both of whom saw much action last fall are likely halfback candidates. To complete the tentative backfield which has been taking form for the past several weeks, Callison has called upon Donald Kennedy, a transfer from Menlo Junior college who was on hand but did not play last fall, to take over the quarterback job.

Ed Farrar and Vernon Moore, both lettermen, are the leading candidates for the center post. Moore was elevated to first string center last fall when the former was out with a head injury.

Bill Estes and Tony Amato, lettermen, rank as the most experienced Oregon guards reporting for service in spring practice. They are supported by six strong candidates among whom should be found the necessary reserve strength.

Bjork Is Bulwark

Captain Del Bjork, one of the outstanding tackles on the Pacific coast last season, will be a mainstay of the line next fall. Kenyon Skinner, John Engstrom, and Pat Fury are fighting hard for the other tackle post.

Both of Callison's 1935 ends, Budington Jones and Stan Riordan, are lost to the team this year. Vincent Walker, who was forced out of competition early last season with an injured back, is expected to return and take over one wing job. He is also a reliable place kicker.

The battle for the other post is wide-open with Lief Jacobsen, letterman, and Leonard Holland, reserve, in uniform. Henry Nilsen, Bob Hinman, and John Yerby, strong freshmen ends last year should prove capable reserves.

Assisting Coach Callison with spring drill is John Kitzmiller, backfield coach, Gene Shields, line coach, and two former University stars now famed in the professional ranks, Bree Cuppoletti and Alex Eagle.

FACULTY

FACULTY AUTHORS

Diverse Works Published

University faculty members continue to turn out significant writings based on special studies made by them in diametrically differing fields of science, law, language and literature.

Oregon's law school dean, Wayne L. Morse, and former under-secretary of state, Raymond Moley, now editor of Today, are collaborating in a study of the grand jury system and other phases of criminal procedure, and will publish a volume entitled "A Critique of the Methods of Initiating Criminal Prosecution." The studies of Dean Morse are nationally recognized as the most authoritative in the field.

Solomon Katz, assistant professor of Greek, has written a book dealing with Visigothic Spain and Frankish Gaul, which will be published by the Medieval Academy during March. The book is a social and economic history of the early middle ages from the years 400 to 850 A.D. The author did most of his research in libraries of France and Germany. Last year he did archaeological work in Greece and Asia Minor.

An essay entitled "The Political Philosophy of Hegel in a Frontier Society," written by Dr. H. G. Townsend, professor of philosophy, is included in a volume "William Torrey Harris," recently published. The volume commemorates the 100th anniversary of Dr. Harris, a noted philosopher.

Bossing's Book Favored

Dr. Nelson L. Bossing's recent textbook, "Progressive Methods of Teaching in Secondary Schools," has been placed on a preferential reading list of educational books by the National Educational Association and the American Library Association. The book was one of 60 to be selected from about 700 available. More than 8,000 copies

¶ A textbook, "Union-Management Cooperation of Railroads," written by Louis A. Wood, professor of economics at the University, has been selected by the Tennessee Valley Authority as the basis for labor management in the huge federal project. Although the book deals chiefly with railroad labor problems, the labor program outlined is applicable to other forms of industrial enterprise, according to the author.

KEEPS MOTORS CLEANER..HAS LONGER LUBRICATING LIFE

Made by the Propane-Solvent Process

TRITON does everything any fine motor oil can do to protect your motor—and in addition gives you a plus feature found in no other oil.

It keeps your motor cleaner—prevents the accumulation of carbon that causes the motor to knock.

Triton is so pure, due to the Propane-Solvent process by which it is refined, that it forms almost no carbon in the combustion chamber. Previous carbon deposits burn, peel off and blow out the exhaust as you drive.

Tests have proved that a new car run with Triton will never develop enough carbon to cause knocking with any grade of gasoline that was satisfactory at the start.

No wonder so many new car dealers, fleet operators, mechanics and other experts are enthusiastic about Triton.

Use Triton in your own car. Note how it smooths out your motor in a few thousand miles—improves your gasoline and oil mileage and reduces operating costs. It costs only 30c a quart in sealed cans. (35c in Nevada, Arizona and New Mexico.)

The meeting was sponsored by the Multnomah county legion posts and state and city officials and veterans were in attendance. Koehn took as his subject, "The Legion's Pledge to Community, State, and Nation."

The Oregon State Relief Committee and the University Department of Sociology are expecting much valuable material from their survey of the amount of money spent and the number of people assisted throughout the various counties of Oregon. Children's aid, care of the poor, indigents, are some of the topics considered by the corps of WPA workers under Dr. P. A. Parsons, University professor in sociology. At the head of the survey is Clarence W. Reynolds, who is state director of transient relief work in Oregon.

George E. and Harry B. Murphy, manufacturers of spars for ships, made the spars for the ship, Bounty, in "Mutiny on the Bounty," popular film. They also made the spars for the yachts of J. P. Morgan and Edsel Ford. Their brother, Dr. William P. Murphy, Nobel and Cameron (Edinburgh) prize winner, visited in Portland the past summer.

In 1837 Jean Baptiste Sauve managed the first dairy on Wappato Island, in the Columbia river between Vancouver and Portland. It was a successful and extensive enterprise. Now the island bears the name of its first dairyman. Today an eighty acre, model dairy farm is located on Sauve's Island, a hobby, but a profitable one, for Francis A. "Frank" McMenamin, LL.B. '15, Portland attorney. Where once a little schooner made regular trips twice a week from the Island to Fort Vancouver, the McMenamin family (there are eleven children) spends week ends and summers there. Last summer, when the latest, most scientific milking machinery was just installed, Francis, fourteen, and a sophomore at Columbia University prep school, managed the herd of one hundred dairy cows alone with one helper. Wappato Island was so named by Captain Clarke on an expedition in November, 1805, because of the abundance of Wappato root, similar in size and nutrition to the potato, very palatable. The white man adventurers followed the Indians in using it for food. To achieve diversity in farming, the McMenamins raise excellent potatoes for Portland's markets. In town Mr. McMenamin is assisted in his law offices in the Guardian Building by his two eldest daughters, Justine and Virginia, who are most efficient secretaries, declares their father. Portland alumni will remember Justine as one of the pretty royal princesses at the Mt. Hood winter sports carnival this winter. Youngest of the family and not yet interested in farming, is Milton J., about five months old.

Marsh H. Goodwin, Eugene agent of the Aetna Life Insurance company, has been advanced by the company to the position of district agent for Lane, Linn and Benton counties.

1916

Marvin B. Kincaid, LL.B. '16, sends his mailing address as 6538 Jefferson Street, Kansas City, Missouri. He is sales manager for the Simmons Company in the Kansas City district. His two sons, Marvin and Rodney, are seven and three years old respectively.

Mrs. Thursa E. Minturn, wife of Charles H. Minturn, ex-'16, died at her home at 1799 Columbia Street, Eugene, after an illness of five years. Surviving are her widower and two step-sons, Lawrence A. Minturn and Rae W. Minturn. She also leaves a sister and three brothers.

After an absence of six years, Elmer R. Spencer, ex-'16, has returned to the Portland office of Blyth and Company, Inc., investment bankers.

Mrs. Emily Green Burgard, wife of John Clark Burgard, died at her home at The Highlands, Seattle, Washington, on February 16. Mr. Burgard, who formerly lived in Portland, is assistant vice-president of the Pacific National Bank, Seattle.

Martel I. Mickey, ex-'16, is now employed in the County Surveyor's office, in Los Angeles, as a civil engineering draftsman.

1917

James M. Scudder did a bit of travelling before settling down in Portland to the law business. Born in Hong Kong, he attended school in Shanghai, and later was graduated with a B.A. degree from South Melbourne College, Melbourne, Australia. He is associated with the "Oregon Legionnaire" for which he has acted as a director on the board and as attorney.

Fred A. Rasch, LL.B. '17, of Washington, D. C., died suddenly of heart disease while ill with pneumonia, on March 4. Mr. Rasch was for many years with the Oregon Public Service Commission, later going to Washington as an examiner for the interstate commerce commission. He recently joined the NRA. Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Harriet Kinsey Rasch, a son, Richard K. Rasch, and his mother and two brothers who live in Portland.

Mr. Robert L. Sabin, Jr., and his wife, of Portland, are being welcomed home, following nearly a month's absence in California.

1918

Jeannette Calkins, for the past three years editor of the Oregon Clubwoman, the publication of the Oregon Federation of Women's Clubs, has been named chairman of the club publications for the General Federation of Women's Clubs, the national and international group for women's clubs. In her new work, Miss Calkins will have as her principal duty the supervision of all state federation magazines and bulletins. She is one of three division chairmen serving with Mrs. J. Henry Highsmith of North Carolina who heads the department of press and publicity. Miss Calkins was alumni secretary of the University for eight years and editor of Old Oregon.

Dr. Marvin S. Pittman, M.A. '18, is president of South Georgia Teachers' College. Dr. Pittman was formerly on the Normal School staff at Monmouth. He received his Ph.D. from Columbia University.

John H. Dundore of 2936 S. E. Taylor Street, Portland, died March 22. He is survived by Charles Harold Dundore, of Piedmont, California, and John George Dundore, '21, of Portland, sons; Catherine Ruth Dundore, '30, and Frances Dorothy Dundore, '30, daughters; and wife Georgia.

The school libraries of Portland include libraries in nine city high schools, forty-eight platoon schools, and the central headquarters on the third floor of the library building. In charge of all in this school group is Evelyn Foster.

Sophus Keith Winther, '18, M.A. '22, professor of English at the University of Washington, is the author of the book "Take All to Nebraska" recently published by the MacMillan company.

1919

Mrs. Lucile Saunders McDonald, ex-'19, of Seattle, ex-Oregonian reporter, recently sold her first book to Thomas Y. Crowell Company, New York publishers. It is a book of historical adventures in the discovery of spices and is written for children. Its publication is announced for late spring or summer. Lucile is in real life Mrs. H. D. McDonald. She has a husband and young son. She at one time worked for the U. P. in Buenos Aires and was correspondent for a number of years in Turkey for the New York Times.

Robert J. Scearce, ex-'19, former manager of the Hillsboro branch of the First National Bank of Portland, has been promoted to the position of manager of that institution's Rose City branch.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyde Thompson (Lucile Hester Hurd) and children are living at 1570 Market Street, in Salem.

1920

Joe Scaife, ex-'20, lives at 26 Alamitos Street, in Long Beach, California. He is a shipping clerk for the Matson Navigation Company in Wilmington.

1921

James K. Cossmann, who for the past three years has been coach at Santa Monica Junior College, has been named director of athletics at the same school. Before coming to the Santa Monica school, Mr. Cossmann was athletic coach at Ventura, California. His brother, Leo H. Cossmann, '21, is a teacher and coach at Woodland, California. Both are the sons of John H. Cossmann, known to many generations of students as campus night watchman.

Dr. Wilbur S. Hulin, professor of psychology at Princeton University, Princeton, New Jersey, has accepted an invitation to become head of the psychology department at Occidental College, Los Angeles, California. Dr. Hulin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester G. Hulin, Eugene.

Mr. and Mrs. Hollis E. Johnston (Minnie Klumpp) both ex-'21, live in Portland. He is in charge of the architectural division for the Bonneville dam project. His office is at 633 Pittock Block.

What the NRA has failed to accomplish through compulsion, the National Cloak and Suit Industries Recovery group is carrying out in the women's silk and woolen garment industry by voluntary code acceptance. Abe E. Rosenberg, Portland attorney, is Pacific Coast Regional director for this group which controls the women's coat and suit (and silk dresses) output for the country and does an annual business of $200,000,000 in so doing. The little printed labels, bearing the code name, are symbolic of the conditions under which the garment was manufactured, which include elimination of child labor and sweat shops, workers employed thirty-five hours a week, five days a week and seven hours a day (Saturday and Sunday off) at a wage scale with a minimum wage higher than any other wage paid in the needle industries. The code brings about fair trade practices, Mr. Rosenberg explained, that have eliminated abuses and saved large sums of money to the industry which can be passed out to labor without increasing cost of the garment to the consumer. The voluntary code agreements were made possible due to a ninety-eight per cent union organization, Mr. Rosenberg holds. Under the NRA, Mr. Rosenberg was attorney for all markets in the suit and cloak lines from Cleveland west.

1922

Dessell Johnson, ex-'22, is employed as assistant bookkeeper for the Dairy Cooperative Association, in Portland. She has held the position for the past four and one half years. Her home address is 2905 Northeast Jarrett Street.

Mrs. Maude McKinney Mochel has been named public librarian at Woodburn succeeding Mrs. Katherine Powell who resigned March 1.

1923

Irving Wieder, ex-'23, is office manager of Alderwood Knitting Mills, 1166 Northeast Thirty-first Street, Portland.

Bernard N. Kline of Portland died March 8. He is survived by his widow, Helen Bromberg Kline.

A daughter, Louise, was born, on February 7, to Mr. and Mrs. Newton Langerman, of 1535 Southwest Clifton, Portland.

Ralph P. Doddridge gives his occupation as financial statement analysis—Dow Jones and Company—The Wall Street Journal. His business address is 44 Broad Street, New York City.

Robert G. Tapp is teaching in the high school at Madras, Oregon.

1924

Arthur S. Rudd has been in charge of the $600,000 underwriting of "America Speaks—the National Weekly Poll of Public Opinion," hailed by many of the leading newspapermen of the nation as the most important journalistic enterprise of the decade. Rudd was chosen from a list of newspaper syndicate sales managers to handle this work. Dr. George Gallup, head of the American Institute of Public Opinion, made the choice, which resulted in giving Publishers Syndicate, of which Rudd is sales-manager, underwriting privileges on the poll. Approximately seventy newspapers have been lined up to date. The sales job on this project set a new high for syndicate selling as no other syndicate feature ever was started with a $600,000 billing. Dr. Gallup polls the nation each week, using 100,000 to 200,000 ballots, sent out to a cross section of the voters. The results of these polls appear in the Sunday editions of the seventy client newspapers. While at Oregon, Rudd was editor of the Oregon Daily Emerald. Through frequent trips to the coast he has kept in touch with the local situation and maintains financial control of Ruddwood, Inc., a real estate holding company of Portland, which is managed by Donald Woodward, '25, who succeeded Rudd as editor of the Emerald.

Featuring Current Advertisements From Your Alumni Magazine

MEET YOURSELF MR. AVERAGE GRADUATE

You are 36 years old and the chances are two to three that you are married and have two children, one of whom is in a private school. Your present annual income exceeds $4,000 and you carry $15,729 life insurance. You own your own home which probably contains a Hoover vacuum cleaner, Steinway piano, and a set of Gorham silverware.

You own a car and a half—probably a Chevrolet. You smoke Chesterfield cigarettes, Van Dyck cigars and a Dunhill pipe. You wear a Stetson hat, Arrow shirts and collars, Paris garters and a Hickok belt. You brush your teeth with Ipana, and shave with a Gillette razor, using Prokect blades and Williams Cream.

You are one of 512,235 college graduates who have been regularly reading their graduate magazines since leaving college fourteen years ago. Forty thousand of your classmates and friends have written to The Graduate Group giving us the information on which we have based this composite picture.

Please use the enclosed questionnaire to add your stroke to the sketch now being made of MR. AVERAGE GRADUATE for 1936. (See back cover of this Guide.)

If you are one of the 8,000 graduates engaged in advertising, and would like further details regarding these surveys, write on your business stationery directly to:

THIS is where you'll find plenty of real adventure to satisfy that wandering heart of yours. The weirdness of the Midnight Sun. The longest, most scenic mountain-guarded sea lane in the world. Deep-walled fjords. Mightiest of roaring glaciers. Myriads of wild flowers. Greatest mountains on the continent. This is the sort of spectacular adventure Alaska holds for you.

One day you call at huge glaciers, other days you sail into fascinating ports...totem-guarded villages, historic Russian trading posts, gold-rush towns. There are days for fun or for being just lazy, when you throw off the cloak of routine on these comfortable Alaska Line ships, and on interesting tours to fascinating Interior Alaska where you see Mt. McKinley, Matanuska, and gold mining. Truly, Alaska offers a really "big" vacation, and for so moderate an amount.

May to September is the time to pick-up, pack-up and bring the family to Alaska. Sheltered Seas begin at Pier Two in Seattle. See your Travel Agent and mail the coupon below for Alaska vacation literature.
