NEWS AND COMMENT

By The Editor

THE first inkling of what can be expected in the way of reorganization of student body and student activity affairs was gleaned last week when

New Activity Program Under Way

President Boyer announced the skeleton of a plan of reorganization. In effect the new plan calls for the complete separation of athletic and non-athletic activities, each to be under separate faculty committees and each to be under the more direct supervision of individual "directors." It has been pointed out that in this way athletics will have the complete attention of a full time manager who will devote all his efforts toward maintaining and building the athletic program. Likewise, the director of the "educational" activities will be free of the distractions of athletic administration and able to devote all his energies to the improvement of the non-athletic program and its varied educational features.

According to Dr. Boyer's announcement, the athletic board will be composed of five faculty members, two students and three alumni. No indication as to whom would be appointed to this board was given, nor whom might be named to the directorship, although it is understood that that position will not be filled until the board has met and conferred with Dr. Boyer over the applicants for the position.

The educational activity board will be composed of five faculty members. Operating under this board will be five sub-councils, with faculty, alumni and student representation. These councils will act in an advisory capacity to the activity board. The four divisions to be represented by these sub-councils will be: publications, student welfare, drama and forensics, and music.

The distinctive feature of the new plan as compared with the present student body corporation plan of administration is the centralization of final authority with the faculty and the president. This was deemed necessary in order to furnish a solid administrative footing from which refinancing of the complete program for next year's program can start. It has been pointed out, however, that student initiative and student responsibility will not be minimized.

At the present writing the plan has not as yet been presented to the state board of higher education for final approval. However, since the plan as outlined does not contemplate, for the time being at least, any attempt to levy a uniform fee, it is believed that there will be few objections from that quarter. The optional fee will undoubtedly be continued next year on a split-card basis, with separate optional athletic and activity tickets available to the students.

In general the new plan follows closely plans now in effect at many another institution, with the possible exception of the optional activity card, which is not, at least in the case of the educational activities, an optional matter at most institutions.

IN general the new plan will go a long way toward solving the perplexing problems that have confronted the student body government since the attorney-general's opinion that threw out the uniform membership fee and forced the student body to operate on an optional membership basis.

Dr. Boyer's plan was announced just a few days prior to the student body elections. In haste, student body officers drew up a tentative and new constitution providing for the transition next fall. It will take more than the bare outline of a program and a new and elastic constitution, however, to place the athletic and activity programs back on a smoothly functioning basis. Tolerance of student desires for self-government and considerable "say" in their own affairs will be required of the faculty, and students will have to understand the necessity for faculty administration in a situation as muddled and complex as at present. Alumni, likewise will have to be understanding of the problems of reorganization and helpful rather than critical in their attitude toward the program.

It is to be earnestly hoped that eventually the responsibilities for the activity program, at least, can be turned back to the students almost in their entirety. In the meantime, the University administration is the logical place through which to straighten out the problems of new forms of finance and to make the general adjustments that will be necessary.

ONE of the most worthwhile and constructive campaigns that has featured activity centering around the University in recent years has been the campaign for funds

Library Drive to furnish the browsing room of the new University library, Is Worthy Enterprise now well on its way toward completion on the south campus.

Response to this enterprise has been generous and enthusiastic. In a recent drive for funds among the faculty, the quota was oversubscribed almost before the drive started. Similar response has been met everywhere by Mrs. George T. Gerlinger, chairman, and her many active and enthusiastic committee workers throughout the state.

No project could be of more actual and direct benefit to the University than this one. The new browsing room will be a quiet reading room, furnished for comfort and utility rather than show, where students may lounge among books and amid surroundings that will encourage reading for pleasure.

Alumni who have not already done so are urged, if they can, to aid in this worthy enterprise. It has been estimated that from $10,000 to $15,000 will be required. Donors may indicate for what purpose they wish their contribution to be used, or they may donate to the unrestricted fund which will be used for the purchase of books or other needed furniture and fixtures. selves to enter the University and study architecture or one or more of the several branches of art. Prof. W. R. B. Willcox, of the Oregon art-architecture faculty, who has been in charge of the Carnegie courses from the start, will direct them again this year.

Dr. Eugen Gustav Steinhof, director of the National Institute of Decorative Art, Vienna, will be on the art faculty at Eugene again, continuing work given in previous sessions on the psychology and trends of art teaching.

Another outstanding feature of the art offerings will be some new courses by Prof. Lance Hart in the history of painting and in applied design.

Child Clinics Offered

Though I'm not a teacher (continued the Old Summer Sessioner), I can't help being interested in that clinical school for children hampered by certain psychological or achievement difficulties. This school serves the double purpose of putting in condition to do school work a selected group of 20 or 30 youngsters who otherwise would be unable to master the tools and techniques of learning, and at the same time showing a class of interested teachers how they can do this remedial work in their own schools. Dr. B. W. DeBusk, professor of education; Miss Lillian Rayner, of the Los Angeles public school system, and Dr. Elizabeth Montgomery, specialist in remedial work, who have handled this training in previous years, will be back this summer. I've heard this remedial work praised by the rank

SUMMER SCHOOL

PORTLAND, EUGENE

Old Sessioner Speaks

Yes, Bill; I'm going to Summer Session again this year. (It was the Old Summer Sessioner speaking—an Old Summer Sessioner being someone who has attended more than three sessions.)

Portland or Eugene? Oh, I'm not sure yet. Let me do a little thinking out loud—the Old Summer Sessioner still speaking. I have attended both sessions; both are good.

So you're thinking of going too, eh, Bill? Well, we'll just think along together; get the facts assembled today, and the decision can just drift along naturally, just as we feel about it.

First, the dates. Portland will open June 15, a week earlier than the campus session; but there is a week off during the session to allow the many teachers in attendance to take in the various big features of the National Education association, which meets in Portland again this year, for the first time since 1919. Both sessions will end July 31; and the Post Session, on the Eugene campus, will begin its month's work Monday, August 3.

Art Courses Planned

This will be the seventh year of the special series of courses selected particularly for teachers of art in the public schools. For six years, under the special grant of the Carnegie Corporation, the education committee of the American Institute of Architects has chosen Oregon in the west and Harvard in the east as the institution where this special training would be financed. The courses in art and architecture as a whole, given at Eugene, will be chosen to meet the needs of these specially selected teachers and at the same time those of students interested in the various art techniques or in preparing them-and file of citizens off campus more than anything else done at the University. Here is a tremendous saving of human material.

Library Courses

Another campus feature will be the library school in which Miss Jessie Boyd, librarian of the Fremont high school, Oakland, and staff member of the school of librarianship of the University of California, will give courses.

You'd be interested, Bill (continued the Old Summer Sessioner) in the coaching school to be given on the Eugene campus this year by the head coaches of all of the University of Oregon's major sports. Yes, Hayward, Callison, and Hobson will all be here, so Dr. Dan E. Clark, director of the campus session, tells me.

There'll be courses on the campus in all the professional schools as well as in almost all of the principal courses in the college of arts and sciences and the college of social science.

The personnel will be strong, as ever. Some of the faculty folk coming from a distance are Prof. H. G. Merriam, chairman of the English department at the University of Montana, who is well remembered in Oregon as a former member of the Reed College faculty and widely known as editor of the Frontier and Midland magazine; Dr. George C. Fracker, professor of education in the College of Wooster (Ohio); and Dr. E. A. Taylor, professor of sociology at Ohio University.

Convention Attracts

Now, as I have said (continued the Old Summer Sessioner), the National Education Association convention will supply the largest extra-curricular activity at the Portland session. Several other features are arranged, definitely or tentatively. The summer school for writers, which was such an interesting activity of the Portland session last year, is scheduled this year for the week of July 6. All phases of poetry and fiction writing will be considered.

A nationwide conference of elementary school principals is on the agenda for Portland, but arrangements are still to be completed.

There is, of course, the platoon demonstration school as a big educational feature of the Portland session; this is of particular interest to public school teachers. Portland's success with the platoon system is widely recognized.

Portland Faculty Eminent

Portland again has some pre-eminent educators as members of its summer faculty. Dr. Ernest Sutherland Bates,

RETURNS FOR SESSION
Eugen Gustav Steinhof, director of National School of Decorative Art, Vienna, who will return to the summer sessions for third successive year.

noted critic and writer of New York, who formerly was a member of the Oregon faculty in English and philosophy, will be back this year.

Dr. Charles N. Reynolds, professor of sociology at Stanford and an old Portland resident and Oregon alumnus, will give courses in Portland again.

Dr. Jiro Harada, curator of the imperial museums at Tokyo, who taught on the Eugene campus two terms of the present year and completed the year at the University of California, will be a member of the Portland faculty.

Other noted educators scheduled to teach in the Portland session are:

Dr. Jay C. Knode, professor of philosophy and education in the University of New Mexico, who was a member of the Portland faculty in 1934;

Dr. S. Kerby-Miffler, Oregon alumnus and Rhodes scholar, now professor of philosophy in Reed College;

Dr. Dorothy Reed, Portland woman, now professor of sociology in Principia College, Illinois;

Dr. Leonidas Dodson, professor of history in the University of Pennsylvania;

Dr. Oscar O. Winther, Oregon graduate, now on the Stanford history faculty;

Bruce G. Kingsley, organist and musical lecturer, of Los Angeles;

Miss Janet Wood, of the physical education staff of Arizona State Teachers' College;

Dr. Robert Gatke, professor of political science at Willamette;

Dr. James P. Porter, professor of psychology at Ohio University.

Recreational Facilities Many

Dean Alfred Powers will be in charge of all the Summer Sessions, with Dr. Dan E. Clark resident director at Eugene. Both directors emphasize that there will be no shortage of recreational facilities either in Portland or Eugene. Each session has a complete program.

The only session which will be comparatively short of a recreation program will be the Post Session at Eugene, which is attended by a flock of gluttons for punishment who want nothing else than an opportunity to work, the harder the better, for a month.

Well, concluded the Old Summer Sessioner, what do you think, Bill?

Bill speaking: I don't know whether I can go to Post Session or not. But I'm going to the Portland session—or else, the Eugene one.

COMMENCEMENT

Spaeth Named Speaker

Dr. J. Duncan Spaeth, long-time professor of English at Princeton university, and recently elected president of the University of Kansas City, will deliver the 1936 commencement address before University of Oregon graduates Monday evening, June 1, and Bishop Edwin V. O'Hara, Great Falls, Montana, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon Sunday, May 31, it has been announced by Dr. James H. Gilbert, dean of the college of social science and chairman of the commencement program.

Both speakers are national figures and are regarded as outstanding speakers. Dr. Spaeth will talk on "Training for Freedom," while Bishop O'Hara has chosen "The More Excellent Way" for his topic. Exercises will be held in McArthur Court.

Well Known Scholar

Dr. Spaeth is one of the best known scholars of historical English literature and is a recognized authority on Shakespeare. He has been a colorful and picturesque figure on the Princeton faculty for many years. The commencement speaker is well known in Oregon. He taught in summer school for seven years, and in 1927 delivered an outstanding, dynamic address before the graduating class. Bishop O'Hara served as pastor of St. Mary's church in Eugene from 1905 to 1928.

Weekend Plans Set

Campus traditions, such as duckings in the fountain, the frosh-soph tug of war over the millrace, the painting of the O by first year men, and the ban on white shoes and neckties, will draw the interest of the hundreds of Oregon mothers and visiting alumni expected on the campus May 8, 9 and 10 for the combined Mother's day-Junior Weekend activities.

Famed for its rich pageantry, the 1936 "Stardust" canoe fete will drift down the millrace the evening of May 9 before several thousand spectators. The annual Junior Prom is scheduled for Friday, May 8, at McArthur Court.

A mass meeting at which mothers will voice their views on policies of the university will be held by the mothers Saturday afternoon. New officers will also be elected. The annual banquet will be held Saturday evening before the canoe fete.

ASUO Elections Held

Fred Hammond, pre-legal student from Portland, was elected student body president of the Associated Student body at elections held last week, defeating Craig Finley, also of Portland, 431 to 368.

Gilbert Schultz, Forest Grove, vanquished Cecil Barker, Myrtle Point, for the vice-presidency. Grace Peck, Astoria, was elected secretary over Jean Stevenson, Portland. Jim Hurd, Honolulu, Hawaii, dropped Walter Eschebeck, Malin, for senior man and Pearl Johansen, Portland, eked a three-point win over Margery Kissling, Salem. Bill Pease, Portland, won the office of junior finance officer, defeating Charles Erwin, Pendleton.

Dave Morris, Eugene, was elected president of the senior class over Dave Lowry, Medford, by a two-point margin, 49 to 47. Margilee Morse, Eugene, was named vice-president; Betty Coon, Portland, secretary; and Jay Bailey, Portland, treasurer.

Noel Benson, Medford, and Harry Weston, Portland, were unanimously elected presidents of the junior and sophomore classes. Other junior class officers who won at the polls: Vivian Emery, Portland, vice-president; Bayle Buchanan, Eugene, secretary; and Don Johnson, Portland, treasurer. Named sophomore vice-president was Betty Funkhauser, Astoria; secretary, Margaret Goldsmith, Klamath Falls; and treasurer, Jack Lochridge, Long Beach, California. A complete new constitution for the Associated Student body, providing latitude for contemplated reorganization of student activities next fall, was approved by a landslide vote, 750 to 25.

Matrix Table Scheduled

Theta Sigma Phi, women's journalism honorary, has announced May 14 as the date for its annual Matrix Table banquet. More than 300 invitations have been issued to prominent women journalists throughout the state. Officers of the organization have announced that Miss Velma Farnham, '26, prominent journalism graduate and now a member of the advertising staff of the Meier and Frank store in Portland, will be the principal speaker. Miss Farnham has until recently been in active journalistic work in New York city, and has traveled extensively in Europe.

Men's Group Tops List

Alpha Hall, men's dormitory unit, topped the University grade sheet for winter term with an average of 2.848. Alpha Xi Delta took second place in the listing and headed all women's organizations. Delta Upsilon, in tenth place, paced the campus fraternities.

The list follows, with the organizations placed according to positions earned:

Women Start Cooperative

A second co-operative student living house opened on the University campus at the start of the winter term when a group of 14 women students opened their quarters at Fourteenth and University streets. A co-operative house for men students has been operating at Thirteenth and Hilyard streets since the opening of the school year in the fall. The girls do the work at the house on a co-operative basis and through the co-operative plan are enabled to conduct their living expenses more economically while attending the University.

Short Story Prize Winner

Marie Cavanaugh, sophomore in journalism, has been awarded the first prize of $50 in the Edison Marshall short story contest for her story, "September Love."

Those awarded honorable mention were Virginia Scoville, junior in journalism, and Clark Spurlock, sophomore in social science.

Nineteen manuscripts were entered in the contest, which is the twentieth of its kind sponsored by Edison Marshall, ex-'17, one of the foremost writers of fiction in the United States.

Judges in the contest were Mrs. Clara Fitch, secretary to the dean of the graduate school; Kenneth Shumaker, supervisor of the English bureau; and Victor Kaufman, ex-'32, a professional writer of Portland.

Peace Week Observed

While college students throughout the country were participating in "peace strikes" University students were observing a full week of peace programs, including lectures by two nationally famous peace speakers.

Smedley D. Butler, retired marine corps general, spoke to an all-campus assembly April 20. His lecture attracted a crowd that overflowed the Gerlinger hall assembly. On Tuesday of "Peace Week" Frederick J. Libby, secretary of the National Council for the Prevention of War, spoke to a luncheon meeting and in the evening to a large audience in Villard hall.

Other features of the week included a model League of Nations meeting conducted by students, an open forum discussion of international affairs, and an International Ball, all-campus dance finale to the week's activities.

¶ Herbert O. Skalet and Thomas H. Tongue, law students, were awarded the $50 and $25 prizes respectively in the annual Hilton prize contest held recently on the campus.

Collier Strikes Hot One

The irony of an ice man seeking cold water by drilling a well and striking instead an artesian well flowing plenty of hot water was the experience of "Andy" Collier, ice man, banker, chamber of commerce official, and all-around booster for Klamath Falls and Southern Oregon.

Andrew M. Collier, '13, in charge of an ice plant at Klamath and Chiloquin, drilled a deep well for a water supply. The hole got hotter with depth and at 550 feet struck a hot water flow that rose to the surface. With characteristic resourcefulness Collier will realize on his $700 investment by using the water for heating purposes, saving a fuel bill of $2.50 a day.

INK DRAWING

Interesting to children as well as grown ups is this imaginative ink drawing by Constance Cole, ex-'25, at U.A.A.L. exhibit.

Stiewer Named Keynoter

Senator Frederick Steiwer, '06, who was named No. 1 alumnus of the University for 1935 at the Founders' Day banquet held in Portland last October, has been chosen keynoter and temporary chairman of the republican national convention to be held in Cleveland, Ohio, June 9. The choice was made by the republican national committee.

¶ Several ex-students and graduates of the University of Oregon are engaged in geological work on the Willamette valley flood control project under the direction of William E. McKittrick, '32. Those employed are Frederick J. Hoffstaed, '35, Allen Griggs, '32, Lamont Stone, ex-'28, Robert L. Gamer, ex-'33, Howard Stafford, B.A. '31, M.A. '35, Aubrey Walker, '29 and Harry T. McCallum, ex-'35.

Allen Has Band

Kenneth Allen, ex-'31, well-known by NBC radio listeners, is now a maestro. His orchestra, formerly Jimmy Diericks' band, is playing a month's engagement at the Multnomah hotel in Portland and broadcasts the "Blue Flame Revue" heard weekly over KEX. Mr. Allen has been the featured tenor with such famous bands as Ted Fiorita and Jimmy Grier.

Mr. Allen gave up the singing profession as a livelihood for about three years while he was manager of a fruit and nut packing plant at Newberg.

BASEBALL

Oregon Wins Opener

An exciting eighth inning rally, after trailing Oregon State two runs brought a conference opening win to Howard Hobson's Webfoots at Corvallis April 25, after the two teams had been rained out of their scheduled opener at Eugene the day previous.

Andy Hurney, veteran home-run king from last year chalked up his second of the season by pounding in two runs ahead of himself after a double by McLean, center fielder, had scored the first run of the spree. An unsuccessful rally in the last half of the ninth brought the Beavers within one point of tying the score, but a weak grounder by a pinch hitter ended the game. McFadden allowed six hits, while Johnson, Stater chucker, allowed only four. But Oregon was successful in bunching three hits all in one inning.

The postponed game of the previous day will take place on May 25 in the form of a double header on Howe Field in Eugene.

Split Pre-Season Games

Out of eight pre-season games, Hobson's crew was successful in winning just half. The most disastrous series was with Willamette in which Oregon won the first, 11 to 2, but lost the remaining three, 5 to 2, 4 to 2, and 9 to 8. Oregon split evenly with Linfield, losing at home 11 to 6, but winning at McMinnville, 5 to 2. Another two game series, with Oregon Normal school, netted two wins, 6 to 1 and 5 to 0.

It's "Howe Field" Now

Herbert Crombie Howe Field—for short, Howe Field—is the official name of the one-year-old University of Oregon baseball diamond south of McArthur Court. Last week, when Oregon State and Oregon baseball teams were slated to take the diamond for the opening tilt of the 1936 northern division pennant chase, the field was christened.

Professor H. C. Howe, of the University of Oregon department of English, in whose honor the field was officially named, has been the Oregon Pacific coast conference representative since the formation of the conference 21 years ago. He has taught at the university since 1901, and, in 1912, was named chairman of the faculty athletic committee. During the entire three and one-half decades he has been at Oregon he has been active in athletic activities.

More than 1000 Eugene and Lane county baseball fans braved threatening skies for the opener, only to be given rain checks following the official dedication ceremonies. The field has been unofficially called "Anonymous" Field for the past year.

TRACK

Relays Won, 7 to 3

Bill Hayward's smart stepping 1936 track squad opened its season auspiciously April 25 in the revived annual relay meet with Oregon State, taking seven of the ten events and chalking up three new meet records.

The University of Portland, slated to take part in six of the ten events, entered only the two-mile relay and gained a second place over Oregon State as a Webfoot team swept to a new record. Oregon State smashed existing records in the four-mile relay and established a new one in the newly-introduced high jump relay.

Oregon teams set new marks in the two-mile, shot put and mile relays. All of the races were won by wide margins, with the field events providing the only close competition.

The Webfoots opened the record-breaking spree when the two-mile relay team, composed of Sam McGaughey, Ken Miller, Aiton Kropp and Captain George Scharpf, finished 120 yards ahead of the field in 7:52.8. Portland took second place, ten yards in front of Oregon State's quartet. The former record was 8:01.2, set by Oregon State in 1932.

Shotput Mark Falls

The second mark to go by the boards was the shot put relay, where Bill Fosskett, Chan Berry, Dutch Holland and Joe Houston heaved the 16-pound ball for a total distance of 171 feet 8 inches. The former record was 171 feet 5½ inches, set by an Oregon team in 1929, last year the event was held.

Oregon State caught the mark-smashing fever in the next event, the four mile relay, and lopped nine full seconds off the record of 18:28 minutes, set by O. S. C. in 1930. The new record holders are Rands, Shephard, Guggisberg and Clasper. The Beavers finished more than 200 yards ahead of Oregon's anchor man.

The final mark to fall was the mile relay, only original record left on the books. Bill Hayward's finely balanced team of Jim McDonald, Short Freeman, Barney Hall and Howie Patterson breezed four laps around the Hayward field oval in 3:23.4, sixty yards ahead of Oregon State's quartet. The old record was 3:24 flat, set by the Oregon team of McKinnon, Standard, McCarthy and Rutherford in 1928, first year the meet was held.

MARVIN JANAK, HIGH JUMPER, POLE VAULTER

Frosh Tracksters Win

In their first competition of the season, freshmen trackmen romped to victory over three high school opponents taking ten of thirteen listed events.

Bill Hayward's Ducklings piled up a total of 86½ points as against 25½ for Corvallis high school, its closest competitor. Eugene and University high schools were the other two entrants in the meet, scoring 21 and 18 points respectively. Bill Blackledge, Corvallis star, accounted for all three firsts not taken by the Frosh. These were in the shotput, discus and 120-yard high hurdle events.

Hayward's quartet of former high school stars paced the field in seven events. Jack Berry took the 100-yard dash; Don Barker won the mile and the 880-yard run. Ben Marty placed first in the high jump and broad jump, and Hansen took first in the pole vault. Ed Burkett won the 440-yard dash, Stan Carlson the 220-yard dash and Harry Adams the javelin throw. The frosh relay team of Marty, Carlson, Vaughn and Berry accounted for the tenth first place.

TENNIS

Reed, ONS Defeated

Oregon's varsity tennis team has hung up two wins, against Reed College and Oregon Normal school, and suffered one defeat, against Leader Tennis shop of Portland, in competition so far this season.

Both of the victories were taken by 7 to 0 scores. Leader's shop won its matches 6 to 3. Cosgrove LaBarre, John Economus and Norm Winslow have proved themselves on Coach Paul Washke's 1936 squad. All three are veterans from last year. Promising sophomores from last year's frosh squad include William Zimmerman, George Wilson, Larry Crane, Charles Eaton and Jack Stafford.

Title Defense Progresses

Oregon marched on toward its second successive northwest golf crown during April by twice defeating the University of Washington, 21 to 6 on April 11 and 14 to 13 on April 25. The day previous to the last Husky encounter, Coach Tom Stoddard's team defeated the College of Puget Sound 22½ to 4½.

Sid Milligan and Bob Prescott have each distinguished themselves in conference play this season with 72 scores.

Frosh Have Bad Start

It took John Warren's freshman baseball team three starts in pre-season encounters to finally break into the win column. After losing to Grant high of Portland 4 to 2 in a 12-inning game, and 12 to 9 the next day in Portland, and 8 to 5 against Milwaukie high on April 11, the Frosh finally buckled down to business and turned the tables on Milwaukie to the tune of 13 to 4.

Featured by loose fielding, the Frosh seemed unable to play consistently enough to bunch their superior hitting for needed scores. However, in the last Milwaukie game they appeared to have found their stride and Nicholson, Irwin, Smith and Mullen each pounded out three hits. The pitching of Bill Sayles, former Washington high school star, has been the bright spot so far this season.

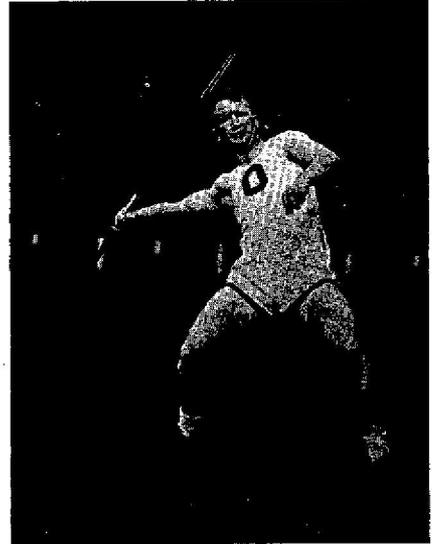

SPORT SHORTS

¶ Replacement of Stan Riordan and Jerry Donnell as kicking artists on next fall's Oregon football eleven occupied a great deal of Prink Callison's time and efforts during his intensive spring practice program. Best bets at present appear to be Dale Laselle, letterman left halfback; Dave Gammon, Tom Blackman and Jimmy Nicholson, all halfback stars from the freshmen, and Cliff (Red) Strom and Arleigh Bentley, both newcomers this spring and candidates for a fullbacking berth.

¶ Another unpleasant task facing Callison and his aides is the replacement of Winifred Pepper in the place-kicking department. Pepper, a lightweight reserve guard, sprang into prominence midway in the 1935 season and personally accounted for Oregon's 7-to-6 victory over Washington. He dropped by the wayside in his studies following last fall's season.

¶ John Lewis, basketball and baseball star, has been elected president of the Order of the "O," varsity lettermen's organization. He succeeds Harry McCall, baseball first sacker last year. Lewis beat out Del Bjork, next year's football captain, for the post. Ed Farrar, hulking first string center, was named to the vice-presidency.

¶ Spring practice for next year's basketball squad has been carried on by Coach Howard Hobson during April. All seekers after positions on the team have been reporting to Hobson for the past two weeks. Lettermen will turn out for the last of the four week session.

MEDICAL SCHOOL

Dr. Brooks Dies

Dr. Harlow Brooks, conceded by his associates to have been more in demand as a consultant than any one else engaged in the practice of medicine in the United States, died in New York City April 13.

Dr. Brooks attended the University one year and later attended the medical school in Portland. The news of his death occasioned a four column obituary in the New York Times and an editorial in the New York Herald Tribune. He was rated as one of the nation's greatest consulting physicians, and was one of the most beloved members of the profession, known throughout the nation and in the medical centers of Europe. Dr.

Brooks served in two wars, was an ardent big game hunter, an archeologist, and a musician of considerable talent. His is credited with being one of the co-discoverers of Welch's infection.

¶ Dr. Richard B. Dillehunt, dean of the medical school, has been appointed chairman of a special committee by Governor Charles H. Martin to recommend improvements to the next session of the legislature in the state's methods of caring for the insane.

Onthank Gets Call

An article written by Dean Karl W. Onthank of the personnel department on the University plan for training students through their group leaders has attracted national interest and resulted in Dean Onthank being called to the University of Minnesota to explain the plan in detail. The invitation to Dean Onthank came from Dr. Lotus D. Coffman, president of the University of Minnesota. The plan involves two courses in which student leaders are enrolled in "personnel" courses. FREE TICKET through CALIFORNIA on low Summer Fares to the East

Yes, a free ticket through California! That, literally, is what Southern Pacific gives you on reduced summer roundtrips to nearly every eastern city.

From almost any western Oregon and Washington point, you can swing down through San Francisco and Los Angeles on your way East, then circle back on your choice of northern U. S. or Canadian lines (or reverse the order), for not 1c more rail fare than the lowest roundtrip directly East and back.

Summer roundtrips are surprisingly low. For example, from Portland or Seattle to Chicago and back the fares are: $86 in standard Pullmans (plus berth), $68.80 in tourist sleeping cars (plus berth) and $57.35 in coaches or chair cars. These fares are on sale from May 15 to October 15, return limit October 31.

This Southern Pacific "go one way, return another" privilege enables you to double the variety and interest of your trip. You'll ride in deluxe, completely air-conditioned trains all the way. You'll enjoy delicious low-cost Meals Select in all dining cars; also our popular 5c and 10c Tray Service for coach and tourist car passengers.

In planning a trip to the East, California or Mexico, it will pay you to investigate what Southern Pacific has to offer. For fares and detailed information, see your local S.P. agent or write J. A. ORMANDY, General Passenger Agent, Dept. OO-4, 705 Pacific Building, Portland, Oregon.

Southern Pacific

TEXAS CENTENNIAL EXPOSITION at Dallas (June 6 to Nov. 29) and SAN DIEGO EXPOSITION, California (now until Sept. 9), are directly served by S.P. trains. Include them in your trip.
