NEWS OF THE CLASSES

1881

Colonel James H. Raley, ex-'81, died at his home in Pendleton on October 24 at the age of eighty-one years. Colonel Raley was one of the best-known lawyers in the Pacific northwest and was an ex-state legislator. He was admitted to the bar in 1893 and was for many years a law partner of United States Senator Frederick Steiwer, '06. He was active in the Indian wars of the 1870s and gained the rank of colonel as a member of the governor's staff in 1886. Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Claire Raley Mitchell, '16, of Walla Walla, Mrs. John A. Kellogg, of Bellingham, Washington, Mrs. Lester Hurst, of Pendleton, and one son, J. Roy Raley, also of Pendleton.

1886

Charles M. Smith, ex-'86, died at his home at Jefferson, Oregon, September 18. Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Fae Palmer Smith and three children, Lucile, Jean and Charles, Jr. Since 1919 Mr. Smith had owned a store in Marion and for several years had a business in Lyons. He was postmaster at Jefferson for fifteen years.

1889

Thomas C. Wheeler, ex-'89, president of the First National Bank of Cottage Grove and associated with that pioneer institution for the past thirty-three years, has disposed of his interests in the bank and resigned his position as president. He was for many years cashier of the bank and had served as president since the death of Herbert Bakin, ex-'81, early in 1935.

1890

John U. Smith, LL.B. '90, prominent politician and farmer of Yamhill county, died October 28 at his home in the West Chehalis district, near Newberg, following a heart attack suffered a few days before. Mr. Smith served as United States commissioner in Alaska during 1897-98 and in 1904 he was district attorney at Hilo, Hawaii. He received his bachelor's degree from Pacific University in 1888. Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Matilda Koontz Smith, and two daughters, Margaret, at home, and Sister Matilda Mary, M. A. '36, assistant superintendent of studies at Holy Names Academy, Spokane.

Mrs. Bertha Slater Smith of 5429 Northeast Twenty-seventh avenue, Portland, died November 3, following a year's illness. Mrs. Smith was a native of Oregon, the daughter of prominent pioneer parents, was former president of the Sons and Daughters of Oregon Pioneers, was the first woman president of the Jackson club and was otherwise prominent in Democratic circles. She was an assistant instructor in rhetoric and English literature on the campus, following her graduation, was a member of Phi Beta Kappa honorary, and later a teacher in Portland high school. She is survived by her husband, Elmer E. Smith, and five children, Laura, Vivian and Robert Smith, Portland, Mrs. Lawrence Bender, Yakima,

NEWS AND COMMENT

By The Editor

MEETING with commendation from all sources is the selection of a capable man like Elmer C. Fansett for the new alumni secretary, and also received with enthusiasm is the organization of his duties into a new three-way position.

At first thought his new position of working not only for a larger and more united alumni, but for the further establishment of the placement service and for the promotion of the interests of the associated students, seems like an extremely large job.

And it is true that his position will be a large one. But its need has long been felt. A promotional worker to establish good will towards the University has long been wanted. Mr. Fansett will be able to do just that. Every angle of his work will be driving toward the one common aim of bettering the welfare of the University.

Not only will he be working directly with and for the alumni members, both in the alumni association and helping them secure positions through the placement service, but he will always be working toward what is their ultimate aim too, namely, a greater University of Oregon.

IN his position at Pacific Mr. Fansett made a highly commendable record, and demonstrated his ability as a contact man throughout the Willamette and lower Columbia valleys. He and Mr. Cornell worked hand in hand there promoting the interests of Pacific, and will unquestionably do the same for the University.

His selection will mark the beginning of a new era for alumni affairs. It will put the alumni office on a basis of permanency with an opportunity to offer continuing service to alumni and former students of the University.

MEMBERS of the selection committee and of the new advisory board enthusiastically praise Mr. Fansett's qualifications.

FANSETT SELECTED

Elmer C. Fansett, '28, instructor in economics and finance officer at Pacific university, Forest Grove, for the past three years has been chosen from a large field of applicants and recommended for the position of Alumni Secretary and Field Representative of the Associated Student and Placement Service, it has been announced by Dean James H. Gilbert, '03, head of the alumni committee.

Mr. Fansett will take over his new duties December 15. His appointment has been approved by President Boyer and Chancellor Hunter, and will be submitted to the state board in its December meeting.

He was graduated from the business administration school with a very creditable record in 1928. He was active on the campus and a member of Theta Chi fraternity. Later he received his M.B.A. from Harvard graduate school of business.

Before coming to Pacific in 1933 Mr. Fansett taught a year in the Milwaukee, Oregon high schools, taught in the east, and worked a year for a Portland department store.

At Pacific, in addition to his regular faculty and administrative duties, he acted as head of personnel and head of the promotion department.

Mr. Fansett will be responsible to a committee of three members which will serve as an advisory body to the president of the University. These men recommended by Dean Gilbert are Lynn S. McCready, '20, Karl W. Onthank, '13, and Anse Cornell, '16, representing the alumni, the placement service, and the associated students, respectively.

With his work for these groups naturally of a promotional nature Mr. Fansett will spend a great deal of his time in the field. For the present Clair Johnson will continue to edit Old Oregon, with Woodrow Truax handling advertising.

Dean Gilbert, who headed the committee, says that Mr. Fansett made an unusually good impression upon the group, and that he is well qualified to handle the job.

Anse Cornell, athletic manager of the University, is very well acquainted with Mr. Fansett's ability through personal association, and praises him highly. "He is very energetic, the type of man who would make good on any job," Mr. Cornell said, "Also, he is well-known throughout the state already, especially in educational circles. He had a big job at Pacific, and piled up an admirable record."

Personality, Record Gets High Praise

Lynn S. McCready, representing the alumni, was equally enthusiastic about Mr. Fansett's personality and the opportunity his new position will offer the alumni organization.

"It will offer an opportunity to acquaint the alumni with the University and what it can do for them, not only on the campus, but in their home communities," Mr. McCready said, as he mentioned the probable establishment of alumni groups, and the service to be accorded through the placement bureau. "Through Mr. Fansett, alumni will really have a chance to know what is going on at the University," he continued.

Dean Karl W. Onthank joined in welcoming and acclaiming Mr. Fansett. Mentioning his relation to the placement service, he said, "It is especially significant that his duties include acting as field representative of the newly organized University placement service designed to aid alumni and former students on the one hand, and employers seeking university-trained men and women on the other, to get together.

"One of his first jobs will be to find graduates of the last two years who

HOMECOMING

Biggest in Years

With both official registration figures and unofficial estimates almost doubling the number of alums present, this year's Homecoming weekend proved a success in every way, and was the largest held in years.

For alumni registered Chi Omega with 20, and Kappa Sigma with 25, captured the two loving cups. A total of more than 300 grads registered, which is usually estimated at less than half the number present.

The weekend was packed to the top with activity, from the rally float parade Friday night through the Don Cossack chorus Sunday afternoon. Alpha and Sigma halls, with their grotesque caricature heads of President Boyer and Chancellor Hunter, took first prize for floats.

Geary Presides

At the annual alumni meeting Saturday morning Vice-President Arthur M. Geary, '10, presided in the unavoidable absence of President Ben R. Chandler, '13. Dr. Jesse Bond, '09, acted as secretary pro-tem.

Dean James Gilbert, '03, reported the new alumni secretary would be announced soon. President C. V. Boyer told the group how although apparently the University looked prosperous, because of new buildings, that such was not the case. He cited how the state millage income has decreased steadily since 1929, although enrollment has steadily increased. He mentioned that although federal and city employees have had pay cuts restored the University faculty is still operating on cut salaries. Twenty-seven faculty members have been lost since June of last year, Dr. Boyer said.

Alumni Support Asked

Mr. Geary answered Dr. Boyer's speech by calling upon alumni to support the University and its interests. "The fact that the state is entering upon a new epoch of development and of increased population, must bring a new viewpoint in considering the needs of higher education in Oregon," he said.

"In view of the figures as to enrollment and income, . . . the financial needs of the University cannot be discounted," Mr. Geary continued. "The alumni members must effectively support the cause of higher education and do their share in urging the legislature to provide the minimum funds called for by the budget approved by the board of higher education."

Instead of at Homecoming as announced, officers will be nominated at commencement and will be voted upon by mail.

Friars Choose Seniors

At the game Saturday nearly a hundred Order of the O men paraded and sat in their special section. At the dance that evening Friars honor group added six seniors to their group. Chosen were Al Davis and Craig Finley, Portland; John Thomas, Eugene; Del Bjork, Astoria; John Lewis, Everett, Wash.; and Walter Eschebeck, Malin. Other seniors selected last spring were: Fred Hammond and Don Thomas, Portland; Clair Johnson, Oakland; Frank Nash, Pendleton; Fred Colvig, Eugene; and Jim Hurd, Honolulu.

Miss McCornack Passes

Miss Mary Elizabeth McCornack, '82, who was one of the oldest living alumnae of the University, died at midnight Sunday, November 15 after a fall which caused head injuries.

While descending a flight of stairs in the Murray Warner art museum that afternoon she fell, striking her head. Although taken to the hospital immediately, she never regained consciousness.

Messages of tribute have been paid her for long service to the University both as instructor of music for many years, and as an active worker for the school's welfare.

Survivors in the immediate family include three sisters and one brother. They are Mrs. Nettie Collier, '80, Mrs. Agnes Geary, '80, Mrs. Leathe Wells, '88, and John K. McCornack, ex-'84.

Judge McNary Dies

John H. McNary, ex-'88, U. S. district judge, and brother of Senator Charles L. McNary, died in Portland October 25, at the age of 69. He became ill several weeks previous, and had undergone a minor operation.

REMINDERS OF HOMECOMING WEEKEND FESTIVITY

To the left are members of Alpha Phi and Phi Sigma Kappa working on their big Duck for the float parade. The Duck was also used to boost the "Y" donut sale, by appearing at the game Saturday between halves. Center is the float of Alpha Delta Pi and Theta Chi, which won second place in the float contest. It has the Duck nailing down the last nail in the coffin of the WSC Cougar. Upper right the Oregon rooters, by means of colored cards, greet their opponents with a large WS, while lower right they form a large green and yellow "O".

Judge McNary was born near Salem January 31, 1867. He was educated in Salem schools and later, although attending the University for some time, he did not stay to graduate. Instead he returned to Salem for private tutoring by such men as Willis C. Hawley, then president of Willamette university.

He was admitted to the bar in 1894, and from 1904 to 1913 distinguished himself as prosecuting attorney in the old third judicial district.

On March 7, 1927 Judge McNary took the oath of office as judge of the federal court, district of Oregon, on appointment by President Coolidge.

His wife Esther Hall McNary preceded him in death November 21, 1934. Surviving relatives besides Senator McNary are Mrs. Walter T. Stolz and Mrs. Mary E. Bruce, sisters, both of Salem.

Winthers Are Writers

Oscar Osburn Winther, '25, presents many interesting notes on Oregon history in an article in the Civil Engineer's magazine for October entitled, "Highlights in the History of Oregon." Mr. Winther, instructor of history at Stanford, was visiting professor of history this summer at the University Extension center in Portland.

Sophus Keith Winther, '18, his brother, published a book this fall entitled, "Take All to Nebraska."

Blind Sculptor Honored

Mark Shoesmith, '34, blind honor student in the University social science department, has been awarded a scholarship by the Masters' Institute of United Arts, Roerick museum in New York City.

His scholarship came as a result of a year's graduate work in the art school. He hopes to use this scholarship as a means toward the aim of introducing art for the blind in as many schools as possible.

Alums Win Posts

Oregon alumni grabbed their share of important places in the November election race, according to official returns. James W. Mott, ex-'07, was re-elected representative in congress, Joseph J. Carson, Jr., L.L.B. '17, was again named mayor and Ormond R. Bean, '09, as commissioner, of the city of Portland.

Positions as state representatives were gained by Malcom Wilkinson, '28, Wasco county; Dr. A. Orville Waller, ex-'05, Lane county; Giles

FLOAT PRIZE WINNER

With the caricatures of President Boyer and Chancellor Hunter attracting chief notice, the float above, which was built by Alpha and Sigma halls, won first prize in the float contest for Homecoming, Saturday at the football game the two over-size heads created considerable comment as they were paraded around.

French, ex-'21, Sherman county; Bernard A. Young, ex-'33, Douglas county; and A. M. Esson, L.L.B. '96, Multnomah county. Homer Angell, '00, Multnomah county, was chosen state senator.

¶ A 25-day sailing trip to Hawaii in a 32-foot boat was the recent experience of William L. Brown, ex-'34, and two companions. Brown, a former Oregonian correspondent, is writing his experiences and will return home late next summer after visiting Tahiti, Australia, and other south-sea islands.

¶ Gordon Gilkey, M.F.A. '36, has gone east to New York City to continue etching work, after having completed his thesis of copper plate etchings on the development of the new library. These etchings, of which Old Oregon readers will remember having seen a sample in the June-July issue, have been printed in a large book.

¶ Mrs. Nancy Wilson Ross, '24, was a recent visitor to the campus, and with Dean and Mrs. John F. Bovard. She will be remembered as one of the few persons who predicted with accuracy the rise of the Nazi government in Germany, in an article appearing during November 1932 in the Saturday Evening Post.

WANT A JOB?

Alumni who are unemployed and want jobs, or who are now employed, but would like better positions, are urged to register immediately with Miss Janet Smith. Recently she has had more calls for workers than she could fill.

Particularly in demand appear to be women who have had training and experience in social work. Also vacancies have appeared in library, business and advertising fields. Civil service vacancies are reported to this office immediately, and alums who are registered will be informed of any openings.

Serving as a clearing house for the University placement service, the office also welcomes requests from any employers who want University trained workers.

All interested are asked to fill out their name and address below and send to Miss Janet Smith, University Employment Office, Eugene, Oregon.

1916 SQUAD MEETS

Big Banquet Held

Shy Huntington thought of it, everyone concerned agreed heartily, and Roland Geary engineered the details, which resulted in a reunion of the famed 1916 championship football team during the weekend of the Washington game in Portland.

A banquet was held in the Multnomah hotel at 6:30 Friday night, and it was near midnight before the gathering broke up. Mixed with recollections and stories of the "good old days" the group compared campus spirit now and then. Most of the men thought that spirit on the campus needs pepping up now . . . that old traditions like keeping off the grass and smoking on the campus ought to be observed.

In reviving the old Oregon spirit many believed that the old-fashioned rallies ought to be brought back.

Present Occupations Vary

The following were present: Shy Huntington, quarterback, who is now engaged in the fuel supply business in Eugene; Bart Spellman, right guard, in the insurance business in Seattle; John Parsons, left half, who has been working for the same firm in Seattle for 20 years now in a responsible position; Baz Williams, tackle and guard, in the bakery business in Eugene; Lloyd Tegart, right end, who is now in Portland; Hollis Huntington, fullback, in the clothing business in Salem; Ray Couch, sub backfield, who is a Chevrolet salesman in Portland; Jake Risley, center, now a highway contractor located near Oregon City.

Ken Bartlett, right tackle, in the securities business in San Francisco; Neil Morfitt, substitute end and back, manager of an auto company, Astoria; Ward McKinney, sub guard, who operates a cigar store in Olympia; Bill Tuerck, sub fullback, now working for the Standard Oil Co., in Everett, Wash.; Carl Nelson, sub lineman, located at Salem where he is a bonds dealer; Roland Geary, student manager, lives in Portland and Klamath Falls, where in the latter city he is known as the "grass seed king" because of the huge seed ranch he manages near there.

Others of the "old Guard" who were active followers and supporters of the team then and who are still staunch backers of the University were present as follows: Dean Walker, 1916 Frosh coach, who is now Senator Walker from Polk county; John Murray ardent backer from Pendleton; Oliver Huston, working in state offices in Salem; "Doc" S. D. Read, Eugene dentist; "Obak" Wallace, Eugene business man; Sam Dolan, who refereed many of the games, now instructor at Oregon State college; Bill Hayward, then, as now, trainer of University athletes; Albert Tiffany, who was registrar and graduate manager, now in business in Eugene.

DAD'S DAY

400 UO Dads Come

Some 400 fathers of University students were campus visitors the weekend of November 13-15 at the annual Dad's day observances.

Officers elected included alumni members Merle Chessman, '09, as president; Robert Prescott, '08, as director; and Earl M. Pallett, Ph.D. '31, as executive secretary. Other officers are Loyal H. McCarthy, vice-president; Walter M. Cook, secretary; and directors, Ed. F. Averill, John W. Beard, Roy O. Burnett, C. A. Wagner, all of Portland; W. J. Conrad, Marshfield; Ben R. Litfin, The Dalles.

Pledging Discussed

Disapproval of "hell-week" and the present rushing system on the campus was voiced by the Dads. Suggestions were made that a plan for deferred pledging for one year be studied. Approval of a three-day holiday at Thanksgiving was given.

Resolutions of sympathy to the families of Dr. Arnold Bennett Hall and Earle Wellington, both active workers of the Dads, were approved.

Chi Psi Lodge and Alpha Delta Pi sorority walked off with the Shaw service set for the greatest proportion of Dads, and the Laurgaard trophy for the greatest proportion of freshman Dads, respectively.

Veatch, Barker Speak

At the annual banquet held Saturday night John Veatch, '07, was the main speaker, and he pointed to education and the universities as the saviors of political democracy. Charles A. Brand, representing the state board of higher education, Mrs. Warren D. Smith, vice-president of the Oregon Mothers, and Dr. Burt Brown Barker, vice-president of the University, were other speakers. Mr. Barker pointed out the need for greater financial support for the University.

In charge of arrangements for the weekend were Earl M. Pallett, faculty committees, and Barney Hall, student committees.

Faculty Members Honored

Several University faculty members have been honored by appointments to important positions recently. Dean Wayne L. Morse has been named one of the five Oregon representatives on the newly-formed Western Parole and Probation association; Prof. D. D. Gage returned recently from a trip to Illinois, where he was guest speaker at the national convention of the American Title association; associate professors H. R. Crosland and L. L. Lewis have recently received notice of their appointment to the summer school faculty of the University of Colorado; Prof. L. S. Cressman has been selected as chairman of the General Research council of the state system of higher education, and has been elected secretary-treasurer of the Social Science Research conference of the Pacific coast.

Uniform Program Planned

Chancellor Frederick M. Hunter has appointed an inter-institutional committee to work out a system for a uniform calendar of opening and closing dates, vacation periods, and other academic events of the school year for all the units of higher education in the state.

The new system will make possible correlation of the calendar where uniformity is feasible, and try to eliminate conflicts in such events as commencement.

The recent three-day holiday for Thanksgiving weekend was decided upon by the group.

Play Sensational

"Bury the Dead," with which the University theatre opened its present season, proved as exciting on the coast as it did last spring on the east coast. Oregon's is the first university group in the Northwest to undertake this stirring drama of a brilliant and moving outcry against the wastefulness of war.

For several nights the limited seating space of the Guild theatre in the administration building was filled to overflowing. So much interest was created that additional performances were given on November 9 and 10. Letters and remarks of commendation have greeted the drama department and director Otilie Seybolt ever since.

To provide an interesting contrast to the grim irony of "Bury the Dead" Scott and Haight's "Goodbye Again," a farcial comedy of extraordinary gaiety, will be produced December 4, 5 and 8.

Famed Tenor Coming

Roland Hayes, world-famous Negro tenor, will be presented in concert at McArthur court Sunday afternoon, December 6 in another of the outstanding series offered this year by the ASUO.

Mr. Hayes' engagement is a return to Eugene and follows continual demands for his reappearance. His voice is still receiving the same high acclaim from eastern cities which he has enjoyed in the past.

The ASUO office has announced that prices will be the lowest ever offered here for this type of concert.

Co-ops Plan Meet

A convention of student cooperative housing leaders from five western states is being planned for the University campus during the Christmas holidays.

Campus leaders of the movement have unified their organization by formation of an inter-cooperative council, with three representatives from each of the three co-op houses on the campus.

¶ Students from Hawaii on the campus recently organized a club named "Hui O Kamaaina," which is Hawaiian for a group of old timers. Their purpose is to interest the northwest in Hawaii, and also to interest the people of the islands in Oregon and the University. Among other activities a "luau," or feast of native Hawaiian foods, is planned.

¶ In the recent book by Ishbel Ross entitled, "Ladies of the Press" three former women students of the University school of journalism were included. They were Mrs. Jessie Gould Olds, ex-'25, of the Portland News-Telegram, Mrs. Katherine Watson

Anderson, ex-'25, wife of John Anderson, '23, managing editor of the Eugene Morning News, and Mrs. Lucile Saunders McDonald, ex-'19, former United Press night editor head at Buenos Aires.

¶ James W. Brooks, Marcus Hornstein, Leland Thielmann, Robert Vosper, all of Portland, and Fred Colvig, Medford, have been named to represent the University as applicants for Rhodes scholarships in examinations to be held in Portland December 19.

¶ Representatives from the law school and the league of Oregon cities on the campus are cooperating in establishing police training schools in a dozen cities throughout the state.

¶ New faculty fathers are E. C. A. Lesch, associate professor of English, and A. F. Moursand, associate professor of mathematics. A son was born to Prof. and Mrs. Lesch (Jean Hart, '32) November 10, and to Prof. and Mrs. Moursand November 6.

¶ The extended illness of Prof. Frederic S. Dunn, '92, has necessitated the addition of Kenneth J. Ruth, '27, as an instructor in the classics department.

SENSATIONAL SHOT FROM MUCH-DISCUSSED PLAY

Walden Boyle and Milton Pillette are the two central figures as the captain and a dead soldier who refuses burial in this typically dramatic scene from the anti-war play "Bury the Dead." This play stirred up more interest, aroused more pro and con discussion, and attracted larger crowds than any play produced on the campus for years. Produced first at Homecoming for four days, it was repeated at a two-day engagement later.

FROSH FOOTBALL

Best in Northwest

Honest John Warren's freshman football team, strongest eleven since 1931, won undisputed recognition as the best first-year team in the Northwest this fall.

Warren's sensational youngsters trounced the Oregon State Rooks twice, 18 to 6 and 25 to 0, and administered a 13 to 7 beating to the Washington Babes. The Washington yearlings had already defeated WSC's frosh.

Wide Open Football

The Ducklings played wide open football and thrilled spectators in every game with long passes and runs. When halted in the air, they took to the ground. They did the latter against Washington and won the championship. In most of the games, however, it was a passing attack that won.

FROSH RECORD

Frosh 6, Oregon Normal 7
Frosh 26, SONS 6
Frosh 18, OSC Rooks 6
Frosh 13, Washington 7
Frosh 25, OSC Rooks 0

In the final game of the season against the Rooks on Hayward field, the Frosh performed phenomenally. All four touchdowns came from passes. The Ducklings even passed from the Rook 3-inch line on second down and made the pass good for a counter.

Many Outstanding Men

Warren's backfield. He is fast, elusive, and a good passer, as well as receiver. Bob Smith, left-handed passing genius from Medford, is considered by coaches as the most promising of the crop. He is a heads-up deceptive player and has a knack for tossing balls to a dime.

Paul Rowe, big, blond fullback from Victoria, B.C. is another powerhouse player. Although he never played before this fall, except rugby, Rowe learned rapidly. Ron Husk, Portland, who plays either quarter or guard, is another capable man who showed up well. Dennis Donavin, Portland, is a hefty quarterback replacement.

Larry Lance, Glendale, California, and Vic Reginato, Klamath Falls, at ends showed varsity caliber throughout the season both in pass-snagging and in smashing play. At tackle Eloy Jensen, Eugene, led the field. Other line regulars were Erling Jacobsen and Russ Inskeep, Portland; George Jones, Toppenish, Wash; and Lloyd Beggs, Hood River.

VARSITY FOOTBALL

Finish in Cellar

Although turning out a great defensive team, Prink Callison and his Oregon Webfoots lacked the offensive punch to win a single conference game and ended up in the cellar of the Pacific Coast conference.

In many of the contests the Ducks even outplayed and outgained their opponents, notably against the mighty Huskies, but they were only able to win from Portland and Idaho, and to tie Stanford.

FAST, WIDE-OPEN PLAY PROMISED

"A faster but less experienced" Oregon varsity basketball team that will play wide-open ball in the fast-approaching 1936-37 conference hoop race is the promise of Coach Howard A. (Hobby) Hobson. He is starting his second year as Webfoot court mentor, and has five lettermen back, although only one was a last year's regular. In a special statement for Old Oregon readers regarding the season's prospects, Hobson says:

"We are minus our entire 1936 starting lineup, with the exception of big Dave Silver, but this season we have a potentially stronger group of underclassmen, plus several veterans, which promises to result in a really hard-driving club.

"Whether Oregon can win in what looks like an even tougher northern division race than last year is problematical, but I am certain that Webfoot followers will see a fast, hard-working club that can play the wide-open, fast-break style of ball from start to finish in every game.

"Washington, Oregon State and Washington State are all well supplied with veteran players, making the 1937 conference race look like a mighty close one. On paper the circuit teams should finish in the above order, which is the same way they wound up last year—but you can never tell.

"This year's team has fine spirit and determination, and that counts a lot in any line of endeavor."

FINISHES . . . WITH HONORS
Captain Del Bjork, smashing tackle, not only graduates as a top student on the campus this year, but he has piled up a football record which leaves him as a top candidate for both all-coast and all-American honors.

Captain Del Bjork led a line which ranked with any on the coast, and he is being mentioned as an all-coast certainty and an all-American possibility. The backfield lacked an outstanding star, although in the last three games sophomore Jimmy Nicholson flashed.

With only five men graduating, and the Frosh looking good, prospects for next year seem excellent.

The game summaries follow:

Oregon 13, Idaho 0

After waiting until the fourth quarter, when a hard Idaho drive down the field brought threats of loss to the lowly Vandals, the Webfoots finally turned on the steam and walked off with a 13 to 0 win.

A recovered fumble, four hard thrusts at the line, and Bob Braddock galloped 60 yards through a broken field for the first marker. Another recovered fumble later gave flashy Jimmy Nicholson a chance to scamper around left end on a weak-side play and score from the Idaho 19.

Idaho made seven first downs to Oregon's six, but the Ducks outgained them 212 to 131 yards.

Washington State 3, Oregon 0

A 17-yard field goal by Rodger Dougherty, WSC fullback, sent an Oregon football team to its first Hayward field defeat in eight years.

The Webfoots held the favored Cougars on even terms through most of the game, but a weak punt in the second quarter put the visitors in scoring territory. They drove to the 17-yard line and Dougherty booted the goal.

Poor kicking kept the Webfoots on the defensive a large part of the afternoon.

Eddie Bayne of the Cougars almost doubled Oregon's punting average. Captain Del Bjork was, as always, a pillar at left tackle in the Oregon line. Don Kennedy and Bob Braddock were standouts in the Webfoot backfield.

More than 12,000 persons watched the contest. It was not a spectacular game, but hard, driving, crowd-pleasing football.

Washington 7, Oregon 0

A fighting Oregon football team gave the Rose Bowl-bound Washington Huskies all they wanted and then some at Portland, only to lose a heartbreaker, 7 to 0.

Prink Callison's gang opened up with a passing attack in this game, completing 8 of 21 aerial attempts. Sophomores Dave Gammon and John Yerby formed the brand-new passing combination.

Washington recovered a fumble in Oregon territory in the first quarter, and in a few plays Byron Haines scampered to the Husky touchdown. After that score, the game was played in Washington territory.

The fighting Webfoots repeatedly drove deep into Husky soil. They had four big scoring opportunities, but on all four they failed. Gains were made consistently against the vaunted Husky line, but the Ducks could not muster the final punch.

The entire Oregon line was outstanding.

Statistics gave Oregon an overwhelming moral victory. The Webfoots ran up 196 yards from scrimmage and passes to the Huskies' 98. They made 10 first downs to 4 for Washington. They outplayed the potential conference champions in everything but score. More than 30,000 fans watched the game, the most thrilling played by an Oregon team this season.

UCLA 7, Oregon 0

The Webfoots couldn't seem to find the spark that scared Washington when they tangled with UCLA in Portland a week later.

Oregon at no time threatened to score on the Bruins, and only once penetrated dangerously into the visitors' territory. Bjork and Yerby continued to shine in this contest, and Ed Farrar at center was outstanding.

The UCLA touchdown came early in the first quarter, when the Bruins marched to the Webfoot goal after recovering a disastrous fumble. After the touchdown, the Ducks held the visitors even all the way, but at no time could they get under-way with a successful offensive drive.

California 28, Oregon 0

It wasn't offered as an alibi, but every Oregon player voiced the belief after returning from Berkeley that the Webfoots should have and could have beaten California, despite a 28-to-0 Bear victory.

It was a peculiar game. Oregon took the offensive at the start and three times drove deep into California territory.

Then came the break that broke the Webfoots' hearts. A California player grabbed the ball from Arleigh Bentley's arms in a mixup on the Bear 2-yard line, and possession was given to the home team. The play came on second down, when an Oregon score seemed sure.

Bentley, who had sparked the Webfoots, suffered a knee injury late in the second quarter and left the game. After that the Ducks cracked. California scored on two passes just before the half and then added three touchdowns in the fourth period.

Webfoots sharing the limelight with Bentley were Don Kennedy and Jimmy Nicholson in the backfield and Del Bjork, Tony Amato, and Ed Farrar in the line.

Oregon State 18, Oregon 0

With brilliant Joe Gray sparking the Orangemen with his runs and accurate passing, Oregon State handed Prink Callison his first defeat at their hands since he took over Oregon's coaching.

The Staters turned on a resistless machine in the very first quarter, when they marched 58 yards in 14 plays for a touchdown. They continued to dominate throughout, with the Ducks offering only one strong threat. This came right after the OSC touchdown, and was opened when Nicholson made a long kickoff return to State's 42. Oregon marched to the nine, and then on the fourth down Nicholson, although falling over the goal-line, was called down on the one-foot line. This took the heart out of the Lemon-Yellow and they lacked drive from then on. Altogether total yardage for Oregon was 226, for State, 259.

Dave Gammon and Bud Robertson gave the Webfoot supporters one thrill when they completed a 47 yard pass (65 yards in the air) just before the end of the first half. Four more attempts were unsuccessful, however.

have been getting experience and who are now ready for 'promotion' for some of the attractive positions which the placement service has already been asked to fill. With Janet Smith running the employment office on the campus, with Elmer Fansett in the field, and with University staff and alumni cooperating to place and to advance University men and women, the employment prospects for graduates and former students were never better."

▲ N excellent exemplification of fine alumni spirt was shown Homecoming attendants by Forrest Cooper, '27, energetic Lakeview attorney. Accompanied by Mrs. Gladys Hewitt Cooper, ex-'30, he led a group of 50 visitors from Lakeview to the campus for the weekend. He has also had many ideas for more frequent contacts between people throughout the state who are interested in the welfare of the University.

Efforts of Bob Mautz, '27, former Webfoot star in starting a movement in Portland last summer to make the Rose City football conscious and get larger attendance for games there is also praiseworthy, as are the efforts of all the alums connected with "Challenge Day" activities, and the arranging of the football special from eastern Oregon for the Washington game.

Also commendatory is the interest shown by Henry Fowler, '14, Bend, and other eastern Oregon fans, in suggesting a branch ticket office sales bureau for both football games and special concerts.

THEY'VE PLAYED THEIR LAST GAME FOR OREGON
