

A Few Facts About Our System of Higher Education

Do You Know

1. That State funds for higher educational purposes have been reduced more than $2,000,000 since the present State Board of Higher Education was established?

2. That enrollment has increased 46.3 per cent in the past three years and is now the highest in the history of the institutions?

3. That the budget requests for higher education call for an increase in operating level of only $112,170 per year, the remaining supplementary appropriation representing salary and wage restoration and replacement of resources lost since the last biennium through decrease in millage and exhaustion of balances?

4. That the salaries of the teaching staff in Oregon institutions are the lowest in the 9 western states?

5. That by actual tabulation 54 distinguished staff members have been lost since the beginning of the severe reductions in State appropriations—27 of the ablest staff members having been lost during the past fifteen months?

6. That rising prices, increased maintenance costs, and replacement of worn-out and obsolete equipment, coupled with the inevitable overcrowding of classes as the result of increased enrollment and reduced teaching staff, create a problem in maintaining a high standard of student instruction?

7. That approximately one-third of those persons who are graduates or ex-students of our System still reside within the state—or one out of twelve residents of the state of Oregon are ex-students of our System.

NEWS AND COMMENT

By Clair Johnson, Editor

Dressed Up . . . And Places To Go

KEEPING in stride with the expanded position of the alumni secretary, the new boom of campus spirit and enthusiasm, and the general upward trend of the outside world, we present your OLD OREGON this month as a revised and enlarged magazine.

Operating on practically the same budget, but through extensive cooperation with other organizations and considerable extra effort on our part, we are able to give you a new cover, a six-page pictorial section, a new make-up, and new features such as the "Quacks" letter column.

The magazine reflects in some ways the intended progress of the alumni organization during the coming year. Continuance of, and further expansion of OLD OREGON as a brighter, more interesting, and easier reading alumni organ and University review is quite naturally dependent upon continued and increased support from alumni members.

OLD OREGON is dressed up. It is rejuvenated inside and outside. It has places to go. "A better University, and a greater UO alumni" is its slogan. It expects alumni members and University friends to chant the same phrase.

Higher Education Needs Help

FACED with an acute crisis brought on by fast-increasing enrollment and inadequate finances to handle it, the state board of higher education has appealed to the people of the state (legislature) for a supplementary appropriation, of $1,317,932 to be added to the shrinking millage income for the 1937-38 biennium.

In a report "Oregon Higher Education: It's Present Plight," the board tells the sad story of how enrollment has jumped to approximately 9,300, while appropriations to handle this increase are now more than $2,000,000 less than for the biennium 1929-30, when enrollment totaled 8,855. State support of higher education has shrunk more than one third, while enrollment and work to be done have increased 46.3 per cent.

No other branch of state activity has been so hard hit by the depression and no other has had to wait longer for relief. Salaries in the Oregon system are lowest in nine western states for all ranks of educators from deans to instructors.

Under unified management there has been new efficiency and little waste. The schools are alike in their plight with past feuds between them forgotten. There can be no questioning the service these schools render to the state . . . but how can this service be continued if funds are inadequate?

Chancellor Hunter, in answer to the criticism that costs of education have mounted too high, says, "Evidence from the experiences of history, both in our American states and in the records of European nations, shows that education has proved to be the soundest and best investment on behalf of a democracy that a nation or commonwealth can make."

Reserve funds are gone, supplies are used up, equipment and improvement funds are at a new low, teachers are at a minimum, classrooms are crowded . . . Oregon higher education certainly needs financial help.

A Good Show Starts A New Spirit

AT last Oregon spirit seems on the way back to the "good old days" mourned for by alumni who remember the enthusiasm of their undergraduate days. A student body meeting January 8 started it off.

There was a parade. Mortar Board, Friars, Order of the O, Rally Committee, Skull and Dagger, and Kwama members marched in and sat at the front of the room.

New ASUO President Gilbert Schultz opened the meeting. Anse Cornell, Prink Callison, and Howard Hobson talked. Hal Young sang and led group singing. The band played. A magician performed. Everyone cheered and applauded.

It was a different type of ASUO assembly. For the first time in years everyone seemed to be having a good time. Noon time luncheon tables hummed with discussion of the "new deal." Commendation greeted the new

ALUMNI MEMBERS ENCOURAGE OTHERS TO SUPPORT THE ALUMNI AND SUBSCRIBE TO OLD OREGON

- The alumni office now offers enlarged and increased service to all its members.
- Old Oregon has been revised to present itself as a highly interesting, tersely written, and easily readable review of all things concerning the University, and the alumni in particular.
- Alumni dues and a subscription to Old Oregon still remain at $2 per year. Oregon State college and other schools charge $3 and up.

Seated at his desk, Elmer C. Fansett, '28, new alumni secretary, is shown looking over office reports. To his left may be seen the curled up preview picture of the new cover which graces this issue of Old Oregon. In the background is the fireplace in the alumni office, formerly the living room of Friendly hall when it was a men's dormitory. Older alums will remember the rooms back of the fireplace as former dining halls, which make up an east annex to the alumni offices. They now house OLD OREGON and alumni equipment, including the addressograph machine and many thousand mailing plates for University alumni.

Dean James H. Gilbert, '03, to whom Mr. Fansett pays tribute in his personal message on these pages, is shown here as he looked up from work at his desk. It was through efforts led by Dean Gilbert that the present enlarged and extended alumni program has been made possible.

A PERSONAL MESSAGE

By Elmer C. Fansett, '28
Alumni Secretary

YOU are undoubtedly wondering about the new organization of the Alumni office here on the campus. It is my sincere hope that I may have an opportunity to talk with each one of you personally in the near future, at which time I feel sure we can discuss the things we are doing and give you a better picture of the entire program. More than that, I hope our interview will give us an opportunity to discuss new ideas you have which will help us improve the organization along lines that will make for greater service to you and to our Alma Mater.

In the meantime I want to give you a picture of the organization as it is now functioning. Both the State Board of Higher Education and the Associated Students have seen the advantages of this department, and together they have set up a permanent program whereby the salary of the alumni secretary will come from other sources than alumni dues. This is a condition we have always needed and hoped for. This enables us to direct our attentions to new services for you, which after all is the purpose of this department.

DR. Boyer, president of the university has appointed a supervisory committee to work with us in our endeavors. This committee is headed by our new athletic manager, Anson Cornell, and on the committee are Karl Onthank, dean of personnel, and Lynn McCready, of the First National Bank of Eugene. These men are keenly interested in the alumni program, and this committee is another feature of the new organization that has always been needed to make our work more effective.

Needless to say Dean James Gilbert, one of the University's most interested alumni, is ever ready to advise us in our many problems. We know and we want you to know that it has been through his unceasing efforts that our new organization has finally become a reality.

THERE is no question but that we need everyone of you as members of this association, but we feel the way to achieve this end is to make this office more than the Old Oregon publication office. True enough that is an important function, but we are adding such things as a close tie-up with the newly formed placement service, which is a general placement office separate and distinct from the one now functioning in the School of Education for the placement of teachers. We want to help you secure the kind of position you desire and for which you trained yourself. We want to help you secure the advancements you deserve.

TO ALUMNI MEMBERS

I plan to be in the field the greatest part of each year.

My purpose in the field is several fold. First I want to meet you and to discuss with you things that are of interest to yourself and the University. I want to acquaint you with things on the campus so you may feel even more proud of your Alma Mater and the fine progress she has made in her many departments. I want to learn of new ways in which we can serve you through our placement department. If you have criticisms I hope to learn of them so that unpleasant conditions can be corrected.

A second important aim is to contact employers in all parts of the state, so we may bring together our qualified alumni and those employers needing your training in their organizations.

I hope to keep you informed of developments in the state as they affect our institution in order that we may work together at all times for the best interests of the University.

You may wonder just how you can help us in our program. First, you are the one best qualified to inform us of worthy students in your locality whom you feel should pursue their higher education at the University of Oregon. Second, interested in athletics as you are, you can keep us informed at all times regarding athletic material you would like to see representing your Alma Mater in the Pacific Coast Athletic Conference. Thirdly, you can inform us of criticisms that reach you regarding our program. We invite you to give us any such reactions, for it is out of such sincere interest that we can build the permanent organization you really want.

PERSONALLY I feel we are going ahead in a way that will please everyone of you. I think we are at last set up in a way that will allow us to do the things we have always hoped we might do.

This is a service organization and the services to be rendered are real, not imaginary. They include only two things; first, a true and sincere service to every alumnus of the University, and second, a service to the University of Oregon, namely to build an institution here which will be the envy of every university man and woman in the country. We can do this job and do it effectively if each one of us will carry his share of the responsibility.

For the University of Oregon and for every other alumnus of the University of Oregon I sincerely hope that you will help us in our every endeavor.

This committee of three prominent alumni members acts as an advisory body to the president of the University regarding Mr. Fansett's duties. Included in their numerous meetings are, of course, Dean Gilbert and Mr. Fansett. From left to right as they sit around one of the desks in the alumni office are: Lynn S. McCready, '20, Dean Karl W. Onthank, '13, and Athletic Manager Anse Cornell, '16. The first man listed represents the alumni organization, the second the placement service, and the last the Associated students.

SUBSCRIBERS

● Your Alumni Association is happy to have you as an interested member and appreciates everything that you have done to help promote the entire program. The Alumni office plans to render greater services to you and to your Alma Mater than has ever been possible in the past.

Won't you help us interest others in the Alumni Association by explaining to them the real and worthy purposes for which the entire organization strives?

● Won't you, after you have finished reading this issue of OLD OREGON, pass it on to some alumnus who is not a member of the Association? We know that he will appreciate seeing it, and we can't help feeling that your cooperation with this office in this matter will help revive that old loyalty which is present in every one of us, but which has allowed itself to become dormant in some instances.

Opening Series Split

Oregon's varsity basketball team made a good start in the northern division race by winning 43 to 26, from Washington State in the conference opener at McArthur court. On the following night the Cougars retaliated by coming from behind for a 37 to 32 triumph.

Then came the outstanding victory of the year, when the Ducks trimmed OSC 35 to 34 in a wild, rough, exciting game at Corvallis. This victory put Oregon and WSC in a battle for second, with the Huskies ahead.

Oregon 43, Washington State 26

Big Dave Silver poked in six left-handed field goals and eight free throws for a total of 20 points as the Ducks and Cougars began their campaigns. That was almost as many as were collected by the entire Washington State team. Bobby Anet and Wally Johansen, Astoria sophomores, were Oregon's leading floor players.

Anet and Johansen stole the ball repeatedly from Washington State men, and it was their feuding which put Silver in position for his spectacular shots. Anet, who stands only 5 feet 9 inches, was the spark behind Oregon's fast breaking attack. He intercepted Cougar passes, took dribbles from the hands of enemy players, and was a defensive pillar in every way. On offense he caged three field goals. Another Webfoot defensive luminary was Bill Courtney.

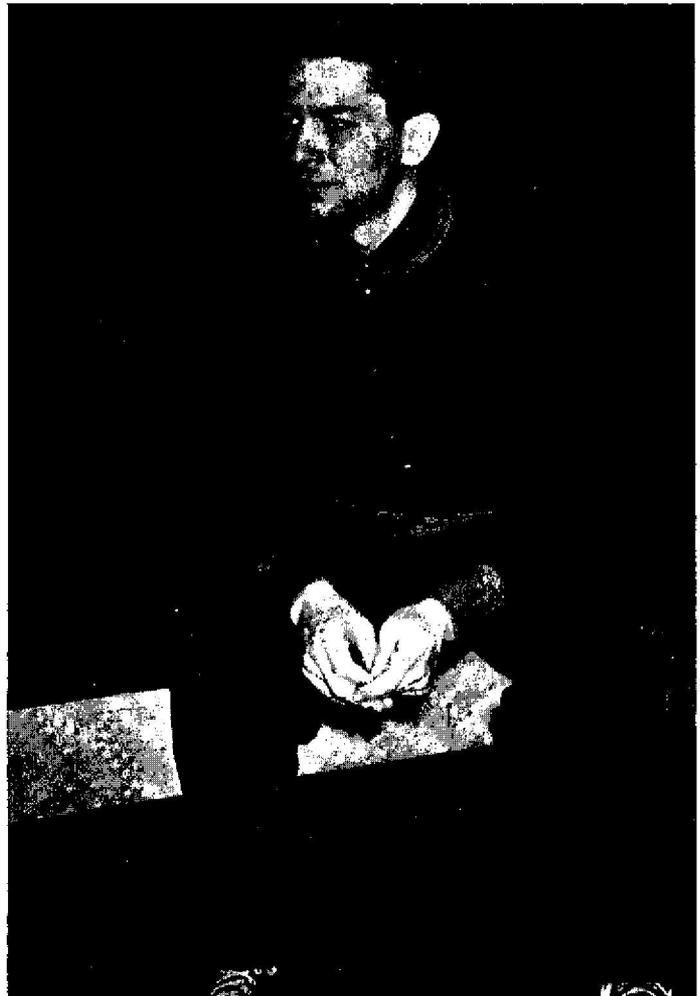

The Driving Ducks took an early lead and held to a 16 to 11 advantage by the close of the first half. Silver accounted for 13 of the 16 points. In the second period Howard Hobson's crew bombarded the hoop from all angles and pulled far out in front. The Webfoots, breaking faster and faster as the game progressed, literally ran the Cougars off the floor.

Washington State 37, Oregon 32

Oregon, with Anet and Silver again leading the way, grabbed another early margin in Saturday night's game. The Cougars pared the lead a bit toward the close of the first half, and the teams left the floor at the intermission with the Webfoots in possession of a slim 20 to 18 edge.

The early portion of the second half was Oregon's. After the Ducks had increased their advantage, 25 to 22, Anet was banished to the showers with four personal fouls. With their spark-plug gone, Hobson's basketweavers soon wilted. Their speed slackened, and they were unable to follow the pace set by the determined Cougars.

Captain Bill Dahlke and Ivar Nelson poured in field goal after field goal for the visitors, and the Webfoots fell behind. Johansen led a gallant rally in the closing minutes, but it failed to overhaul the Cougars.

Coach Hobby Hobson sits on the bench in his warm-up suit and thinks up new strategy to help the Webfoots trim their opponents.

Oregon 35, Oregon State College 34

Ken Purdy arched a long shot toward the basket with the timekeeper's final gun in the air and Oregon State leading Oregon 34 to 33, in the opening of "civil war" hostilities at Corvallis.

The gun sounded before Purdy's toss reached the height of its arc. But the shot soared true to its mark and Oregon pulled out a one-point triumph, 35 to 34, amid pandemonium in the state college gymnasium.

Old-timers considered the contest among the most thrilling in Webfoot-Beaver history. Oregon trailed throughout, and was ten points behind with only a few minutes to play, but tied the count at 33 a minute before the end.

The packed gym resounded to the shrieks of the frenzied spectators as the teams scrambled wildly in the dying moments. Urgel (Slim) Wintermute of Oregon and J. Hollingsworth of Oregon State missed free throws. Five seconds were left, and Bobby Anet of the Ducks fouled Oregon State's Hub Tuttle. Tuttle holed the shot, giving the Beavers a 34 to 33 lead.

Dave Silver took the ball out of bounds and hurled a long pass to Johnny Lewis, who dribbled twice and relayed to Purdy. Purdy dribbled once and cast off. The shot was true to the hemp at the gun's "poof," and Oregon had drawn first civil war blood.

Silver, then scoring leader of the conference, was held without a field goal. His five points were from free throws. Purdy and Laddie Gale each made six points. For Oregon State Art Merryman piled up 21 points before he was banished on fouls with eight minutes yet to play.

MEET THE BOYS

Short sketches of Oregon's "Driving Duck" basketeers, with interesting bits of information about them, will be presented below. Bruce Hamby, ex-'34, was one of the main sources of information.

Bob Anet, 5 foot 8 inch Astoria sophomore, is the sparkplug of the team. He is the strongest defensive man on the five, and is hard-driving and aggressive, yet a smooth ball-handler who does a large share of the feeding to the heavier scorers. No mean scorer himself, he made 83 points from his guard post for last year's Frosh.

Bill Courtney, a senior the same size as Anet is playing his sixth year for Coach Hobson. Not a high scorer, he is a top-notch defensive man. Always cool and collected, Bill is the brainy field general of the Ducks. An honor student in his classwork.

Slim Wintermute, at six foot eight inches plus, is the tallest center on the coast. He moves fast, and with his left-handed shots is a strong offensive threat. Weight 193, Wintermute lives up to his nickname of "Slim," and makes one forget his given name Urgel.

Dave Silver, who leads the conference scorers, is another big man and tips the scale well over 200 pounds and is six foot four inches. A strong man at the backboard on defense, Silver has an almost unstoppable, quite unorthodox, portside shot on offense.

John Lewis, sole two-year letterman of the squad, has played "in and out" basketball for some time but is clicking in comeback style this year. He stands six feet two inches, and is noted for his hard drive and shooting ability.

Wally Johansen, the other of the dashing Astoria sophomores, is also a hard-driving ball-hawk. Younger and not so strong, however, "Jo" is weaker defensively than fellow-townsmen Anet. He is a fine stylist and looks like a potential "great" as he gains strength. Stands five feet eleven inches. He scored 137 last year for the Frosh, and also won recognition as a "feeder."

Ken Purdy, is the sensational long-shot artist of the team, who with his unorthodox style and his accurate heaving has pulled three games out of the bag for the Ducks already this year. The hero of the OSC game, Purdy is called "Ace" by his teammates. He is a senior, and stands an even six feet, weigh 165.

Laddie Gale, possesses one of the biggest pair of hands in the conference and uses his mitts to plenty of advantage in palming and shooting. He stands six feet four inches, is agile and fast, and can either relieve Wintermute at center or go in at forward. He was the scoring sensation of the Frosh last year, as he piled up a total of 219 points in 18 games.

Ray Jewell, is another of the team's giants with a six foot seven inch measurement. He is an accurate shot, both short and long, and will see more action this year than last.

Ford Mullen, five feet eight inches, completes the traveling squad. A sophomore, Mullen is 19 years old, prepped at Olympia, Washington, and played with the Frosh last year.

Mikulak Added to Duck Grid Staff

When spring football practice gets under way next term Oregon will welcome back to the campus one of her most illustrious alumni in the person of Mike Mikulak. "Iron Mike" will act as assistant to Coach Prink Callison, handling the backs during spring workouts.

Since leaving the campus Mikulak has played three seasons of professional football with the Chicago Cardinals. While at Oregon he was named as all-American full-back in 1933, and during the season of 1935 was selected for the same position on the professional all-American.

When questioned concerning pro football Mikulak declared himself to be through with the "play for pay" game. He will work toward a master's degree at Oregon and intends to coach football in the future.

The "Cruncher" came up against some tough boys during his career as a pro. "Bronko Nagurski is the greatest player I ever saw, pro or amateur," said Mike. "He weighed around 230 pounds and could run a hundred yards in just over ten seconds, in a football suit. Nagurski did everything and did it well."

Mikulak also lauded Earl "Dutch" Clark, of the Detroit Lions, highly. "The Dutchman, of course," Mike stated, "was more of a field general than Nagurski. He was the brains of the league."

Many Western players, and several former Oregon stars, have been highly successful in pro football, according to "Iron Mike." Numbered among the pros recently have been Ross Carter, "Butch" Morse, Bernie Hughes, and Bree Cuppoletti, all former Oregon men. Also in the big time are Stan Kostka, Minnesota great who attended Oregon for a time, and "Tuffy" Leemans, who played for Oregon's frosh in 1932.

Mikulak says he is glad to be back at Oregon with his wife and little girl, and Oregon sport fans have answered that they are glad and proud to welcome him back.

¶ John Warren's likely looking Frosh basketeers have opened their season with three wins, one loss. They trimmed Franklin high twice, at Eugene 40 to 22, and at Portland 36 to 28, dropped one to the Wendling Cardinals 44 to 43, and won from Vancouver high school 46 to 17.

¶ Sigma Nu fraternity has been announced as the leader in a drive to collect funds from students, business men and faculty to aid in financing the turfing of Hayward field.

¶ Reports indicate that the new gym is being made use of by increasingly great numbers. Baskets issued total 380 more than last term, and towels issued daily total 200 to 240 more than last year.

¶ Managers report that the biggest trouble on basketball trips is finding a place to sleep for tall Slim Wintermute. Even upper berths on Pullmans crowd the big boy too much for comfort.

CAMPUS AND FACULTY

Joint Convo Held

Meeting in a joint convention, as they attempted to solve mutual problems as well as those specifically in their own fields, economists and sociologists from all sections of the Pacific coast gathered on the University campus December 28, 29, and 30.

The Pacific Coast Economic association held its 15th annual conference, while the Pacific Coast Sociological society held its eighth annual meeting. The two groups met together on the opening day and again on Tuesday evening.

The sociologists included two faculty members in their election of officers with Dr. S. H. Jameson as secretary-treasurer, and Dr. E. H. Moore as member of the advisory council.

Dr. James H. Gilbert, as one of the main speakers before the economic association, said that although the basis of taxation should be toward ability to pay and equality of sacrifice, he believed political pressure, vested interest, and the inertia of established practice made it difficult to readjust taxation to this theory.

Sixty per cent of the federal and state taxes actually show a reversal to the progressive theory of ability to pay and equality of sacrifice, Dean Gilbert said. Due to shortcomings of assessment procedure much of the tax on real estate and tangible personal property is also regressive, he maintained.

In conclusion Dean Gilbert said that in Oregon approximately 60 per cent of the tax burden may be classed as regressive, only four per cent truly progressive, and the remaining 36 per cent as fairly proportional.

Straight 'A' For Eight

Of the 109 students who achieved honor roll grades for fall term eight had straight "A" marks or a GPA of 4.00. Those receiving these high grades were Roland H. Boles, Katherine A. Miller, Ruthalbert Wolfenden, all of Portland; Beulah F. Chapman, Alice M. Coldren, of Eugene; Robert D. Buzzard, Springfield; Kenneth D. Gillanders, Woodburn; and Thomas Tongue, Hillsboro.

'Culture' Outpost Planned

As the result of a $400 grant from the Carnegie Institute, the University will maintain an authoritative reference point for the study of culture and growth of civilization in this part of the world, it has been announced by Dr. L. S. Cressman.

Field work will be carried on next summer at Catlow Cave, 20 miles south of Blitzen in southeastern Oregon. Findings in the cavern have attracted national attention, and Dr. Cressman says that preliminary work has led him to believe that it was occupied some 10,000 years ago, in the late-glacial or early post-glacial period.

Findings will be correlated with evidences from other sections of the world.

Libe System Commended

The union author catalog index of the six state institutions of higher education in Oregon has attracted national attention and commendation from the American Library association.

Under the direction of Miss Lucy M. Lewis the catalog consists of a systematic card index of all the resources of the libraries of the state system, making available more than 472,000 volumes.

An average of more than 100 books a school year has been used by every student in the state institutions, figures show. In the six libraries a total circulation of 2,026,659 volumes was recorded.

NBC Broadcast Planned

A coast to coast broadcast over the NBC of a series of programs from the University music school is being planned January 27 from 6 to 6:30 p. m.

Arrangements call for the program to be sent by private wire to Portland and then sent over the networks. Willem van Hoogstraten, director of the Portland symphony orchestra and honorary doctor of music at the University, has consented to open the program with a talk, the University symphony will play, and Professor Hal Young and Dorothy Louise Johnson, violin soloist, will be heard.

Campus Gets WPA Funds

Lane county WPA engineers have announced that additional funds have been granted for the project of landscaping the University grounds and also for the completion of the swimming pool.

More than 25 men will be kept busy during all of spring and summer on the landscaping work, and some 15 to 20 men will work on the pool until completion.

School Hosts to Press

The University will again be the scene of the annual Oregon Newspaper conference, with dates set for January

21, 22, and 23, it was announced recently by Dean Eric W. Allen.

Outstanding coast newspapermen will join the editors who flock in from every section of Oregon to take part in the conference. Paul C. Smith, executive editor of the San Francisco Chronicle, will be one of the main speakers.

Professor Dunn Passes

Professor Frederic S. Dunn, '92, head of the classics department, died in Eugene on January 7, after a three months' illness.

Recognized on the campus not only as an excellent educator, Professor Dunn is remembered greatly for his untiring work as an unofficial University historian. For several years he has written intermittent columns for the student papers on early campus days.

Nationally Professor Dunn achieved a reputation for his work and had more than 70 articles published in various classical periodicals. He was a member of Phi Beta Kappa and Phi Gamma Mu, as well as fraternal affiliations with the Masons, Elks, and Sons of the American Revolution.

Sixty-four years old, Mr. Dunn was one of the oldest professors on the campus in point of service. He has been with the University since 1898, except for two short intervals. In 1902-03 he attended Harvard and received his M. A. degree. In 1918-19 he was in Italy as an attache of the military staff.

Survivors include his wife, Anna M. Matthews Dunn, ex-'95; a daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Dunn Barrett, ex-'19; and a son, Frederic Berrian Dunn, ex-'23; three sisters, Mrs. Catherine Irene Dunn Williams, ex-'81; Miss Amy L. Dunn, ex-'04, and Mrs. Edna Diggles.

Barker Honored

Burt Brown Barker, vice-president of the University, was honored early in January at a formal dinner given in St. Louis, Mo., for the founders of Delta Sigma Rho, national forensic honor society.

Mr. Barker left December 28 to attend the formal occasion. Of the nine original founders, Mr. Barker is one of the seven still living. He represented the University of Chicago when Delta Sigma Rho was founded by representatives of nine mid-western schools.

¶ Dr. L. S. Cressman has recently been honored by an invitation to attend the 125th anniversary session of the Academy of Natural Sciences of Philadelphia at a meeting in March. He has been asked to report on anthropological discoveries in Oregon and also to prepare a display of anthropological articles found in Oregon. Expenses will be borne by the society. Leading anthropologists from all over the world will be present.

¶ Talking before the national convention of the American Music Teachers association in Chicago, Dean John J. Landsbury severely criticized persons seeking knowledge only for knowledge's sake.

He said that "a liberal education should help the student solve his problem of finding the universe and his place in it, but that it is not enough. Language, science and arts must be aimed to develop a wholesome emotional life for him."

¶ Dr. Clarence G. Osburn, assistant professor of history, left at the end of fall term to accept a position as regional land use planning economist of the resettlement administration.

¶ Dr. Victor P. Morris, dean of the school of business administration was in Chicago to attend the meeting of the American Economic association December 28 to 31.

¶ Following the success of the educational clinic under Dr. F. W. DeBusk, the service this year has been expanded into a wider student advisory and personnel service. Its purpose is to help college students to academic success by helping build well-balanced personalities. The faculty committee is headed by Dr. R. W. Leighton.

¶ The University psychology department has recently received a grant of $200 from Sigma Xi, national honorary science fraternity, to finance a research study on heredity of emotionality.

¶ Dr. H. G. Townsend attended the convention of the Pacific division of the American Philosophical association held during the holidays at Oakland, California. He was one of the speakers.

¶ Dr. N. H. Comish attended a national marketing convention in Chicago over the holidays.

¶ Prof. S. Stephenson Smith was recently elected to the executive board of the American Association of University Professors at their national convention in Richmond, Virginia.

¶ The University school of music was one of four beneficiaries named in the will of Miss Mary E. McCornack, '82, whose death was related in the November issue of OLD OREGON.

¶ In a recent German publication, Martin Nilsson of Berlin paid high tribute to research done here in classical studies by the late Dr. Clara Smerthenko, professor of Greek, and George N. Belknap, now University editor.

¶ Reorganization of the latent faculty advisory group has been completed this fall, and members have been chosen to serve until July 1937. The group acts as an advisory body, making recommendations on budgets, curriculum, and general relations to the president.

¶ The epidemic of sickness which has swept the Northwest has not spared the University and many are suffering from illness, chiefly the "flu." The University hospital has been full to capacity, and January 18 announced the opening of the basement to accommodate 34 new patients. Social events are being discouraged but have not been banned, as they were last year.

Tall and husky, Dave Silver, left, shows how he can flip baskets, as well as be rated the ace backboard retriever in the conference. Southpaw Silver led the high-scoring Webfoot hoop machine in all its early games.

Burt Brown Barker, above, who is vice-president of the University, was honored recently in the east as one of the founders of Delta Sigma Rho, national forensics honorary.

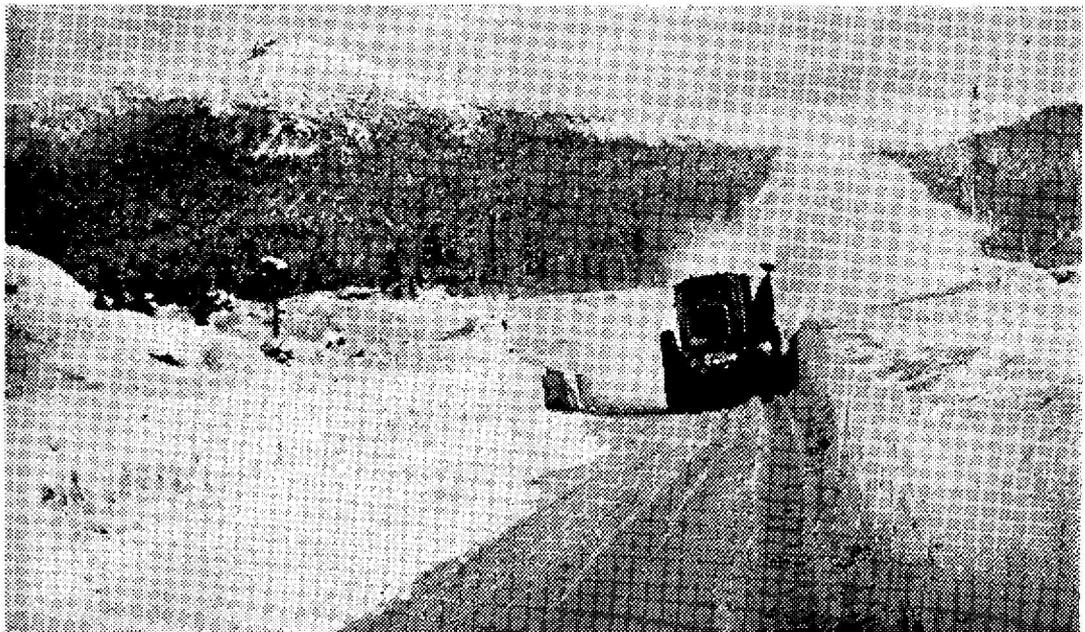

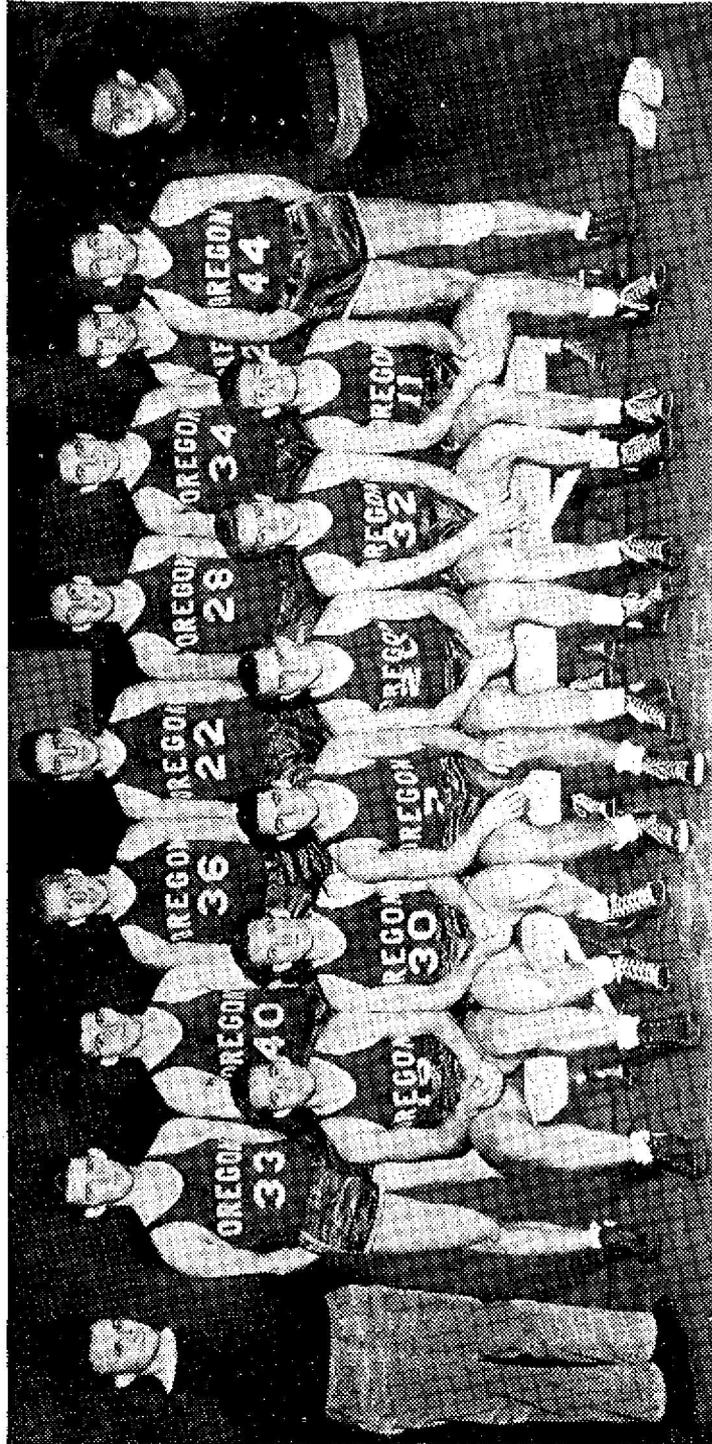

Among the principal figures at the 15th annual convention of the Pacific Coast Economic association, held December 28 to 30 at the University of Oregon campus, were James H. Gilbert, Oregon; Eliot Jones, Stanford; Kenneth Duncan, Pomona, president of the association; William S. Hopkins and James K. Hall, Washington; John B. Canning, Stanford. Convening jointly with the association was the Pacific Sociological society.

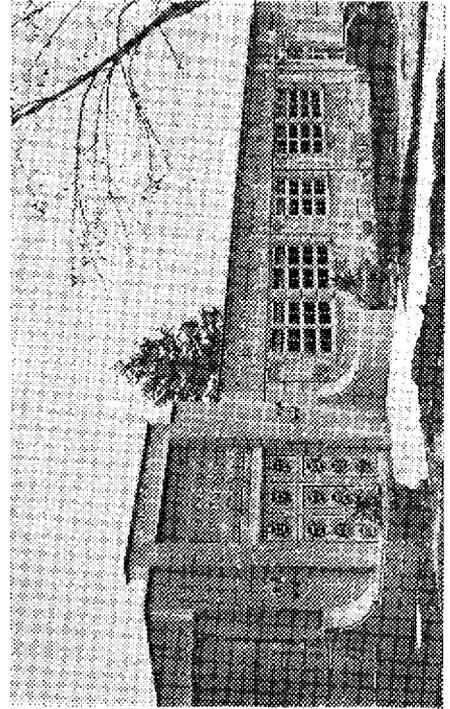

An interior view of one of the two huge gyms in the new physical education building is shown. Abundant equipment for gymnastics can be noticed.

Heavy snows have made winter playgrounds for University students and Eugeneans on the highway east over the McKenzie pass. A huge snowplow is shown at work near the summit, with Black Crater in the background. Excellent skiing can be found within a little over an hour's drive from the campus.

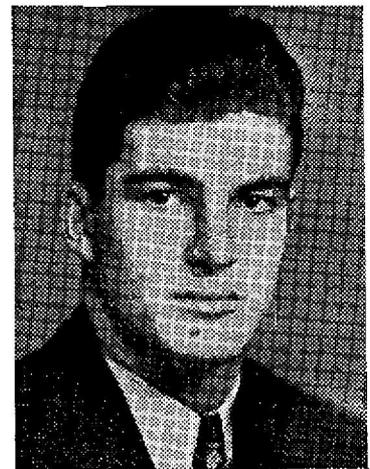

John Lewis, senior on the Oregon basketball team, poses for a shot in his street clothes, and shows that the Webfoot players are not only athletes, but good-looking gentlemen when off the courts, too.

Ten intriguing reasons why it might be a fine idea to be present for the Ballet Russe when it appears on the campus are shown below. All are stars in their own right, according to eastern critics. As the Daily Emerald remarked, it is expected that they will lend glamour to the affair.

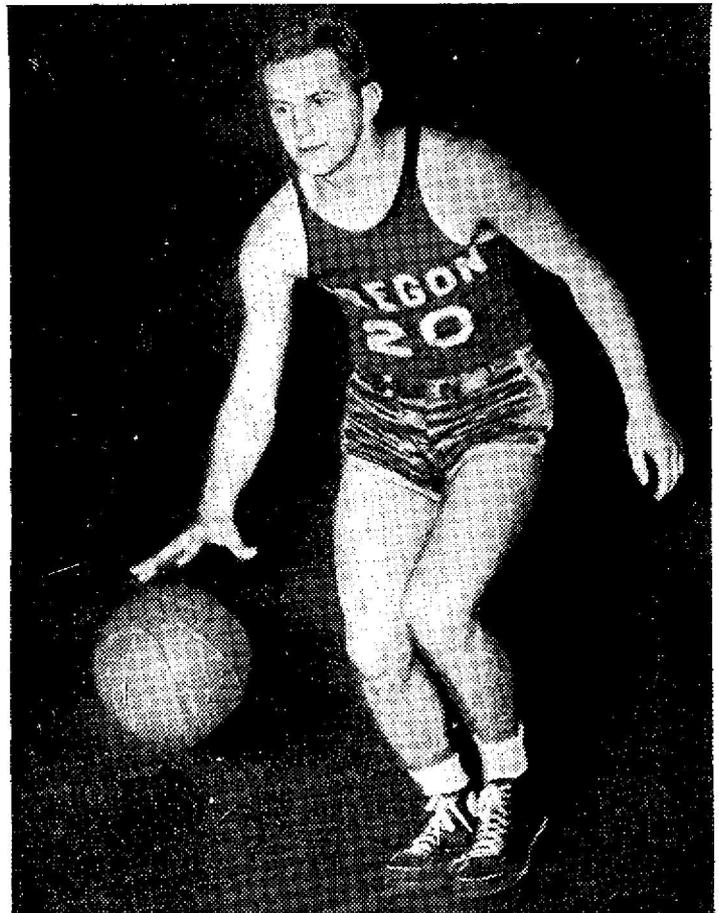

Beautiful Tamura Toumanova will be only one of the many sparkling ladies who will be on the campus February 4 with the Monte Carlo Ballet Russe. The ballet claims no featured star, but instead a galaxy of stars.

BALLET RUSSE

To emphasize the height of some of the Webfoot hoopsters, the photographer had Coach Hobson line up two giants, two midgets. Reading from left to right, are Hobson, Ray Jewell, Bob Anet, Bill Courtney, and Slim Wintermute (six foot eight and wears size 12 shoes).

An action shot of fast-dribbling Bobby Anet shows him starting on one of his drives down the court. The job of working the ball in falls on Anet's shoulders a good deal of the time, and he is an excellent feeder. No mean shot is Mr. Anet either and he often breaks loose past the defense for beautifully executed solo scoring.

Wayne L. Morse, dean of the law school, is now in Washington, D. C., assisting Attorney General Cummings, as director of a national legal survey. Noted for his research and writing, Dean Morse was named chairman of the AALS council on criminal law recently.

His contract renewed, Prink Callison will again hold the reigns of Oregon's grid team next year. A good fullback, a replacement for Del Bjork's tackle post, and spring practice are his chief worries right now.

Victor P. Morris, professor of economics, has been serving as acting dean of the school of business administration this year.

Professor of Education F. L. Stetson, on a leave of absence for a year's study in the east, visited over the holidays in Eugene.

Professor Paul E. Washke, director of the men's gym, reports himself as very well pleased with his new quarters in the huge PE plant recently opened on the campus.

Q U A C K S

INAUGURATED in December, "Quacks" is here to stay. Its quality we hope to improve as reader response intensifies. The office ducks, (Iguesso, on the left, and Iguesso II, on the right) indicate what we want. Shouting or weeping, chuckles or "gleeping," will fill the bill. Fire away!

RESPONSE to a tracer card sent out by the alumni office to locate the whereabouts of one Dr. — provides the first chuckle.

In requesting the information Miss Powers typed in, "Please, we are very anxious to get in touch with him." A few days later comes back the response, "Dr. — has been dead for years. I do not know where to direct you to get in touch with him. Sincerely, Mrs. —."

FOR attempting to humorize seriousness and sadness, and for flirting literally with death, perhaps we deserve chastizing, but another interesting story is how a blowout saved the life of one of our alums.

Ted R. Larsen, '27, now with the General Motors Acceptance Corporation in San Francisco, was coming west in December, and because of a delay of half an hour he just missed connections with the ill-fated passenger plane which crashed in the mountains of Utah, and killed all of its occupants.

Alum Larsen commented to newspapermen that for once he was glad he had a worn tire and a blowout.

DAVID C. ROGERS, who is "First Godfather of the TCLACA (Two Can Live as Cheaply [As One] Association," next cuts into our column with an excerpt of his letter from New Britain, Connecticut to TCLACA Founder Howard Kessler.

Hints for happiness through cooperation were suggested in the letter of Mr. Rogers, who last month flooded the coffers of the organization with a $5 contribution. He concluded by suggesting, "You can nail up as your thesis, 'Two Can Live As Cheaply together as separately, and a lot more soundly, efficiently, happily, purposefully, and serviceably—and you need have no fear that you will ever have to tear it down.'"

* * *

ARATHER scathing suggestion that if we want letters to "Quacks" the authors must not be satirized follows. Unsigned, but we print without comment.

Dear Editor:

If you wish your subscribers to write letters to you, it would seem not only courteous but very sensible to refrain from poking fun of the writers.

Your answer to "An Old Oregonian" in the December issue had a decided tinge of the smart-aleck. Dignified silence or kindly comment would have been much nicer.

Sincerely,
A Reader.

LAST issue's mourning by Iguesso, the office duck, about no hole being cut through the ad building so Pioneer's Mother and Father could see each other prompted Brother Iguesso II to recall that the Pioneer Mother is the hardest lady to photograph on the campus.

Solidness of structure, lack of background, and incorrect angle of lights has led the honored lady to be the bugaboo of campus photographers, when it comes to really getting a good shot.

Music Professor Louis Artau will substantiate us in the story of some time ago when an excellent photographer was called down from Portland by Burt Brown Barker to shoot the Mother.

This skilled gentleman-of-the-lens gazed at the statue from all angles, looked up at the May sun, and startled Vice-President Barker by saying, "I'll come back in August and take the picture."

He did, and the result was superior. A better angle of sunlight, more nearly catching and outlining features, did the trick.

* * *

LETTERS like the one following are the kind the budget department of the office receives with appreciation, and that the rest of us like to see mixed in with the denunciations. The writer will be remembered as the son of Dean Ellis F. Lawrence.

U. of O. Alumni Association,
Eugene, Oregon.
Gentlemen:

I am enclosing a money order for two dollars ($2) for my alumni dues and the Old Oregon. Needless to say the pleasant news of acquaintances during the long period I was in Eugene has been much appreciated. Also the news of contemporary activities at Eugene has been received with certain envy.

I am at present teaching in the Ojai Valley school, a private progressive school located in the very choicest part of California. I'm hoping to dig up a few Oregonians and renew some casual acquaintances.

The news of the completion of the Gym and an infirmary must be welcome to the present Student Body—hope they will appreciate them.

Sincerely,

Amos Lawrence, (B.S. '35 and almost a M.S. last year—one paper remains to be typed.)

* * *

DARN the "Driving Ducks." It seems we stubbed our toe on the superfluous repetition of the phrase last issue while trying to help initiate a new nickname. Comes the comment:

To the Editor:

As you well know, I ain't one to criticize—not much. But I got a gripe and you may have it.

On the cover of December's Old Oregon I find reference to Hobson's "Driving Ducks"; on page one I find "Driving Ducks" under comment by the editor; under sports on page six is reference to Oregon's "Driving Ducks"; page seven contains still another crack about Hobson's "Driving Ducks."

Look now, I don't doubt for a minute that our determined amphibians have the old drive in there every minute. Matter of fact, I probably hope for a northern division championship even more than the next yokel.

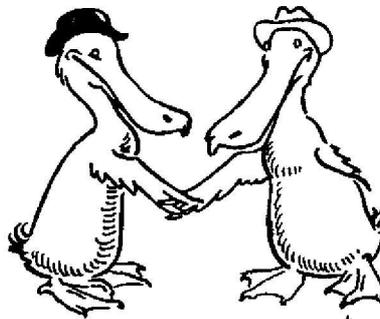

But ain't it a bit thick, this "Driving Ducks" stuff.

Yours as usual,

Orval Hopkins.

OLD OREGON READERS

● Write in and let us know what you think of the revised Old Oregon Magazine. Suggest changes. Tell us what you like, and what you dislike.

● Contributions of all kinds are always welcome to "Quacks." Names will be held upon request, but please sign your letters. Make them short, interesting, and sparkling.

● Write and let us know what the alumni organization can do to help you. This is YOUR office and YOUR magazine. We will endeavor to serve you to the best of our ability.

Sincerely,

Clair Johnson, Editor,
Old Oregon Magazine.

BALLET RUSSE COMING

ASUO Presents Famous Group February 4

Hailed as the top artistic and social event of the season, the famed Monte Carlo Ballet Russe will be presented in a theaterized McArthur court the evening of February 4 by the Associated Students. Ralph Schomp, educational activities manager, has announced a special stage will be built, seat levels will be fixed so all are good seats, and that gay, festive, and appropriate decorations will transform the Igloo into a virtual opera house.

Appearance at the University of the highly praised troupe, the largest organization of its type in the world, will be the first engagement in a city of less than 50,000.

Critics Everywhere Acclaim Artists

More than 100 artists comprise this group which appeared in ninety American cities last year and grossed over $1,000,000, is fresh from summer triumphs in London, and recently from New York where the dancers played to crowded houses that overtaxed the Metropolitan Opera house.

A complete symphony orchestra of 30 pieces is included in the personnel of the huge company. Fifty-five dancers are included in this unique family, which with managers, secretaries, and associates requires six Pullmans, four baggage cars, and a diner for every railroad jump.

Popular Program Appeals to All Types

"The Russian Ballet cannot help but find a wide audience in America," critics say, "because it has everything. It is one of the highest forms of cultural entertainment, but at the same time it is intrinsically a spectacular 'show' of a kind of three-ring circus of the arts. The music of the symphony orchestra, the dancing of not one star, but scores of the best trained dancers in the world, and the scenery and costumes of brilliant and original painters all conspire to awaken the senses of the audience and to excite them to high pitch."

Popular vote here decided the program to be presented. It includes: "La Boutique Fantasque," "Le Beau Danube," and "Les Sylphides."

Members of the Monte Carlo Ballet Russe troupe which appears on the campus February 4 are shown above in a characteristic scene from one of the ballet numbers which will be presented.

ADMIRAL BYRD SCHEDULED

Explorer Coming January 27

The other outstanding offering on the concert series this winter will be the appearance of Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, noted aviator, scientist, and explorer, who will be presented both afternoon and evening January 27.

The conqueror of the Antarctic accompanies his lecture with exclusive motion pictures to illustrate the exciting events on his historic polar exploration trip. Battles with the elements, the sufferings and privations the men had to endure, the scientific work carried on, and the exploration of unknown areas will all be portrayed and commented upon.

Show, Lecture Educational

Admiral Byrd brings with him 9,000 feet of motion picture film, where glimpses of he and his gallant crew as they swooped over polar seas in their huge Condor plane, or ploughed through clashing pack-ice in the barkentine, Bear of Oakland, will be seen.

Eastern critics hail the program as an educational feature not to be missed by either children or adults. Press reports from previous cities where Admiral Byrd has played indicate that enthusiastic audiences of more than 15,000 and 20,000 flocked to greet him.

Prices for this program, as with the Ballet Russe, are extremely low compared with admission charges asked in other cities the artists have appeared, ASUO officials have announced.

Among Nation's Top Men

Walter E. Holman, ex-'24, who is in business in Portland, was recently selected as one of the 12 outstanding young men of the past year in America.

The selection was made for the third consecutive year by Durward Howes, editor of America's Young Men, for the United Press.

This is further recognition for Mr. Holman, who in June, 1936, was elected president of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce. Eleven of the twelve men selected were university men, and include such notable figures as Henry Morgenthau Jr., Rush D. Holt, Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., and Carl D. Anderson.

Alum Named Chevalier

A new and outstanding honor for Oregon alums was achieved recently by LeRoy Wood, ex-'09, when he was picked by Belgium's King Leopold III as a "chevalier of the Order of the Crown." Wood joins the ranks of only a few Americans who have been accorded this honor. It was given to him for his contributions toward improved relationships between the Belgian and United States' governments.

Word of the honor attained by the former Albany man was received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Wood, from their daughter Mrs. Carey Longmire, '31, who has been visiting her brother at his home in Belgium. Mr. Wood is now general manager of the Ford automobile company's European assembling plant in Antwerp, Belgium. His wife was formerly Lena Millier, '08.

ART LEAGUE NOTES

Old Oregon acknowledges with appreciation the receipt of a letter from the University Alumni Art League in Portland relating various items of interest regarding art alumni. Similar letters from other groups will also be appreciated.

* * *

The winter activities of the University Alumni Art League started with a meeting early in November at which the organization's plan for the Studio was considered and progress toward the realization of the Ceramic Studio and Kiln was reported.

Leaders reported the promotion of the Studio has been the object of most of the efforts of the Art League during the past year and that requirements prior to building are almost completely fulfilled.

Officers now at the helm of the Art League and who were elected at the November meeting are: Lowell F. Anderson, '34, president, succeeding Mrs. Lydia Herrick Hodge, '27; Stuart Biles, ex-'25, vice-president; Katherine Macnab, ex-'30, treasurer; Anita Kellogg, ex-'28, secretary; and Elizabeth Pennock, ex-'30, Dorothy Jonsrud, '27, and Eleanor Kafoury, '32, corresponding secretaries.

Miss Kafoury, corresponding secretary, reports that interesting letters have been received from art alumni in various parts of the country. She includes the following notes:

Hope Crouch Nash, '28, writes that she is at 1 Maple Street, Hanover, N. H. Her husband has a printing shop at Dartmouth and she is working with him designing wood cuts, stencils, ornaments, and so forth.

Gertrude Parker, '30, writes from 1812 Downing Street, Denver, Colorado, where she is living with her sister Daisy Belle Parker, '27. The former is working in an insurance office and the latter directing music in a large church and teaching organ and piano.

Velna Alexander, '32, is in Salem, 378 Bellevue Street. She has been continuing her painting and has been exhibiting her work there.

Eunice Zimmerman Noyes, '22, now lives in Tucumcari, New Mexico, where her husband is with army engineers. She has two small sons. In the last few years she has studied with a number of interesting teachers in Los Angeles, Seattle, and New York, and has worked in Taos with the University of New Mexico classes.

The last report from Joe Staniford, '34, found him working on the architectural part of the San Francisco Aquatic Park under the direction of Oren Jenkins, '19. Mr. Staniford's address is 1307 Bay, San Francisco.

Miss Wiley Winner

Miss Margaret Wiley, Portland, who studied at the University during 1931-32 and 1932-33, was recently announced as the winner of the $1200 fellowship offered for 1937-38 by the American Association of University Women.

She won both her bachelor's and master's degrees from Reed college, has studied at the University of Chicago, and is now at Radcliffe college.

Mrs. Elaine Williams Oglesby, '32, was a former winner. Also this year special consideration was accorded the application of Miss Ruth Edwinna Hopson, '31.

'News' Changes Hands

January first a shift in ownership of the Eugene Morning News was announced from Joseph H. Koke and T. I. Chapman, '21, majority stockholders, to Sheldon Sackett, who did graduate work at the University during the summer session of 1923.

Richard Horn, '31, who has been business and advertising manager of the News leaves the organization to enter the real estate business in Portland, while John Anderson, '23, continues as managing editor.

Mr. Sackett, who has initiated several new features on the News since his acquisition of ownership, is also publisher of the Coos Bay Times at Marshfield, and a partner with Charles Sprague in the Salem Statesman.

Morgan Visits Campus

Bill Morgan, who as captain of the 1932 Webfoot grid team gained all-coast and national honors, visited over the holidays in Eugene and expressed the view that Oregon players were dominant in the professional leagues this past year, surpassing the previous leaders, the Texans.

Morgan mentioned particularly the excellent performances of Mark Temple and Bernie Hughes. He said Del Bjork was considered one of the likeliest prizes in pro recruiting circles.

Last year Morgan was chosen the outstanding lineman in professional football.
