IN THE MAIL BAG

633 Medical Arts Bldg.,
Portland, Oregon.
December 15, 1937.

Dear Old Oregon:

Not that anyone might be interested but I have moved my office to 633 Medical Arts building here in Portland, where I will continue my surgical practice.

Also I am not sure that the University is aware that we are rearing the varsity full-back for the years 1954, '55 and '56. Paul A. was born August 16.

Of course, we will be represented by three coeds before this, but we don't anticipate that they will aid the University greatly on the gridiron.

Dear Alumni Association:

We are the parents of a baby boy, Don Willan, born June 21, 1937. Our newly built home (extremely modern design) is being landscaped by ourselves—can you believe it?

Received a note from Thelma Chappell, '31. Her new address is 992 Green street, San Francisco. She works in Oakland and commutes each day. Each summer we see many of the old alumni on their way on the Oregon Coast highway.

It was a swell Homecoming this year—saw everyone. This Christmas we saw Olive Ritan Hedges, '31 (Mrs. Dwight Hedges). They have two children, Joseph, two and one half years old, and David, one year. Also saw Alice and Bill Whitely, '31 (our G-man), and Bill III, age one year. We hear from Betty and John McCulloch (G-man) in Sacramento.

DOROTHY YORK VAUGHAN,
Ex-'34.

Alumni Secretary,
University of Oregon,
Eugene, Oregon.

Dear Mr. Fansett:

Enclosed in this letter is a five dollar check for a three year subscription to Old Oregon. Oregon can count on my loyalty and support. Through the Oregon Alumni Association I would like to hear the latest news and accomplishment of Oregon.

I am enclosing newspaper articles to account for my activities since I left Oregon. Later on next year I intended to go to the Army Flying School, having two years of college, but now plan to enter into mortuary work next fall. If my friends wonder why I want to take up this work let them know that it is a very profitable business. Through Old Oregon I would like to have my friends to know what has happened to me since I left school.

Sincerely yours,

H. FRED TOWNER, ex-'39,
1138 W. 5th St.,
Santa Ana, Calif.

(Ed. Note—We reprint the articles concerning Fred Towner.)

YOUNGEST ALUMNUS

Youngest member in Long Beach alumni chapter of Delta Tau Delta fraternity is Fred Towner, son of Mrs. C. C. Ream, 1138 West Fifth street, who is here for a visit from New York City, and became affiliated with the alumni group last week. The oldest member in the chapter is 70 years of age, it was reported.

Towner, who is a photographer in the army air service at Mitchell Field, arrived from New York during the holidays. He will report for duty in mid-January, completing his term next August. During that time he plans to attend meetings of New York City alumni chapter of Delta Tau Delta. He became a member of the fraternity while attending University of Oregon.

FROM LONG ISLAND

Frederick Towner, who has been stationed at Mitchell Field, Long Island, with the U. S. Army air corps, arrived Sunday morning for a visit with his mother, Mrs. C. C. Ream, 1138 West Fifth street.

He stopped in Chicago, Ill., and other eastern points en route home, planning to make the return trip via New Orleans. He is due in Long Island January 17. A member of the photographic department of the air corps, he will complete a year of service in August, at which time he expects to purchase a new car and motor home.

While stationed at Long Island, Towner has enjoyed side trips to many eastern points of interest. He has been entertained extensively by his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Towner, who reside at 535 Park avenue, New York City. Mr. Towner is a former resident of Santa Ana.

Dear Mr. Fansett:

I regret to say that I have never heard of an Edward Fulton Buxton—the only other Buxton of whom I have known as attending Oregon was my youngest brother, Robert Edward, who now is attending O. S. C., having been at Willamette also since leaving Oregon. So you must have the wrong tribe.

I am hoping in a year and a summer to return to Eugene just to look the place over again—I have great sport telling middle-westerners about dry rain, mill races, pigging, and like idiosyncrasies of the upper Willamette valley.

Cordially,

CLAUDE E. BUXTON, M.A. '35.

(Editor's note—We very much appreciated Mr. Buxton's courteous reply to our efforts to locate Edward F. Buxton—even if we did step into the wrong tribe. Maybe some other alumnus knows the whereabouts of Edward F. Buxton, ex-'40.)

Prince G. Callison Leaves Oregon Football

"In the interest of the University of Oregon and Oregon football I hereby tender my resignation, my services to terminate at the end of the present fiscal year (June 30, 1938) in accordance with my notification of appointment." Thus on December 17 Prince Gary Callison severed his coaching relations of six years with the University.

Callison refused the request of the Athletic board to reconsider his action.

Callison's resignation followed the formation on the campus of a group which labeled themselves the CCCC (Can Coach Callison Club), and dissatisfaction expressed over showings of recent Callison coached football clubs. This movement was strongly resented by loyal supporters of Callison who realized his sound football knowledge. Callison supporters were particularly strong in Seattle, Astoria, Bend, Medford and other Oregon cities.

Callison's resignation was in line with his statement made when formation of the CCCC was first made public—that he would clear the way whenever he felt it would be to the best interests of the University.

Callison became head coach in 1932 when Dr. Clarence Spears departed for Wisconsin. During this six-year period Oregon tied for the Coast conference championship (in 1933) and won the northwest crown (1935). Callison's varsity elevens have won 33, lost 23 and tied two games including the current season which brought four victories and six losses.

The Webfoot mentor was a star Oregon gridder of no mean ability himself, playing sparkling ball at center after graduating from Eugene high school. He was a member of the 1919 Rose Bowl team that lost a 7-6 count to Harvard.

After receiving his degree in 1923, Callison went to Medford high school where he developed the state's most outstanding high school elevens in the history of state football. During his six years as coach of the "Black Tornadoes" his team won four state titles, winning 41 games, losing one and tying one.

In 1929 Callison came back to Eugene as freshman football coach, bringing with him such later stars as Bill Morgan, later voted an all-American pro tackle, and Bernie Hughes, another stellar lineman who rated all-conference honors.

The year Spears completed his final season, Callison produced his "wonder team," composed of Stan Kostka, Art Clarkson, George Pepelnjak—a team that registered such scores that comptometers were required to total the final tabulations. During that three-year period the Ducklings won 11, lost two and tied one.

The 1936 season was Callison's most disastrous in his coaching career—the Webfoots winning but two of nine games. The current season was more successful, what with his addition of a sensational group of freshmen from a high-scoring 1936 Duckling squad. The Oregons this season cracked three records of long standing although they finished only above U. C. L. A. in the final conference standings. Oregon defeated Stanford for the first time in history, scored on U. S. C. for the first time in 17 years, and defeated Washington State for the first time in 15 years.

Callison has sent some fine gridgers into the coaching and professional football field, namely Mark Temple, Mike Mikulak, Leighton Gee, Bob Parke, "Butch" Morse, Alex Eagle, Bud Pozzo, Del Bjork, and a fine string of seniors this season.

Callison's coaching record for the 14 years shows 85 wins, 26 losses, and 4 ties.

Prince G. Callison, '26, leaves the University of Oregon after six years as head football coach. Callison was football coach for longer than any other coach in the history of Oregon athletics.

Winter Registration Hits All-Time High

Winter term registration has reached a new high, incomplete figures released by Clifford Constance, '25, reveal. After the first week of registration 3011 students had signed for winter term, an eight per cent increase over the 1937 winter term's total of 2777.

Physical Education showed the greatest gain in majors with 43.7% more students than last year. Business Administration and Journalism showed the next greatest gains with 20.5% and 16.7% respectively.

Women students are outnumbered by the men by more than 50%. As usual, the Sophomores lead the classes in numerical strength of 1109, the Junior class is the smallest with 297 members.

Carlton E. Spencer, '13, recently elected president of the Oregon State Reserve Officers' association.

Washington, D.C. Group

Feeling very grateful to Oregon alum Merle Chessman, '09, of Astoria for having provided an excellent repast of fresh Columbia river salmon, 58 former students of the University of Oregon, whose class numerals ranged from '07 to '38, held their first meeting in two years on December 17 at the Kennedy-Warren in Washington D. C. A definite feeling that the University under the leadership of its new president Dr. Donald M. Erb was destined to soon come into its own pervaded the dinner meeting.

The meeting was especially enlivened by the presence of Dean Wayne L. Morse of the law school, who brought the latest news concerning the election of the president and the general state of affairs at the University and over the state. The feature of the evening was an individual standing introduction, with each member rising in his place and introducing himself and describing the work he was now doing. It was discovered that a large majority of the former students are now affiliated with the government in some capacity.

At the suggestion of acting chairman Donald C. Beelar, '28, it was found that seven married couples were present, both of whom were graduates of the University. The oldest alum present was Commander C. W. Ross of the class of

'07 who is now affiliated with the naval medical service. Another interesting feature was the singing of Oregon songs, led by Mrs. Ben S. Fisher (Katherine Chatburn, ex-'21), which seemed to afford much pleasure to the former Webfeet.

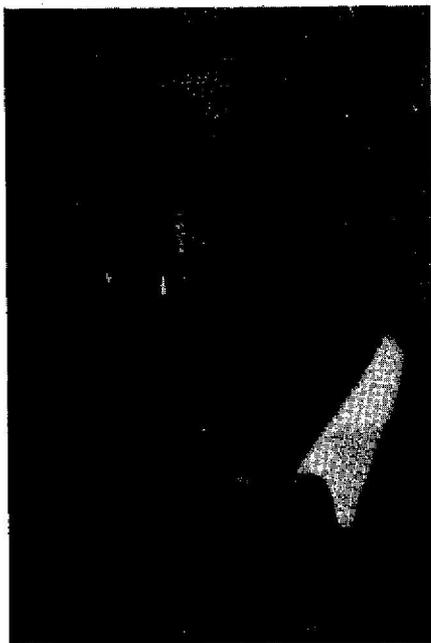

The Washington group was very glad to welcome Tom Tongue, '34, a graduate of the law school, who is now a Sterling fellow at Yale, and John Caswell, '34, a graduate student at Princeton. The alumni had their memories turned back to the days of athletic supremacy at Oregon when former basketball coach Bill Reinhart, '34, who is now coaching at George Washington University, gave a short talk in which he declared that, in his belief, his former teams had much more spirit than those he is now coaching.

The alumni chapter voted to send a telegram congratulating Dr. Erb on his recent election to the presidency. Telegrams expressing greetings were received from OLD OREGON and the president of the Associated Students. A committee was appointed to discuss the feasibility of holding either monthly or bi-monthly luncheon meetings.

The committees arranging the affair were headed by Don Beelar and were as follows: Invitations, Cosgrove LaBarre, '36, Bill Schloth, '36, Helen W. Beelar, '29, and John Halderman, '31; reception, Mary Elma Rundlett, ex-'32, Mrs. John Kendall, and Mrs. Jesse Douglas (Florence King, '32); tickets, Francis Pallister, '34, and publicity, Mrs. John H. King (Mary Fenton, '32). The group was especially thankful for the Emeralds and Old Oregons which were distributed by Reed Swenson, ex-'35, and Bill Schloth, '36.

The list of alumni attending the dinner is as follows:

Dean Wayne Morse, Commissioner and Mrs. Clyde Aitchison, Dr. Beatrice Aitchison, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Reinhart, Major and Mrs. Elmer Hall, Commander and Mrs. C. W. Ross, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Straight, Mrs. Raymond Kerr, Dr. and Mrs. Roy Veatch, Dr. George Verne Blue, Cosgrove LaBarre, Bill Schloth, Francis Pallister, Mr. and Mrs. John Kendall, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Biggs, Miss Jayne Bowerman, Mr. John Halderman, Mr. and Mrs. John King, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Thornton, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Douglas, Mr. Reed Swenson, Mr. Bill Michel, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Stalder, Mr. and Mrs. James Sharp, Miss Mary Elma Rundlett, Lt. and Mrs. Carl Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Denzil Page, Mr.

Beloved Dr. B. W. DeBusk, to whom a memorial volume has just been published by the University press.

and Mrs. Orris Page, Miss Laurene Brockschink, Mr. Kenton Hamaker, Miss Margaret Stauff, Mr. Ronald Beattie, Mrs. Frieda G. Gassin, Dr. Virginia Patterson, Mr. J. Spencer Carlson (Baltimore), Mr. and Mrs. Donald Beelar, Mr. Tom Tongue (Yale), Mr. John Caswell (Princeton), Mr. and Mrs. Ben S. Fisher, Mrs. Edward Holmes (Betty Boynton).

—John King.

Dr. Solve to Go to Duke

Dr. Melvin T. Solve, '18, professor of English at the University of Arizona, will teach two summer session courses for graduate students this year at Duke university in Durham, N. C. Dr. Solve will teach "Shelley," and "Early 19th Century Literature."

During the 1937 summer Dr. Solve taught at the University of Oregon. He has been a member of the Arizona faculty since 1928, coming to the state university after a four-year term of teaching at the University of Michigan. Graduate of the University of Oregon in 1918, Dr. Solve took work for his Ph. D. degree which he received from the Michigan university. He was a member of the Oregon University resident faculty from 1919 to 1923.

Dr. Solve is the author of a volume on Shelley, published in 1927; essay reading, released in 1928, and two editions on college composition published in 1929 and in 1934 respectively.

River Exploration Told

Dr. Ian Campbell, B.A. '22 and M.A. '24, was a Eugene visitor during December when he lectured on his latest explorations of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado.

Dr. Campbell, who is now a member of the California Institute of Technology faculty, recently led a party of scientists through the dangerous gorge. The trip was the thirteenth recorded trip down the river canyon in the history of the area.

The purpose of the expedition was the exploration of rock formations of the Archaean era—the oldest geologic strata known and possibly a billion years old—which are exposed at the floor of the canyon.

De Busk Memorial

A memorial volume, "DeBusk Memorial Essays," has just been published by the University press. The book, edited by Henry D. Sheldon, now research professor of history and for many years dean of the school of education, is a tribute to the character and work of Dr. Burchard Woodson DeBusk.

Dr. Sheldon inscribes the book:

"To one who worked with Dr. DeBusk for more than 20 years, the lasting impression is of a man, sympathetic and fair-minded, avoiding strife, always creative in his efforts and loyal to his institutional responsibilities and to his own strong urge to help those who were limited in their mental equipment. A man so single in his purposes, so free from petty jealousies and egotistic inhibitions is seldom found."

Dr. DeBusk was a leading figure in the establishment of the now nationally famous clinical for atypical children at the University, and the volume describes much of his work there.

Dr. DeBusk was particularly interested in students with reading difficulties, and many a student finding college work almost beyond his ability went to Dr. DeBusk and was immeasurably aided by his techniques and kindly guidance.

Articles by Dr. Elizabeth Montgomery, Miss Lillian Rayner, Wallace T. Wait, Max Barr, and Kenneth Shumaker are included in the volume.

Econ Group Names Hall

James K. Hall, B.A. '26 and M.A. '26, University of Washington professor, was elected president of the Pacific Coast Economic Association when it held its 16th annual conference on the Pomona college campus during the vacation.

Other officers elected included Robert D. Calkins, B.S. '25 and M.A. '28, now teaching at the University of California, who was named vice president. James H. Gilbert, '03, dean of the University of Oregon's College of Social Science, was named to the executive committee.

Coaching Choice Narrows to Four Men

Oregon's quest for a new football coach narrowed to four possibilities when the athletic board spent a five hour session on January 14 discussing 54 candidates and prospects for the job left vacant by "Prink" Callison's resignation in December.

The board went on record as favoring:

Ted Banks—head coach, University of Idaho.

James Bradshaw—head coach, Fresno State Teachers' college.

Tex Oliver—head coach, University of Arizona.

Gene Shields—line coach, University of Oregon.

Anson B. Cornell, graduate manager, announced that this does not mean that the field has been limited to these four, but that others might possibly be searched out. Out of state prospects have been invited to Eugene to confer with members of the board.

In a campus poll conducted by the Emerald, students gave Gene Shields, popular line coach, 300 of the 482 votes turned in. This poll was conducted at the dinner tables of various organizations to preclude any stuffing of the box. In the same poll Eric Waldorf received 43 votes, Jim Bradshaw 20, and Tex Oliver 10.

Shields has also been strongly backed by the 1937 football team and many former players.

No decision is expected until Banks, Bradshaw and Oliver have visited Eugene and conferred with members of the board.

Dr. Erb Likes Fishing

Oregon students will have an opportunity to meet the new president when Dr. Donald Erb addresses a general assembly on January 20.

Dr. Erb will come north for the Oregon Newspaper Publishers' association conference January 20, 21, and 22, and will take advantage of the trip to greet the student body for the first time since his election to the presidency was announced in November.

Students felt a little closer to their new president when stories of Erb's love of fishing appeared in the Emerald. "He is an incorrigible and inveterate fisherman. Some of his friends suspect that one reason for his being interested in the presidency of the University is that it brings him back to his familiar fishing grounds," said Dean Gilbert.

Henry N. Fowler, '14, Bend Bulletin, charter member of U. of O. Chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, who will be toastmaster at the luncheon during the Press conference on Saturday, January 22.

Professor Ernest G. Moll's comment was the most heartwarming—"I am afraid now that he will have to wear pants without a hole in them."

Dr. Moll, who has been Dr. Erb's fishing companion for the past ten years and who fished with the new president twice a week during the 1937 summer school, also revealed that Dr. Erb is so attached to his fishing boots that he has worn the same pair for the past seven years.

Klep Exhibit Successful

Rolf Klep, who came to the University from Astoria, and graduated with the class of 1927, has recently won high praise at the Book Fair, which is conducted each year by the New York Times. This is the result of an exhibition of his new book, "Album of the Great," published within the last few weeks by Knopf. The novel feature is the fact that he has both written the material and drawn the beautiful pictures which it contains. It deals with sixteen of the principal characters in all the fields of the arts from the eighth to the eighteenth century.

He is now working on the illustrations for a children's book to be issued soon. It concerns twelve plays of Shakespeare, and Mr. Klep is drawing the Shakespearian characters.

His water colors have been used often in recent months as the covers for the Literary Digest, Yachting Magazine, Colliers, and Life.

Oregon Press Conference

Oregon alumni are scheduled to play prominent parts in the twentieth annual Oregon Press Conference to be held in Eugene on the weekend of January 21.

Adelaide V. Lake, '20, editor of the Sheridan Sun, will speak on "Women in Oregon Journalism." "Freedom of the Press and Freedom of Speech" will be the subject of an address to be made by E. Palmer Hoyt, '24, managing editor of the Oregonian. The opening event of the conference is to be a banquet held on Thursday evening—toastmaster for the occasion will be Lucien P. Arant, ex-'18, now co-publisher of the Baker Democrat-Herald.

Harry S. Schenk, '33, advertising manager of the McMinnville Telephone-Register, will preside at the conference of the ONPA Advertising Managers. Schenk is president of the managers' group.

Featured speaker for the conference will be Dr. Donald M. Erb, newly elected president of the University. Dr. Erb is coming to Eugene from Palo Alto to address the group on the subject of "Professors and the Press."

The University of Oregon chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, national professional journalism fraternity, is celebrating the 25th anniversary of the founding of the local chapter and the completion of the 25th year of the University school of journalism by a Silver Jubilee luncheon to be held Saturday, January 22.

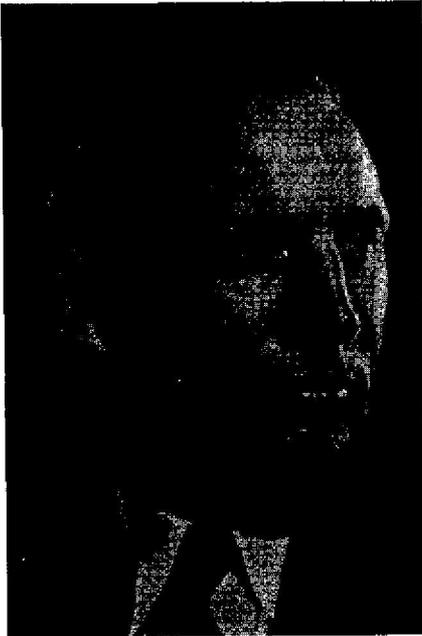

Henry N. Fowler, '14, now with the Bend Bulletin, will act as toastmaster. Fowler is one of the charter members of the local Sigma Delta Chi group.

W. W. Loomis, president of the National Editorial Association and publisher of a string of weekly newspapers in the Chicago suburban field, will be the principal speaker of the Saturday morning session. His topic will be "Facing New Problems" and will deal with advertising and legislative problems confronting the newspapers of the country.

1800 ASUO Cards Sold

Associated Student card sales registered an 18% gain over last winter term, George Root, educational activities manager, announced at the conclusion of the winter term card sale drive.

More than 1800 students bought cards this term. Louis Rotenberg, Rita Wright, and John Luvaas acted as co-chairmen of the drive.

Claude Robinson, '24, has been named assistant director of the American Institute of Public Opinion.

Robinson Is Gallup Aid

Dr. Claude E. Robinson, student body president 1923-1924, a graduate of the class of 1924, has recently been made Associate Director of the American Institute of Public Opinion, which was formed by Dr. George Gallup, with headquarters in New York City. He has been interested in this field for a number of years. While a student at Columbia University, from which institute he received his Doctor of Philosophy degree in 1934, he wrote the book called "Straw Votes," which was published by the Columbia University press. During the last national election, he conducted the straw vote poll for the New York Post. Numerous articles written by him have appeared in the New York Times, New Republic, Public Opinion Quarterly, and other publications.

After leaving Columbia in 1934, he became interested in financial research in Wall Street, where he remained until he received the offer concerning his present connection.

Immediately after graduation at Oregon, he went to New York, where he became intensely interested in sociology, and consequently spent a good deal of time gathering first-hand information as a member of the staff of the old "Sutton Place Settlement House." It was in this field that he took his doctorate.

He had not been in the East long before he enticed Elizabeth Manning, '27, to visit the "big town." No one has been able to learn whether the arrangements for their marriage were made before or after she left Oregon. They live at 11 Willow Street, in Brooklyn Heights, when they are not commuting to their farm in Pennsylvania.

Like the President, he lists his vocation as "dirt farmer."

Milton A. Miller

Milton Armington Miller, ex-'88, United States collector of customs and ex-United States collector of internal revenue for Oregon, died January 8 in Portland, after an illness of several weeks' duration.

A son of pioneer parents, Milton A. Miller was born on a farm four miles south of Lebanon, Oregon, August 23, 1862. He made the farm his home until he moved to Lebanon to go into business. He then taught for several years and saved enough money to attend the University.

He attended the University during the academic years of 1884-85 and 1885-86. Mr. Miller was a regent of the University for 12 years from 1905 to 1917. In 1889 he moved to Lebanon where he established a drug store and book store. He served as mayor of Lebanon for ten years, and was a member of the school board there for 20 years.

Mr. Miller was elected a democratic member of the state house of representatives in 1890, serving four years in the lower house. In 1902 he was elected to the state senate, then re-elected, resigning when President Wilson appointed him collector of internal revenue in July 1913. He held the post throughout the Wilson administrations.

He was a delegate to the democratic national conventions of 1896, 1900,

Dr. Samuel H. Jameson, professor of sociology, who was elected president of the Pacific Sociological association when that group met in Claremont, California, during Christmas vacation.

1908, 1912 and 1932. In 1928 and 1932 he was the choice of Oregon democrats for vice-president. He served as national committeeman for Oregon, 1900-04 and 1908-12. In 1924 Senator Miller was his party's nominee for United States senator but was defeated by his cousin, Charles L. McNary. When George E. Chamberlain was governor, Mr. Miller served on the state textbook commission. Senator Miller also served as chairman of the Champoeg park commission for many years.

$500 Grant Awarded

The Carnegie Institute of Washington, D. C., has granted $500 to Dr. L. S. Cressman to continue his studies of prehistoric man at Catlow Caves in southeastern Oregon.

The grant comes as recognition of the valuable work which Dr. Cressman and his associates have done the past two summers. Evidence of early culture and artifacts uncovered at the caves may prove that Oregon had the oldest civilization of this part of the earth.

Skull Given Museum

The University of Oregon's anthropological museum is the recipient of a gift of the skull of an ancient medicine man, parts of six skeletons, and over three hundred stone specimens. These are the gift of Stanley B. Jewett, Portland regional director of the United States biological survey.

Nathan Milstien, noted violinist, who is being presented in concert by the Associated Students on Sunday afternoon, February 13.

Webfeet Lead Conference in Basketball

The lanky dashing University of Oregon basketball team busted open their 1938 conference season with a double victory over the Washington State Cougars, defending northern division champs. First on January 10 by the score of 54 to 33, and then on the next night by the score of 50 to 46. Both games were played in McArthur court.

They were the twelfth and the thirteenth straight Oregon victories for the current season and the Webfoot average score has been well above 50 in every game.

It was their usual fast driving game that the Oregon quintet played but with a tendency toward raggedness. In the first game the Oregonians ran circles around the boys from eastern Washington, and in the second the visitors tried to match the fast-breaking of the Webfoot machine but couldn't quite make it. They did pile up enough points, when added to the Oregon score, to make one of the highest totals ever scored in a northern division game.

There were 36 personal fouls in the first game, 21 on W.S.C and 15 on Oregon. There were many bad passes and fumbled dribbles. Laddie Gale was high point man with 14 counters, but he did not overshadow the scrappy playing of Anet, Johansen, Wintermute, and Hardy. A whole team of reserves was carrying on the war toward the end.

Oregon 50—WSC 46

On the second night Gale was again high, this time with 19 of Oregon's 50 points. But it wasn't quite as simple as it was on the night before, for the Cougars had grabbed off an early lead and at intermission time the score was only 28 to 26 in favor of Oregon.

Again Washington State was number one on fouls with a total of 20, and the Ducks fouled 16 times. Oregon salted away 16 of the 22 free throws and W.S.C 10 out of 18.

Dave Silver was extremely valuable at the backboard, and the ball handling of Johansen and the driving fight of little Bobby Anet were features of the game.

Pre-Season Games

Averaging 56 points to their opponents 31, the 1938 edition of Oregon's basketball team whipped through 11 pre-season hoop games with an attack that placed them as one of the strong cup contenders in the present season's Northern division basketball race.

Leading the attack in the games were

Laddie Gale, Webfoot forward who made 127 points, Urgel "Slim" Wintermute, center, who cauned 91 points, and a newcomer from Southern Oregon normal, Bob Hardy, forward, who accounted for 84 tallies. The floor play was dominated by the Astoria Finns, Bobby Anet and Wally Johansen, however, whose efficient ball handling juggled the apple into position for many of the shots.

This pre-season warmup series had its bad medicine, however, when Dave Silver, senior forward, sustained a toe injury which was expected to handicap his early season playing.

In the first pre-season games, the Ducks took the University of Portland Pilots 68 to 24 and the ex-college stars of the Multnomah athletic club team 56 to 37 on two successive evenings at the University Igloo. Laddie Gale showed his possibilities in the first game by potting in 19 points, and in the other game the high honors were divided among Anet, Johansen, and Wintermute.

Oregon 47—UCLA 26

On December 11 the UCLA Bruins came along on a barnstorming trip and the Webfooters paused in the pre-examination studying to take them 47 to 26, not without difficulty however, for both teams were ragged and committed 27 fouls. The Ducks made 14.

On the following Saturday several ex-Oregon basketeers invaded the McArthur court on the Union Oil company team of Portland, but were beaten 66 to 32 by the speed of the "younger generation." Johnny Lewis, last year's captain, canned the first shot for the Oilers, but Johansen, Hardy, and Sarpola, another Finn, a sophomore from Astoria, led an overwhelming attack with 16, 15, and 14 pointers respectively. Other Coach Howard Hobson is blessed with a tall step-laddery team this year and had to borrow a ladder to get up there high enough to do some coaching. Here he is shown with Dave Silver (left), Laddie Gale, and Urgel (Slim) Wintermute.

Oregon alums on the oiler team were the Jones boys, Willie and Budd, "Spook" Robertson, and Rollie Rourke.

Oregon 72—SONS 43

The SONS from Ashland fell next—it was 72 to 43. The SONS had the lead for the first seven minutes and Leavens their guard earned high point honors with 18 tallies, but they were swamped by the combined sharpshooting of Gale and Sarpola both of whom made 14 points and Johansen and Anet with 11 apiece.

By this time the Webfoots had won their fifth straight victory and left Eugene for a road trip into northern Oregon.

They beat the ex-Oregon State star Wally Palmberg's Astoria Easterns 43 to 28 easily enough, but ran into grave difficulties in their second game with the Multnomah club five, when they barely edged out a 38 to 36 victory over the clubmen. Oregon trailed 18 to 23 at the half time and didn't gain the advantage until 12 minutes had elapsed in the second half. Then the score see-sawed until the end of the game.

Oregon 43—Portland 24

The Webfoots were stronger the next evening against the Portland Pilots and won 43 to 24. Gale who totaled-14 points in the game made 12 of the counters within the first 10 minutes. The score was 23 to 9 for Oregon at the half. Hardy made 12 points.

At this time the boys disbanded for Christmas at home, but on the following Monday came back to win their ninth straight game by again beating Union Oil, this time 49 to 21.

Willamette University offered some opposition to the Webfoots at Salem, but were quelled 57 to 38. Gale canned 18 points and when he started to weaken, Wintermute carried on and made 13 of the counters.

Oregon won the 11th and final game of the pre-season series with a 78 to 34 victory over the Willamette Bearcats New Year's day at Eugene. The Webfoots had no trouble and led 34 to 14 at the half. Johansen sparkled again on his floor play but came out on fouls. Gale was high with 18 and Hardy made 12.

"Iron Man" Foskett

Bill Foskett, Oregon's 210-pound tackle and a weight man on the Webfoot track team was the "iron man" in last fall's football season. He had 440 minutes of playing time in at the end of the ten game season, an average of 44 minutes per game. In the Washington and W.S.C. games he played the full 60 minutes.

Coach "Mike" Hoyman has brought Oregon swimming to the top of the ladder during the past four years. For the second year in a row Phi Bete Hoyman has two of his swimmers place on the All Americans.

All-American Swimmers

Jim Hurd, free-style sprinter, and Bob Chilton, diver, two of last year's University of Oregon Northwest championship swimming team, have been named on the 1937 all-American swimming team recently chosen by the national intercollegiate swimming board.

This is the second successive year that two of coach Mike Hoyman's Webfoots are on the mythical squad and the second time for Hurd to be thus named. In 1936, Hurd, undefeated in two years of Pacific coast competition, and Jim Reed, backstroke champion, were on the team.

Chilton was the northern division diving champion in 1935 and 1937. He lost only once in three years. That was in the 1936 northern division meet when he lost to his teammate, Bert Myers by .4 of a point.

Hurd and Chilton finished their competition last spring and Jim Reed the year before.

Two University of Oregon freshmen, Jack Dallas, breast stroke, and Sherman Wetmore, backstroke, both of whom attended the Los Angeles Polytechnic high school, were chosen on the 1937 all-American interscholastic high school squad. Dallas was named as the nation's foremost high school performer in his event. Both are rated as definite 1940 Olympic prospects.

The University of Oregon varsity team has been undefeated in intercollegiate dual meet competition for four consecutive years and has won the northern division championship in 1935, 1936, and 1937. In 1936, the Webfoots tied with USC for the Pacific coast title.

This year the Webfoots will defend their title in one of the heaviest schedules in many seasons. A possible meet with the University of British Columbia is also being negotiated. The complete schedule is as follows:

- Jan. 28—WSC in Pullman
- Jan. 29—Idaho in Moscow
- Feb. 5—UBC in Vancouver, B.C.
- Feb. 12—OSC in Eugene
- Feb. 19—OSC in Corvallis
- Feb. 26—Washington in Eugene
- March 12—Minor Sports Carnival in Seattle
- March 26—Northern Division meet in Corvallis.

Graduation Takes Toll

Graduation and ineligibility have weakened this year's team somewhat. Hurd, Chilton, Sexton, and Chuck Reed were lost by graduation. Jack Levy, distances; Bert Myers, diving; and Jim Smith, sprints, are the lettermen returning.

The freshmen have an excellent team in the making. Besides the prep all-Americans, Dallas and Wetmore, the Frosh have two up and coming divers in Elmer Mallory of Junction City, and Al Sanders of Boise, Idaho, and a sturdy free-style speed boat from Hawaii, Jim Marne.

Frosh Hoop Team Potent

The Oregon Frosh basketball team was ready to start its 1938 season with two games against the Franklin High school team in Portland after several weeks of intensive practice in which the squad of 50 applicants dwindled to 25 or less. Ultimately coach John Warren hoped to retain but 15 of the first year men on his squad.

With the numerous all-star basketballers who have come under his tutelage from widely separate locations, among them three Oregon all-state high school stars, Don Mabee, of McMinnville, and Earl Sandness and Toivo Piipo from Astoria, the final squad should be an efficient crew of men.

Observers who have watched the squad scrimmage with the Oregon varsity have concluded that it is one of the best freshman hoop squads to wear the Oregon colors in years.

Paul Rowe, Oregon sophomore full-back, who had never played a game of football in his life before coming to Oregon, was given honorable mention among the Collier's 1937 all-American selections.

Senator Steiwer Meets New York Alumni

New York Alumni Meet

The University of Oregon Alumni living in New York City spent a very pleasant evening at the Town Hall Club on December 2nd. The turnout was large and enthusiastic.

The guest of honor was United States Senator Frederick Steiwer, '06, who came up from Washington for the occasion. He was a delightful guest and responded in an unusually friendly manner when introduced. He spoke of having attended Homecoming and the dedication of the new library on the campus. The knowledge of and interest in the University displayed by him delighted all of those in attendance.

The "bellringer" of the group, John M. MacGregor, '23, presided. He introduced those who have recently come to New York: Carin H. Degermark, '13; Tom A. Burke, '14; Juliet Cross Burke, '11; Evelyn M. White, '33; Bess Cowden Smithe, '14; Edna L. Bates, '38; Gladys Calef Hansen, '28; Esther Walker, '25; Jack H. Stipe, '32; Ruth Griffin, '32; Barbara E. Hollis, '30; John E. Caswell, '34; Vivian E. Malone, '34; Oscar Pinedo, '37; Elaine Comish, '37; and Helen Deutsch, '33.

Ronald M. McCreight, ex-'29, who makes his home in Portland, Oregon, happened to be passing through New York on his way to South America on business for his firm (Jantzen Knitting Mills) and availed himself of the opportunity of coming to the dinner.

Dr. Claude E. Robinson, '24, spoke briefly concerning the work of the American Institute of Public Opinion of which organization he has been recently made associate director.

Dr. Laura Hall Kennon, '11, reported on the recent visit of President Boyer, whom she entertained while he was here a fortnight before. She stated that the President was much pleased concerning the revived interest in the University which is being shown this year by the alumni all over the country and gave a resume of the latest news from the campus.

The toastmaster announced that some of the alumni had adopted a suggestion made by Mr. Oswald Garrison Villard (Hon. '35), as a result of which a holographic document in the hand writing of Abraham Lincoln had been purchased for presentation to the University. This is an affidavit prepared by Lincoln on December 11, 1855, for presentation to the Illinois court before whom he was trying a lawsuit at that time. The authenticity of the document has been investigated thoroughly and all experts attest to its genuineness. He passed the instrument around the able for inspection and stated that it would be forwarded to the University in the near future.

Gordon Gilkey, '36, brought the book of original etchings which he made of the University library during its construction in Eugene and which he had submitted for his Master's Degree at the University. These were examined with interest.

Announcements were made concerning an Exhibit of Rural Arts then on display at the Department of Agriculture in Washington, which had been arranged by Allen Eaton, '02, as well as a meeting of alumni to be held in Washington, D. C., on December 17th, to which all those present were invited.

The dinner was run off with dispatch, but most of the group lingered on until midnight, renewing old associations and singing Oregon songs around the piano under the leadership of Con Hammond, ex-'32.

Soldiers' Memorial Rises

Howe field, the University's baseball diamond, is being improved by the construction of memorial gates.

Wrought iron gates and concrete ticket offices set into the new wall will serve as a memorial to the 47 students, alumni, and faculty members of the University who died in the world war. Karl W. Onthank, '13, will design a memorial plaque commemorating their services.

The gates are the first unit of the plan to enclose the field with iron work fencing and are the gift of the classes of 1918, 1919, 1930, and 1936; the Soldiers' Memorial fund, and the Associated students.
