IN THE MAIL BAG

Club Embassy, 1321 K St. N. W.,
Washington, D. C., Jan. 7, 1938.

Alumni Secretary,
University of Oregon,
Eugene, Oregon.

Dear Sir:

The following information is tendered you in answer to questions found on the enclosed card:

Name—D. R. Dimick.

Married—Oh, no.

Address—See above, or care of National Labor Relations Board, Washington, D. C.

Occupation—Attorney for the National Labor Relations Board. I was appointed to this position and assigned to the Review Section on December 10, 1937.

My attendance at the U. of O. dated from September 1934 to June 1937. I received from the U. of O. an LL.B. degree. My undergraduate work was done in Idaho and Utah. The latter place awarded me a B.S. degree in the spring of 1933.

I was admitted to the practice of law in Oregon on September 27, 1937. While at the University of Oregon Law School I served as business manager of the Oregon Law Review during my second year and as Legal Analyst on the United States Attorney General's Survey of Release Procedures under the direction of the U. S. Department of Justice and under the immediate direction of Justin Miller and Wayne L. Morse.

Yours truly,

D. R. DIMICK, LL.B. '37.

Dear Editor:

I just received your letter requesting information this morning; and since I graduated from Northwestern University in 1933 I'm having trouble being an alumna of both schools. I like to hear from the University of Oregon, however.

I was married in 1935 and my name is now Mrs. Spencer Scott Willison. I am working at Northwestern in the Placement Bureau.

Dr. John C. Eberhart, '29, is the only "alum" I see often. As you may know, he has his doctor's degree in psychology from Northwestern and is now teaching psychology here. He is also married (a girl from Northwestern, Sylvia Rothman, Journalism, '32).

Dear Sir:

I am sending in my subscription to Old Oregon and you don't know how glad I'll be to read the news of those at Old Oregon, and particularly of the classes of '23 and '24. Going to New York to study in '24 for several years and subsequently to teach and live there and in the vicinity for seven years, has placed me more out of touch with my classmates there than I like to be, but I am like everybody, I guess—interested in knowing where everybody is and what they are doing.

I suppose I'm supposed to give an accounting of myself: Came here in '35 after spending '34 in Nebraska at the University there to make some further teaching requirement in education, and '33 in California and Nevada, where I enjoyed Lake Tahoe so much. As a surprise to me I was asked to join the Chicago Musical College, and further surprised when they placed my name on large announcements with Mary Garden's! I am teaching in two schools, now, managing a private class, also, and today applied for three new copyrights—so I'm busy, anyway, even through recessions and all else. Had a 100 per cent gain since November in some of my piano work.

I hope the entanglements that the higher learning institutions were plunged in in '31 when I was out there are settled in such a way that it can not arise again—unlike family troubles when the old inheritance difficulties come on, as so frequently they seem to! Here's hoping we all survive, at least.

Sincerely,

ALICE GOHLKE CARTRIGHT,
ex-'23.

Boise, Idaho, Jan. 23, 1938.

Karl W. Onthank,
Dean of Personnel Administration,
University of Oregon,
Eugene, Oregon.

Dear Dean Onthank:

Your thoughtful letter was very gratefully received a few weeks ago.

Although Boise is my headquarters, my work keeps me in the field most of the time; consequently we were living a gypsy life until just before Christmas. We acquired an apartment at that time and hope to be in Boise during the remainder of the winter. Fortunately the weather this winter has been favorable to the continuation of our field work, therefore a very small portion of my time is spent in the office.

Our work in the Water Resources Branch of the Geological Survey has to do with the construction and maintenance of gaging stations on all the important streams. This district covers the state of Idaho, which may be classified as a semi-arid section of the country where much of the natural flow is employed for purposes of irrigation. We do not have any private or project interest, but the data on stream-flow which is collected through the maintenance of these gaging stations is published for public use. It is available to any organization or person interested in irrigation, hydroelectric power, or any other allied developments which are dependent upon a knowledge of quantity and characteristics of surface run-off.

The organization which conducts this work has been in existence for a number of years, having altered little in size or shape during recent changes in policy and administration. Consequently it does not permit of rapid advancement, but it offers fair assurance of stability. This work of a hydraulic nature is immensely interesting to me, but it does not lend itself to the establishment of a permanent home since most of our time for the first few years is spent chasing throughout the district. Pat and I will have to accept the situation and learn to maintain ourselves on the road. Even so, it is not an unpleasant outlook.

An interesting coincidence rests in the close correlation between my present work and the material which Dr. Vic. Morris presented in his course, "Conservation of Natural Resources." I have thought of it many times and wondered if many other fellows who took the course are using that material today. Please extend to him my best regards when you see him next.

Word has often come to me relative to your extensive activities in addition to your regular duties at the University. Although I am not as well informed as I would like to be, I understand that your field has covered an area that would necessitate a great deal of traveling. I hope that this has not been so much that an element of monotony has crept in.

Had someone told me five years ago when I graduated that I would lose contact almost completely from the University and its personnel, I would not have believed him. Nevertheless, it is quite true. I receive news now and then, but most of the people whom I meet from Oregon are likewise divorced from "school days." Our intentions are the best but it seems difficult to forget our selfish interests and go back once in a while. For this reason your letter was particularly welcome, Dean Onthank. I hope for the pleasure of seeing you again in the not too distant future.

Please extend my best regards to Mrs. Onthank and to my friends on the faculty.

Sincerely,

CECIL ESPY, '33.

Dear Bill:

I enjoy getting "Old Oregon" each month and reading about the present activities at the University and about the alumni.

It might be of interest to some of my old friends who receive "Old Oregon" to know that I was married to Elizabeth Ruggles, Alpha Phi, Oregon ex-'36, on November 19 in Berkeley, California. Charles Bittel, '37, president of the Beta house, was best man and Ken Smith, ex-'36, was an usher. Mary McCracken, '36; Betty Pray, ex-'39; Betty Jane Burnett, ex-'38, and Mrs. Charles B. White (Maude McCandlish, ex-'35), all Alpha Phis at Oregon, were attendants.

At the present time we are living in Los Angeles at 4234 8th avenue. I am employed with the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company here on their Flying Squadron, a training course for sales.

It might also be of interest to know that Kenneth Smith, Oregon '36, has been transferred into sales from the Goodyear

"Tex" Oliver Signs Three Year Contract

Oregon reached down to Tucson, Arizona, to pick Gerald A. (Tex) Oliver for her 22nd head football coach. Oliver was signed on a three-year contract at $6,000 per year. This is the first three-year contract since "Doc" Spears broke his contract in 1931.

After the Athletic board had offered Oliver the position, no confirmation was received from Oliver, whose contract was not yet released by the University of Arizona. A hurried trip to San Francisco by Anson Cornell, athletic manager, where he met Oliver, resulted in the signing of a three-year contract which will allow the new coach to name his own assistants. Some $8,500 will be available for hiring assistants—freshman coach's salary excluded.

Tex Oliver played big-time football first under Charley D. Daly at West Point. He went to West Point after serving in the World War and gained entrance to the academy by taking the army examinations. After finishing at West Point, Oliver attended the summer sessions of University of Southern California, where he received his B.A. in 1930. While at Southern California, he was made a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

The new coach is 37 and is married.

Oliver worked for the Santa Fe railroad and the Southern California Telephone company. He then coached for four years in the San Diego high schools and transferred to Santa Ana.

Fine High School Record

At Santa Ana from 1930 to 1932 Oliver's teams won 27 straight games. This record took him to the University of Arizona, where in five years (1933 to 1937 inclusive) he has won 32 and lost 11, and tied four games. His powerful offensive teams have rolled up a total of 853 points to an opponents' total of 276.

Tex has attended coaching schools under Warner, Rockne, Sutherland, Bible, Waldorf, Jones, Crisler, Pizer, Kipke, and Lieb. He has used the Jones, Warner, and Rockne systems on all his teams but admitted that during his stay at Arizona, the Wildcats have been using a diversified "razzledazzle" that puts the emphasis on the forward pass.

To Use Arizona System

When on the campus, Oliver said that his Oregon teams would use the same style of play as Oliver-coached teams at Arizona. Working on the theory that more touchdowns are scored from outside the 20-yard line than from within the goal-line area, Oliver said his teams used plays designed to shake men into the clear in a series of downs for long runs. He uses on occasion the balanced and unbalanced lines, short punt formation, and sometimes a spread.

Of special interest to alumni is Oliver's plan for alumni "Monday Morning Quarterbacks."

"In Tucson we have a club called 'Town Cats'—300 of them—that meets once a week and discusses the past games. Sometimes we show pictures of the game and the 'Cats' comment on various plays and players. It doesn't do any harm and it's a lot of darn good fun."

Another of Oliver's ideas is to have

"football clinics" where he runs contests for the players to vie in punting, passing, and other departments of the game. The spectators can then learn to know the individual players and their particular abilities to watch for in games.

No indications have been made of possible assistants for coaching staff. It is expected that John Warren, freshman coach, will be retained. Both "Gene" Shields, line coach, and "Mike" Mikulak, backfield coach, have submitted "resignations" to clear the way for Oliver to have a free hand. It is thought by many that Mikulak will be retained, and that Oliver will bring with him "Bud" Fisher, his line coach at Arizona.

Shields Resigns

(BULLETIN)

Gene Shields, line coach for the past nine years, has indicated that he will not remain at Oregon another year.

"When my present year is over I do not intend to apply for reappointment.

This picture of Gene Shields cutting the grass on newly turfed Hayward field was taken last fall. It is the latest picture taken of Oregon's line coach, who has announced that he will not seek reappointment.

Alumni to Fete Dr. Erb, Coach Oliver

Thursday, March 17, has been chosen as the date of the big reception to be given in Portland by the Oregon Alumni Association to honor Dr. Donald M. Erb, and Gerald A. (Tex) Oliver as the two assume their new positions as President and football coach respectively.

Bert Gooding, ex-'26, has been named general chairman of the affair and will announce the full details later. He is working with Roland S. Davis, '29, president of the Portland Alumni association.

The affair is planned as the largest gathering of alumni in the history of the association. As it will be held during the Spring vacation, it is expected that undergraduate attendance will swell the total to a high figure.

Dr. Erb will give the main address of the evening and will be honored by Chancellor Frederick M. Hunter and Dr. C. Valentine Boyer, retiring president, who will be in attendance.

Landsbury Is Speaker

John J. Landsbury, dean of the school of music, will be a speaker on the program of the National Music Educators' conference to be held in St. Louis, Mo., on April 1. Dean Landsbury was chosen to cover the subject of "Cultural and Non-professional Types of Music Training in Institutions of Higher Learning."

He has been chosen to cover this subject for the conference because of the conspicuous success of the University of Oregon with courses designed to give the student not majoring in music a thorough training in the cultural aspects of music.

Galton Wins Fellowship

Herbert B. Galton, third-year law student, has been awarded a $1200 law fellowship to the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor for one year.

Galton is student editor of the Oregon Law Review, official publication of the Oregon Bar association. He received the Phi Alpha Delta scholarship award his first year for highest grades in his class.

Three Cities Join League

The addition of the cities of Gearhart, Eastside, and Glendale to the League of Oregon cities brings the total to 129. The organization as it stands today joins together every city in the state with a population over 1,500 and all but three over 1,000. Over 97 per cent of the population of Oregon's incorporated cities are included.

In 1933 when the league office was moved to the University campus to join forces with the then newly created bureau of municipal research, membership numbered only 40 cities.

Dr. Wm. Boynton Retires

William P. Boynton, Doctor of Science (honorary) 1937, has retired to emeritus status in the physics department of the school of science at Oregon State college.

Dr. Boynton served on the University of Oregon faculty from 1903 until 1932 when he was transferred to Oregon State when the Science school was sent there. He has taught more years of University and college physics than any other man on the Pacific Coast with one exception.

Alumni will remember Dr. Boynton and his 1921 model automobile which he used as an illustration laboratory for his physics classes. Dr. Boynton still holds on to his beloved first automobile which has taught many a student the principles of mechanics. He will devote his time to travel and to study.

UO Scene of Meetings

The University will play host to three important conferences during April 18-20 when it will entertain the annual meetings of the Commonwealth conference, the State Association of Chamber of Commerce Executives, and the State Physical Education association.

In the past the Commonwealth conferences have been held during spring vacation, but it was postponed this year so that students might have the benefit of the conference meetings. Dr. Philip A. Parsons, head of the sociology department, is chairman of the conference.

90 Professors in AAUP

Ninety University of Oregon professors are members of the American Association of University Professors. Oregon State college has 37 members, Washington State 74, and the University of Washington 82.

The Oregon members are affiliated through a local chapter whose president is Orlando J. Hollis, professor of law, and A. H. Kunz, associate professor of chemistry, is the secretary.

Igloo All Dolled Up

McArthur Court is now equipped with permanent decorations suitable for concerts and dances. Some 600 yards of cloth were necessary to cover the blank walls of the huge structure.

For concerts there will be a main drape of pearl gray sateen behind the sound shell back of the stage, with alternate panels of rust and antique gold colored monk's cloth covering. Lighting for dances will feature new sheet metal lamps which will tend to keep the light down—shading out the upper walls and ceiling of the Igloo.

The work was done under the direction of Horace Robinson, associate professor of drama; Eyer Brown, associate professor of architecture, and Dale King, student in design.

Bureau Makes Tax Study

A WPA allotment of $11,114 to the University's bureau of municipal research, to be used for a study to determine the tax-exempt real property in Oregon, has been approved by President Roosevelt.

Work on the project will begin about February 1 in Marion, Linn, and Lane counties. It will include an inventory of all federal, state, city and private tax exempt property, classifying exemption by county, comparing the ratio of taxable to non-taxable property and comparing these findings with those of other states.

This allotment makes more than $100,000 which has been allowed the bureau for special projects since October 15, 1933.

Morris to Direct Institute

Dean Victor P. Morris, '15, has been named co-director of the fourth annual Institute of International Relations to be held in Portland from June 19 to 29.

The ten-day gathering is designed to offer an opportunity for citizens of the northwest to study international problems under the leadership of a faculty of outstanding men and women. It is under the sponsorship of the University of Oregon, Reed college, American Friends Service committee, and the Portland Interfaith council.

Highest group in the Fall term grade list were the women's cooperative houses with a GPA of 2.69; in order followed men's cooperatives, 2.47, and fraternities with an average of 2.10.

Med School Gets Grant

The University of Oregon Medical school has been awarded $100,000 by the Rockefeller Foundation of New York city for the expansion of the library facilities in Portland. The $100,000 will be matched by a like sum subscribed by friends of the school.

The expansion contemplated is the erection of a new west wing to the medical school, corresponding to the present east wing. The new structure would house a library of 100,000 volumes, reading rooms, storage stacks, a historical section and other facilities. In addition the building would contain an assembly hall for lectures and scientific meetings, including those of the medical societies.

The wing would be three stories high and would correspond in architectural design with the remainder of the building. The medical school building would then assume the U-shape originally designed by the architects, Lawrence-Holford & Allen.

Student Union Activity

The first definite action toward a student union for the University was started in January when ASUO President Barney Hall named five students as a committee to investigate ways and means of financing Oregon's proposed union. The students named were Ed Robbins, chairman; Paul Deutschmann, Barbara Pierce, Genevieve McNiece, and Bob Dent.

In 1924, Claude Robinson, '24, then president of the student body, appointed Haddon Rockhey, '24, to work on the student union question. A decision was made at that time to put the union somewhere west of Kincaid street and the drive went on.

In 1926 some $80,000 had been raised toward the new union. The ASUO voted to put $50,000 of this into the building of McArthur Court. This left approximately $30,000 cash in the fund. McArthur Court was erected in the summer and fall of 1926, and its bonded indebtedness was retired by 1932.

Property bounded by Alder, Kincaid and 14th streets has been set aside for the student union. Available now is $33,313 in the building fund and $18,000 in the gift fund which may be used for any purpose.

1 in 3 Supports Self

Oregon students in the main are self-supporting is the verdict of the registrar's office following a comprehensive study of student earnings. Less than one-seventh of the 3120 students registered fall term were entirely dependent upon their parents, while 30 per cent were entirely on their own.

Only 287 men depend entirely on their parents, while 741 earn all the money they spend, the survey shows.

Of the students on the campus 928, or 30 per cent, earn their own way entirely; another 10 per cent earn 75 per cent; 433, or 14 per cent, earn 50 per cent; 331, or 10 per cent, earn 25 per cent; while 173, or 5.6 per cent, pick up 10 per cent by working. Only 951 are dependent upon parental support.

Of the some $40,000 borrowed from the emergency loan fund during the fall term practically all of it was repaid by students from their earnings, reports Karl W. Onthank, dean of personnel.

Extension Enrollment Up

More students are registered in the University's general extension division than are in attendance on the campus, according to Miss Mozelle Hair, '08, organizer of correspondence study for the extension division. Three thousand three hundred forty persons are now taking correspondence work in contrast to the 3,025 people enrolled at Eugene.

Persons in the Philippines, Alaska, and Canada take correspondence courses along with those from 25 states in the Union—there are 93 out-of-state correspondents.

The Art school will receive the large model of the new state capitol when the building is completed, Dean Ellis F. Lawrence has announced.

NBC Signs UO Symphony

The University Symphony orchestra will go over the coast-to-coast Red network of the National Broadcasting company on February 28. The concert will be from 3:30 to 4 o'clock.

Rex Underwood, director, has announced that the program will open with Smetana's "Dance of the Comedians," and will conclude with the fandango from the Rimsky-Korsakov "Caprice Espagnole." The ever-popular Wolf-Ferrari intermezzo from "Jewels of the Madonna," played on several occasions by the orchestra and always well-received, will be included in the program, as will the prelude to Saint Saens' "Deluge," which will be given by the string orchestra with Mollie Bob Small as violin soloist.

George Hopkins, professor of music at the University and featured soloist of the broadcast, will be at the piano keyboard in the rondo from Beethoven's famous "Emperor" concerto—a selection he featured in a recent concerto concert of the orchestra.

Jewett Contest Winners

Lorraine Larson, Bend, and Doph Janes, Oswego, won first prizes in the women's and men's divisions in the winter term Jewett poetry interpretation contest. Rose Allen, Bend, and Edward Burtenshaw, Boise, Idaho, took second places.

Edna L. Bates, '38, is a graduate student at New York University, New York City.

The completed medical group on Marquam Hill in Portland as visualized by the architect. The group is closer to completion with the announcement of a $100,000 building grant by the Rockefeller foundation. The group shown above would include a University memorial hospital.

Evan Reames, ex-'92, Named Senator

Where one Oregon alumnus left off, another took up when Evan Reames, ex-'92, was named by Governor Charles H. Martin to fulfill the unexpired term of Senator Frederick W. Steiwer, '06. Senator Reames will serve until the next general election which is to be held in November.

Senator Reames is the first Democratic senator from Oregon in seventeen years. Senator Steiwer had previously announced his intention not to be a candidate for re-election, but his decision to resign before the end of his term came as a surprise to many of his constituents.

Senator Reames was born in Jacksonville, one of eleven children born to pioneer parents who came to this state in 1852. He attended University of the Pacific in San Jose, California, and then came to the University of Oregon for pre-law work. After finishing school he established a law practice in Jacksonville, later moving to Portland only to return to Jacksonville.

Senator Steiwer was accorded a rousing ovation from members of the Senate. At the time of this demonstration for him, Senator Steiwer sat calmly in the Senate barber shop receiving his last haircut there. Senator Steiwer has been a member of the Senate for the past eleven years.

Senator Reames has one son, Edward L. Reames who attended the University law school in 1935 and 1936.

117 on Honor Roll

One hundred and seventeen students made honor roll grades during fall term. Requirement for the roll is a 3.5 average (A is four points and B is three points) for a minimum of 12 hours credit.

Eight students made perfect cards of all A: Loraine V. Gjording, Robert H. Knapp, and Dorothy L. Johnson, all of Portland; Wayne O. Gilfry and George W. Stephenson, Eugene; Emma E. Monroe, Mulino; Margaret C. Mykut, Springfield; and Perry J. Powers, Salem.

Byrne Back in Eugene

Charles D. Byrne, director of information for the state system of higher education, has returned to his office in Eugene after spending the fall term in the graduate school at Stanford university. While there he completed practically all residence requirements of the school of education for the degree of doctor of education.

Mr. Byrne spent part of his time while at Stanford in a study of a number of school systems in California. He may return later in the spring to take part in a survey in this field.

UO Library Used Most

The University library ranked first in the per student number of reserve books used last year, and eighth in the home use in books in a list of 38 schools all over the United States, Willis Warren, reserve assistant, has announced. Last year Oregon ranked first in reserves and sixth in home use of books. This year it outranks all other Universities on the coast.

Belknap Article Printed

George N. Belknap, '26, is the author of an article entitled "Objective Value," which appeared in the Journal of Philosophy, January 20, 1938. Following his graduation here, Belknap was a Sage fellow in philosophy at Cornell where he was awarded his M.A. At present he is University editor.

Evelyn M. White, '33, is living at International House on Riverside Drive, New York City, where many former Oregon people have lived. She is engaged in graduate work at Teachers College, Columbia.

Elaine Comish, '37, is doing graduate work at New York University, New York City.

Here is Oregon's new senatorial family. Senator Evan Reames, ex-'92, is in the center with Mrs. Reames to his right. Edward Reames, his son, attended the University law school for several years. Senator Reames is filling the unexpired term of Frederick Steiwer, '06.

Brimlow Writes History

George F. Brimlow, B.A. '33 and M.A. '36, has completed a book of the history of the "Bannock Indian War of 1878," and the book will be off the presses in May. While attending the University Brimlow worked nights in the University press as a linotyper and went to classes during the daytime—and still he found the time to make grades fine enough to be chosen as a Phi Beta Kappa.

Mr. Brimlow is now in the mechanical department of the Chattanooga Times because "it gives me time to work on my books."

A recent honor conferred on Mr. Brimlow was election to membership in the American Military History Foundation, composed of a group of high-ranking officials and scholars, with headquarters in Washington, D. C., and New York City. His invitation came through an editorial official of the Chicago Daily News.

In a recent issue the Chattanooga Times newspaper gave a long write-up on Mr. Brimlow and his interests, following being some of the comment from the article:

"A man with a scholarly mind who has worked as a printer in eight states and tossed logs in a northwest lumber camp in order to gain an education and support himself while he writes books of history will reach a long and hard-sought milestone in his life when the first book by George F. Brimlow, who now operates a linotype machine in the composing room of the Chattanooga Times, is published next spring by the Caxton Printers, Ltd., of Caldwell, Idaho.

"From material learned by word of mouth from many pioneers of the northwest, from the archives of the department of war, the department of the interior, the office of Indian affairs, and papers in the Library of Congress at Washington, and from documents at the Presidio, San Francisco, Mr. Brimlow has written the story of the last major uprising of Indian bands against the whites in the northwest region of the United States, a thrilling but little known war. His book is entitled, "The Bannock Indian War of 1878."

Mr. Brimlow, who was serving as a corporal of infantry with the American troops in France when but 19 years of age, is the son of Rev. Thomas Morgan Brimlow, miner, merchant, minister, and missionary to the Indians. He dedicates his book to his father.

Mr. Brimlow worked four years on his book, completely rewriting it three times. His mentor and critic in the work has been Dr. R. C. Clark, head of the history department at the University of Oregon and author of many historical works. The book was accepted by the first publisher to whom he submitted it.

Senator Frederick W. Steiwer, '06, who retired from the United States senate in January to enter private legal practice. Senator Steiwer had previously announced that he would not seek reelection, but his midterm resignation came as a surprise to his many friends.

Eaton Prepares Show

Allen Eaton, '02, was recently asked by the Secretary of Agriculture to organize an Exhibit of Rural Arts in the Department in Washington. As a result, he assembled, arranged and directed such an exhibition as a feature of the Seventy-fifth anniversary celebration of the establishment of the United States Department of Agriculture.

The success and popularity of this unusual educational project is indicated by the fact that its closing was postponed several times. Wall tapestries from Oregon, woven coverlets from the Southern Highlands, hand-made furniture from West Virginia, pottery and pewter from New England, hand-woven blankets from the middle-west, a round-up containing 126 horses carved by a Montana cowboy, a huge hooked rug made in New England over a hundred years ago—now regarded as a museum piece—Kentucky egg baskets, hand-made musical instruments, and articles made from the corn plant, were some of the varied and interesting articles of handwork made by rural people from all states in the Union and from several of the possessions. These were artistically displayed in the beautiful patio of the Administration Building of the Department of Agriculture in Washington. The object of the display, as stated by Mr. Eaton, was "to give attention to the cultural side of country life."

Hundreds of officials in Washington and tourists from everywhere visited the Exhibition daily, and numerous groups interested in country life and in handicrafts especially came to Washington to hold meetings in the building with the Exhibition as a background. Mrs. Roosevelt made several visits and displayed great interest in the venture. In her daily newspaper column on November 27th, she wrote: "Mr. Allen probably knows more about Rural Arts than anybody." This is not surprising, in view of the book which he recently published: "Handicrafts of the Southern Highlands," which was issued under the auspices of the Russell Sage Foundation, with which organization he has been associated ever since leaving the University of Oregon faculty. Newspapers in both New York and Washington gave wide publicity to this outstanding event, which is the first of its kind ever held in this country.

Law Quarters Moved

Law students returning from Christmas vacation were not quite sure whether to grumble or rejoice. During their absence the 25,000 volumes in the law library had been moved from Oregon hall to the Old Libe, which is being remodeled into a model law school.

Classrooms and administration quarters remain for the present in Oregon hall, so the budding barristers suffer the inconvenience of a "split shift."

Main features of the new law school will be air-conditioning units and an especially improved lighting system.

The new quarters provide double the study space of the old, and one quarter of the students will be allotted individual study tables—preference will be given in order of grade standings.

Completion of the project is not expected before the opening of school in the fall, according to Will V. Norris, professor of physics, who is in charge of campus construction.

The library has been completely fire-proofed and the flooring throughout is of concrete and magnasite.

Ohmart Co-op Head

Howard Ohmart, general manager of Campbell Cooperative living group, was named to organize a coast federation of the cooperative groups.

Ohmart was named to this post when he attended the Pacific coast conference of cooperative living groups at the University of Washington.

Laddie Gale Breaks Scoring Record

By Hubard Kuokka

The tall championship bound Webfoot basketball team slipped and fell flat on its face as it rounded the turn into the home stretch in the 1938 hoop season, but 6 foot 4 inch Lauren "Laddie" Gale, high scoring Oregon forward, broke ex-OSC Wally Palmberg's 1936 northern division scoring record of 187 points in 16 games by tallying up 189 counters in only 14 games.

Gale's average for the 14 games was 13.5 points per game and Palmberg's average was 11.7 points per game.

Inasmuch as the Oregon sharpshooter still has six games left in the current basketball season it is expected that his total score will be well into the 200's by the final gun.

Gale's nearest competitor was Lazetich, of Montana, who had a total of 127 points, and Belko of Idaho with 122 points.

After having ridden the entire season at the top in the northern division championship race, the high scoring Webfoots suffered two sudden defeats from the once-lowly University of Idaho Vandals. Two successive nights, February 11 and 12, on the Moscow court, the Webfoots were stopped 33-28 and 35-34.

The series left the Ducks tied for second place with their victors with 9 victories and 5 defeats. Washington State ruled first place with a fraction of a game lead.

Until the Moscow games the Oregon aces had driven their way to pile up 9 victories and 3 defeats and to total up an average of 51 to 42 per game.

The hot part of the championship race remained. First on the schedule for the Ducks was a two game series with the Cougars on the Pullman court, then two with the Vandals in the "Igloo", and then two home and home games with OSC.

Oregon State Series Split

In the first series with Oregon State, the galloping Webfoots were slowed down to a 38 to 32 victory over the Beavers on McArthur Court and on the following night in Corvallis lost 36 to 32 to their traditional rivals.

The Oregon State zone defense and ring-around-the-rosy ball passing did not give the Oregon fast-break machine opportunity to click adequately in either game. Although the Staters flipped in more field goals than Oregon, the Webfoots dropped in 18 out of 21 free throws to win the first game.

Bob Hardy, transfer forward from Southern Oregon Normal school, broke an ankle bone in this game and had to be taken off the floor for the rest of the season.

On the following evening, Saturday, in Corvallis, the OSC slow-down tactics were still more effective on the Oregon speedsters and the score see-sawed throughout the game, being tied five times in the first half. The Beavers led 14 to 13 midway.

In these two games Gale had totaled 19 points to get a head start in the northern division scoring race.

The University of Montana Grizzlies, conference newcomers, were next on the Duck menu. Although the visitors galloped around with the ball and shot freely at the basket, the Webfoots outran them and defeated them 69 to 43. For the first 20 points the game was close, but the Ducks soon pulled away and held a halftime score of 38 to 22.

The following evening, the Grizzlies staged a second half rally to cut down the Oregon halftime lead of 32 to 21 to a 3 point margin of 40 to 37. Oregon connected with only 6 field goals out of 44 tries in this last half, but Wally Johansen staved off the Montana rally by starting a counter attack. Miller, Grizzly guard, was high with 16 points. In this game Gale made but one field goal but sank 7 foul shots. The night before he had made 15 points.

Huskies, Webfoots Split

A week later in the Seattle pavilion the charging Webfoots were out-charged by Coach "Hec" Edmundson's University of Washington Huskies, 37 to 40, in a wild game with 43 personal fouls. Bobby Anet went out on fouls in the first half. The score see-sawed and was tied four times during the game. Oregon led 20 to 19 at the half, and then Washington came from behind to win.

On the following night, Oregon routed the Washington team 51 to 31 in a powerful last half spurt after the score was tied 30-30 in the middle of the last half. At first Oregon had run the ball with the Huskies but the successful rally was engineered by a sudden change to a watchful waiting style of play. Johansen started the rally with a court-long dribble to slip the tally in from under the basket. Silver made 13, Gale 12, for high honors.

Two nights later the Montana Grizzlies in their own court outraced the Webfoots 58 to 52. The score was tied six times. But in the second canto the Montana team carried the game to Oregon and kept its lead. Lazetich of Montana was high scorer with 17.

Gale scored 25 points to help Oregon trounce Montana, 63 to 49, the next night. Oregon had the lead all the way. Slim Wintermute and Wally Johansen helped Gale pile up the score in the early part of the game. However, Lazetich, Montana, made 20 points.

Ducks Outrun Huskies

On February 7, in Eugene, the Webfoots did something which had been declared impossible. They outran the Huskies in a sweltering first half attack in which Oregon couldn't miss, it seemed, and Washington couldn't hit. The score was 17 to 3 in the first 6 minutes, then 21 to 7, 29 to 9, and the half ended with Oregon ahead 32 to 13. Oregon eased off in the second and Roy Williamson of Washington, who had once played Frosh ball with Oregon, scared the Webfoots by an 11 point rally in the last half. Silver, Gale, and Johansen stemmed the Washington uprising. Gale and Silver each made 18 points. A Washington uprising was even more terrifying in the next day's game when Williamson, Ziegenfuss, and Voelker of Washington took Oregon's 33 to 30 halftime lead and piled in baskets to lead 53 to 44 with four and one half minutes to go. Then Matt Pavalunas, substituting for Anet, who was out on fouls, sank his first try and started a rally by Gale, Wintermute, and himself to bring the score to 54 to 53 in Oregon's favor with a minute and fifteen seconds to go. Gale canned two free throws to put the game on ice.

Idaho Trips Ducks

In their 33 to 28 victory over Oregon, the Idaho Vandals resorted to a slow passing game with an occasional razzle dazzle break to completely put the Oregon team off its stride. The Webfoots could not can more than 10 baskets in 57 tries. Idaho had the ball two-thirds of the time and dominated the backboard. Idaho led 24 to 16 at the half and Oregon cut it down to 28 to 27 in the first part of the second half. But again Idaho slowed down the Oregon attack and the Webfoots could not hit one field goal in the last 12 minutes. Slim Wintermute made one free throw, however. Steve Belko, Idaho, made 12 points and Gale 8.

Idaho didn't win the next game until the very last second of the nip and tuck second half. Oregon was leading 22 to 14 at the midway mark, but the Vandals stole away the Webfoot lead, the game was tied four times, and with a minute to go the score was Idaho 34, Oregon 32. Gale sank two free throws in that last minute to even the score, 34-34, but with but a second to go he fouled Idaho's Willis Bohman, who dropped the free throw to win in the last second of play.

Frosh Hoopers Take OSC

The Oregon Frosh hoop team defeated the Rook cagers 51 to 31 and 46 to 41 in the first two games of the 1938 "little civil war" basketball series. The first game, played in Eugene, the Rooks did not even threaten the Ducklings, who held a comfortable 20 to 13 lead at half time, but on the following evening in Corvallis the Webfoot yearlings had a difficult time keeping ahead of the OSC youngsters.

Clayton Shaw, Orange forward, was high point man in the first game, and Archie Marshik, Oregon's 6-foot-6-inch center, was high with 14 points. Earl Sandness, forward; Evert McNeely, forward; and George Andrews, guard, were other outstanding Oregon men.

Other scores for the season were as follows:

Frosh 40, Franklin high school 22; Frosh 48, Franklin high 29; Frosh 58, Commerce high school 27; Franklin high school 23, Frosh reserves 21; Frosh 29, Vancouver high school 21; Wendling Townies 31, Frosh 27; Frosh 51, Longview high school 25; Frosh 73, Hood River high school 29; Frosh 43, La Grande high school 18; Frosh 50, University high school 39; and Frosh 69, Santa Clara Red Lions 26.

Boxing, Wrestling Return

The newly formed boxing and wrestling teams were defeated twice by the Oregon State leather pushers and matmen, once in McArthur Court when the Staters beat the Ducks 26½ to 6½ in wrestling and 30 to 5 in boxing, and two weeks later when the Beaver wrestlers won 30 to 0 and the boxers 25 to 10.

Smoky Whitfield decisioned Ernie Donovan in the 168 pound class on the boxing card, and Willie Williams, Oregon heavyweight wrestler, pinned Ted Tibbut in 1 minute 14 seconds for the only Oregon wins in the first smoker.

Gale Ferris, Oregon, won a technical knockout over Homer Millard, OSC, in the second round of their 165 pound event in the later meet. In the heavyweight division Oregon State reserve fullback KO'd Webfoot reserve fullback, Bill Rach, in the second round.

Old Oregon

Varoff Goes by Air

George Varoff will go by plane to New York to compete in the national A. A. U. indoor track and field meet in Madison Square Garden on February 26.

This meet, which will be the first one of the 1938 season for George, will open his campaign toward a new world record. Also it will mark the resuming of the fervent rivalry which pushed the pole vault bar well above the 14 feet 6 inches mark in numerous meets last summer in which Varoff vaulted against Earle Meadows and Bill Sefton, of University of Southern California, and Cornelius Warmerdam of the Olympic club.

Last year Varoff set a new world's indoor record of 14 feet 4 $\frac{7}{8}$  inches in the Boston A. A. A. meet.

Varsity Swimming

The Oregon State varsity swimming team dealt the Webfoot tank squad its first intercollegiate dual meet defeat since 1933 when the Beavers won 48 to 27 in the new University men's pool. It was the first defeat suffered by the Ducks under the coaching of Coach Mike Hoyman.

The Beavers won seven out of the nine events. Oregon's victories came in the 200 yard breast stroke, where Ralph Lafferty edged out Oregon State's Howard Rea, and in the diving contest, with Ralph Cathey first and Bert Myers second for the Webfoots.

In a trip into the inland empire the Oregon natators defeated the Washington State swimmers 48 to 27 and Idaho 66 to 9. Jack Levy, distance swimmer, won first places in the 100, 220, and the 440 yard free style events in the Idaho meet and in the 220 and the 440 yard free style in the WSC meet. Mallory, sprints; Starbuck, back stroke; and Myers, diving, also won firsts.

The Webfoots defeated the University of British Columbia at Vancouver in the first of a series of home and home dual meets. The Webfoots won first place in every event except in the back stroke.

Frosh Swimming

Jack Dallas and Sherman Wetmore, freshman swimmers from Los Angeles Polytechnic high school, who were chosen on the 1937 all-American interscholastic swimming team, have tied and broken Pacific Coast intercollegiate swimming records in practice meets this year.

Dallas, named as the nation's number one high school breast stroke man last year, swam the 200 yard event in 2 minutes 36 seconds to crack the official record of 2:36.6.

Wetmore, back stroke and free style swimmer, swam the back stroke in 1:42.9 to tie the record officially set by Jim Reed, former Oregon tank star.

The Frosh have a strong team this year and are being looked upon as the nucleus of another championship varsity team in the next two or three years to come.

Their meet schedule is as follows:

Feb. 16—University high school, Eugene.

Feb. 23—Salem Y. M. C. A., Eugene.

March 2—University high school, Eugene.

March 5—State A. A. U. meet, M. A. A. C., Portland.

March 12—Oregon Varsity, Eugene.

Oregon Has Ski Team

Three new sports have been added to the University of Oregon curriculum. Besides boxing and wrestling which were pushed by the enthusiasm of the members of the Mitt and Mat Club, skiing has caught the interest of the Webfoot students.

About 138 skiing enthusiasts in the University of Oregon ski club are sponsors of an Oregon ski team which will compete with the University of Washington ski team late in February. Other meets pending on snow conditions are to be with Reed college, OSC, and with the Obsidians and the Ski Laufers, Eugene skiing organizations.

Ski Team Places

The newly formed Oregon Ski team sponsored by the University Ski club competed and placed 12th in the Pacific coast intercollegiate ski tourney held at Yosemite, February 6. Sixteen teams were entered.

A five man ski team to enter the northwest ski championships at Spokane February 26, is also planned, and a dual meet will be held with Oregon State college at Hand Lake in the McKenzie river recreation area sometime in March.

The five men who competed in the Yosemite meet and who will probably go on the Spokane trip are: Jim Mackie and Walt Wood, outstanding in the slalom; Bryan Ryan and Pat Dolan, downhill; and Frank Drew, cross country.

Alums Coaching Rivals

Four "Oregon trained" basketball teams were scheduled to participate in a hoop tournament at the Igloo during Christmas vacation when Ray Hendrickson, '35, coach of the University high school team, invited Ivan Elliott, '35; Clayton James, '36; and Earle Vossen, '35, to bring their respective teams up for a tournament to decide which of the four has developed the best team.

Bad weather conditions prevented the realization of the plans. Vossen is at Lakeview, Elliott at Canby, and Clayton James is coaching the Monroe high school team.

Dr. Wright Honored

Leavitt O. Wright, professor of Spanish, has been named United States representative of the Hispanic American Association for Phonetic Orthography.

The society advocates the strict phonetic spelling of Spanish words and seeks to influence other languages in this direction.

Dr. Wright read a paper in support of a phonetic orthography for Spanish-American countries before the third Inter-American Education congress in Mexico City last August. He may attend the fourth meeting of the conference in Bogota, Colombia, this August.

"Tex" Oliver Signs

I do not care to remain under another Oregon football regime."

Shields' decision ends a brilliant career as a line coach here—Shields coached linemen have broken into top-ranking pro elevens their first year of professional football. His men now in professional football include Bill Morgan, "Butch" Morse, Bree Cuppoletti, Bernie Hughes, and Del Bjork.

Shields started his playing career at Stevenson, Washington, high school. He played at Oregon in 1923 under Shy Huntington, in 1924 under Joe Maddock, and in 1925 under Dick Smith. In his senior year Shields was an all-coast guard and played in the first East-West game in San Francisco.

After graduating from the University, Shields coached three years at Commerce high in Portland and then returned as assistant coach of the Webfoots under Capt. John J. McEwan. In 1930 and 1931, Shields assisted Dr. Clarence Spears and later with Prince G. Callison.

Marion Lay Davis Matrix Table Speaker

Marion Lay, '24, (wife of H. L. Davis, who wrote the Harpers and Pulitzer prize novel, "Honey in the Horn") was principal speaker this year for the annual Matrix Table dinner given by Theta Sigma Phi, women's journalism honorary.

The program is given each year to honor women outstanding in journalism and the arts. More than 200 attended the banquet.

Mrs. Davis discussed the topic: "Writers Are People, Too," presenting many different and unusual glimpses of the creative writing field. Mrs. Davis' best story of the evening is here reprinted from the column of Martha Stewart, women's editor of the Oregon Daily Emerald:

"I'm sorry more of you couldn't have met Marion Lay (Mrs. H. L. "Honey in the Horn") Davis when she was here last week to speak to Matrix Table. Mrs. Davis, a graduate of the University herself, is the sort of woman who makes one feel rather superior about graduating from her alma mater.

When plied with questions as to hers and Davis' reactions when word reached them that his "Honey in the Horn" had been awarded the Pulitzer prize Mrs. Davis told the following story.

The two were staying at a little hotel in the South at that time. One morning the desk clerk buzzed them to come downstairs for a phone call. Thinking it something of no importance and not wishing to awaken her husband, who still slept, Mrs. Davis went down to answer it.

"This is a reporter from the Nashville Times," came the voice at the other end. "How does Mr. Davis feel this morning?"

A bit puzzled but not wishing to be rude Mrs. Davis replied somewhat hesitantly:

"Why all right, I guess."

"Is he excited?" the reporter queried once more.

"Excited?" By now Mrs. Davis was completely bewildered. "Why no, I don't think so. He's still asleep."

This went on for some time, neither having the slightest idea what the other was talking about when suddenly something clicked inside the reporter's brain.

"Don't you know," he exclaimed, "that your husband was awarded the Pulitzer prize this morning?"

With a shriek Mrs. Davis dropped the phone ("For all I know," she said, "it may be dangling there still") and tore upstairs to break the glad news.

Their small cocker spaniel, hearing her coming, came running down the hallway to meet her. In her excitement Mrs. Davis didn't see him and a moment later she had tripped over his wiggling body and fallen face down in the corridor, while the spaniel leaped around her barking frantically.

By that time Davis had heard the noise and,

"A moment later," his wife tells us, "the Great Author stuck his head out the door to see what the commotion was."

"You've just been awarded the Pulitzer prize," Mrs. Davis managed to gasp. Davis eyed her calmly for a moment.

"I have?" he queried. "Well, you're not taking it very well."

Alumni at Conference

This year's press conference has been a reunion not only of the state's newspaper men but also of Oregon alumni, 24 of the 62 delegates being graduates of this University.

Following journalists are numbered among the U. of O. alumni: Merle R. Chessman, '09, Astorian Budget; Ralph R. Cronise, ex-'11, Albany Democrat-Herald; Mrs. Marie Fletcher, '14, Eugene Register-Guard; Henry N. Fowler, '14, Bend Bulletin; Harry N. Crain, ex-'18, Salem Capital Journal; Lucien P. Arant, ex-'18, Baker Democrat-Herald; Alene Phillips, ex-'19, Oregon Blue Book staff; Adelaide Lake, '20, Sheridan Sun; Harris Ellsworth, '22, Roseburg News Review; Harry Schenk, '33, McMinnville Telephone-Register; John W. Anderson, '23, Eugene News; Earle E. Voorhies, '23, Grants Pass Courier; Reuben Young, ex-'24, Curry County Recorder, Gold Beach; Bruce Dennis, ex-'30, Vancouver, Washington; Merlin Blais, '32, Portland Oregonian; Vinton H. Hall, '32, Oregon Motorist; Edwin Cruikshank, '33, Portland Oregonian; Gil Wellington, '35, Portland; Jean Aiken, '35, Ontario Argus; Larry Quille, '37, La Grande Observer; George Haley, ex-'39, Gresham Outlook.

Alumna Rescues Sister

Jane Whitmore, '36, became a heroine recently when she risked her life to save her twelve-year-old sister, Nancy, from the ice-crusted waters of Manhasset Bay at Plandome, L. I., according to newspaper reports received in Eugene.

The child had plunged into the bay to rescue her cocker spaniel which had fallen through the ice a short distance from the shore. Miss Whitmore, an expert swimmer, heard her sister's cries and crawled over the thin ice to the spot where, after falling through into the water herself, she finally managed to get the floundering girl and the dog out to safety. Almost exhausted, she was barely able to pull herself back upon the ice.

The girls and the dog were eventually pulled in from the ice by a rope thrown to them by newspaper cartoonist Nelson Harding, who lived nearby.

Miss Whitmore received her B.A. degree in English from the University in 1936.

These impressive gates around Howe field are to serve as a memorial to University of Oregon students, alumni, and faculty members who served in the World War. The gates are a gift of the classes of 1918, 1919, 1930, and 1936.

Students, Newsmen Honor Dean Allen

Dean Eric W. Allen was honored here during the press conference in January by Sigma Delta Chi, journalism professional fraternity, on the occasion of the Dean's twenty-fifth year as head of the journalism school at the University. Sigma Delta Chi at the same time celebrated its twenty-fifth year on the campus.

Climax of the banquet at which Governor Charles Martin, Chancellor F. M. Hunter, and President C. Valentine Boyer paid tribute to the Dean's splendid service was the presentation of a gold watch by members of Sigma Delta Chi—both alumni and undergraduates—and a bound volume of hundreds of congratulatory letters from former students of the Dean.

The newspaper men at the conference joined in honoring Dean Allen, who has had many of the publishers and editors in his classes. Toastmaster was Henry Fowler, '14, of the Bend Bulletin, who was a member of the first classes in journalism under the Dean—who was then just Professor Allen. Fowler was also a charter member of the group which was awarded membership in Sigma Delta Chi.

Dean Allen came to the University in the fall of 1912 after graduating from the University of Wisconsin and working on various newspapers of the middle west and the Pacific coast. For a while Mr. Allen worked as a reporter and news editor on the Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

At that time there were no courses in journalism offered at the University and President Prince L. Campbell asked Mr. Allen to take over the department of journalism. The first quarters of the department were in the basement of McClure hall. When these overflowed, some classes were carried to the little white building that now contains the educational activities offices.

Two years later the department was raised to the status of a school, and Professor Allen to the status of dean. Enrollment increased from the former handful and crowded the classrooms. New professors were added to the staff and a new building built to house the school.

Typical of the telegrams and congratulatory letters received by Dean Allen was one from Jay Allen, ex-'23, (no relative but now famous for his work as correspondent during the Spanish war now raging)—"To the dean in testimony that his name is spoken with affection, with respect, and with gratitude in far places."

Eric W. Allen, dean of the school of journalism, who was honored during the recent press conference when members of Sigma Delta Chi presented him with a gold watch as a token of his 25 years with the school of journalism.

Erb Addresses Students

When in Eugene during January for the Oregon Press Conference, Dr. Erb took occasion to address the student assembly. He chose for his topic "College Spirit."

Dr. Erb veered from the usual definition of "College Spirit" to tell the students that three things are essential in his opinion for real college spirit.

1. Loyalty—not the kind which is blind or unreasonable but that which is based on honest belief and affection.

2. Pride—not "the kind which goeth before a fall" but that which is inspired by valid accomplishments.

3. Distinction—the urge to make the best of every opportunity which finds its expression in the deeds of students, faculty and alumni.

"I do not expect," said the new president, "that everybody shall reach the same level of achievement, but I do expect that each of you shall make the best of his opportunities and natural resources. There will be a few who will not try, who will not be interested. I hope those who feel that way will depart early." The last sentence evoked laughter and applause from the students.

Dr. Erb paid high tribute to the University faculty and the manner in which it has conducted itself in the trying times of depression and the upheaval and reorganization of the whole state system of higher education. The new president said it was his opinion that the standards had not lowered during this time of stress. He also emphasized that the University had a long list of alumni who have won fame and distinction through their leadership in various fields.

"If I may lapse into the vernacular," said Dr. Erb, "you have what it takes; go to it."

Church Residence Given

The presentation of the house and grounds of his $50,000 Eugene home by Campbell Church as a memorial to his deceased wife, Adelaide Church, came as a welcome solution to one of the state board of higher education's major problems, that of housing the chancellor. Chancellor Frederick M. Hunter's official residence will henceforth be in Eugene while suitable quarters will be maintained for him at Corvallis when it is necessary for him to be on the Oregon State college campus.

Mr. Church's gift includes the large house, beautifully landscaped grounds and a swimming pool. The only condition is that the property be maintained permanently as a home for the chancellor or the president of the University. This does away with the possibility that the chancellor's residence might be moved to Portland or Salem.

Having the home of the chancellor near the campus but not actually on it eliminates the inconveniences which have frequently arisen in the past through the tendency of students and faculty members to take their affairs directly to him. On the other hand it maintains the advantages of having the chancellor near enough to keep in constant touch with the campus.

Chancellor Hunter will take residence in the Church house during the summer while President-elect Donald M. Erb will move into the house which has been the Hunter residence for the past few years upon his arrival in Eugene.

Campbell Church has long been a benefactor of the University and his home has been a social center for the town and campus. Mr. Church was the son of Mrs. Susan Campbell, wife of the late President Prince Campbell. One son, Campbell Church, Jr., G. '29, and two daughters, Mrs. Bette Church Darby, ex-'37, and Miss Peggy Church, who is on the campus now, have been students at the University.

Professor Will V. Norris represented the University at a physics conference held at Stanford university December 17 and 18.

Dear Editor:

John King, '33, and Mary Katherine Fenton King, '32, had a fine housewarming in Arlington, Virginia, today, attended by such eminent Oregonians as Robert "Bob" Thornton, ex-'37, and Dorothy Haberlach Thornton, '34; Jesse Douglas, '31, and Florence King Douglas, '32; William A. "Bill" Fowler, '27, and Sherleigh Glad Fowier, ex-'28, and the two lone bachelors, Francis Pallister, '34, and myself. Yes, the Ducks still gather in flocks.

COSGROVE LaBARRE, 36.

Liberty Building,
Yakima, Wash., Feb. 14, 1938.

Dear Mr. Fansett:

Today in the mail I was very happy to receive the Alumni information card. It is enclosed.

I say that I was happy to have heard from you, and I mean just that. My days and associations at the University were and are so dear to me that receiving any communication from the campus is a real pleasure.

Please send me the current number of Old Oregon and bill me for a year's subscription.

The first of the year I went into partnership for the practice of Law with Senator George F. McAulay and Roy C. Stroud. Mr. Stroud is a graduate of Oregon—his class being 1922.

There are two other lawyers here from Oregon: Isham N. Smith and George Mullins, '11.

Since I moved to Yakima in July of last year, I have looked up as many of the Oregon graduates as I could. To date the number is twenty-three graduates and former students, and there are undoubtedly some that we have no record of. In December, when Dean Jewell was in our city, we had a small dinner for him. He was here on a Saturday, so we had a small turnout because of the conflict with other affairs. What we lacked in numbers, we hope we made up in enthusiasm.

William Bolger, ex-'27, formerly of Medford, is manager of the downtown Penney store here. He is prominent in civic affairs, and is in demand as a speaker on chain-store management, and geology. In the latter field, he has made a thorough study of the geology and Indian legends regarding Crater Lake, and I understand that some of his work on the legends has been accepted as authoritative by the Federal Department of the Interior (Geology Division). He might make an interesting write-up for Old Oregon.

When Dean Jewell was here, he mentioned particularly the unusual street decorations that adorned Yakima Avenue for the Christmas and Holiday season. We were proud to tell him that Oregon was shining once more, as it was the work of W. W. (Bill) Nettleship, ex-'25, who operates the Yakima Sign Service.

The other day I learned that Rev. Orval D. Peterson, pastor of the Christian Church, had taken some work at Oregon. I don't know whether he is a grad or not. He did his theological work at the Eugene Bible School. Peterson is making quite a name for himself here. He is also quite in demand as a speaker. Last summer he was in Europe. Consequently, most of his addresses are on topics having to do with the economics and public affairs of European countries.

The School of Journalism is well represented here, in that Bill Marsh, '37; Fulton Travis, '37, and Arnold Anderson, '22, are on the staff of the Yakima Daily Republic and the Morning Herald.

Outside of practicing law and giving a boost for Oregon whenever and wherever I can, I have been spending some time in fraternity affairs, having organized the Yakima Valley Alumni Association of Sigma Alpha Epsilon. I seem to be the only S. A. E. from Oregon, and sad to relate, there are two from Oregon State. I'll have to import another Oregon man to square the matter.

All of us appreciate your fine endeavors in the Oregon Alumni Association, and hope that you will continue with the good work.

With kindest personal regards, I am

ROBERT C. THURSTON, '27.
