

COVID-19 Shed light on conditions faced by unhoused communities

- Research done by Remi McMullen
- Senior at University of Oregon
- General Science Major

The story behind my research

RAACs

- RAACs is a quarantine site located in Eugene, Oregon contracted by Lane County in May 2020 and funded by FEMA
- A large majority of RAACs patient population consists of unhoused Oregon residents

A step Lane County could take to protect the health of unhoused citizens

- Occupy Medical is already helping so many Lane County citizens with chronic conditions and social services, all of which is due to the COVID-19 pandemic
- Lane County could take this as an opportunity to recognize how a medical respite center could benefit the community as a whole

