The State of the University . . .

President Harry Newburn Looks Ahead

Written for Old Oregon by PRESIDENT H. K. NEWBURN

THE University of Oregon is completing one of the most eventful years in its long, full history. The war's end brought us face to face with the two problems of great enrollment increases and critical housing shortages, particularly for married students. The magnitude of the difficulties and the nature of the year's achievements in meeting the situation are best shown by a review of the facts relating to enrollment.

A year ago in spring term 1825 students were enrolled in classes on the Eugene campus. Last fall term the registration jumped to 2847, winter term to 3423, and spring term to 3800. Thus over a twelve month period it was necessary to care for 1975 additional students, an increase of 108%. We now have on the campus the largest number of students in the history of the University. Last year spring term there were 151 veterans in attendance, and now, just one year later, we have about 1700, an increase of over 1000%. Last August the University had no housing facilities available to married students; today we are operating a total of 131 apartments, trailers and prefabricated houses.

SUCH major adjustments have been achieved only through the wholehearted and intelligent cooperation of faculty and students, the State Board of Higher Education and the Central System officers, the citizens and civic organizations of Eugene, the Governor and other state officials, the Oregon delegation to Congress, our Dads' and Mothers' organizations, and the Alumni association. Though students have lived under crowded conditions, their morale has been high and their scholastic achievement quite satisfactory. A complete program of student activities has been carried forward, the fraternities reactivated, and many traditions, temporarily halted during the war, renewed. We are particularly proud of the veterans who have proved to be serious-minded, mature, capable students. They are a real asset to the University both scholastically and in activity participation. A new dental school, the former North Pacific College of Dentistry, was added July 1, 1945, thus rounding out our professional program.

We are planning next year for a Eugene enrollment of 4,600 to 5,000, and for 700 to 800 in the medical and dental schools at Portland. It is anticipated that the future enrollment of the University will remain at approximately this level. To care for this load temporarily and until permanent housing can be constructed, we have been allocated by the Federal Government two dormitories to house and feed 772 single men, and a total of 274 additional units for married veterans. These should be available for occupancy by the opening of fall term. It will be necessary to add at least fifty new faculty members to care for the minimum number of students expected next year.

STRINGENT academic standards have been established to govern the admission of out-of-state students designed to limit such registrations to those in the upper third of the group scholastically. More rigorous enforcement of scholarship regulations will continue to assure us that those remaining in school are profiting adequately from the opportunities available. Already there is evident a greater seriousness of purpose, and with larger numbers of students at the upperclass and graduate levels, this attitude should be even more characteristic in the future. At the same time, the increasing numbers will include talented students in drama, music, publications, athletics, and other activities and thus provide interesting and vital programs in these divisions.

The physical appearance of the campus will be changed considerably within the next few years. Temporarily, we are bothered somewhat by the appearance of trailers, prefabricated houses, and emergency dormitories, and soon we shall be further startled by the Quonset huts and other emergency quarters to be scattered over the campus for use as classrooms and laboratories. Before long, however, we shall see the beginnings of permanent de-

There'll Be Some Changes . . .

Harry K. Newburn, president of the University, can well look back on his first year as head of the University with pride. Confronted with such problems as a jump in enrollment from 2847 students fall term to 3800 spring term, with the housing shortage caused by the sudden influx of students, and the problem of enlarging the faculty to deal with the growing student body, Dr. Newburn has performed brilliantly in keeping the University on a smoothly-running basis. His outstanding ability and personality give promise of even greater years for the University in the future.

HOW MUCH DO YOU KNOW

About a metal you see every day?

WHAT MAKES STAINLESS STEEL "STAINLESS"?

This high-speed train wears a gleaming sheath of steel that's stainless—stainless because of the CHROMIUM it contains. Trains, planes, buses and cars of the future all will be finer still—and lighter, stronger, safer—because of increasing use of chromium in their steels.

WHY DOES HER KITCHEN COME "jiffy clean"?—Sparkling pans, pressure cooker, tableware, shining sink and working surfaces in this modern kitchen all are highly resistant to rust, stain, corrosion—are easy to clean, attractive and long-lasting. Why? Because CHROMIUM has imparted these prized qualities to the steels of which they are made.

HOW DO REFINERIES STAND THE "acid test"?—Highly corrosive acids help refine America's oceans of high octane gasoline. But today's refineries withstand fierce acids, high temperatures and pressures—because CHROMIUM stoutly fortifies their metals.

WHY CAN THIS TRUCK "take it"?—The steels of many truck and automobile bodies, springs, gears and other parts contain CHROMIUM—for chromium helps give these steels amazing resistance to shock, fatigue, wear.

CHROMIUM is well known to many people for the powerful influence it exerts upon steel. Most of the alloy steels relied upon today for beauty, durability, and resistance to heat and corrosion now contain this interesting element.

Many years ago Units of Union Carbide discovered how to extract chromium from its native ore. They since have been constantly at work on the ever growing list of chromium alloys and their uses.

Union Carbide does not make or fabricate steel.

ELECTRO METALLURGICAL COMPANY and other Units of UCC, however, supply to industry such wonder-working metals as chromium, manganese, and vanadium. With these, and the many other basic raw materials produced by UCC, industry improves a thousand and one products that serve all of us.

FREE: "Products and Processes of UCC," Booklet P-6, tells an illustrated story of many basic materials industry uses to build this world about us. Send for a copy.

Alum Dinners Hold Spotlight During Spring

At a dinner held April 12, alumni in Albany listened to a talk by Dr. Victor P. Morris, dean of the school of business administration, and music by three students of the school of music, Miss Sylvia Killman, '48, pianist, Miss Iris Duva, '46, vocalist and Miss Janet Shafer, '48, violinist.

Arrangements for the dinner, held at the Albany hotel, were made by Ralph Cronise, alumni director for Linn county. Those attending were Edward Sox, Olga Jackson Burns, Willis C. Fry, Hazel Barta Pague, Marion MacNeill Girard, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin F. Fortmiller, Dr. Lyle Bain, Else Bain, G. Earl Fortmiller, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Orval Thompson, Dr. and Mrs. J. F. Hosch, Cleo H. Jenkins, Zella Burkhardt, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Collins, Glenn C. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Leavengood, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Knodell, Miss Doris Hack and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Cronise.

velopments in the new science building, to cost $800,000 and to house biology, chemistry, and physics; in an addition to library reading rooms and stacks at a cost of approximately $400,000; and in other classroom developments all to be constructed from funds made available during 1945. Specifications are being completed for the Donald M. Erb Student Union building, named in memory of the University's late and revered president, and dedicated to the Oregon men and women who served in the last two wars. This student center, to cost over $1,000,000, will be constructed as soon as the necessary funds are assured and building material available. Also in final stages of planning is a fine, modern dormitory to house 236 women.

I HAVE emphasized constantly the fact that a University can be great only if it possesses a faculty of competent scholars and teachers dedicated to the task of developing outstanding men and women. Progress is being made in the direction of assuring such a staff for your University. One of the most hopeful developments is the provision of substantial funds in next year's budget for the adjustment of salaries and particularly for increasing the range available to those in the upper ranks. This action represents the first essential step since the future welfare of the University and the quality of the educational experience presented to the students depend largely upon our success in retaining gifted faculty members and in securing a number of equally competent men and women as replacements are necessary in key positions.

Your University is looking ahead with high hopes of building wisely upon the fine tradition of service which has been characteristic of the institution from its inception. With your help and understanding we are prepared to face the heavy responsibilities before us in this period of great challenge to higher education.

THE University and its alumni are playing a part in the improvement of local government through the Bureau of Municipal Research and Service of the University and the League of Oregon Cities. Maintaining joint offices in Fenton hall, these organizations serve as a research agency and clearing house for information on local government procedures and practices for Oregon cities and as a training ground for Oregon alumni interested in public administration.

The bureau was created in 1933 at the request of the league and there has been a close working relationship between them ever since. Herman Kehrl, director of the bureau, also serves as executive secretary of the league and many of the staff activities are carried on under sponsorship of both organizations.

The activities of the staff in the joint office of the bureau and the league are varied. City officials refer several hundred questions each year to the office (623 last year.) These inquiries range all the way from a simple request for an ordinance regulating house trailers to a request for an opinion regarding the legality of a plan whereby a citizen would build a $50,000 hospital for a city if the city would agree to pay him four and one-half per cent interest on the amount until his death. New Firm Takes Over University Planning

PLANNING of the several buildings in the current University building program is in the hands of the successors to the architectural firm of the late Ellis F. Lawrence, dean of the school of architecture and allied arts, and for many years, University architect.

The newly-formed firm, Lawrence, Tucker and Wallmann, is composed of H. Abbott Lawrence, '29, son of the dean, Ernest F. Tucker (Penn., '25), and George R. Wallmann, '33. With them, as specification writer, is Lowell F. Anderson, '34, who, in conjunction with Abbott Lawrence, worked with Dean Lawrence on many of the existing University buildings.

Lawrence served as designer for Arthur Middlehurst in Palma de Mallorca, Spain, in 1933 and for Naramore & Brady, Seattle, during the war years following the planning of Camp Adair.

Wallmann was associated with Siems-Drake Puget Sound of Seattle where he acted as chief architect on many army and navy installations and more recently was with the Conveyor Engineering Co. of Seattle.

At present the firm is busy on the University classroom laboratory building, the new women's dormitory, the student union building, and the University hospital at the medical school.

What UO Alumni Do . . . Results of Survey by - -

Written for Old Oregon
 By KARL W. ONTHANK
 Dean of Personnel Administration
 University of Oregon

Karl W. Onthank

Karl W. Onthank, University dean of personnel administration, reveals in this issue the results of a survey of 13,604 University alumni on occupational classifications. Mr. Onthank was able to determine by the survey just what percentage of the alumni entered each occupational field upon graduation from the University.

JUST before the war a catalogue of 13,604 University of Oregon alumni who had responded to a questionnaire including information on occupation, made under the direction of the Alumni Secretary and the writer was completed. "War business" subsequently so completely occupied the University stage that statistical analysis of the catalogue has only now been made. The figures accordingly show the occupations of alumni (except women who reported simply "housewife") during the years just preceding the war and before its influence began to take effect. Hence, it reports a period as "normal" as could be picked, at least since World War I. It should be noted that the figures are not the result of "sampling" but are the actual count of alumni then on record. The Alumni Secretary estimates that this is approximately three-fourths of living "employed" alumni.

The occupational classification used is one which is accepted as standard for college graduates." But no classification, unless minutely detailed, can give a wholly accurate picture. For instance, we find "publishers" (which include some journalism graduates) listed under "manufacturing" rather than in the professional category of "editing and reporting" where most such graduates appear. But a careful check shows that the figures of the accompanying table give a substantially accurate picture of what University of Oregon alumni were doing during the period between 1936 and 1941 when they returned these questionnaires.

OF the many possible observations on these figures, here are a few which seem significant:

(1) As is certainly proper for a University alumni body, a majority (52%) are in "professional service," and of these much the largest single group is in teaching (15.9%), or, if college professors and educational administrators are included, 22.35%.

(2) "Business" draws more graduates than any other occupation. "Trade" alone gets 19.22% and all business 29.16%. And the trend is strong in that direction. Detailed figures comparing periods are lacking, but to one familiar with the records and with recent graduating classes it appears that a majority now enter some field of business and certainly a majority of the men. Graduates entering business come from the large and rapidly growing School of Business Administration, from the College of Liberal Arts, and not a few from other professional schools. The major cause of this trend is, of course, the shift in Oregon from an economy based on agriculture and the exploitation of timber and other natural resources, to one of trade and industry.

(3) Medicine comes second among the professions with 10.25%, reflecting both the distinguished character of the University medical school, and of the pre-medical department on the campus since all University graduates in medicine are counted wherever they did their medical study, and the long series of medical classes which has been graduated as compared with those of more recently established schools.

(4) Law (5.58%) comes third among the professions, a reflection in part of the fact that it includes graduates both of the present law school and of the old University school in Portland which operated from 1884 until the campus school opened in 1915.

(5) The significant number of engineers (1.18% of all) is worth notice. Most of them were trained in the Engineering school which, though founded in 1894, operated effectively only from about 1902 to 1913. In that brief time was produced a body of graduates which has given distinguished service.

Col. Kelley Passes

Col. Edward W. Kelley, assigned by the U. S. Army to the University of Oregon R.O.T.C. from 1931 to 1936, died suddenly in his home at 1 Remington Lane, Houston, Tex., in early May. Colonel Kelley made many friends in Eugene and was active in both campus and civic life. He was a member of the Eugene American Legion Post, the Eugene Country club, and the local chapter of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity. While acting as professor of military science at the University, he organized the Scabbard and Blade society.

(6) The comparatively smaller figure in the fields of the newer professional schools reflect the comparatively fewer classes graduated as yet, and the large numbers of their graduates entering teaching and hence listed in that occupation. This is true of practically all Physical Education graduates and of a large fraction of those graduating in Music and Art, especially the women.

University Benefactor Dies At Eugene Home

Frank Leslie Chambers, 80, long-time friend and benefactor of the University of Oregon, died April 29 at his home in Eugene. Death came just one day after the marriage of his only grand-child, Miss Leslie Brockelbank, '45, to Charles Gray. Mr. Chambers was a member of the Alumni Holding company, an organization for the development of the University, and he was responsible for educating several students.

Bob Tramp Honored

The air medal was awarded posthumously recently to Sgt. Robert L. Tramp, '46, at memorial service at the First Baptist Church, Eugene. Tramp was killed in action during a bombing raid over Nagoya on March 25, 1945. Members of Sigma Chi fraternity, of which he was a member, attended the service.

'Upkeep of the University Community' Called Physical Plant's First Duty

Written for Old Oregon
By BARBARA GILBERT

THE whir of gasoline-powered lawn mowers, the swish of long-range sprinklers, and the clip-clipping of pruning shears are familiar sounds to the University student as he starts for classes on early spring mornings. These sounds symbolize only a few of the many tasks, vital to the functioning of the University, carried on daily by employees of the University physical plant.

Headed by Superintendent D. L. Lewis with a staff of 118 men and women, the physical plant is responsible for the upkeep of the entire University community. The varied work of the plant is divided into ten departments which include: (1) superintendent and general, (2) janitorial, (3) building repairs, (4) heating, (5) electricity, (6) campus and grounds, (7) telephones, (8) water system, (9) police and watchmen, (10) autos and trucks.

"We keep enough equipment and men to take care of a city of about 4,500 people," Lewis said. "We handle any job that might be required by the residents of any community."

ONE of the most extensive of the divisions is that of campus and grounds, for grouped under this department is the upkeep of the 92 acres of campus which included the main campus, athletic fields, the Chancellor's residence, and the president's home.

The men working under this department include in their duties cutting and watering lawns, trimming shrubbery, fertilizing, weeding, spraying trees, landscaping, and cleaning the grounds. They must also keep the sidewalks in good repair and be responsible for the care of sewers. The leasing of trailer and prefabricated houses and the 40 living units of Skinner's Butte Villa by the University greatly increased the duties of the campus and grounds men since the upkeep of the grounds of these new housing projects comes under their jurisdiction.

Under the building repair division are employed five painters, three carpenters, three plumbers, in addition to many men for general work. Calls are made to this department to repair a knocking radiator, check a blown-out fuse, patch a leaky roof, replace a broken window pane, or put up awnings when warm weather comes. The department handles repairs for 28 University buildings and three dormitories, in addition to the three new housing projects.

AN interesting feature of the physical plant is its maze of underground concrete tunnels running to all parts of the campus. Measuring six feet wide and seven feet high, these tunnels house pipes which carry steam for heating, water for irrigation, and which return water to the plant after steam has condensed. Also running through the tunnels are 2300 volt electric wires for power, lighting, and the class bell system, and telephone and telegraph wires. The tunnels were installed to provide easy access to the wires and pipes when repairs or changes are necessary.

Donald L. Lewis, ex '09, heads the 118 employees of the University physical plant. With the plant since 1929, Superintendent Lewis has charge of the ten departments which keep the University functioning smoothly.

Steam heat for the University is produced in the University's own heating plant located near Franklin boulevard across from the art and architecture building. The large boilers burn both oil and sawdust and send the steam down through the tunnel pipes to heat all campus buildings and dormitories. Sawdust, of which about 14,000 units, or 2,800,000 cubic feet, are consumed during the school year, is fed automatically from the storage place to the furnaces.

THE water department is equipped with a 40 horsepower motor and a 35 horsepower motor and a 35 horsepower steam turbine connected to centrifugal pumps which feed water into the irrigation mains.

Now under construction east of the press building is a new physical plant shop designed to house the electrical shop, paint shop, carpenters' shop, and all other shops under one roof. W. V. Norris, University supervising engineer, is in charge of the construction of the shop.

Superintendent Lewis came to the University in 1929 as an electrician and was appointed superintendent of buildings and grounds a short time later. He attended the University as a major in electrical engineering. Assistant to the superintendent is Louis Jensen who also came to the physical plant in 1929. Racheal Johnson is secretary to the superintendent. A. H. Tysen, who came to the physical plant in 1927, is the University postmaster, H. S. Tompkins, assisted by K. B. Cox, is the campus watchman, and H. E. Snyder is the University member of the police force.

Since coming to the University physical plant staff in 1942, Felix Grupp has made himself one of the most familiar figures on the campus. Every day University students hurrying to classes pass Felix busily driving his power lawn mower across some part of the campus green.

A Month on the Campus

Written for Old Oregon

By JANET WATTS, '48,
NANCY HOERLEIN, '48, and STAFF

JUNIOR Weekend, 1946 has come and gone, leaving behind memories of three wonderful spring days on the University campus crammed with all the beauty, pomp and excitement of pre-war festivities. "State Fair", theme of the celebration this year, opened with such events as the campus clean-up, painting of the "O", scouring of the seal, and the Amphibian water pageant. Friday night Chi Omega sang "Without a Song" and Omega hall sang "De Animals A-Comin'" to win the 1946 all-campus sing.

Alpha Xi Delta and Sigma Phi Epsilon teamed up to create "Blueboy—the Hammus Oregonus," a gigantic blue-ribbon pig which brought home the bacon from the traditional float parade Saturday afternoon.

Ruling over the all-campus picnic was Queen Patricia Metcalf and her court of Princesses Mary Dixon, Marilyn Rakow, Doris Spearow, and June Johnson. Climaxing the weekend was the Junior Prom in McArthur court Saturday night when students danced to the music of Gus Arnheim and his orchestra and watched Marjorie Skordahl and Gilbert Roberts win the Gerlinger and Koyl cups respectively as the outstanding woman and man in the junior class.

Junior Weekend, 1946, came reluctantly to an end Sunday afternoon as the Sunlight Serenade in the outdoor gardens of the music school slowly brought down the the University's first post-World War II celebration.

Pearl Peterson, '47, was awarded the Schwering scholarship during Junior Weekend and additional scholarships went to Norma Granstrom, '47, Myrl Sykes, '47, and Jean Alexander, '47.

Tapped for Mortar Board, senior women's honorary, at the all-campus picnic were: Marguerite Wittwer, Martha Thorsland, June Johnson, Gay Edwards, Marilyn George Pegg, '47, spring term advertising manager of the Daily Emerald, was named recently as business manager of the 1946-47 Emerald.

Sage, Marjorie Allingham, Patricia Metcalf, Jean Watson, Virginia Scholl, and Marjory Skordahl. Dr. Leona Tyler, assistant professor of psychology, was elected an honorary member.

Tapped for Friars, senior men's honorary, during the Junior Weekend festivities were: Bass Dyer, Tom Kay, and Byron Mayo. Faculty members chosen to the honorary were President Harry K. Newburn; Charles Howard, professor of law; and Howard Hobson, basketball coach.

For the second consecutive term, Delta Delta topped the campus grade point average. Their winter term 2.76 was just under their winning 2.782, fall term. Pi Beta Phi was winter term runner-up with 2.669 and Orides was third with 2.666. The all-campus average of 2.501 is higher than last term's 2.446, but not as high as the 2.527 of a year ago.

Druids, junior men's honorary, sponsored the recent campus campaign in cooperation with the nation-wide food conservation program. All campus living organizations were asked to review their present food situation to see where they might help with the program.

A famine meal marked the opening day of the drive on the campus.

The French club, the YWCA, and the One World club carried on a relief drive to send boxes of food and clothing to European schools during May.

Twenty outstanding sophomore women were tapped May 16 to Phi Theta Upsilon, junior women's honorary. The new members are: Barbara Borrevik, Ann Burgess, Geneva Davis, Nila Desinger, Bobbie Fulmer, Gloria Grenfell, Bjorg Hansen, Mary Ann Hansen, Barbara Hawley, Helen Hicks, Beryl Howard, Barbara Johns, Miki Metcalf, Dedo Misley, Delores Ray, Alice May Roberts, Jeanne Simmonds, Robbieurr Warrens, Pat Webber, and Barbara Wells.

Seven of the outstanding men of the present sophomore class were tapped at the Junior Prom as new members of Druids, junior men's honorary. Those tapped were: Harry Glickman, Phil Dana, Evan Davies, Marguerite Wittwer, '47, managing editor of this year's Daily Emerald, was recently chosen by the educational activities board as editor of the 1946-47 Emerald.

Joseph Pond, Leon Williams, Ed Marshall, and Tom Hazzard.

The first University theater production of spring was James Barrie's delightful "Dear Brutus." The cast included Marge Allingham, '47, Jack Miller, '47, Shirley Peters, '48, Cliff James, '49, Paul Marcotte, '47, Mary Hoch, '49, Marilyn Wherry, '48, Roberta Quigley, '47, and Pat Kimmick, '48, and direction was by Ottilie Seabolt, associate professor of speech and dramatic art.

AWS held its annual Auction day in front of the Side April 25. Auctioneers raising money for student scholarships were Bob Moran, '48, and Dick Savinar, '48. Dorothy Davis, '48, was general chairman of the event.

The University band, under the direction of John Stehn, presented its annual spring concert in the music school auditorium recently. Rose Zena Latta, '48, was featured soloist.

Twenty outstanding freshman were tapped at the all-campus sing during Junior Weekend as members of Skull and Degger, sophomore men's honorary. Men tapped were: Carl Reusser, Sheldon Jones, Bill Cooley, Jim McClintock, Clay Morgan, Ken Gurrian, Dave Silver, Bill Barnum, Bob Roberts, Jack Meeke, Walter Kirsch, John Lewis, Bob Bennett, Don Dole, Ralph Bonadurer, and Don Pinkerton. Bill Barnum was elected as next year's president, replacing Winston Carl, present head of the organization.

The 1946 Odeon exhibit, presented last month, featured the works of University students in music, art, poetry, and modern dance.

Jeanne Simmonds, '48, and June Goetze, '49, were named outstanding women journalists of their respective classes at the recent annual Matrix Table banquet of Theta Sigma Phi, women's journalism honorary.

Playing host to all upper-class women, the YWCA held their annual junior-senior luncheon at the Eugene hotel, May 4. Dr. Katherine MacArthur, staff member of the national YWCA cabinet, was guest speaker. Cabinet member Ann Scripser, '48, acted as chairman of the affair.

Robbieurr Warrens, '48, was recently named business manager of the 1946-47 Oregana. Miss Warrens, a music major, has served as executive secretary of the Oregana and as night editor of the Daily Emerald.

Roy Paul Nelson, managing editor of the Oregana in 1943, and still serving overseas with the navy, will edit next year's University yearbook. He expects to be released from active duty with the navy in June.

Webfoot Spring Practice Encouraging; 1946 Gridiron Outlook Promising

AN intra-squad game before two thousand cheering Junior Weekend fans brought to a close one of the most encouraging spring football training seasons ever held on the University campus. Prewar grid veterans, stalwarts from last year's Webfoot eleven, and an assortment of transfers from other schools vied for spots on what may prove to be one of Oregon's best football teams in many years.

Coach Tex Oliver was all smiles when greeted by such returning veterans as Jimmy Newquist, Bob Koch, Duke Iverson, and Tony Crish from his 1941 squad. And these may be but a few of the number of experienced gridgers that will be returning in the fall. Tex has his fingers crossed as yet, but optimistic sidelines dopesters are expecting Hymie Harris, 1941 end, Bill Davis, Joe Dugan of the 1942 squad, and Gene Gillis, 1945 starter, in lemon and green moleskins when grid practice is called next September.

POWER in the backfield is stacked four and five deep. The left half position should be one of the most brilliant in the country. Leading the parade is last year's All-American Jake Leicht. Jake has been working in the track squad this spring but will be back in grid togs in the fall. Leicht will have no easy job holding down the starting assignment, however; Jimmy Newquist, back from the naval air corps, displayed beautiful running form this spring and appears ready for a great year. Bobby Reynolds, Webfoot star in 1942 and again in 1945, has also been looking very well. Especially improved is his passing which featured the spring training program.

Also bidding for left half berths are two passing sensations up from California, Norm Van Brocklin and Bill Behrens, and a punting expert, George Redden.

THE fullback roster is equally imposing.

1945 regular, Walt Donovan, worked out but briefly, spending most of his time on the cinder squad. Bob Koch showed indications of traditional Webfoot fullback power when he returned late in the spring after discharge from the navy. Playing under Koch have been Glen Wilson, transfer from Sacramento J. C., and Bob Oas.

Not to be overlooked are a pair who may be back in the fall, Bill Davis and Les Billinger. Davis played outstanding ball in 1942 while Billinger gained experience at Long Beach City College.

Big Duke Iverson stepped into the top quarterback role upon his return to the campus and should be one of the best blocking backs on the coast this season.

Under the Duke are 1945 letterman Bill Abbey, Andy Bodner, and Don Shaffer, transfer from Long Beach C. C.

THE right half post does not quite stack up with the other backfield possibilities. Carrying the load this spring have been Sam Ramey, George Bell, and Aubrey Van Loo; the latter played at Pacific U. in 1942 and later for the El Toro Marines. Leroy Erickson, 1942 starter, may be able to help out this situation in the fall. He has been on the track squad this spring.

Pivotmen are plentiful, but the quality as yet is unproven. Brad Ecklund, frosh numerical winner, has looked fine in the starting role. Jim Berwick, another aspirant with frosh experience, has been moved from guard to center and may be able to help out. Also out for the spot are Jack Bunnett, Don Martin, and Bill Sempert. Another possibility may be Clark Stokes, 1941 frosh starter, who is expected back in the fall.

The guards are headed by John Kauffman, 1945 bruiser, who has beaten off all competition for the left guard spot. Top men at the right side position are Bill Murphy, Ted Meland, and Tony Novacic. It may be that one of these three will give Brains behind Oregon's football prowess are these three coaches. The promising turnout during the spring term pigskin practice accounts for the pleased expressions on the faces of Head Coach G. A. "Tex" Oliver, Backfield Coach Mike Mikulak, and Line Coach Vaughn Corley.

LETTERMEN at the tackles may be hard pressed for starting berths in the fall. Three returned to Line Coach Vaughn Corley this spring—Chuck Elliott, Harry Edwards, and Curt Deskins. Their work may be overshadowed by Howie Frary, transfer from Colorado State who looked great this spring, and Pete Miller, frosh numeral winner.

This group may be augmented in the fall by another pair of frosh numeral winners—Don Stanton and Ray Blatchley. Blatchley was tried at fullback briefly this spring, but will undoubtedly be returned to tackle if he shows up in September. Gene Gillis, promising tackle last year, is expected back for the autumn campaign, also to fill out a very imposing tackle roster.

THE end situation as yet is not too encouraging but should be improved by fall if Hymie Harris and Joe Dugan return to the Lemon and Green. Only outstanding wingman this spring was Tony Crish who alternated between the gridiron and the titlebound baseball nine. Below Crish at left end are Pug Mayer, transfer from Idaho Southern Branch, and Lou Robinson, who doubles as Colonel Bill Hayward's javelin tosser.

Wayne Bartholomew has the edge at right end followed by Art Milne and Duane Potter. Milne may be heard from in the fall even though not in a starting role.

Elizabeth Anne Sether, '42, who was recently discharged from the Marine Corps, is back home in Eugene. She is now employed as police department secretary and municipal court clerk for Lane county.

THE 37th annual Oregon-Oregon State dual track meet May 16th brought to a close the dual conference meets for the University cindermen. Only the Northern Division conference meet in Seattle on May 24 was left in the 1946 Webfoot season.

In the OSC battle, the Beavers outclassed the Ducks in the weight events and the distance runs to amass a score of 80 points to the locals 51.

Besides losing to OSC, the Ducks fell to Washington, and Washington State in exciting meets. The Huskies downed Hayward's men 75-55 May 4 on Hayward field and the Cougars gained one point on the Washington team, to take Oregon 76-55. May 11 at Pullman, Washington.

THE Cougar affair was a highly contested one, as the judges hemmed and hawed over close photo-finishes. In this meet, weakness in the shot put, discus and distance runs spelled defeat for the traveling yellow and green team.

High spot on the squad has been the number of individual stars who were potential first-place men in the conference meet. Continuing his undefeated early season record, Jake Leicht, Oregon's sensational All-American in football, is making just as an impressive showing in his track work for Colonel Hayward. Jake has defeated every sprinter he has met this season and should come through for firsts in Seattle. Leicht hasn't hit his old form of :9.6 in the hundred yet, but he has clicked off seven :10 flat centuries. A 21.3 two-twenty yard dash against the Cougars gives Jake the fastest time in the Northwest in the fur-long and places him almost a full second ahead of the fastest times in the California track meets.

BILL Kydd, dental student in Portland, is another undefeated Webfoot. Kydd has been tossing the javelin between 180 and 190 feet all season to completely outclass his opponents, and against Oregon State Bill uncorked a beautiful heave that soared 193 feet 9 inches—the longest throw he has recorded this year. Kydd journeys from Portland to be with the team in the meets and is on his own as far as practices goes.

Bounding Bill Beifuss was a probable first place winner in the high jump for Oregon at the conference meet. Beifuss hasn't been beaten this year and has been tied once. His best jump, against University of Portland and Willamette university early in the season, is 6 feet 5 inches. Washington State's Vince Hansen is supposed to have hit the same height, but Vince didn't keep up with Beifuss in the Duck-Cougar meet.

Other runners who have constantly garnered points for the team this year and who should bring in points at the conference meet are Lou Robinson and Dick Shelton, javelin; Cliff Johnson, broad jump; Andy Swan and Ernie Schauer, 440; Carl Maxey, sprints; Wyn Wright, Dave Edwards, hurdles; and Walt McClure and Johnny Joachims, half mile.

Ernest Haycox, '23, nationally-famous novelist and president of the University alumni association, addressed the annual junior-senior assembly in McArthur court May 9. Stressing the need for alumni financial support, Haycox told students that they are to be "missionaries of the University" in the future.

Haycox Addresses Students

ERNEST Haycox, '23, nationally known novelist and president of the University alumni association, told students at the annual junior-senior assembly May 9 how they can best represent the University after graduation.

"The whole function of the alumni association is to defend, preserve, and protect this institution, Haycox declared. "We, the graduates, are the ones who represent the University's interests and it is up to us to represent them in whatever legitimate way we can."

Stressing the need for financial cooperation from alumni, Haycox cited several of the projects contemplated by the University including a Student Union building.

"For one year after graduation you are automatically a member of the alumni association," Haycox told the students, "and when the year is up you can do one of two things: either join again or join your community's alumni association."

In an effort to maintain interest in these local organizations, Haycox continued, "The University depends on these groups, for it is they who inform the people in the various communities throughout Oregon and the nation as to what the University of Oregon stands for and does."

"You," he told the students in conclusion, "are the missionaries of this University."

Hobby Hobson Does It Again; Baseballers Take Fourth Straight Pennant

Written for Old Oregon
By TOMMY WRIGHT, '48

THE Northern Division baseball pennant will wave for another year over the grassy diamond of Howe field.

For the fourth consecutive competitive season, Coach Howard Hobson and his Webfoot nine turned back the best Oregon State, Washington, Washington State and Idaho could offer to win the conference horseshide championship.

On Howe field before nearly 3,500 fans, the lemon and green diamonders turned back a stubborn attack by the Beavers from Oregon State college, to clinch the title—their eighth in ten years of competition. Oregon had opened the four-game OSC series in an enviable position. They needed only one win to dispatch the Orange threat. In the first two games of the championship series the Webfoot team lacked the drive that had carried them through the season leading the league. Oregon State won the first, 4-3, handing Hal Saltzman his first conference defeat. They continued their bid for the crown in the second, winning 10-6 in a sloppy encounter at Corvallis. But Oregon combined top-rate coaching strategy, timely hitting and near perfect base running with superb pitching by the speedy Saltzman to blast into the title column.

IT was anything but good baseball weather Friday, May 24. Despite a heavy drizzle which began in the sixth inning, a majority of the fans stuck it out until Tony Crish, who replaced injured Dick Rodiger behind the plate, recovered a drive off Saltzman's shins to throw the final Beaver out at first. With the Oregon team playing its best ball since hacking the Portland Pilots 5-0 two weeks before, it looked like a shoo-in for the Hobsonmen. They didn't miss a bet to amass a five-run lead by the seventh frame. For five innings Saltzman had stopped the Orange team without a hit, but they were not to be denied. They clicked for three runs in the eighth. The Duck lead looked very small. But the two-run edge was enough, and the game ended on that 5-3 count.

The two teams met again Saturday, May 25, but only to complete the schedule. Ralph Coleman's Beavers capitalized on five Oregon errors for a 9-5 victory to give them three wins out of four games for the series. The final standings showed the Webfoots on top by a narrow one game margin.

FOR Coach Hobson the season was a creditable success. At the beginning, Oregon, with only three returning lettermen, Saltzman, Crish and Bob Santee, was not figured to place against the star-studded Washington and Washington State nines. By whipping a line-up composed mostly of freshmen into a fighting team, Hobson built up a huge lead during the first half of the season. The result was the sixth Northern Division title team for "Hobby" in his eight years of coaching Oregon baseball.

Still in the offing, is the possibility of a North-South diamond play-off between the University of Oregon and the University of Southern California, winners of the Southern Division Pacific Coast conference. Hobson, representing the Pacific coast in the College Baseball Coaches association, hopes to inaugurate the play-off this season with the view of having inter-sectional play-offs and a "Collegiate World Series" in 1947.

Final Northern Division Standings:

Joe Gordon, '39, former Webfoot baseball star, is again holding down the second base spot for the New York Yankees this year.

Dr. Robert C. Rittel, '40, has returned from military service with army dental corps and has resumed his dental practice in Portland.

Meet Your County Directors

Written for Old Oregon
By DORIS HACK, '41

UNINTENTIONALLY an air of anonymity has surrounded the part of the alumni organization known as county alumni directors. Reference is usually made to them as a group rather than individually and they are listed in the masthead of OLD OREGON with only a class year and the name of their county to identify them.

As part of its plan to acquaint alumni membership with the people who make up the governing body of the Alumni association, OLD OREGON is presenting a short biographical sketch of each director. The function of this group, representing each county in the State of Oregon, is to advise the alumni secretary of all matters pertaining to the welfare of the association and assist in maintaining alumni interest in their respective communities.

Although regular meetings preceding the annual and semi-annual meetings of the association are their established schedule, the inconvenience of travel during the past three years has prevented regular meetings. The plan is from now on to get back into the regular schedule of meetings.

In order of their counties, they are:

Baker—James T. Donald, '15, attorney and president of the Oregon State Bar this year. His wife, Florence Cleveland, is a member of the class of '13 and he has a daughter, Jane and a son, James C. If you want to know where the good fishing streams are in Eastern Oregon, Jim Donald can tell you.

Benton—Walter T. Dugan, '28, JD'31, attorney with offices in Corvallis. His wife is Edith Dodge, class of '29. They may be seen at most all the main events on the University campus.

Clackamas—Peter Laurs, '27, member of Sigma Delta Chi and for a number of years associated with newspaper publishing and public relations work. His address is Oregon City.

Coos—George "Chet" Huggins, '16, in the insurance business in Coos Bay. He has three sons and a daughter. George, Jr., is now attending the University following his return from military service.

Crook—Remy M. Cox, '22, publisher of the Central Oregonian, one of Oregon's oldest weekly newspapers. He spent four years traveling as business representative for the United Press association and later was news editor of the Bend Bulletin. In 1939 he purchased and consolidated the two newspapers in Prineville where he, his wife and son, Remy, Jr., 19, make their home.

Deschutes—Herbert C. Staples, '23, optometrist at Bend. His wife is the former Andree Tatro, class of '24 and his daughter, Lois Ann (Mrs. Frank Prince, Jr.) attended the University. There is a son, Jimmy, attending high school. Dr. Staples has been secretary of the Oregon Optometric association and vice-president of the Oregon State Board of Optical Examiners. He is first vice-president of the Bend Kiwanis club and is serving as chairman of the advisory committee of the state board of control on Oregon State training schools.

Douglas—Thomas C. Hartfiel, '34, a newcomer to the board of alumni directors and justice of the peace in Roseburg. He has numerous community interests and is particularly concerned with the fostering of a drum corps for teen-agers in Roseburg. He is a state officer in the Young Republican's organization in Oregon.

Gilliam—Genevieve Dunlop Holland (Mrs. John H. Holland), '34, is a member of several journalism honoraries and is now editor of the Condon Globe-Times.

Grant—Orval D. Yokom, '27, JD29, attorney in John Day. His wife, Camille Burton, is a graduate of 1928. They have a daughter, Sandra.

Harney—Douglas Mullarkey, '20, former secretary to the governor and now editor and co-publisher of the Burns Times-Herald. Daughter, Donna, is attending the University and is a member of Delta Zeta.

Hood River—Douglas Parker, '40, newcomer this year to the alumni council, is assistant editor of the Hood River News. He returned to this position following active duty as an ensign in the naval reserve. He served on a minesweeper in the navy and saw duty in both the Atlantic and Pacific, including 29 months overseas. He received five battle stars and was mentioned in a Saturday Evening Post article on minesweeping in the Mediterranean.

Jackson—John S. Day, '35, also new on the council roster, owns and operates the Blue Moon Ranch near Medford. He was president of the Pacific company which dealt with construction work for army camps. He has had a variety of experiences in gold mining, working as a smoke chaser for the Forest Service, and as a ranger with the National Park Service. He is a member of Rotary, Elks, University club, Aero club of Oregon, president of the Cal-Oregon Hereford association and regional vice-president of the Oregon council of the American Pioneer Trails association.

Jefferson—Dr. Victor S. Howard, another recently appointed director, is a graduate of 1910. His home is at Madras where he is an optometrist.

Lake—Ray Harlan, '24, has a retail lumber and building material establishment in Lakeview and a couple of prospective basketball players as soon as his two boys are out of military service.

Lane—Sidney Milligan, '38, appointed former involved only the sending of a sample ordinance from the files; the latter involved quite a bit of legal research.

TO aid in answering these inquiries, the office maintains a reference library of ordinances, books, and pamphlets which are available on loan to all city officials. Students of government are also encouraged to make use of these facilities.

At present, the staff is doing a great deal of work on charter revisions for Oregon cities, bringing obsolete charters up to date and drafting charters providing for the city manager plan of government for cities desiring it. This work is undertaken at the request of city councils or city charter committees. The drafting of the first county charter providing for the county manager system under the new enabling act has just been completed for Clackamas county and will be put before the voters in May.

the bureau. During his service in the navy, Lt. Hall was first detailed to the U. S. Control Council for Germany in Frankfurt, where he worked on the organizational staff of the commanding general, Lt. General Clayhorn. Later, Lt. Hall was detailed to the United Nations Organization in London where he worked with an interational committee on organizational, procedural, and budgetary plans for the UNO secretariat.

BETTY Ann MacDuff Duff, '33, served for two years on the bureau staff and later spent a number of years on the staff of the Michigan Municipal League where she was editor of the Michigan Municipal Review.

Thomas H. Tongue, 3rd, '38, worked for the Bureau during 1940-41. Following completion of a year's graduate work as Sterling scholar at the Yale law school, he joined the staff of the Wage and Hour Division, Department of Labor, in Washington, D.C. He later served as secretary of the West Coast Lumber Commission in Portland, under the National War Labor Board.

Mary Nelson, '36, served on the research staff of the Maritime Labor Board after working a year for the bureau. She then served as head of the research staff on the War Labor Board. Miss Nelson, now Mrs. Howard J. Hilton, is at present a member of the staff of the State Department.

Elma Doris Havemann, '35, who was secretary and librarian of the bureau for five years, served subsequently with the War Labor Board in Washington, D. C., and in Seattle. She then became Senator Wayne Morse's secretary, and is now secretary of the veterans' guidance center on the University campus.

Other alumni who have served on the bureau and league staff include Arthur M. Cannon, '34, and Orval Etter, '37, JD '39. Oregon alumni on the present staff are Henry F. Beistel, '31, Virgil H. Langtry, '34, Steve Worth, '43, Jean Spearow Worth, '42, Sally Murrow Hitchcock, '42, and Patricia Parker Speer, '42.

Prominent in League activities have been J. W. McArthur, '08, treasurer for many years; Charles H. Huggins, '22, president in 1938-39; John Houston, '21, president in 1942-43; and George P. Stadelman, '30, first vice-president of the league at the present time.

club. He has been connected with the Atkinson Jones company since 1923 and has been chairman of the Multnomah county republican central committee since 1942.

Additional details have come to our attention following up the story in the February issue of OLD OREGON concerning the work of Dr. Hubert G. Schenck, '22, who was reported to be making a survey of Japan's natural resources, agriculture, fishing, forestry, mining, geology and hydrology. He was the second officer to have a personal interview with Emperor Hirohito; no other officer has since been given an individual audience. They talked about sea shells—a subject Schenck first studied at Oregon when he returned as a veteran of World War I.

Mrs. Jessie Thompson Scott, '23, has just had her first novel, "Charity Ball," published by the MacMillan company, New York. Immediately following her graduation from the University, Mrs. Scott worked six years for the Portland Oregonian, doing reporting, book reviewing, and department editing. She has also done fill-in jobs, and still does, frequently for the Oregon Journal. Her husband, John D. Scott, is an electrical engineer. The Scotts have two children, and live at 2104 S. W. Spring street, Portland.

1924

Miss Mary Leone Minshall, '24, recently resigned her position as city librarian at Philomath, Ore., after 14 years of continuous service.

Willard C. Marshall, '25, has been appointed commissioner of Associated Medical Care Plans, Inc., nation-wide non-profit organization formed to further pre-paid medical service programs. Mr. Marshall will be one of 13 commissioners in the United States. His selection on the national board was the result of his years of pioneering experience in developing voluntary sickness insurance plans with Oregon Physicians Service, approved and sponsored by the Oregon State Medical society.

Lt. Col. Verner E. Ruedy, MD'25, has returned to Portland and resumed the practice of medicine in the Medical Arts building following over three years in the army. He served as plans and training officer for the 103d evacuation hospital at Camp Cook, Calif., Letterman General hospital and Barnes General hospital.

Ralph S. Hamilton, '25, has been elected secretary-treasurer of the newly-formed Association of Circuit Judges.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald N. Johnson, '26 (Mary Elizabeth Rauch, '26) are now living in Seattle, following Mr. Johnson's release from active duty in the navy in February with the rank of lieutenant commander. He is now associated with the Fibreboard Products, Inc.

Assisting with arrangements for the banquet are Vivian Harper Pittman, Charlotte Winard Lemon and Howard Hobson. A full report on the reunion will be sent to members of the class following the event June 15.

Ted R. Larsen, '27, has purchased the Oldsmobile agency at Alhambra, Calif. He has been with General Motors since his graduation from the University.

1928

Ward L. Beeney, '28, has been appointed assistant manager of the Oregon City branch of the First National bank of Portland. Mr. Beene was recently released from the armed forces. Prior to his military service, he had worked at the Medford First National bank before and after that bank became an affiliate of the First National bank of Portland.

1929

Miss Harriet E. Osborne, '29, is the new president of the Oregon State League of Nursing Education. She was elected at an annual meeting of the group, held in May at the University of Oregon Medical school in Portland.

Ronald M. McCreight, '29, is now general sales manager of Jantzen Knitting Mills. He had been with this firm since leaving the University and has risen steadily to this position. Mrs. McCreight is the former Dorothy V. Black, '29, and they have two children.

Mr. and Mrs. Seth B. Thompson, Jr., '30, (Catherine Stinger, '28) have announced the birth of their second child, Winifred Louise, on April 24, in Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Brown, '30 (Elinor Henry, '34) have moved to a new home which they planned and built at 11123 Erwin, North Hollywood, Calif. Mr. Brown writes the news continuity for the Alka-Seltzer Newspaper of the Air heard over the Mutual-Don Lee coast network. Mrs. Brown is the authoress of a small volume of poetry published last May "Dream, Awake, and Remember."
