

News Stories

Paper Presentation by Undergraduate Research Award Winner - \(May 15, 2007\)

Cristina Cruz-Urbe will present her award-winning paper “Unifying Processes in Boccherini’s Stabat Mater: A Visual Analysis” on Thursday, May 31 in the Knight Library Browsing Room.

No Need to Buy Cell. Sign Up Now for a Free Print Subscription! - \(May 21, 2007\)

Because the UO Libraries maintains an online subscription to Cell, anyone affiliated with the UO—student, faculty member, or staff member—can receive a personal print subscription at no charge.

Reach Out and Interview Someone - \(May 21, 2007\)

The library's Media Services unit is now equipped with audio ISDN capabilities, which allow users to conduct interviews at a distance by transmitting full studio quality audio data over copper telephone wires. The ISDN capabilities are available in two locations in the Knight Library: Studio A and the Television Production Studio.

Knight Library Open Round-the-Clock June 5 to June 15 - \(May 26, 2007\)

Beginning at 7:30 a.m. on Tuesday, June 5, and running until 7 p.m. on Friday, June 15, Knight Library will be open continuously. All branch libraries will maintain their usual academic term hours throughout Dead Week and Finals Week.

Paper Presentation by Undergraduate Research Award Winner

May 15, 2007

Classical music has the power to transport us. We may simply close our eyes and listen, while the music takes us from Eugene, Oregon in the year 2007 to Rome, Italy in the year 1707. But have you ever wondered just how classical composers perform these amazing feats of musical composition? To find out more about classical music, don't miss the upcoming paper presentation by UO Libraries Undergraduate Research Award winner Cristina Cruz-Uribe.

Cruz-Uribe will present her award-winning paper "Unifying Processes in Boccherini's Stabat Mater: A Visual Analysis" on Thursday, May 31 in the Knight Library Browsing Room. Her essay analyzes the music of 18th century Italian composer Luigi Boccherini and the compositional techniques he used to create unity in his Stabat Mater. This event is free, and all are welcome to attend.

Not only does this presentation afford the opportunity to learn more about Boccherini, it will also highlight some of the library resources Cruz-Uribe utilized during her research process. So whether you are interested in learning more about classical music, or about the resources available to you through the UO Libraries, you are sure to enjoy this event.

Thursday, May 31
Knight Library Browsing Room
3:00 p.m.
Free and open to the public

No Need to Buy Cell. Sign Up Now for a Free Print Subscription!

May 21, 2007

Here's your chance to get a free personal print subscription to the journal Cell, thanks to a recent offer from the journal's publisher. Because the UO Libraries maintains an online subscription to Cell, anyone affiliated with the UO—student, faculty member, or staff member—can receive a personal print subscription at no charge.

Cell Press is making the offer to add value to its site-licensed online subscriptions and to provide multiple avenues of access to the journal's cutting-edge information. The subscription would normally cost $179.

To receive a free subscription, visit <http://www.reed4success.com/default.asp?magid=061&promocode=WGD01AF9>. You will be asked for information about your affiliation with the University of Oregon and your interests. For more information, visit Cell's FAQ page or contact Electronic Resources Librarian David Fowler at 346-1839.

Reach Out and Interview Someone

May 21, 2007

The UO Libraries is proud to announce that its Media Services unit is now equipped with audio ISDN capabilities. An ISDN (Integrated Services Digital Network) allows users to conduct interviews at a distance by transmitting full studio -quality audio data over copper telephone wires. The ISDN capabilities are available in two locations in the Knight Library: Studio A and the Television Production Studio.

With the new ISDN equipment interviews and programs are not only easier to produce, they can also be shared with distant broadcast outlets. The interview process is more convenient for interviewees as well, since they no longer need to travel to a studio for audio recording. Although the interview is conducted over the telephone, it will sound as though it were conducted in a studio.

UO Law School Professor Garrett Epps will be one of the first to try this new interview technology, in an interview this Tuesday, May 22nd, by WBUR in Boston for the nationally distributed program "Hear and Now." "We'll be using our new ISDN codec, which will make it sound just like Epps is in the studio in Boston," says Michael Madjic, associate professor and producer-director of Media Services.

The ISDN is available to any interested party and can be reserved on short notice. For further information or to use the ISDN, contact A-V Broadcast Engineer Stan Nelson in Media Services, 346-1888.

Knight Library Open Round-the-Clock June 5 to June 15

May 26, 2007

Knight Library will remain open around the clock during Dead Week and Finals Week this term to accommodate UO students, faculty, and staff who need extended hours for study and research.

Beginning at 7:30 a.m. on Tuesday, June 5, and running until 7 p.m. on Friday, June 15, Knight Library will be open continuously. All branch libraries will maintain their usual academic term hours throughout Dead Week and Finals Week.

IMPORTANT: Knight Library will be open only to current UO students, faculty, and staff during extended hours. All users will be required to show a current university ID to remain in or enter the building. Extended hours during Dead

Week and Finals Week for spring 2007 are midnight to 7:30 a.m. Monday through Friday, 7 p.m. Friday to 11 a.m. Saturday, and 7 p.m. Saturday to 11 a.m. Sunday.

During these extended hours, access to photocopy machines and Information Technology Center (ITC) computers and printers will be available. However, other services, such as checkout of library materials, reserves and video checkout, or reference desk assistance, will not be available.

Spring/summer intersession hours, including weekend closures, will be in effect for all libraries from Saturday, June 16, to Sunday, June 24. Summer hours will go into effect Monday, June 25. For complete information on library hours, visit the Hours page or call (541) 346-3054.